The stock market has been dull and uninteresting throughout the past week. Both bears and the bulls seem utterly to lack any animation. As far as the actual course of prices goes, neither one side nor the other has any right to feel discouraged; but, when we come to consider the prospects for the future, conditions certainly favor the conservative buying of good stocks. For one thing, stocks seem cheap, as there is every promise of better earnings than at present. Mercantile trade in the West is picking up, and the reports of St. Paul & Burlington show that railroad returns are increasing. No boom, if we are to have one, can be looked for until after the first ten days in September are over, by which time a large or small corn crop will be assured. But, meanwhile, Wall street will undoubtedly discount the prospects. It must not be forgotten that according to the present outlook our commercial relations with Europe will in the fall be very similar to those which preceded the big boom of 1880. A short wheat crop abroad and a good one here, together with ample transportation facilities, these conditions co-operating with a fair state of general trade, are certainly promising enough. They mean also that we shall be importing gold in the fall, rather than exporting it. Already the cotton crop is beginning to move, so that there need be no fear of tight money. Altogether the bulls ought not to complain of future probabilities.

The scarcity of water, particularly in the lower parts of the city, is a subject of very general concern at the present moment when during the daytime it scarcely rises above the basements. Among the causes assigned for this scarcity is the familiar newspaper one—that “factories and large office buildings get the first supply, leaving only the surplus for private consumption,” the said factories being equipped with “suction pumps,” an advantage not enjoyed by other buildings. This can hardly be considered correct, for every tenement, flat or apartment house now being erected in this city is furnished with a pumping engine of some description, consequently the factories and large office buildings have not a monopoly in the artificial supply of water. Perhaps it would be a better elucidation of the cause to attribute the lack of supply from street pressure to the number of new buildings which, while in process of construction, are a drain on the present resources of the city's water supply, and are still more so when occupied. The greater the number of new houses erected the greater the deficiency will necessarily be until we have the new aqueduct completed.

The statement that Austin Corbin is about to establish a line of “rapid transit” steamers between Montauk Point and Europe is again going the rounds of the press. This is one of the stories like that about the great sea-serpent which the “silly” season has brought out with wearisome regularity during the last ten years. This Montauk scheme has a grand air about it, but it will not stand commercial analysis, and until Mr. Corbin's first steamer is running, well-informed people are not likely to take any stock in it. In the first place, fast steamers to suit the present requirements of travelers must be of large tonnage, as all the new boats on the Transatlantic lines show. The recent additions to the Inman, the North German Lloyd, the Hamburg-American and the White Star lines are all of about ten thousand tons displacement. But boats of this size, to be remunerative, must carry heavy cargoes of first-class freight, for the time has not yet arrived when vessels can carry only passengers, and perhaps mail, and pay. Vessels carrying freight must make for a large port possessing ample facilities for distribution and storage; and neither of these are to be obtained at Montauk. All goods landed at Montauk would have to be sent at once to New York, and unless Mr. Corbin means to give shippers free transportation over the Long Island Railroad they are not likely to patronize his steamers. Montauk may one day be a great shipping port for Europe, but it will not be until the passenger and freight services are completely separate.

The talk about this new steamship line may be not entirely unconnected with what is being said just now regarding “subsidies,” for a “real live American line” of the kind spoken of could no more be run without a subsidy than without coal. Until we can build ships and run them better and cheaper than we can under present conditions, the “flag” and the “appropriation” must go together. No vessel can afford to carry the Stars and Stripes about the world as a regular part of her cargo without receiving an enormous freight rate for doing so. No one but the government can afford to pay this freight, and unless it comes from the national pocket it is not likely to come at all. To some people the word “subsidies” has a nasty sound, savoring of the old-time methods of kings who made their own political economy, and, with a large generosity with other people's interests, “promoted” this industry and “fostered” that, by royal grants and subsidies and permission to tax the people in other industries that were not fortunate to get close enough to the imperial ear. Still, even those who think this way will acknowledge that it would be quite as well for the country if our surplus were spent in the promotion of shipbuilding instead of in the promotion of a vast system of national mendicancy under the direction of Master-of-Alms Tanner.

Other nations have adopted the plan of trying to produce a mercantile marine from “subsidies” with different degrees of success. Great Britain gets along without subsidies. The contrary is often stated; but it is not correct. She pays $4,000,000 a year or a trifle more for carrying mails, but if this is a “subsidy” then it may be said that our government subsidizes foreign ships, for every year the Post-office pays to alien companies nearly $400,000 for services rendered. The only payment that the British government makes that might be regarded as a “subsidy” is the sum it gives to shipowners who consent to build their ships in a certain way so that they may be available in case of war, and who agree beforehand to surrender the ship to the government if called upon in the event of hostilities. But this is only a quid pro quo, and is not what we mean by subsidies. France and Italy both pay bounties on shipbuilding, but this does not amount to a great deal, being in the case of France less than $60,000 a year since 1881, when the law first passed. In 1887 Italy paid bounties on new construction which amounted to about $23,000, and on repairs $36,000. In addition to this both France and Italy pay a certain sum for every thousand miles of long sea voyage made. If we adopted the French scale of subsidies, and it produced for us a vessel like the City of Paris, we should give her owners for every trip across the ocean about $14,000, that is $7,000 each way. According to the Italian scale the sum would be about $4,000 each way. The German government pays $16,000 to the North German Lloyd's for maintaining a regular service with the Orient, and to the American line belonging to the same company a minimum revenue of $76,000 for carrying the mails is guaranteed. Austria-Hungary pays no subsidies, but admits, duty free, materials to be used in the construction of ships. The Netherlands, Portugal, Spain and Denmark pay a few thousand dollars a year to shipowners for subsidies. Subsidies, no doubt, will give us ships, for if we are willing to pay we can get anything; but if we are to have a vast fleet of vessels on every sea it must be established by something more potent than subsidies. “Byrsa's thousand masts,” the Phoenecian ships, the argosies of Venice and Spain, and the fleets of the Netherlands, England and our own country before the war were not built upon subsidies.

One of the first things a New Yorker notices when he is on a visit to London is the comparatively moderate height of the houses in that city compared with the New York standard. It is seldom a structure, particularly a dwelling, of more than five or six stories is seen. Yet, nevertheless, it has been found desirable to make some attempt to regulate their height according to the width of the streets upon which they are to be located. A measure to effect this purpose has been introduced into Parliament by Mr. Whitmore, M. P.; one which in some way is similar to our New York law, but which differs as regards its scope and efficacy. Both the proposed law in London and the statute here draw a distinction between streets of less and more than 60 feet in width, but here the resemblance ceases. The former includes all buildings within its scope, and permits none, except churches and chapels, to be erected more than 60 feet high on a street less than 60 feet wide, whereas the latter includes only dwellings, permits a 70-foot structure on a 60-foot thoroughfare, and bars any dwelling from being more than 80 feet high. In Mr. Whitmore's measure, if the street or place is wider than 60 feet, the building may be made as high as the street is wide. A further provision, however, throws light on the intentions of the introducer of this bill. In any particular case, this limited height may be exceeded, provided the consent of the County Council can be obtained. It becomes apparent that the main object of the bill is to give the County Council the same powers to regulate the excessive height of buildings in existing streets of London as it has to regulate those on new streets.

The water supply of Philadelphia, derived as it is from the Schuylkill River, which drains a region inhabited by 250,000, has long been known to be bad. The Philadelphia Inquirer, however, has been investigating the subject a little more closely, and finds things very much worse than it supposed. It says:

From Pottsville down to Reading it (the water) is black and green and brown. From Reading down to Pottstown it is brown and green and yellow. From Pottstown down to Perkiomen it is every color that is dirty, and from Perkiomen down to Conshohocken it looks not infrequently like a river of red mud. From Conshohocken down it changes from red to brown, and when it reaches the place from which it is pumped for the good people of Philadelphia to drink, it is a nasty, malodorous, coffee-colored mess, in which the fish cannot live, excepting a few dirty catfish, and which is unhealthy even to bathe in.

From this statement it is a matter of surprise that there are so many people living in Philadelphia as there are at the present time. Surely a population that drinks a "nasty, malodorous, coffee-colored mess, in which fish cannot live and which is unhealthy even to bathe in," has not very much chance of a prolonged existence. And yet, strangely enough, the death rate of Philadelphia (21.85 per thousand) compares very favorably with that of Boston (24.97 per thousand), or that of Brooklyn (22.71), or that of Charleston (36.02), or that of Hoboken (25.20), or that of Jersey City (23.30), or that of New York (26.27), or that of a thousand cities here and abroad. "Undoubtedly," says the New York Times, "the poisonous condition of this water causes disease in the city, and makes the death rate higher than it would be if the supply were pure." Undoubtedly also, as Artemus Ward told us, the highest part of the mountain is the top. The real question is, if the Schuylkill water is so very bad that only catfish can live in it, why is the death rate not only higher, but a great deal higher. The statements of the Philadelphia Inquirer must be exaggerated. Running water purifies itself, for which reason, unless a river is constantly polluted, it cannot remain poisonous very long.

The recent issue of warrants for the arrest of the president and superintendent of the Standard Gaslight Company for the maintenance of a nuisance at the company's works, at foot of East 115th street, was a long-hoped-for event in the locality. The stench emitted at times from the works has had the effect of considerably reducing the renting capacity of houses in the neighborhood, and was so offensive that those who had the hardihood to remain were not unfrequently deprived of sleep owing to the offensive condition of the atmosphere, particularly at those times when drips from the works were permitted to run off into the river. On the part of the company it is said that expensive machinery had been put in and ventilating shafts had been constructed to carry off the unpleasant odors. A well was also in course of construction in the middle of the works which when completed would, it is stated, carry off every particle of refuse, to be afterwards burned under the boilers. Whatever the outcome may be, the residents of the neighborhood consider the action of the Health Department timely and expect considerable good to come from it.

Seven Months of Real Estate.

The tables of conveyances and mortgages which we give below show that the first seven months of 1889 have exceeded not only last year but that they have surpassed the figures of 1887, which was the greatest year of activity in real estate and building in the annals of the Metropolis.

Comparing the figures this year with the corresponding period in 1888, it will be seen that the number of conveyances was 9,918 as against 7,890 last year, and their aggregate consideration, exclusive of those transferred for nominal sums, was $180,375,119, as compared with $137,045,770, an increase of more than $43,000,000.

The 23d and 24th Wards show an increase of from 1,335 to 1,802 in the number of conveyances and from $5,024,743 to $8,110,625 in the amount involved. The nominal considerations in these wards are large, being nearly one-quarter of the entire number of conveyances.

The mortgage deeds recorded are nearly 1,000 in excess of last year in number and nearly $28,000,000 larger in amount, while the number of loans made at 5 per cent. exceed considerably in number and amount those of 1888; those granted at less than 5 per cent. show a very much larger increase in proportion, the number of deeds in the latter case having risen from 715 to 1,144 and their aggregate amount from $14,226,716 to $24,387,494. The tables show that of the $28,000,000 more placed out on bond and mortgage this year over $12,000,000 more was loaned at 5 per cent., and over $10,000,000 more at less than 5 per cent., as compared with 1888.

The projected buildings show an increase over last year, being 2,525 as against 1,908 in number, and $47,610,292 in cost as compared with $29,325,986, an increase of over $18,000,000. They do not make as good a showing, however, as 1887 by about 700 in number and over $5,000,000 in amount, but there is little doubt that they represent a larger amount of actual work, for in March and April, 1887, the only two months when the filings were ahead of this year's, a great many plans were filed, not for building, but to retain the advantages of the then expiring building laws. The largest increases over 1888 have been in the district south of 14th street, which is mainly due to the immense office and business buildings which have been projected, and on the west side, due to increased speculative activity. The increase in the former district is nearly $5,000,000, and in the latter over $8,700,000. There is, indeed, an increase in the estimated cost of buildings in every section, while there is a decrease in the number projected in only two sections.

The figures of conveyances, mortgages and projected buildings for the month of July show practically an increase in every item as compared with the corresponding period last year.

If there has been an increase in New York City, there has also been a considerable increase on the other side of the East River. Kings County shows an advance in the conveyances of about 2,500 in number and $18,000,000 in amount; in mortgage deeds recorded of some 2,000 in number and $13,000,000 in amount, and in the projected buildings of about 800 in number and $3,500,000 in amount. The figures for July also show a general increase over the corresponding month last year. The following are the tables:

Our Impartial Observer.—Newspapers vs. the Public.

The daily newspapers would have us believe that they are great public teachers, whose discussion of current affairs is from a point of view elevated far above selfish motives. An individual may honestly confess that he opposes a measure because it interferes with his private interests, since he has not announced himself as the unselfish guardian of the public interest and well-being. A newspaper, on the contrary, is often hard put to it to find reasons of a quasi-public character for every opposition to improvement, however individual and selfish the motive in fact may be. To carry out in their columns this specious hypocrisy often requires much amusing humbug which tends to increase the sentiment of indifference and contempt with which men of intelligence now regard "journalism," as it is to be found in the daily press. The recent almost unanimous outburst of furious indignation by the newspapers against "the spoliation of the City Hall Park" by the proposed erection of the new municipal building, is an apt illustration of this rapidly-increasing method of attempting to substitute the private financial interests of newspapers for a genuine public opinion.

What are the facts?

The portion of the City Hall Park in which the new building is to be erected lies entirely north of the plaza, which is in front of the City Hall, and will face a line drawn from the present Register's office. The buildings which it is proposed to remove will include the Register's office, the engine-house at the southwest corner of Centre and Chambers street, and the brown stone building in which the District Attorney's office and the Criminal Courts now are. Against this proposition the outcry has gone up from nearly all the newspapers that one of the "people's breathing places" is about to be ruthlessly destroyed. Now, in all the part of the park in which the new building is to be erected there is not now, nor has there ever been, a single bench or resting place. This portion of the park has in fact never been used for park purposes. Its only present use is, as it has always been, to furnish a means of access to the law courts and public buildings. It is no part of the park proper, and even the tramps, who, as the Corporation Counsel truly says, occupy the other portions of the park, do not infest this; perhaps because of its proximity to the District Attorney's office, and the awful presence of Col. Fellows therein repels them. Its only occupants during any part of the day are the bootblacks, who use its asphalt walks to play whatever Italian game corresponds to pitching pennies.

If there is one improvement which the long suffering taxpayers of New York have a right to demand from the public authorities, it is the erection of a new public building in which adequate accommodations may be found for all the departments now scattered in various buildings for which the city is paying exorbitant rentals to private individuals. If there is one public building which is a disgrace to the City of New York, it is the present Register's office. So much has already been said for years unavailingly on this subject that it is unnecessary to more than refer to it. But all these improvements which were provided for in the law which the last Legislature enacted, providing for the new city building, are opposed tooth and nail by the newspapers which conceal their private interests under this "fool talk" of taking away "breathing places from the poor." (By the way, has it ever occurred to these journalistic advocates of "the poor," that the Battery Park has a much more salubrious atmosphere than the City Hall Park can ever have, and is certainly within easy distance of any one living near City Hall?) The cold truth is that the proposed new building disgruntles the newspapers because they have entered into a tacit "combine" to prevent the erection of any additional buildings in the City Hall Park, which might shut in their buildings and cause them to be less conspicuous and perhaps less valuable than they now are. It hurts (or they think it will hurt) their private real estate interests, and that is the wherefore of "hinc lacrymæ" over the lack of fresh air which the tramps and bootblacks will have. Whether the taxpayers are to have a new Register's office, in which records of their titles and maps of incalculable value may be safely kept, in place of the disgraceful rookery now provided, or whether the city departments are to be hunted for in half a dozen various buildings, is of no consequence to these self-styled public guardians, so long as their sky-scraping buildings are preserved from any intervening structure, or their three-story and attic offices still remain unconcealed from the passers down Broadway.

Let any intelligent citizen study the hints here suggested, and I warrant him he will get a new light on the motives for newspaper editorials which he will find vastly entertaining and equally instructive. It only remains to be seen whether the terror that the frowns of the newspaper gods have for the average politician will be sufficient to deter the city authorities from proceeding with the plans for the new municipal building. It is certainly the immediate duty of every good citizen to do all in his power to strengthen the purpose of the officials who are vested with the authority to carry out the law which authorizes this building, and thus to circumvent the newspapers who are actuated by entirely selfish considerations in opposing its construction.

Newspaper opposition to the law changing the mode of execution from hanging to electricity is another illustration of the same principle. Under the guise of opposition to the "cruel and unusual punishment" of death for murderers by the application of electricity, the newspapers are concealing their hostility to that portion of the law which forbids them to publish accounts of executions. The decent portion of the public must approve of any change in the law which will keep out of the daily newspapers these nauseous details which disgust the respectable elements of society and demoralize the brutal. The laws which have effectively put a stop to the publication of journals devoted to crime have met with the approval of all good citizens, and there seems to be no good reason why the daily newspapers should be permitted to enjoy a license in this direction forbidden to others. All the talk which one reads about interfering with the "liberty of the press," and the consequent unconstitutionality of the law can certainly deceive no intelligent person. The State Legislature has omnipotent power to forbid any publications which are degrading and demoralizing in the exercise of that "police power" which has over and over again been sustained by the courts, both State and Federal. It is high time that the disgusting spectacle of newsboys screaming "extras" in the streets, with copious illustrations of the event, every time a murderer is executed, should cease even if the flow of nickels into journalistic offices has to be lessened. The Grand Boulevard.

BETWEEN EIGHTY-SIXTH AND ONE HUNDREDTH STREETS.

Following up the article which appeared in THE RECORD AND GUIDE of the 13th ult., we this week give a description of the condition of every lot on the Grand Boulevard, between 86th and 100th streets, thus completing the distance between 59th and 100th streets. A quarter of a century hence it will, no doubt, be of interest to the local historical student, and the delver after facts on the real estate and building development which takes place in a short generation, to turn to these pages and note the change between what the Grand Boulevard now is and what it will then be. When it was stated in the last article that the principal section of the Grand Boulevard may be taken to be that between 59th and 86th streets, it was not made clear to what extent it differed in character to the blocks further north. A comparison between the description presented in that article with that given below will show how marked the difference is. Below 86th street there are some improvements worth noting. Beside this, nearly every street to the east and west of the Boulevard is paved and contains crosswalks running from the north to the south side of each street, both on the east and west side of the Boulevard. On the other hand, north of 86th street, these improvements are the exception and not the rule, while at some points the condition of the roadway is very bad. Not only are the improvements between 86th and 100th streets few and far between, but the Boulevard crossings are generally in very bad condition, while most of the streets a block east and west of the Boulevard require paving, and the flagging of many of the sidewalks repairing. The following is the description:

Jersey City.

There is very little doing in sales of property or in rentals. Agents say that they do not expect to be busy until the end of August or the beginning of September. The tone of the market is good and prices will be well maintained, with advances in many directions. The effect of the proposed elevated roads has been such that lots have advanced in value 100 per cent. and more on the Heights, and there have been considerable advances along the line of the contemplated road.

The building movement is quite active, as will be noticed from the plans recently filed, which are given below. A noticeable feature is the building of more costly structures than in former years. Whereas a few years ago two-story frame houses were all the run, and a brick house the great exception, now brick and stone front tenements, four and five stories high, with some large-sized buildings of a purely business or semi-business character are becoming not unusual. This is one of the evidences of the growth of a city which owes its large population and prosperity to its proximity to New York.

Geo. R. McKenzie intends to improve the plot purchased by him for $70,000 from the Griffiths estate by the erection of a five-story flat with stores. The property is situated on the southeast corner of Warren and Montgomery streets and contains several brick and frame buildings. The improvement will be undertaken when the leases of the tenants in these buildings expire. The large flat now being built by Mr. McKenzie on the corner of Washington and Sussex streets, opposite the Post-office, is up to the fourth tier of beams and will cost $75,000.

The Provident Institution for Savings has just been commenced and the foundations are now being laid. The bank will occupy part of the first floor, and the balance of the building will be rented out for office purposes. Geo. W. La Baw, the architect, says the building is to be ready for occupancy on May 1st next.

The Hudson County National Bank's building, which is to adjoin the above, will also be ready about the same time. The architect selected, H. Kreitler, is a New York man.

A new Police Headquarters is to be built on the northeast corner of Cooper place and Gregory street. It is to be 50x100 in size, three stories high, and with a brick and stone front. The cost will be about $35,000. Preliminary drawings are being prepared by Geo. W. La Baw. The details have not all yet been decided on.

A paper box manufactory will be built by James Leo, on the corner of Colden and Varick streets. It will be a four-story and cellar brick building, 50x100 in size. Plans are being prepared by G. L. Bettcher.

R. W. Sailer has plans on the boards for several new buildings to be commenced shortly.

Two five-story brick and stone front flats, 25x75 each, are to be built for Mrs. Oliphant Falkenburgh on Montgomery street, near Jersey avenue. They will contain one suit per floor and will have hot and cold water, bathroom, etc., the cost of the two buildings being estimated at $25,000. Geo. W. La Baw is the architect.

Mrs. P. Van Winkle will build a two-and-a-half-story frame cottage, 25x42, on Bergen avenue, near Highland avenue, from plans by G. L. Bettcher. It will have a number of improvements and will cost $6,000. The same architect has plans for a two-story, attic and basement frame dwelling, 20x29.6, with a 16-foot extension, to be built on Wiley street, on the Heights, for Wm. Huntress, at a cost of about $3,000.

E. Simon has plans for a hall and apartment building to be built on Grand street, a double frame house, a three-story dwelling and other houses which are to be built in the fall.

A handsome four-story high stoop residence is to be built by Horace H. Farrier on Jersey avenue, near York street. It will be 35x55 in size, and the first-story and basement will be of brown stone and the front above of buff brick. It will have heat, hardwood trim and other improvements, and will cost at out $15,000. The drawings are being prepared by Geo. W. La Baw.

The Citizen's Improvement Association of the Sixth District, which takes in Greenville, are taking very active measures to secure local improvements, long neglected by the authorities. They will hold an important meeting on Tuesday evening.

The budget of Jersey City for the forthcoming year is being severely criticised. The total estimates considerably exceed the appropriations, but the detailed estimates in some cases seem extraordinarily high as compared with the appropriations allowed. For instance the estimates for the Street and Water Commissioners amount to $139,200, and only $52,399 is allowed. The Fire Department estimates are $162,700 and only $104,499 is allowed. The Education Commissioners make their estimate $325,250, and only $288,449 is allowed. For cleaning streets—and Jersey City is badly off in this regard—$35,000 is asked for and only $19,992 allowed, which is $5,000 less than the appropriation for this year. There is an increase in salaries in every department. A sum of $10,000 is allowed for a free library. The total appropriation allowed is $1,799,851, while the estimates are $2,093,938. The appropriation for this year was $1,725,820. The largest expenditures are as follows: Board of Finance, $985,178, an increase of nearly $13,000 over this year; Police Department, $350,173, an increase of about $26,500, and the Board of Education, $288,449, an increase of over $12,000. Owing to a blunder on the part of Clerk German no appropriations were included for a hospital staff and city physicians. The Fire Department only receives $2,389 more than last year, which means a continuance of the "buffalo" system and hard pulling for "the boys" of rickety trucks, poor engines and insufficient hose. There is a strong feeling about this among the fire laddies.

No park site has been definitely decided upon yet, statements to the contrary notwithstanding.

The following are the principal plans filed with Building Inspector Clarke, up to August 1st:

Hudson County National Bank, southwest corner Washington and York sts, 50x65, cost $60,000, architect H. Kreitler; Provident Institution for Savings; Washington st, 50 south of York st, 50x94, cost $60,900, architect Geo. W. La Baw; one 2-sty and basement brk hall, etc., 50x100, Barrow st, 50 south Railroad av, $19,000, for Geo. A. Wood, architect R. W. Sailer; one 2½-sty fr factory, 45x85, corner Freemont & Wayne, for New Jersey Paint Works, $4,000; one 3-sty fr tenem't, 22x46, Manning av, west G. and st, $3,000, Elizabeth M. Men and Things.

Now that the Exposition project is on the boards, holders of real estate around the Grand Boulevard are looking for a boom.

Eiffel-tower mania has struck engineers and architects. The Chamber of Commerce Committee has received a plan for a tower 1,500 feet high, which is to weigh 30,000 tons, and is to contain about forty-eight iron buildings, enough for the entire Exposition. Charles Hinkel, of Washington, is the designer.

There are now about twenty electric cars running on the Madison and Fourth Avenue Line. An official of the company told a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE that in a month's time the company hoped to run nothing but electric cars both north and south of 86th street. With this improvement in motive power, can we not have a few more cars running north of 86th street? The number of people crowded into a Harlem car on this road could easily fill two cars, sometimes three, without very much room being left. This system of overcrowding in horse cars and elevated railways should no longer be tolerated.

The two Harlem theatres are being "rushed up" so as to be ready for the fall season.

A cross-town line of cars is badly needed in the neighborhood of 86th street. There have been many plans for such a line, but no actual transit is yet established.

East 138th street, it seems, is to be the great business street of the 23d Ward. Stories of fabulous prices being paid and demanded for lots are to be heard.

On investigation it turns out that the trouble in obtaining water above the first floor on the west side is not due to inefficient or badly-managed machinery, but to a supply of water insufficient to meet the demands made upon it. In the high level aqueduct station, 97th and 98th streets, just west of 9th avenue, there are two pumps with a daily capacity of from seven and a-half to nine million gallons of water each. If both these pumps were kept running, water would be forced to a level above the roofs of all the flat houses in the vicinity, but if this course were pursued the west side people would be served at the expense of residents of other sections of the city. To avoid a water famine, the authorities allow only one of the pumps to be run, so that the water is drawn off almost as quickly as it is pumped into the tower tank. The engineer in charge of the west side station says that if he was to keep both pumps going all the time there would be no perceptible bettering of the present state of affairs, because the residents of New York always take all the water they can get and cry for more. The machinery is all right, the officials are all right, but the water supply isn't, so there is nothing to do but try and hurry along the completion of the new aqueduct, when we will have water enough, and to spare.

New York City should have been able to provide docking facilities for every steamship line running to and from any point in the Eastern or Western Hemisphere. Instead of that we have driven away a considerable part of the steamship companies to New Jersey and elsewhere, where every effort is being strained to provide cheap and good accommodation for them. Hoboken is rapidly completing a new street and spacious docks along the North River at Castle Point. A bluff is being cut away, and a branch of the West Shore Railroad is to be run close to the piers, which are to be used by some of the large transatlantic steamship lines. How much New York has lost in freightage and commerce through the want of enterprise and foresight displayed by the city government it is impossible to calculate. The Dock Department has only recently formulated a comprehensive plan to build large piers along the water front, from 10th to 23d streets, and to widen the roadway along that distance; but the improvement is proposed very late in the day, for we have already driven many of the steamship lines elsewhere, and the cost of the improvement now will be nearly $30,000,000, whereas if undertaken fifteen years ago it would probably not have been one-third that sum. Still the future of this great city demands that such an improvement along the water front shall even yet be undertaken, for in a quarter of a century New York's shipping and commerce will probably have doubled. We should look ahead.

One of Yorkville's real estate brokers is the agent in a bona fide English syndicate transaction for the purchase of a number of American cigar factories, to aggregate in cost $2,000,000. In case the contracts for purchase are signed the broker will take down his real estate shingle and retire in prosperity.

Letters have been pouring in upon Mayor Grant, suggesting names for the Exposition committees he has to appoint. Among others, the Chamber of Commerce presents the names of ex-Congressman Orlando B. Potter to represent the real estate interests, and David H. King, Jr., and John L. Crimmins that of the builders. The Board of Trade and Transportation asks to have Alexander I. Finkle to represent the architects.

The time for sending in plans for the new Municipal building has been extended to October 1st. On September 4th a public hearing will be held to investigate the advisability of placing the new building in the City Hall Park.

That was a very curious piece of work performed by the committee who had charge of the competition for plans for the new Criminal Courts. In their printed instructions to architects they said that the architect whose plan would be approved and accepted would receive the fees prescribed by the American Institute of Architects for plans and superintendence, which are 5 per cent. on the cost. This promise, in black and white, it would seem, was broken, and the architects were asked what percentage they would take provided their plan was adopted. This action needs no comment. The result is that Messrs. Thom & Wilson are doing the work for 2 per cent., which is equal to $28,000 on the estimated cost of $1,400,000, whereas they should have received $70,000. Of course, the city saves $42,000 in architect's fees, but the deduction is parsimonious and not economical.

The church which the Trinity Corporation contemplates building on the old Hudson street graveyard will not be commenced for a year or two. In the meantime, should the Board of Street Opening and Improvement take the graveyard and convert it into a park the church will, of course, not be built on the site. In that case the corporation may decide to build elsewhere.

The Real Estate Exchange has decided to prepare for fall business by slightly enlarging the present offices by cutting into those on the ground floor occupied by Brown & Leviness. This will involve an expenditure of about $250, and will reduce the rental of these offices about $500 per annum. The directors think that more room is imperative in view of the increased business of the Exchange.

A two-story brick almshouse, size 104.6x43.4 feet, is to be built on the east side of Blackwell's Island, on a line with 68th street, New York. The architects, Withers and Dickson, estimate the cost at $35,000. Plans have already been filed at the Building Department.

The New England Terminal Co. have filed plans at the Building Department for two iron freight sheds, to cost about $74,000. They are to be situated on East River, between Rutgers and Jefferson streets. The sizes are 38x420 and 47.6x390 feet respectively. R. P. Staats is the architect.

The New Criminal Courts Building.

The perspective of the new building for Criminal Courts and other purposes shows an imposing exterior in the Renaissance. Massive piers run from basement to roof, and granite is to be used up to the main court room floor, with brick and stone above. The successful architects, Messrs. Thom & Wilson, are busy preparing for the work of construction, and as the building is on made ground it will have to be erected on piles. With this object in view the architects intend driving test piles in the ground to ascertain what the strength of the foundations shall be. The piles will be covered with a layer of concrete several feet deep, so that the occupants of the building shall be absolutely safe from any evil effects that might otherwise result from the character of the ground.

The building will have four frontages, 187 feet on Centre street, 171.9 on White street, 190.10 on Franklin street and 188.8 on Elm street. The main entrance, which will be on Centre street, will be divided into three arched sections, altogether 35 feet wide. The first court story will contain lawyers', record, justices', counsels', clerks', attendants', Recorder's and other rooms, with the Court of Oyer and Terminer, which will be 40x60 in size. It will also have a Police Court, 39x44 in size, and from the prisoners' pen a bridge will lead across to the Tombs. In the centre of all these chambers a grand hall will appear, 52 feet square, surrounded by corridors 10 and 20 feet wide. This hall will run to the second story and will be covered with a glass skylight, above which there will be a court open to the air. The second, third, fourth and fifth floors will contain rooms for the District Attorney, the Coroner, the Health Department, the Board of Excise, the Civil Service Board and the Street Cleaning Department. The fifth will be a Mezzanine floor, and will have numerous rooms for clerks. The District Attorney's quarters will principally be on the third floor, the Board of Health on the fourth floor, and the Street Cleaning Department on the fifth. The latter will also occupy a portion of the basement, which will mostly be devoted to boilers, engines, etc., and will have an arcade hall in the centre. There will be numerous rooms for judges, counsellors, clerks, attendants, etc., on the court stories.

The building will have six elevators, and every room will be heated by steam. There will be seven court rooms, comprised of one Oyer and Terminer, four General Sessions, one Special Sessions and one Police Court. The building will be 115 feet high, and will cost about $1,400,000. Work will be commenced immediately the detailed plans and specifications can be prepared and the contracts given out, and the building is to be ready for occupancy by September, 1891.

Real Estate Department.

Little or nothing has been done on 'Change this week, while the brokers' offices have been exceptionally dull. Auction sales are almost at a standstill, and it will be five or six weeks before business begins to revive.

On Monday the only parcel offered was in the nature of personal property, and it comprised the unsettled book accounts lately forming a part of the assets of Alfred Buckhart, Jr., and Wm J. Morgan. They were knocked down to M. Lowenstein at $2,200.

On Tuesday the four-story brick dwelling at No. 409 West 23d street was sold under foreclosure to the plaintiff at $15,000. A house and twelve acres at Nyack, N. Y., was knocked down to J. Bruce at $2,425. The sale of No. 25 West 53d street was adjourned.

On Wednesday a five-story brick flat on the southeast corner of the Boulevard and 95th street brought $41,500, James Kelly, Jr., being the purchaser. Robert R. Pero bought the flat adjoining on the avenue for $22,500, and G. F. Bauerdorf secured a similar flat adjoining, a little wider in size, at $25,500. On the same day a number of stocks and bonds were sold, the most prominent among them being $10,000 of Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific 6 per cent., registered, due 1917, which brought 133¼, and $5,000 of New York Central 7 per cent., registered, due 1903, which also sold for 133¼. Twenty-six shares of the Leather Manufacturers' National Bank, $100 par, brought 234.

On Thursday the five-story flat at No. 1075 9th avenue, near 67th street, sold to F. H. Johnson at $36,795.92 under foreclosure, and a one-tenth interest in the lease of the three-story factory at Nos. 239 to 243 Greenwich street was purchased by Wm. Kothe for $450.

Yesterday the only sale that took place was that of a four-story brick and stone dwelling, 16.8 front, under foreclosure, situated at No. 372 West 32d street, which was purchased by E. Burling for $12,375.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

The Methodist Book Concern has sold its building at No. 805 Broadway, near 11th street, to James McCreery & Co., for $700,000. In June, 1868, the dry-goods firm, then Lake & McCreery, purchased a plot, 23x78x75.4½ x44.11x31.7x103x25, on 11th street, 196.9 west of Broadway, from George Tucker and others for $75,000. In 1888, Wm. H. Weld, of Boston, opened negotiations for the purchase of the Methodist Book Concern's property at $860,000, Hoffman Brothers being the brokers. The sale, however, was not consummated, owing to an alleged defect in the title. The building will be altered for the retail business of McCreery & Co.

Frederick Southack has sold No. 200 Greene street, together with the property in the rear, for $82,500.

Brown & Leviness and James L. Wells, acting for the Howard Insurance Company, have sold the three-story building at No. 66 Wall street, 25.8x100, to the Westchester Fire Insurance Company for $175,000.

In January, 1888, Eugene Kelly purchased at auction the building of the Oriental Insurance Company at Nos. 41 and 43 Wall street, the price being $450,000. Meanwhile the company went out of business, and Mr. Kelly, fearing that a clear title could not be given, refused to complete the sale. To effect the sale the company was resurrected, and has now sold this building, called the "Orient," at private contract, to the United States National Bank, now in the Field building, at $475,000, an advance of $25,000.

Daniel T. Woiden has sold No. 29 West 39th street to Charles P. Dickey for $52,500.

L. J. Carpenter has sold for M. Steinhardt the four-story brick factory No. 328 Cherry street to Simon Epstein on private terms.

Nathan Hofheimer has sold the lots on Nos. 65 and 67 West 12th street, to Wm. Broadbelt for $50,000.

The transfer of Nos. 5 to 11 Broadway and 5 to 11 Greenwich street by Siegmund T. Meyer to Charles W. Dayton recalls the foreclosure sale of the same plot in May, 1895, for $76,000, subject to a mortgage of $400,000 and taxes. This is a truly remarkable advance, if the sale is a bona fide one. This parcel was recently mortgaged for $750,000. It seems strange that Mr. Dayton should buy from Mr. Meyer valuable parcels which the latter acquires, and at figures which show astonishingly large advances on the purchase price. Another instance was the block front on Lexington avenue, between 33d and 34th streets.

Some time ago Bryan Kennelly purchased at the foreclosure sale, property described as being on West 16th street, 266 feet east of 8th avenue. It proved to be 226 feet east of the avenue, and Kennelly demanded the return of $1,700 which he had deposited and his disbursements for searches. Suit was brought, and Judge Ingraham has decided in his favor.

Negotiations are under way for the sale of Norton's Point, Coney Island. N. Brigham Hall has sold for Marion V. Butler the three-story brick house, 23.6x100x12.4x45x57, No. 192 Greene street, to Edward C. Oppenheim for $25,000, and for the estate of Randolph Brant the three-story brick house, 23.6x100, at No. 190 Greene street, to the same purchaser for $28,000.

Judge O'Brien named Chauncey S. Truax, Edward Schell and Eugene L. Bushe as Commissioners of Estimate to acquire title to the site for the new Armory for the Seventy-first Regiment, on the east side of 4th avenue, between 33d and 34th streets, 226 feet deep.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

James L. Wells has sold the Briggs homestead at Fordham, 24th Ward, consisting of about seven acres, and buildings for $35,000.

Brooklyn.

Corwith Bros. have sold the house No. 102 Huron street for Thomas S.

Strong to Herman Brunsson for $3,800; the house No. 178½ Greene street for Seebald Mening to Barbara Wefelmeier for $3,250, and the lot, 25x100, east side Newell street, 250 feet north of Van Cott avenue, to Henry David for $1,050.

J. P. Sloane has sold for John Gallagher the lot, 25x118, on the south side of Kent street, 475 feet east of Provost street, for $700; for James Hughes the lot, 25x141, on the north side of Greenpoint avenue, about 400 feet east of Provost street, for $900, and for John B. Barretto the three-story double house, 25x48, with lot 25x100, No. 52 Box street, to Frederick Schaefer for $3,500.

W. E. Patten has sold for Nathaniel Clement and Edward J. O'Flynn the plot, 100x100, on the south side of Jefferson avenue, 275 feet west of Reid avenue, for $7,500.

L. J. Carpenter has sold eight acres at Bayville, Long Island, known as the Barker Place, to Isaac H. Walker for $5,000.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—Nothing of a very stirring character has come to light on the market for Common Hards during the week. Considering the constant succession of showers and the generally peculiar and unpleasant condition of the weather the demand has really been very fair and considerable stock was in one way or another handled, but the supply at all times proved abundant, indeed frequently overten to a considerable extent, and in maintaining former values receivers did about the best they could with the situation. At the present writing quite a number of barge loads are afloat unsold, but it is hoped and expected that if the weather will stay in a settled condition for a few days the surplus can all be worked off without detriment to the seller, as actual consumptive wants have not lessened of late, and some of the trade think the call a trifle fuller in some sections. Manufacturers, however, do not appear to be very well pleased with the general condition of the market and daily advices received embody a great deal of grumbling. First of all, the ruling line of prices, even with everything working smoothly, it is claimed, affords no more than a bare margin, and with additional expenses accrued through the influences of the weather, detention of barges, awaiting a market, etc., the chances for profit have become quite diminutive. It is possible, however, that a benefit may arise out of this week later on in the season, because there has practically been six or seven days' production entirely lost. Indeed, it is said the storms were so severe along the "River" and in New Jersey that except at Hackensack no attempt at work was made at all, and at the latter point most of the brick had to be taken from yard and thrown back into the pit again. Pales have been quieter also, but held about a proportionate place and a steady line of value. Fronts are not making much open display of animation, but all popular makes secure a great many good-sized orders and at steady rates.

LATH.—Except that sellers have scarcely realized quite the full figures they were asking at the close of last week, the market shows no very important change. Demand on the whole was not quite so snappish or full, and some of the best custom appeared to be temporarily out of the market. Yet buyers were found without difficulty for the somewhat reduced amount of stock available and about everything was kept cleaned up as it came to hand. At the close there seems to be much the usual prediction on the part of sellers of some improvement to come, but from what is known of the amount afloat and the chances for selling we do not anticipate any great change.

LIME.—About everything arriving has continued to find waiting custom and a prompt sale, with steady rates as a matter of course, so far as shown upon the surface at least, and we have heard no complaints thus far about secret cutting. Eastern has not been quite so plenty of late, but about the usual proportion of State could be reached when buyers were ready to pay full former figures.

LUMBER.—Business on the line of distribution into consumptive channels continues much the same as for some time past, a great deal of the movement taking place on contract, but no very large amount going out on positively fresh deals, unless it be in exceptional cases. In certain sections of the city business could be increased by any one willing to accept the risk of custom from speculative builders, and some certainly do accept, but the large percentage of dealers incline to operate cautiously in that line for the present. Outside of certain staple grades the attention given bulk lots is not very great and even some of the thoroughly standard goods find buyers a little offish. Those who have ample piling room and can pick up bargains are ready enough to add to accumulations, but there is no open or general call, and negotiations are very apt to cease the moment an advance is talked of.

Eastern Spruce, although still somewhat unsettled, the variations are only of a fractional character, and altogether the market is working along through the season in better form than anticipated by some of the trade. Large stuff kept so closely sold to the offering, in accordance with predictions, and demand is still very good both for special and random, and certain special calls have so helped small stuff that it has suffered much less than was at one time thought likely. Pretty good management by manufacturers in offering stocks, no excess of desirable logs, and in any case a certain independence of this market have also helped matters, and with fewer competing goods sellers' advantages would have been greater still. Last month's arrivals were quite full but appear to have been absorbed without much difficulty, and there is already a new demand for attractive schedules to arrive.

Piling and similar stock in log is still kept well in hand, the accumulation floated out having been placed there by receivers because they were determined and confident in holding as against accepting commissions asked by buyers. It is on the arrivals to outside parties that the buyer gets in his fine work and now and then scoops a fractional advantage.

Hemlock of desirable quality remains under very good control. Pennsylvania manufacturers in many cases cannot offer with freedom, and others in the State will not, so that there is an absence of pressure to realize. Demand in the meanwhile may be considered as of generally fair proportions, and this class of wood is year after year creeping into more general use as a substitute for many of the more expensive qualities.

White Pine is gaining no increase of attention. The boxmakers and exporters are presumably sure customers for desirable parcels of goods adapted to their wants, but outside of that demand is of much the old indifferent character, and offerings, if urged at all, must be shaded in value to secure any attention. Indeed dealers, as a rule, express no fears whatever regarding the general prospect, and suggestions about putting in stocks while they are cheap act as an incentive to draw out orders. There is a great deal of stuff coming to hand and going into yards from time to time in a manner to indicate that buyers who operate with "regular mills" have not been idle.

Yellow Pine has come to hand with sufficient freedom since the commencement of the second six months of the year to indicate that it returns pretty much all old fervor, and the movement alone business is satisfactory. It is, however, doubtful if sellers are retaining as many advantages as some of them would have it appear, and intimations are constantly given of a failure to thoroughly adhere to the manufacturers' or dealers' compact when any reasonable deviation would secure a desirable contract.

Carolina Pine continues to receive a great many words of praise, and is apparently keeping step in about former average proportion with the general movement. The demand, however, is not of a universal character, as the goods are handled principally by those who can work them in on contract or have built up a sort of special trade, and can depend with reasonable certainty upon custom. Many dealers are not counted among the buyers at all.

Hardwoods meeting with about the usual average demand, and retaining pretty much old features. Over popular the usual variety of opinion regarding price is expressed, but on the round up there does not seem to be much reason to alter former figures. Other grades are at least steady all around, and now and then something extra attractive, in the way of ash or quartered oak, will secure a fractional gain from an appreciative buyer. Export trade is still represented on the market, but shows greater care in the selection of all goods, when handled on orders. It is the direct consignments by un instructed or over-wise shippers that have made the trouble on the other side.

The exports of lumber, exclusive of hardwoods, from the port of New York during the month of July were as follows:

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman, in reviewing the general situation, says:

In respect to actual consumption of lumber, this has certainly not been an off year. The slowness of the early season's movement of stocks in a wholesale way was owing to a peculiar combination of trade conditions that had to be adjusted on a new basis before dealers could be satisfied with the condition of business. Production in the North had proceeded to as great an extent as if there had been no rapid development of the Southern mill industry. There had been no account taken of the falling off of the railway requirement. Nothing had been done to avert the disturbing influence of the Interstate Commerce law in its relation to competing freight rates. It had been assumed that there was to be an unusually heavy demand this year, and, to stiffen prices, the argument of a short white pine log crop was freely used. But results were disappointing to the manufacturers and wholesale dealers. Early in the cargo market season it was seen that something was the matter. Jobbers were not eager to buy lumber. They were dissatisfied with prices, claiming that there was no adequate margin between prices at the mills and in the yards. For some reason the dealers anticipated a decline and insisted on it. This threatened almost a deadlock in movement. But lumber has moved, and it has come into this market, taking the year thus far, in heavier volume than last year. But it has been forced against an unwilling set of buyers, with the result that both sides in the deal have been dissatisfied. Now that trade is taking on a little more spirit we may anticipate a better feeling to ensue and continue throughout the fall.

And in reporting the Chicago yard trade as follows:

There has been an actual decline of fully $1 on all common lumber since last spring. Long dimension has especially suffered. It has been bought on the cargo market at $10 to $10.50, and much of it lately for $9.50, in cases where large percentages have been sold in with cargoes of alleged short piece stuff. On the basis of such low cargo prices dealers have been willing to knock off $1.50 to $2 from list prices. There are dealers, however, who predict that there will be a turn in the long stuff market before many months shall have passed. They see that such product is going steadily into consumption, while stocks are not greatly accumulating. For this reason they think it is a good time to buy long dimension, especially that 12 and 14 inches wide. They base this conclusion on the well-known commercial law that one extreme follows another.

The uninitiated might be led to wonder why the demand for clear white pine is continually less active than that for the lower grades of stock. The principal reason is that little really clear stuff is used for interior finish. The better class of resident and business structures are nowadays finished in hard woods. Yellow pine is taking the place of white where it is desired to finish in the natural wood. White pine is still extensively employed in the medium and cheaper class of houses, but comparatively little absolutely clear lumber goes into such work. Selects of the C and B grade fill the requirement. Such lumber can be had at $20 to $30, which is a different thing from $37 to $45, prices that would have to be paid for clear lumber. There is a demand for clear and A select siding strips that consumes all of such stock that is available. The other principal demand for clear lumber is for the making of choice doors, and thick lumber for other special manufacturing purposes. But the demand is never urgent or sweeping, and there always seems to be enough to meet it.

The Timberman as follows:

How would it do to suggest a lessening of the production of white pine. The tenor of our correspondence would suggest the same course with regard to yellow pine. The population of the United States is increasing very fast, but may it not be true that the manufacture of lumber of the various kinds has increased much more rapidly than the needs of the country would suggest? Individual concerns in the North have reduced production this year. They will doubtless lessen their production more next year, and the Timberman is of the opinion that logging operations will be lessened next winter in a great many localities. After taking in account the fact that the timber is owned by people of means who are able to bide their time, it is scarcely probable that they will follow such a dull season as the present one with an enlarged or even an average cut of logs, when it is entirely probable that a great deal of common lumber now in sight will be carried over for next season's business.

The following is from the Saginaw Courier:

The total product for the supply of the Saginaw River mills the present season is approximately as follows:

Rafted out of streams.....	523,500,000
Logs in boom May 1.....	51,000,000
Brought direct by rail.....	175,000,000
From AuSable, Presque Isle and Upper Michigan.....	80,000,000
From Georgian Bay.....	35,0 0,000
Total.....	864,500,000

There will be sufficient logs the remainder of the season and a few at the close to carry over for next season's supply.

Reviewing the general situation the Mississippi Valley Lumberman says:

The feeling is one of decided encouragement. Dealers generally are looking forward to an exceedingly good fall trade. It is already evident that the period of maximum dullness has been passed and that there is likely to be a continued increase in the amount of lumber shipped from mill points and all the principal markets. This confidence is undoubtedly predicated upon the fact that a splendid crop has been secured, or will be secured, in nearly all the great Western lumber consuming area. Kansas, for the first time in three or four years, has secured an exceptionally large crop of the smaller grains, and the Southern pine manufacturers are counting upon this condition of affairs as the basis of getting rid of some of the lumber they have been forcing on the Northern markets at prices so low as to demoralize the prices for white pine. Some white pine will also go into Kansas, and the reflex influence of this improved condition in Kansas will be felt in the cities on the Missouri, the prosperity of which is so intimately related to the region beyond, and which have all along been such large consumers of white as well as yellow pine.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trades Journal as follows:

LONDON.

American Black Walnut.—In a quiet way a considerable amount of stock is being distributed into various consumptive channels, though this applies more particularly to better class goods, inferior descriptions, with which most yardkeepers and manufacturers are alike fully stocked, being rarely inquired for. Prices current for some time past are still well maintained.

American Whitewood is in good demand, especially clean, unplanned, stout cut inch boards, parcels of which descriptions can often be sold as soon as landed. Planed lumber is also moving off fairly well, but centre planks and waney logs can only be placed with difficulty.

American Oak.—A steady demand has ruled for good quartered inch board stuff, but plain wood is not very salable. Now that stocks are lessened prices are considered to be firmer, and on the whole we should say they are rather against buyers than in their favor.

LIVERPOOL.

American Black Walnut.—Several parcels have recently arrived and have found ready sale ex-ship. Prices are without change, excepting for really prime wood, which is dearer, owing to its comparative scarcity.

TRADE NOTES AND GOSSIP.

The Havana Weekly Report furnishes the following items:

The crop at Manzanilla adds up 413,545 bags, of which 236,745 were shipped directly to New York and 120,090 via Cienfuegos.

According to a Cienfuegos contemporary the highest price paid for cane this year was $5.80 per ton of 2,500 Spanish pounds.

Though it has rained abundantly in several districts during the past week, the majority of planters continue complaining of the drought which delays the development of the cane.

The latest mail reports upon the Havana, Cuba, rice market are as follows:

Under increased stocks and a quieter demand prices have receded to 7½ rs. arrobre for Rangoon of current and 7½@7¾ rs. do. for superior classes. Parna is firmer at from 9½@10 rs. do. for new and 10½@11 rs. do. for old.

METALS.—COPPER.

—Ingot has on the whole been pretty firm. Demand from consumers kept up pretty well, indeed in some instances was quite liberal, the accounts from abroad were in favorable strain, and with a general understanding that mining officials had come to an amicable agreement as to the output, prices, etc., the feeling seemed to be cheerful all around. We quote Lake at 12c. and casting brands at 10¼c@10¾c. Manufactured Copper is moving out through regular channels to quite an average extent and the general character of the market appears satisfactory with a pretty steady tone preserved on values all around. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 21c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 22c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 23c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 24c.; do, under 8 oz, 25c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz, 2c. for 10@12 oz, and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over, 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 22c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 24c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 25c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 26c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz; and 1c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz, 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 22c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 25c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 26c. Sheets 60x96 and over, 20c., for 32 to 64 oz, and over, and 25c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz, 23c.; 14 oz, 25c.; 12 oz, 27c.; and 10 oz, 30c. Bolt copper, ¾ inch diameter and over, 20c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 23@26c. per lb. IRON.—Scotch Pig has not been very active, yet there is a fair balance against importations, and with generally favorable accounts from abroad prices have gained somewhat over the figures ruling at the commencement of the month. We quote at $19.50@22.25 per ton, according to brand, delivery, etc. American Pig has not been particularly active, yet there is a steady daily and weekly call for small invoices that run up into a very respectable movement, and with the deliveries making on contract keep the market clear of any accumulation of oppressive stock. All desirable grades are well in hand and values firm. We quote at $16.50@17.50 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $15.50@16.25 for No. 2 X do.; and $14.75@15.25 for Gray Forge. Old material meets with a somewhat irregular demand, and the movement does not run into very extensive proportions. Buyers and sellers seem to be rather wide apart in their views and that acts as a partial check to business. We quote at about $22.50@23.00 for old rails; $20.00@20.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $14.00@15.00 for cast scrap, and $17.50@18.25 for car wheels. Steel rails have continued in good demand, and from time to time reports of more or less liberal contracts become public, with some of the mills now unwilling to enter into further negotiation. The market in consequence is strong, and even glit-edge roads find it difficult to obtain fractional favors. We quote at $28.00@28.50 per ton at the mills and $29.00@30.00 do. at tide water. Manufactured Iron is without noticeable change, a very fair outlet presenting itself, and for all really standard sizes prices ruling stiff. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 1.90@2.10c. from store, and refined at 2.00@2.30c.; Rods, round and square, 2.10@2.30c.; Bands, 2.20@2.30c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4@5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.75@2.80c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD.—Domestic Pig retains fair attention from the ordinary run of trade, but the market has not on the whole been quite as active as hoped for and prices ruled a fraction lower. The speculative feeling appears to have pretty well died out. We quote at 3.90@4c., as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 4¾c.; pipe, 6c.; sheet, 6¾c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe 45c., on same terms. TIN.—Pig has undergone some little fluctuation through speculative deals, with spot goods responding slightly. From consumers, however, the demand ran light, and was generally checked by any attempt to advance the line of cost.

We quote at about 195¢@193¢c. for round lots and 193¢@191¢c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plates have secured a considerable amount of attention from Western jobbers, but canners were light customers and the local trade more or less indifferent. We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, 1/2 cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.50@5.52 1/2, each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, 1/4 cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.70@4.75, each additional X add $1; Charcoal, term, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.60@6.65; M. F. grade, 20x28, $13.20@13.25; Worcester, 14x20, $4.87 1/2@4.90; Worcester, 20x28, $9.87 1/2@9.90; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.30@4.30; Deane grade, 20x28, $8.37 1/2@8.55; Allaway grade, 14x20, $4.05@4.07 1/2; Allaway grade, 20x28, $8.20@8.30; I. C. Coke, Penian grade, $4.25@4.27 1/2; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.30@4.32 1/2; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $4.60 basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.65. Speller has secured a steady, fair demand from most regular sources, and with only a moderate amount of stock available against the outlet the market has improved slightly and is steady. We quote at 5.05@5.10c. for ordinary brands of Western.

NAILS.—Some irregularity of tone is evident from the more or less variable reports making, yet nothing of a very decided character develops, and about the former general range of valuation may be retained. Business about seasonable on most outlets. We quote at $1.85@1.90 per keg for car lots, and $1.95@2.00 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Buyers generally continue to move with moderation and caution, and the supplies handled at the moment rarely represent anything more than natural trade wants, except possibly on the Southern and Southwestern outlets. The market, however, is kept well in hand and prices sustained, especially so on leads, where the influence of a combination is most direct though apparently with no plans of a positively stimulating character. Linseed Oil remains steady at 58¢@59c. for Western and 60¢@61c. for City. Spirits Turpentine finds a fair average outward movement, and values are gradually hardening, closing pretty steady all around. We quote at 40¢@41c. per gallon, according to quality, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Generally the demand has been dull with orders confined simply to such parcels as imperative wants of the moment require. Stock, however, is so situated as to prevent pressure, and former rates were asked. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.45 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

*Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

In respect to the liens filed against John Casey, appearing of record this week, the contractor, Thos. Anderson, has violated every principle of honor in his contract. His contract for excavating was made May 15th, and Mr. Casey was promised the corner lot first, for bottom stone, within ten days thereafter; it is not ready yet and cannot be had for a month. Mr. Anderson has hounded Mr. Casey for and obtained payments in advance, and as far back as June 1st threatened that he would worry and harass Mr. Casey, so that he (Casey) would be glad to give him (Anderson) any payments to complete the job; and that he would keep Mr. Casey back six months or more. Anyone who has had dealings with Mr. Casey knows that when his work is done his money is ready. A bond has already been presented to the Court and claims will be vigorously contested. There is such a thing as imposition.

N. J. O'CONNELL,
Attorney for Mr. Casey.

No. 1,117

The movement of prices in Wall street only makes all the more probable the predictions made in these columns as to the future. A bull movement cannot be said to be thoroughly under way, yet the natural tendency of values is upward. Bear pressure always fails of its purpose; quotations go steadily upward. It is seldom there has been such a consensus of bull arguments as there are found at present. They need scarcely be repeated. The main one, of course, is the surety of good wheat, oats and hay crops, the surety of poor crops abroad, and the prospect of a good corn crop. All this following, as it does, a good corn crop of last year, and accompanied by a heavy cotton product, cannot fail to make stocks more valuable. A dealer can feel sure in buying as long as he is independent of the daily fluctuations of the market, for his stock will be intrinsically worth more. As for the rate situation, it is not all that it might be; but it is better than it was, and it is constantly improving. Wars take place only when there is not enough business for all the competing lines. It is not likely this fall that any railroad in the Northwest need fear a lack of business. Prosperity is a great harmonizer. There is talk also of a combination of Ohio roads, similar to the Interstate Railway Association further West; and St. Paul & Northwest will, in the future, be practically operated under one management. Dealers should have one eye fastened on the money market and the other on Jack Frost. If from any, clouds will come from those directions.

Mayor Grant is a man of many opportunities, and of great sagacity in taking advantage of them. Although he owes allegiance and his election to an unscrupulous political organization, and in consequence some of his appointments have been none of the best, yet to all appearances his administration is popular. The reason for this is, that so far as he could, under his present political restrictions, he has acted so as to please the newspaper press and to appeal to that sentiment in the popular bosom which likes the Mayor to be something more than a clerk, by taking the lead in all movements involving municipal pride. Thus he has had the chance to come out in opposition to unpopular corporations, such as the Manhattan Company, to prove a good figure-head in the Centennial celebration of Washington's inauguration, to act energetically and successful in a great and necessary charitable undertaking, and, finally, he will have a chance to please the business men of the city by a judicious selection of the committees for the World's Fair. Next winter, doubtless, he will start in again to pass his rapid transit bill, and very likely he will be successful. In case he is he will have a good platform whereon to base his claims for re-election—claims that at the present showing are very certain to be presented. Two years more will be needed to complete his scheme, and it is only right, he will argue, that he should have it, considering that it was not his fault that the undertaking was delayed. If he is re-elected; if he is fairly successful in his second term, and if Tammany is satisfied in the meantime with only its legitimate spoils, there is no telling to what position Hugh J. Grant may not ultimately attain.

The universal attention and comment which the Eiffel Tower has attracted at the Paris Exposition will tend to lead to some attempts at copying that phenomenon of engineering skill. The tower has undoubtedly been the distinctive feature of the Paris Exposition. But not only from the very fact that it has been the feature of another Exposition, but also on grounds of desirability. Even if the idea were original, it is extremely doubtful whether the erection of so stupendous a structure would be advisable. An Exposition is intended to exhibit the progress which a nation has made in workmanship and machinery. Does such a structure as the Eiffel Tower represent truly and completely such progress in any single direction? In the sphere of house construction it certainly indicates nothing of what progress has been made; neither is it representative of any improvement in the methods of iron work. But it will be said the Eiffel Tower is a triumph of engineering skill. Yes; but only in the sense that any big machine or mechanical phenomenon is a triumph of engineering skill. Why not dig holes in the ground twice as deep as the tower is high; why not shoot enormous columns of water up in the air; why not construct a machine that will hurl single rocks immense distances? All these things could be done in a way that would make them wonderful; but they could not be done in a way that would not make them useless. Elaborate adaptation of means for the purpose of making people open their eyes in amazement is not worthy of any serious-minded people. It is simply an ingenious waste of time and material.

It is a relief, after reading the exaggerated stories published in the Philadelphia Inquirer about the wretched water which the inhabitants of that serene city are obliged to drink, to turn to the more moderate and sensible conclusions of the Bulletin. That paper, while admitting that the water supply is not pure, holds that it is "not the polluted and pestilential fluid which it is represented to be by the exaggerators and by the promoters of speculative schemes." It seems that there is a corporation, called the South Mountain Water Company, which wishes to contract with the city authorities for a new supply from the upper Delaware. This they offer to the city free, and to all other consumers at 10 per cent. less than the present rates. The water derived from this source is said to be the best within the reach of the city. The Bulletin, however, thinks that the city should retain ownership and control over its water-works wherever they may be, that no private company should have any interest, direct or indirect, in them; and that the tax rate should be raised in order to make a beginning of the work." Of course it would be folly unspeakable to put the water supply of so great a city as Philadelphia into the hands of a private company. Yet an inquiry ought to be made why it is a corporation can furnish water brought from a greater distance than the present water is brought from at 10 per cent. less than the present rates.

In another column will be found an account of a somewhat peculiar phase of the building association movement—a phase which has aroused the thorough antipathy of the members of regular local building associations all over the country. Some years ago, it appears, certain capitalists conceived the idea of turning the good name which the building associations had to their own advantage by starting an organization under the same name and upon the same plan as the ordinary associations, except that the sphere of operations of the new association should not be limited, and that the managers of the company should obtain some reward for their services in receiving and handling the money. The enterprise turned out to be very profitable, and these associations have grown apace during the last two or three years. Members of the local associations, however, think the movement hurt by these national associations, for the following reasons: (1) The latter are close corporations. The individual shareholders have no voice in the election of officers or the management of the company. Consequently the organization is not a co-operative one in spirit, for co-operation means, if it means anything, the equal rights of all the partners in the enterprise to a share in its management. Indeed, it can be said that it is the almost perfect democracy which we find exemplified in the local associations which has led to their success, for, unlike ordinary business ventures, the details of the work they do are so simple that the domineering influence of a single mind is not necessary. (2) The national associations are wasteful of poor people's money. They charge twenty cents for handling every dollar paid in and require a membership fee of a dollar on every share—all of which goes to the management fund. It follows from this that a national association would need over 16 per cent. more money than a local association to do the same amount of work. The former benefit the managers primarily and the shareholders incidentally; the latter benefit only the shareholders. Therein lies the difference.

Very possibly there is another side to this story. If there is, it will doubtless soon be heard, for the Metropolitan League is going to bring the matter before the attention of the Legislature of this State. An investigation will doubtless ensue; with what result remains to be seen. If the national organizations are as successful as they are said to be, there is very likely some reason for it outside the fact that they are managed by enterprising people. The real standing of these companies, what they have done and what they are doing compared to what the local associations have done and are doing, needs first of all to be ascertained. On this question, as on many others connected with the building association movement, a person is hampered in getting a clear view of the subject by a lack of available data of a complete character. A priori, however, it must be admitted that the case against the national associations seems to be very strong.

The Chicago Tribune emphasizes an objection against New York as a site for the World's Fair of 1892. It says: "The heat is the fatal fault, however, and that also bars out New York, which, though farther north, is as murderously hot during the midsummer months as Washington." And then it goes on to explain that the climate of Chicago is "cool and delicious," finally coming to the conclusion that "the only place which ought to be considered for a moment is Chicago." Undoubtedly the heat of this vicinity during the summer months does constitute an objection against its being used for anything, particularly for a place to live and work in. Nobody knows that better than a New Yorker. But to talk of the Metropolis being barred out because of this heat and to found the superiority of Chicago for the purpose simply on grounds of temperature, is to talk nonsense. If weather was to be the determining consideration in the selection of the site, San Francisco or Tacoma would have the advantage over Chicago by a large measure. This "climate" argument simply amounts to this: Other things being equal, the coolest, pleasantest temperature should be chosen; but it is perfectly obvious that other things are so very unequal as between New York as the site for the Exposition and any other city, that the disadvantages of humidity must be borne by the millions of visitors in 1892 just as they are borne every summer by a million or more of New Yorkers.

Since Chicago has tacked on a few outlying towns and a hundred thousand of inhabitants, the tone of some of the papers of that city towards New York and things metropolitan has been overbearing and contemptuous to a degree. The cursory way in which the pretensions of this city as the fit site for the Exposition are treated in the article from which we have quoted above, is a good illustration of this. Then such an expression as the "rotten democratic metropolis" is not infrequently found on the editorial pages of the Chicago journals. If a war of words is to be waged in the future between Chicago and New York, as it has in the past between that city and St. Louis, it is not to be feared that our New York papers will be behind in the power of vituperation; but the best way to treat such aggressive exhibitions is to ignore them. They bear about the same relation to truth as the trumpeting of an elephant bears to music. The French Ambassador to Russia in pressing a measure upon the notice of Emperor Paul told him that it was advocated by people of great importance. The Emperor replied thus weightily: "There is but one person in the empire of great importance, and that is the person who at any particular time is talking to me, and he only while he is talking to me." New York has many voices, and most of them are speaking continuously. But it is the volume of one of the voices which gives importance to other cities, even as it was the mouth of the Cæsar which gave importance to Russia's nobleman. Heine says somewhere that he was forced to regard provincial Frenchmen as so many milestones, with the distance from Paris writ large upon their faces and actions. There is no such centralization as that in this country; but it remains true, nevertheless, that New York is the heart of the United States giving life blood to the other organs.

The Exposition of 1892 could never be held in New York without the authorization of Congress, and it may become difficult to get the assistance of Senate and House, particularly if Chicago continues to press her claims and to call upon the Western and Northwestern Congressmen to make much of them, and if the south should be taken with the idea that Washington was the best situation. As long, however, as the New England and Middle States are firm in their support of New York, it is not probable that the fight, if there is any, will be prolonged. The dispute could become dangerous only if by some evil chance it became mixed with politics. The Republican Congressmen are such a compact organization that sectional feeling cannot get the better of their party loyalty, particularly as any dissenters would be exceptionally powerful with the parties so evenly balanced as they are at present.

Not long ago it was suggested in these columns that the inevitable outcome of the economic conditions which led to the formation of trusts would be a combination of trusts. As everyone knows a trust does not mean an absolute destruction of competition, but simply its removal to a higher plane. The Standard Oil Company probably comes as near to being an absolute monopoly as any combination in the country—a thing that could never be if their monopoly consisted merely in refining oil. They have also practically the control of the transportation of oil. Owning, as they do, the pipe lines, and "standing in" with the railroads, it becomes necessary for a would-be competitor to build also a competing system of transportation, a task from which even a capitalistic Hercules might well shrink. So it must be with any trust before competition can be removed to a plane so high that the organization would have a practical monopoly. Take the proposed combination of the Northwestern railroads. Some writers have thought it a sufficient objection to such a combination that it would "incite railroad blackmail speculators to renewed activity." Let us suppose it does. The trusts would also be stimulated to renewed efforts towards protecting itself. Such an organization would probably be the largest consumer of locomotives, rolling stock, steel rails and the like in the country. In order to protect itself against competition it might very well absorb, say, the Pullman Palace Car Company or the largest iron works. Thus several associated interests would become united and so on indefinitely. A. T. Stewart, when he was in charge of his larger retail establishment, found it necessary to go to manufacturing as well. Such is the interdependence of trade that the control of one industry makes necessary the control of another.

Putnam County, North and South.

We have become very well accustomed of late years to hear of the depression which very generally pervades agriculture throughout the East. Pennsylvania and New York seem to be the States which have suffered most from this depression, but the farmers and grain producers have been fighting a losing game pretty much everywhere east of the Alleghany Mountains. The latest exemplification of the fact came from the reduced estimates of assessed value which the State Assessors found themselves forced to make in the northern counties of this State. But if any New Yorker wanted visual evidence of the circumstance he would not have to search very far to find it. Let him go anywhere in the northern part of Westchester, Putnam or Dutchess Counties, and he could see with his own eyes that the farming days of those sections were over. Hay and corn are still grown, but at the outside there is nothing more than a living to be gotten out of the land. In the village of North Salem there are a number of deserted houses. Good land offered for sale finds but few purchasers—so few, indeed, that it is said that parcels have been sold as low as twenty or twenty-five dollars an acre, but that would seem to be incredible. We have it, however, on the best authority, that sales at not more than forty or fifty dollars an acre are not infrequent. A plot of eighty-eight acres, with a handsome three-story frame house and a large stable, having a good frontage on Lake Mahopac and convenient to the village, sold recently for $8,000. There is every reason to believe that this is a representative case.

It must not be supposed from the above remarks that the whole region wears a haggard aspect; that gaunt, wild-eyed, starvings are to be met with at the door of every house, or that even a casual observer would immediately detect the fingermarks of depression on the landscape. A region in this country which does not go ahead falls behind. The trouble with Putnam County and its vicinity is that it does not go ahead. The inhabitants, however, have other means of making money than by agriculture. Principal among these are milk, and the taking or feeding of summer boarders. As a summer resort this region seems to be picking up. The Mahopac hotels, it is said, are doing rather better this year than during any of the past few years, though the place is by no means what it was eighteen or twenty years ago; and similar good reports are heard from the other hotels in this vicinity. Much of the supplies required for the consumption of these boarders come from the farmers, who are to that extent benefited.

The proximity of this region to New York makes an inquiry into its future interesting. Industrially it never can amount to much. What water power it has is part of the Croton watershed, and for that reason could never be used for manufacturing. Capitalists evidently have not thought it profitable to establish factories with steam power; and it is to be presumed that the same objection will exist in the future. There is some iron in the vicinity of Lake Mahopac, but it is only spasmodic and apparently not very profitably mined. Remunerative farming seems to be a thing of the past. Its milk remains, but milk alone cannot make a section industrially prominent. Its future lies in another and very obvious direction. What has happened in the southern part of Westchester County will happen in Putnam and Dutchess Counties. A correspondent of THE RECORD AND GUIDE suggested recently that the tendency of population, particularly the rich population, would be towards getting out of the city for purposes of residence. The suggestion is sound because it is in the line of actual events. Along the line of the Hudson River, in the southern part of Westchester County, and to a certain small extent throughout the whole of the district we are discussing, the country is graced with many charming villas. Before twenty years are out it ought to be filled with them. There is a great deal of very beautiful scenery, particularly in Putnam County, and a number of interesting romantic lakes. Thus the country is rich in every natural advantage, so much so that it is strange that there have not already been built a larger number of country places.

An eminent English publicist has said that beneath all modern discussion there lay the fundamental questions of God and immortality. In a similar spirit it may be said that beneath all discussions as to real estate in New York and its vicinity there lies the fundamental question of rapid transit. Certainly the most plausible explanation for the comparative backwardness of the regions drained by the Harlem and New York and Northern roads, is the crying need of proper transit facilities. But what, it may be asked, would you call proper transit facilities? An illustration will answer this question. Brighton, England, is about fifty miles from London and is connected with the metropolis by the London, Brighton & Southcoast Railroad. That company issues tickets which cost $150 and which are good throughout the whole year for as many trips as the traveler may wish to take, no restriction being put upon him as to where he must get on or where he must get off. Assuming that the holder of one of these tickets goes to London and returns once a day that would mean fifty cents for a round trip of a hundred miles. The service he gets is excellent. Through trains starting from the heart of London cover the distance without a stop in a few minutes over an hour. Numerous way trains are run as well, for the road has four tracks for part of the way and never less than two tracks. Compare such a service as that with the accommodations provided by any railroad running out of New York. Compare it particularly with the accommodations provided by the Harlem and Northern roads. The Brighton road has of course an advantage possessed by neither of these roads, in that it penetrates into the heart of London, while of the two roads mentioned in this city each has to depend to a greater or less extent on the elevated roads to bring their passengers to their termini. But making allowance for this fact, it is not right that a section of country possessing so many natural advantages as Putnam County and parts of Westchester and Dutchess cannot be reached in less than two hours, and at a smaller expense than fifty cents either way. The Brighton Railway uses every means in its power to build up the country it serves; our own railways apparently have an opposite end in view. Both the Harlem and Northern are single track roads for most of the way, and consequently cannot run trains either very rapidly or very frequently. If this service was improved and cheapened it would seem to be almost inevitable that many more New Yorkers would go up there to live, if not permanently, at all events during the summer time. The easiest way out of the present state of affairs would be the consolidation of the two roads, the doubling of the number of tracks, and the running of express trains on one set and the way trains on the other. But whatever is done, it cannot be long before public opinion will demand a better service for that section of the country.

The Grand Boulevard.

In this, our third article, describing the topography and the general appearance of the block fronts on both sides of the Boulevard, we complete the information up to 110th street. Our first two articles took in between 59th and 100th streets; below we give the description of each front between 100th and 110th streets. It will be seen how greatly street improvements are required, not only along the roadway, but at the sidewalks. The roadway is in a primitive condition, so much so, that one might imagine one self in a poverty-stricken country village, rather than on the widest thoroughfare in the metropolis of the Western Hemisphere. This is notably so at 107th street, at a point where West End avenue adjoins the Boulevard. After rain there is usually a small pond of water at that spot about 150 feet long and from 10 to 50 feet wide, and the writer, on one of his surveys, had to make a detour of two blocks to ascertain the depth below grade of some vacant lots nearly opposite.

One point will be noticed in the description, and that is, that the system of leasing out vacant lots for cultivation is probably more in vogue on the Boulevard than on any other thoroughfare in the city, some twenty fronts being more or less made picturesque by the vegetable gardens which adorn them. This is certainly preferable to the number of squatters' hovels and shanties that bedeck many of the lots on this and other avenues.

BETWEEN		PRESENT CONDITION.
100th and 101st sts—E. S.	—	The lot on the n e cor excavated. Some 20,000 to 30,000 brick on ground ready for building. Three lots adjoining vacant. Then comes a two-story, high stoop, frame dwelling occupying about two lots and then two lots vacant on the s e cor of 101st street; all even with grade; rocky ground.
" " —W. S.	—	The Boulevard House, a three-story frame liquor saloon with apartments, on the n w cor 100th street. The balance vacant; even with grade and under cultivation.
		NOTES.—1. 101st street not paved between 10th and West End avenues. 2. No crosswalks between the north and south sides of 101st street, on either side of the Boulevard.
101st and 102d sts—E. S.	—	Two-story frame house and stable on three lots on the n e cor of 101st street; balance of five lots vacant, two on grade and three on the s e cor of 102d street, 4 to 5 feet below grade.
" " —W. S.	—	Vacant, the three lots on the n e cor of 101st street about even with grade and the five lots on the s w cor of 102d street mostly 6 to 9 feet above grade, soil to appearances.
102d and 103d sts—E. S.	—	Vacant; under cultivation, and about even with grade.
" " —W. S.	—	Vacant; 10 to 15 feet of rock; above grade.
		NOTE.—1. 103d street not paved between 10th and West End avenues. 2. No crosswalks on either side of the Boulevard between the two sides of 103d street.
103d and 104th sts—E. S.	—	A one-story frame wagon factory on the n e cor of 103d street; a one-story frame horse-shoeing shed next; two vacant lots adjoining, about even with grade; two five-story brick and stone flats, with corner store, on about four lots adjoining.
" " —W. S.	—	Vacant; 10 to 12 feet of rock on; above grade.
		NOTE.—1. 104th street is the first indication of civilization along the roadway. It is paved between the Boulevard and 10th avenue and has a crosswalk running from the north to the south side, on the east side of the Boulevard. On the west side, however, there is neither crosswalk nor paving.
104th and 105th sts—E. S.	—	About 100 feet frontage and 60 feet depth, vacant, 4 to 5 feet below grade, the West End Presbyterian Church and part of a four-story high stoop flat on the rear. Shanty on the rear of next lot; then a one-story and attic frame cottage. The balance of two lots, on the s e cor of 105th street, vacant; 4 feet below grade.
" " —W. S.	—	Vacant; about even with grade.
		NOTES.—1. 105th street has a crosswalk on the east side of the Boulevard, from the north to the south side, and it is paved between the Boulevard and 10th avenue. 2. On the east side of the Boulevard 105th street is not cut through yet, and the only means of communicating with West End avenue is by a lane about 30 feet wide. At West End avenue another 105th and 106th sts—E. S.	—	The four lots in the triangular plot on the north-east corner of 105th street, about 20x100x60x105, are vacant and 8 to 9 feet below grade. In their rear are two four-story, high stoop, brown stone front flats, Nos. 237 and 289 West 106th street. Balance of Boulevard front vacant, except the s e cor of 106th street and a few frame shanties.

" " —W. S.	—	Three-story high stoop frame villa, with mansard roof, on four lots on the n w cor of 105th street, surrounded by garden and grounds; villa covered with creeping plants. To open 105th street westward it will be necessary to condemn part or the whole of this property. The four lots on the s w cor are vacant, and partly even with grade.
		NOTES.—1. 106th street, between the Boulevard and 10th avenue not paved and no crosswalk on the east side of the Boulevard between the north and south sides of the street. 2. There is no fence on 35 feet of the plot on the n e cor of 105th street, and as it is considerably below grade it is dangerous at night to passers-by and should at once be fenced in. 3. 106th street, west of the Boulevard, is being cut through, rock being the obstacle.
106th and 107th sts—E. S.	—	Vacant; 9 to 10 feet below grade. Four lots on the n e cor of 106th street under cultivation.
" " —W. S.	—	Triangular vacant plot with a quantity of loose stone upon it.
		NOTES.—1. 107th street, between the Boulevard and 10th avenue, not paved. 2. No crosswalks on the east side of the Boulevard between the two sides of 107th street. 3. 107th street only cut through between the Boulevard and Riverside Drive. Now at work in grading it. No other street or sidewalk improvements.
107th and 108th sts—E. S.	—	Seven lots vacant; about 7 feet below grade. A two-story brick store and flat on the s e cor of 108th street. Store vacant and flat occupied by owner; until recently used by Riverside Bicycle Club.
" " —W. S.	—	Vacant, covered with a few feet of rock, above grade.
		NOTES.—108th street not paved between 10th avenue and Riverside Drive. 2. No crosswalk on the east or west side of the Boulevard, between the two sides of 108th street.
108th and 109th sts—E. S.	—	Unimproved; 4 to 8 feet below grade. Two shanties and sheds on two or three lots.
" " —W. S.	—	Vacant; about even with grade. An old-time brick fence, with modern railings, marks the house line surrounding the property and is evidently a bygone belonging of the large frame residence which is in the rear, some 250 feet away from the Boulevard and overlooking the Hudson. This house looks as though it had once been surrounded by the entire block of vacant ground, which is now partly improved.
		NOTES.—1. 109th street not paved or graded east of the Boulevard, and has four sewer manholes in the roadway, which obstruct the grading. 2. No crosswalks on the east or west sides of the Boulevard, between the two sides of the street. 3. 109th street not cut through from the Boulevard to Riverside Drive; the brick fence referred to is partly in the way.
109th and 110th sts—E. S.	—	Vacant, all but a frame shanty on about two lots adjoining the s e cor of 110th street; 7 feet below grade.
" " —W. S.	—	The front covered with frame stores and apartments, etc.—a two-story grocery, a two-story shoe store, a one-story carpenter and builder shop, candy, meat and liquor stores, all two stories high, and a hotel shed on the s w cor of 110th street.
		NOTES.—110th street is macadamized to the east and west of the Boulevard. No crosswalks are between any of the sides of the street or Boulevard, though they are not badly needed as the roadway is in good condition.

An analysis of the forty-eight frontages between 86th and 110th streets gives the following results. The figures are also reproduced in a parallel column for the Boulevard fronts between 59th and 86th streets, the detailed description of which appeared in our issue of the 13th ult.:

	—Bet. 86th and 110th sts—			—Bet. 59th and 86th sts—
	East side.	West side.	Total.	East side.	West side.	Total.
No. of block fronts*	24	24	48	26	25	51
No. of lots†	192	189	381	204	197	401

No. of old brick and frame buildings, etc.	43	23	66	32	61	93

* Excluding park fronts.
† These are not all 100 feet deep, while many are more or less than 25 feet wide.
‡ These include lots on which there are old frame and brick buildings, etc.

It will be noticed that between 59th and 86th streets there are more than three times as many lots improved as there are between 86th and 110th streets, though there are nearly as many block fronts in the latter as there are in the former. There are seven more flats built up and three more houses. Indeed, there may be said to be not a single modern private dwelling built fronting on the Boulevard between 86th and 110th streets. The one in the table is the large frame residence on the northwest corner of 105th street, which we have placed under the list of private houses, as it cannot be classed with the old frame buildings of a shanty character. So that out of a total of 381 available lots, between 86th and 110th streets, 359 lots are still unimproved.

We give below a complete analysis of the figures for 5th avenue, Central Park West and the Grand Boulevard, between 59th and 110th streets, the details of which appear in this and previous issues:

	Fifth avenue.	Central Park West.	Grand Boulevard, E. and W. sides.
Number of block fronts*	51	50	99
Number of lots†	408	402	782
Lots improved, about‡	99	96	91
Lots unimproved, about‡	309	306	691
Number of flats	2	11	37
Number of private houses	58	9	5
Miscellaneous buildings	6	6	8
Number of old brick and frame buildings, etc.	25	30	159

* Excluding park fronts.
† These are not all 100 feet deep, while many are more or less than 25 feet wide.
‡ These include lots on which there are old frame and brick buildings, etc.

A comparison of the above figures will be found interesting. It will be noticed that while the Boulevard has nearly as many lots as the other two avenues combined, it has less than half as many lots improved. On the other hand it has nearly three times as many apartment buildings, and very nearly as many miscellaneous buildings, comprised largely of churches. Of private houses, however, it has only 5, as against 67 on the two other avenues, being outnumbered on 5th avenue nearly 12 to 1, and on Central Park West by nearly 2 to 1. It is also encumbered with nearly three times as many shanties and other old frame and brick structures as the other two avenues together. Still, it stands second in the number of buildings of all classes upon its block frontages, 5th avenue coming first with 66 buildings, the Grand Boulevard second with 50, and Central Park West third with 26. That the Grand Boulevard has done so much, when so little has been done for it in the way of street improvements, is a strong evidence of what it would become with proper treatment at the hands of the Department of Public Works.

The above is like many other advertisements that have emanated from time to time for months past from the same address. The houses advertised, Nos. 234 to 238, are owned by Herman Wronkow, whose office is as advertised. The official filings of last week disclose that these flats were transferred by Griffin Tompkins to Herman Wronkow for an expressed consideration of $40,000, subject to mortgages for $8,000 on each. Mr. Tompkins is Mr. Wronkow's bookkeeper, and took title to the flats in May last at $29,250. Observe that two of the houses are offered at $11,250 each, and that the third was sold last week at $12,000. This makes a total of $34,500 which Mr. Wronkow will obtain for houses taken at $40,000. Then, again, where does the executor come in? Mr. Wronkow owns the houses and gives deeds to purchasers, as is shown by the official filings. Are these houses on the list handed in by the State Tax Commissioners to the city tax officials to get the figures at which they are taxed, and afterwards to show the conveyance at the inflated figure, $40,000?

What Site Shall be Selected?

VIEWS OF REAL ESTATE MEN.

What site shall be selected for the Exposition of 1892 is being keenly discussed by the press and the public. Everyone is agreed that it shall be on Manhattan Island if possible, or, in any event, that it shall be within the boundaries of New York City.

It will be interesting, therefore, to read the views of prominent real estate men on the subject, some of which are given below. In determining upon a site the area of ground required has to be considered as well as its accessibility, etc. The Philadelphia Exposition covered 236 acres, while the Paris Exposition takes in about 400 acres. It is quite probable that the New York Exposition will be the largest in the world's history and that it will therefore require more room than any previous enterprise of the kind. Possibly between 500 and 600 acres at least will be required to accommodate the immense buildings, with their surrounding grounds and approaches, and any proposition for a site must take this into consideration. Among the several sites suggested is that of the Central Park. Let us see how this proposal is received by real estate men and what alternatives they suggest.

Richard V. Harnett said: "I am altogether opposed to the Central Park as a site for the Exposition. It is entirely out of the question, and it would be a public wrong to put it there. I favor having it on Manhattan Island if possible, but the difficulty in the way is that there is hardly enough ground in any place, and if there is it will have to be bought or leased, and this presents great difficulties. There won't be any trouble about a site when the time for selection comes. There are several picturesque and desirable spots beyond the Harlem. I would rather not commit myself to a selection as yet."

A member of the Real Estate Exchange said: "I think Barretto's Point would be a good place. It is only seven miles from the Battery, and there are two or three parcels which could be bought there, aggregating about 250 acres, at about $5,000 an acre. It is accessible to all the railroads and has a deep water frontage. Then there is another site, bounded by Leggett and Westchester avenues, the Southern Boulevard and Hunt's Point road. Between these points Geo. F. Johnson owns 75 acres, Christopher Meyer 26, the Estate of Philip Dater 35, two others 25, and the Faile Estate 100, making 261 acres in all, and if this is not enough more ground can be had adjoining."

E. H. Young said: "The late Commodore Garrison, when an Exposition was mooted some fourteen years ago, offered $500,000, if the late Wm. H. Vanderbilt would subscribe an equal sum, to purchase a site at Port Morris, but the latter would not agree to that location, as his interests were along the Hudson River. He wanted it at Inwood."

H. H. Cammann said: "I am strongly opposed to the use of Central Park for the Exposition. I think that beautiful park should never be devoted for any other purpose than the one for which it was designed. Other sites can be found. I am not prepared to mention one until I have carefully considered the subject. I would first want to know how much space is required, the size of the buildings, the general lay of the ground, and whether it would be easy of access. One thing is certain, it ought to be on or directly contiguous to the water front, so that goods to be exhibited from other American ports and abroad can be landed at the spot, without the cost and inconvenience of being carted through the streets."

Chas. E. Brown, of Brown & Leviness, said: "The Central Park would not do. I favor Port Morris, the site selected by the committee which had the matter under consideration some years ago. This takes in from a point about opposite to 120th street up to about 140th street on the north and south, and from the Southern Boulevard to the East River on the east and west. There are some 250 acres of land, with more ground available. It has a deep water frontage and all the facilities in the way of accessibility by water and rail. The Great Eastern laid opposite when it was here, and no better spot could be obtained for landing exhibits."

John C. R. Eckerson, of Thomas & Eckerson, said: "I favor the Bloomingdale Asylum site. That institution is to remove in 1891, and the present building could be changed and utilized for part of the Exposition buildings. The ground could be leased from its owners all the way westwards to the Riverside Drive. It is a fine site and the drainage is perfect. Central Park would not do, as it would be too much cut up; it would be an outrage to spoil it. People who come to New York would want to see the Central Park, which is one of the great sights of the city. The site ought to be as close to the centre of the city as possible, and the Bloomingdale Asylum and the grounds adjoining could be connected with the New York Central and other steam roads as well as the elevated roads, and also with the North River, via 110th and 125th streets."

John Jardine, of the firm of D. & J. Jardine, architects, said: "Van Courtlandt Park is the most eligible site, in my opinion. There is more than ample room, and the only drawback, if it be any, is that there is no water front. But most of the greatest Expositions of the world have not had a water front. Van Courtlandt Park has twenty-five trains running daily to it, while the New & York Northern Road and the New York Central, Harlem and New Haven roads could be easily run up to it. Besides, Van Courtlandt Park has the City of Yonkers by its side, and this would somewhat extend the hotel and boarding-house accommodations outside of New York City, which will certainly be overcrowded in this respect. I should think from 40 to 50 acres would be enough as sites for the buildings, exclusive of the grounds."

J. Romaine Brown took a letter from an envelope, addressed to Mayor Grant, which gives his views. He said: "I am in favor of the Exposition being held on the beautiful stretch of ground on and around St. Mary's Park and running eastwards to the water front. About 1,000 acres of ground can be had there if necessary. The site I refer to is bounded by St. Mary's Park on the north, the Harlem River on the south, Long Island Sound on the east, and St. Ann's avenue on the west. The waters along the river and Sound are navigable, and the property is easily accessible by boat and rail as well as by the elevated roads and horse-cars. It would cost comparatively little to purchase, and when the Exposition was over the ground could be sold at a considerable profit. It has the Southern Boulevard running through it, and other drives lead to it. It would take in St. Mary's Park with its 200 acres, and C. P. Huntington and Dr. T. G. Thomas would no doubt dispose of or lease their large properties in the neighborhood for the purpose, while others would follow suit. The ground has a beautiful view of the Sound and it is nearly all plateau, so that there would be little leveling or filling in to be done; besides, the largest steamers could land there."

Maclay & Davies were seen. They both said: "There is only one site, in our opinion, and that is Pelham Bay Park. It has plenty of room, being twice as large as Central Park, with miles of water frontage where vessels of deep draught could land. The Portchester branch of the New Haven Road already runs through it, and all the steam railroads running into New York could be connected with it, while those from New Jersey and Long Island could be connected by boat. Central Park is out of the question. It would cut it up too much and take years to replace the trees and get it into its old condition again, while there would hardly be enough room. We will want 1,200 acres for such an Exposition as we are likely to have. It will surpass anything the world has seen. We will be overwhelmed with exhibits from every town and village in the United States and every country in the world will send its products to us. Pelham Bay Park is a natural site for it. It has no hills and has hundreds of acres of level ground. Kingsbridge has been suggested, but that is low and swampy in many parts and you can't dig more than a few feet without striking water. Van Courtlandt Park is too hilly and inaccessible, and it is swampy. We have talked with a number of intelligent people and they all agreed, after considering the matter over, that Pelham Bay Park is the only site, and it will certainly be selected if its merits, and not political or other reasons, influence the selection."

Park Superintendent Parsons was aghast when the Central Park site was mentioned to him as a serious proposition. He considered that it would cost three to four millions of the city's money to restore the park to its old condition after the wear and tear of an Exposition, not to speak of the years that would elapse before the trees would grow to look as well as they now do.

One of the oldest and ablest of New York surveyors said: "I would recommend the Exposition to be on the ground bounded by the United States Channel (Spuyten Duyvil Creek) on the north, Dyckman street on the south, the East River on the east, and the North River on the west. The New York & Northern and the New York Central Railroads run through it now and the other steam roads could be connected with it, as well as the elevated roads. The cable-cars pass it and numerous lines of horse-cars connect with lines that run to it. Numerous drives lead to it, there being Kingsbridge road, Fort Washington road, Eleventh, Tenth and St. Nicholas avenues, and all the other roads to the south, while the 23d Ward could be easily connected with it by means of more bridges, in addition to the footbridge leading across from London to the Manhattan."

tan Bridge. This region is for the most part sandy and extremely healthy. It would afford deep water landings on the North and East River sides, the latter of which could be deepened sufficiently by the government within two years to enable vessels of deep draught to get there, not to speak of the Hudson River. The ground is flat almost all over and the view is fine. It also gives easy communication to the people in the upper part of the State via the Poughkeepsie Bridge. The site deserves well looking into. I don't approve of cutting things to pieces in the Central Park. It would cost millions to undo the damage which would be caused by the Exhibition buildings and the crowds which would visit the great show. Highbridge Park has been suggested, but it would not do, as it is not a plateau, and contains too much hill and rock."

The reporter drove over the Central Park, and subsequently consulted a map to see how many acres would be accessible. The park consists of about 840 acres. Of this nearly 144 acres are taken up with the reservoirs of the city water-works, nearly 10 for transverse roads, and nearly 6 for menageries and other buildings, leaving a balance of over 680 acres of park land. Of these nearly 104 acres contain carriage roads, bridle walks and paths, over 43 acres lakes and ponds, etc., 24 acres rock, and 54 acres in glades and openings in the wooded grounds. This leaves a balance of 455 acres of grounds and woodlands. Presuming, at a low estimate, that 200 acres will be wanted for Exposition purposes, probably half the trees would have to be uprooted, and nearly all the roads cut through and thus debarred from use for riding and driving, while all the lakes and most of the ponds in part or whole would have to be drained and filled in. All this work which has cost the city twelve millions would have to be undone and the park afterwards restored. Besides, the Exposition buildings would have to be scattered over an area of 2½ miles and could not be easily taken in by visitors, whereas they ought all to be within an area of half a mile at the extreme points. The open grounds and lakes, without disturbing many trees, would be as follows:

OPEN GROUNDS.		LAKES, ETC.
	Acres.		Acres.
North Meadows, between 97th and 101th streets	19	Large Lake, between 72d and 77th streets	20
The Green, between 65th and 71st streets	16	Harlem Mere, between 104th and 110th streets	12
The Ball Ground, between 61st and 65th streets	10	The Pond, between 60th and 63d streets	4
Three other spaces	10	Conservatory Water, between 73d and 75th streets	3½
Total	55	The Pool and Loch, between 101st and 105th streets	3
		Total	41½

If the lake area were drained and filled in this would give 96½ acres, which would be altogether inadequate, besides which the hills are so steep and the ponds so deep that it would cost a great deal to fill them all in and make them level.

A well-known real estate broker said he took a journey up to the 24th Ward and drove over a large part of the new park system. He paid particular attention to Pelham Bay Park, owing to its fine water frontage. The park contains over 1,700 acres and is 2½ miles long and 2 miles wide and has a water line 9 miles in extent. It has picturesque inlets and bays and affords a fine view of the Sound. The water is deep, and the broker found scores of acres of grounds open and with very few trees on them, skirting the pretty Eastchester Boulevard to the right and left, and leading directly up from the water. Commencing at a point where Fort Schuyler is and branching out for a distance of nearly a mile along the Eastchester Boulevard on both sides, a level patch of territory runs, as though nature had expressly laid it out as a site for an Exposition. The Harlem Road runs through the park and the eastern branch of the Suburban Rapid Transit Railroad could be run right up to the grounds, thus connecting them with the "L" roads, while piers could be built to accommodate goods forwarded from ports in the New and Old Worlds and fifty excursion steamers could land hourly from points on Manhattan Island and elsewhere. If Pelham Bay Park is not considered too far away it will be a superb site for the Exposition, as it has all the necessary advantages and will cost nothing to acquire, as it already belongs to the city. The Legislature would promptly grant the necessary powers of occupation.

Building Association Notes.

Members of the local building associations, not only in this city, but throughout the whole country, have conceived a great distrust of the national building associations which are springing up here and elsewhere with great rapidity. Three years ago there was but one of them in existence. Now there are fifty, and they are increasing at the rate of one a day. The first one started was the American Building and Loan Association of Minneapolis—an organization which has reached such a degree of prosperity that at the present time it is said to handle millions of dollars per month. It has extensive local agencies in all the large cities of the Union; and lately, not satisfied with its earnings in this country, it has made a bid for English money, as may be seen from advertisements which are beginning to appear in the English co-operative journals. Such facts as these warrant the conclusion that there must be money in these associations for the people who start them if for no one else.

They differ radically from the local associations. The latter are essentially democratic and co-operative institutions. Every member has his rights and responsibilities; every member gets his advantages and makes his sacrifices. The officers are elective and frequently change. They are run economically, just as organizations of poor men should be run. The members are united for the purpose of securing a home for themselves and family and not for making or spending money which does tend to bring about this supreme object. In all this the national association differs from the local association. The former are close corporations. A certain number of capitalists come together, subscribe a certain amount of capital stock, elect some respectable figureheads for officers, and start canvassers out to get members. They call themselves building and loan associations, and they live and thrive on the good reputations which the local organizations have got, but in reality they simply use the same name and the same machinery as the latter, without being to any extent animated by the same spirit. Its organizers appoint themselves perpetual officers; they are as unknown to the subscribers and borrowers as the president of a life insurance company is unknown to the policy-holders; they are irresponsible and are actuated by the ordinary selfish motives of business men.

The local associations do not like them because they and the movement are hurt by them. These national organizations hire expensive offices, pay the managers big salaries and support elaborate organizations. To this extent, of course, the subscribers are burdened, as poor people should not be burdened, and as the holders of shares in local associations are not burdened. The national societies have what is called a management fund, into which goes the membership fee of one dollar per share. What this means can be realized upon learning that one association has issued 500,000 shares in one year. Shares are worth, as a general thing, $100 on maturity; and the dues are sixty cents a month on each share, of which fifty cents goes into the loan fund of the association and ten cents into what is called the management fund—that is, the managers' pockets. Thus the incorporators charge twenty cents on every dollar of the member's money handled by them, besides the dollar as a membership fee. It is no wonder, in view of these facts, that enormous profits result, and that national associations are growing at the rate of one a day.

Hence it is that the interests of the local associations are antagonistic to those of the national associations. In the latter the cost of the management eats up the benefit derived from the compounding of the interest on the money paid in. People who have joined a national association and who find that it does not pay will not discriminate between them and the local associations. Thus the whole movement is injured. A man who takes shares in a national society occupies the same position as the man who holds a trust certificate in a trust. He puts his money in the hands of another man, who may or may not use it as it ought to be used. The Metropolitan League is going to bring the matter to the attention of the Legislature of this State, and it will do so in the interests of the thousands of poor men who from the best of motives have put their money in these concerns.

The largest building association in the world is the "Birkbeck," of Chancery lane, London. The total receipts from all sources for the first year of the society's life did not exceed $10,000; but its business soon increased to remarkable proportions. Since its inception the society has received over $500,000,000, and during the last fiscal year alone $50,000,000 was paid into its treasury. The net profits of the year's working are stated to be about $95,000, and the assets are placed at $1,000,000 above the liabilities.

California is something of a place for building associations. There are about seventy-five in the State and twenty-seven in the city. The combined capital of these associations reaches $25,000,000, and their membership about 25,000. According to the statistics of last year these companies had out on loans $4,388,251.77, the rates of interest being from 6 to 10 per cent. Only six societies have as yet been obliged to foreclose mortgages in order to obtain money loaned; and last year the members made a profit of about $1,000,000.

The West End Theatre.

What will become of this enterprise it is difficult to tell. The building has got as far as the foundations, and at Architect Griebel's office it was learned that the work is at a standstill, and there was no telling when it would be resumed. A sheriff was in possession of Manager Wood's offices, and no one seemed to know whether he would return or not. The property on which the theatre stands contains seven lots, comprising a frontage of 100.8 feet on 7th avenue and 175 feet on 124th street, on the northeast corner. The title is vested in Mrs. Margaret J. Paddock, better known as Miss Maggie Mitchell, the actress, and it seems that only $5,000 was paid down in cash by A. H. Wood, who filed plans in his name for the theatre in the beginning of April last, the building to cost $250,000, as will be seen on referring to THE RECORD AND GUIDE of April 6. The property has never been transferred to Mr. Wood, and it is likely that the amount deposited on contract will be forfeited. Mechanics' liens have been filed against Mrs. Paddock, as owner, and Allen H. Wood, as contractor, for $5,600, by the architect of the theatre, Geo. H. Griebel; for $200 by Nelson Waldron, carpenter; for $684 by Andrew J. Post, of Post & McCord, civil engineers, and for $8,170 by Charles A. Cowen, the builder. The contract price for the seven lots was $110,000.

The Real Estate Owners' and Builders' Association have sent Mayor Grant the following resolution anent the coming exposition:

Resolved, That the attention of your Honor is specially called to the fact that many of our members, being builders, possess practical and technical knowledge of construction, and have been engaged for many years in improving real estate, and will in consequence bring to the discharge of their duties on the committee a knowledge acquired by this experience as practical art constructors that cannot be obtained in financial or commercial circles or in professional or mechanical pursuits outside of the building trades and architectural profession. We desire to remind your Honor that we are the oldest incorporated real estate association in New York, and that since our organization we have been active in promoting the best interests and aiding in the development, growth, and progress of our city, assisting in framing laws, ordinances and regulations affecting real estate and improvements, knowing the value of unity of purpose and action.

We hereby pledge your Honor our cordial support and our untiring efforts, assured that success will crown the work.

They also ask that George Crawford and George N. Williams be appointed on the Finance Committee, Roswell P. Flower and Walter Howe on the Legislative Committee, Robert McCafferty and George Vassar, Jr., on the Committee on Permanent Organization, and O. B. Potter, Cornelius O'Reilly and Thomas Graham on the Committee on Sites and Building.

A Harlem Improvement.

One of the largest building enterprises undertaken in Harlem this season is that of the nine flats which are being built by Geo. E. Beaudet on the east side of St. Nicholas avenue, between and on 118th and 119th streets, perspective views of which are given herewith. They are built on a plot covering 43,208 square feet, equal to over seventeen-and-one-half city lots, and they comprise one building on the corner of 118th street, 103x11x90 in size; one on the corner of 119th street, 126x84.6x60; three on 118th street, 41.8x77 each, and four on 119th street, 43.9x77 each, and the lies per floor, and the corner building on 119th street three families per floor, the former having seven rooms and bathroom, and the latter eight rooms and bathroom, in each suite. The parlors, which will be 16x13 in size, will have mirrors, mantles and open fire-grates, and the ceilings will be decorated, the trim being in mahogany finish. Adjoining the parlor will be a hall bedroom, to be utilized, if desired, as a library or sitting-room. This room, like the parlor, has a front view. Adjoining the parlor is a bedroom, 12x13 in size, which is separated by a French glass sliding door. Beyond this chamber, the plan shows two dressing-rooms, on the saloon plan, one of which is auxiliary to the parlor bedroom and one to another total cost of the buildings, with land, is estimated by the architect, Richard R. Davis, at close upon $600,000.

The perspectives show a group of buildings which, while they have no particular architectural pretensions, are superior in design to many of the flats built nowadays. The material is of Philadelphia brick and brown stone, the latter being exclusively used in the basement and first story, while both are used in the stories above. The stone is rock-faced for the most part and smooth in places, and it is used in the band courses, head courses, sill courses, etc. The windows have moulded heads and they bedroom in the rear, which is 11.7½x13 in size. The dressing-rooms are to have cabinets, wardrobes, beveled plate glass mirrors, marble washstands and basins, hot and cold water, and other toilet conveniences. Beyond the rear bedroom, and overlooking the diminutive park which is to be laid out in the rear of the houses, is the dining-room, 12.6½x15 in dimension, which will be in mahogany finish and have decorated ceilings. Adjoining will be the kitchen and pantry, with range, refrigerator and all the necessary culinary arrangements. The other rooms comprise a servant's bedroom and bathroom. Every one of the rooms, as well as the private halls, also have outside transoms. There are a number of bay windows above the first story and there is a tower on each corner of the avenue.

The entrances have porticos, and the interior of the flats, as described by the architect, are to be partly in hardwood trim, with the modern improvements provided. The entrance doors are to be of antique oak, and the vestibules are to have oak ceilings and wainscoting, with the floors tiled in mosaic. The main halls, which are 10 feet wide, will be wainscoted in cherry and the ceilings decorated. Each suite of apartments is to have a private hallway, from which every room in the suite will be accessible. The corner building on 118th street will be arranged to accommodate two famiappear from the plan to have external air, in addition to which the corner houses have three light shafts and the street houses two. The main stairs are, of course, to be fire-proof, while electric gas lighters, steam heat and other modern improvements are to be provided. The plumbing is to be of a sanitary character, and the height of the rooms and the arrangement of the floor plan predicate good light and ventilation.

Several features are to be introduced which are worthy of notice, and they may be adopted by other architects and builders with advantage. The rear of the nine buildings leaves an open space, not built upon, of about 68 feet wide and 140 feet long—in one place 190 feet long. This is to be sodded and turned into a miniature park, and as it contains an area equal to about 10,000 square feet it will be a pleasant breathing spot for the residents in the flats to use. In the centre of this plot a lawn tennis court is to be laid out, for the use of the young folks in the houses. This will occupy the regulation size of 36x78, and seats will be placed at various points for onlookers. The tenants will also be able to watch the playing from their dining-room windows. This is a feature which will certainly prove attractive. In addition to this the tenants will be provided with a telephone, and there will also be messenger calls in each house. A one-story office building is to be put up on part of the avenue front, which will contain a reading and writing room, telephone, etc., for the use of tenants, as well as an office from which the property will be managed. These are all features which, taken as a whole, will serve to make these flats attractive, and no doubt fill them with tenants much more rapidly and successfully than if they were not provided, for the better class of tenants are very quick to perceive an enlightened policy on the part of a builder or a property-owner.

The buildings cover altogether not less than 627 feet of frontage, and contain ninety-four suites of apartments, exclusive of janitor's rooms and two avenue corner stores. They are now nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy in the fall.

In the City Departments.

The Park Department have asked the Board of Street Opening and Improvement to take proceedings to lay out and have title acquired by the city to a strip of 10 feet to the west of Morningside avenue West. This will make that fine drive 90 feet wide, of which 40 will be for a carriageway, 30 for the eastern sidewalk and 20 for the western sidewalk. The strip runs along the property between 110th and 122d streets, and it is said that it will affect the holdings of Dwight H. Olmstead, ex-Senator Bixby and Messrs. Jessup, Drexel and other owners along the line of the drive.

Legal proceedings have been instituted by the city for the recovery of the water front on the Manhattan side of the Harlem River, between 3d and 4th avenues. The Dock Department is to furnish the Corporation Counsel with the approximate rental value, so that the amount of damages may be determined upon.

The Ciancimino's Towing and Transportation Company had the audacity to request permission from the city to moor a floating dump at the foot of 60th street, East River. The Dock Protective Association of the 19th Ward and residents in the vicinity objected to the nuisance, and the application was denied.

John Elsey, a fish dealer, applied to the Dock Department for permission to erect an office building, about 12x40 in size, on the platform south of the Barclay Street Ferry building. The board have denied the application on the ground that they have no authority under the law to grant the request. This will be of interest to other business men who may contemplate making a similar application.

The Health Department have amended section 100 of the Sanitary Code, so as to read as follows:

That every owner, lessee, tenant and occupant of any stall, stable or apartment in which any horse, cattle, or swine, or any other animal shall be kept, or of any place in which manure or any liquid discharge of such animals shall collect or accumulate, within the built up portion of said city, shall cause said liquid and manure to be at once removed to some proper place, and shall at all times keep or cause to be kept such stalls, stables and apartments, and the drainage, yard and appurtenances thereof, in a cleanly and wholesome condition, so that no offensive smell detrimental to health shall be allowed to escape therefrom; and when within three hundred feet of any occupied dwelling house, or of any manufactory where more than five persons are employed, the removals from the stable shall not be made, nor shall the manure or refuse from the stable be allowed to remain on any street or place without a permit from this board.

Whenever there shall be a cartload of manure on any premises it shall be immediately removed unless it be pressed or baled. The Sanitary Superintendent may issue permits for and regulate the removal of bales or pressed manure upon conditions stated in such permits, which shall prescribe not more than ten days for such removal, and shall prevent a nuisance. No manure vault under the sidewalk shall be built or used. No manure vault or receptacle outside of a stable shall be built or used on any premises, except pursuant to the terms of a permit granted therefor by the Health Department.

This is an excellent resolution, one which should long since have been passed. It will provide against many nuisances obnoxious to residents in many parts of the city, some of which are detrimental to health.

William Cowles has completed plans and specifications for a new fire-boat, which is to have a steel hull. The work on the hull has been given to the Johnson Foundry & Machine Co., at 118th street and Harlem River. The bids for the engine and machinery, which have been advertised, will be received at the Fire Department on August 9th, at 10 A. M. The entire cost of the boat is to be $100,000. He has also plans nearly finished for a propeller for the Quarantine Commissioners of the State of New York, to cost $20,000. The work is not ready to advertise.

From present appearances the new wing to the Museum of Natural History will be very handsome.

The Health Board has completed its inspection of the city ferry houses and finds fault with the sanitary condition of the houses at Fulton, Hamilton, Hoboken at Barclay street, West Twenty-third street, Jay street, West Thirty-fourth street, West Forty-second street and Roosevelt street ferries and the Pennsylvania Railroad ferry at Cortlandt street. The plumbing and sewerage is defective in each of these houses. The Commissioner of Public Works will be requested to have these defects remedied.

At a special meeting of the Architectural League held on August 6th, the following resolutions were drawn up and sent to Mayor Grant:

1st. That it indorses the selection of New York as a place for the Exhibition of 1892 to commemorate the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus.

2d. That a formal request be and is hereby sent to the Mayor, asking him to give the architects and engineers each a representative, and not classify them as one branch.

3d. That the Executive Committee takes pleasure in presenting the name of Richard M. Hunt to represent the architectural profession.

The committee feels that Mr. Hunt is a man eminently fitted as a representative by his great experience, his long established reputation, and also as being President of the American Institute of Architects.

Saranac Lake, where Mayor Grant has recently been stopping in the Adirondacks, is five miles long and one and a-quarter wide. Symmetrical as a whole, it is separated into several natural divisions, by outspreading peninsulas and chain-like groups of islands; there being of the latter, counting as such several huge rocks, one for every week in the year. Boating, fishing, bathing, driving, walking, baseball, etc., are the sports indulged in to increase the appetite, strengthen the muscles and otherwise improve both body and mind. There is one thing missing to make this place what it will some day be—the favorite mountain resort. That is small steam launches which might traverse the lakes with pleasure to the guests and profit to the owners. Opposition on the part of the "guides" seems to have prevented their introduction. The guides try to persuade visitors that the only way to enjoy themselves is to hire a guide at $4 per day and travel in small boats from place to place. This is nonsense, and deters timid persons from roaming about, and consequently shortens their stay in the mountains, for they get tired of sitting around, and don't feel like paying $4 a day for a guide.

In a letter to the Tribune, of August 6th, an architect inveighs against the method and award of committee on designs for the new Cathedral. He claims that the committee should have cast aside preconceived notions and awarded the palm to the architect who showed the greatest originality and "not to the man who cleverly adapted and combined interesting examples." He further proposes that the plans should be submitted to the French Institute or any other foreign body, as the principal men here were in the competition. After describing the method of award in Europe he proceeds to ask why "there are no really grand churches in modern styles" and protests against the continued use of medieval styles. The letter touches many interesting points.

Communication between England and France by means of an underground tunnel is old, so something new above terra firma is being talked of. It is no less a scheme than a postal tube between those two countries. It is proposed to fix pillars, 800 yards apart, and to them fix two tubes, each 3 feet in diameter and about 125 feet above sea level. In these tubes, each capable of carrying 450 pounds of mail, a miniature railway is to be run. Five million dollars is named as the probable cost.

The turning of the bridge over the Mott Haven Canal by means of a hand-crank is now a thing of the past. Some few months ago the machine broke, and sooner than have it fixed the persons in charge of the bridge raised it a foot or so in height and blocked it up, making it stationary so that only loaded canal boats are able to pass underneath the structure as it now stands. This may be somewhat unpleasant for the canalmen, but it is a great relief to pedestrians who, in times past, often lost fifteen and twenty minutes waiting for some of the heavy boats to pass through that part of the canal which lies underneath the bridge.

The directors of the Real Estate Exchange will meet next week to take action in reference to the Exposition of 1892. A meeting was called this week, but there was not a quorum present, owing to the absence of members on vacation.

The experts selected by the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument Commission of Brooklyn, have handed in their report on the arch at Prospect Park. They recommended that the design of "Red Seal" be awarded the first prize of $1,000, and they praised his design very highly. The second prize of $500 was not awarded. "Red Seal" proved to be John H. Duncan, of No. 237 Broadway. The report was accepted by the commission, and Mr. Duncan will probably be given charge of the work. The commission expect to have the arch completed by 1892. $250,000 is already available, so that work may be commenced at once.

Real Estate Department.

The usual summer dullness in real estate hangs heavy in the brokers' offices, but the number of inquiries very much exceed those made at this time last year, which in itself is an indication of a good, strong fall market. Quite a number of private sales are reported, though sales on 'Change have been very few.

On Monday there was only one sale, that of No. 34 West 97th street, under foreclosure. It is a four-story brick dwelling, 18 feet wide and was knocked down to the plaintiff at $15,000.

On Tuesday Messrs. Brown & Leviness sold No. 124 West 95th street, a 19-foot three-story house, under foreclosure, for $17,097 to J. D. Putnam. Three four-story flats at Nos. 121 to 125 West 86th street were knocked down to the plaintiff, under foreclosure, at $18,000, $33,000 and $32,000 respectively; the first being 18.8 feet wide and the others 30 feet wide. D. Plummer purchased the leasehold property at No. 139 Mott street, near Grand street, a two-story stable on a full lot, for $8,400.

There were no sales of realty on Wednesday or Thursday. Yesterday three five-story tenements and stores on the northwest corner of 1st avenue and 60th street, 25.5 feet front each, were sold, under foreclosure, to the plaintiff for $21,750, $22,250 and $30,250 respectively, the last price being paid for the corner. A four-story house on the northwest corner of Park avenue and 75th street, 17.4 front, was sold, under foreclosure proceedings, to A. M. Murray for $33,200. The sale of a three-story house on East 80th street was adjourned.

The sale of the marble quarries at Sheffield, Berkshire County, Mass., by Richard V. Harnett & Co., announced for Thursday last, was adjourned without date. Due notice, however, will be given in these columns. These quarries are of about 45 acres in one parcel, nearly 24 acres of which comprise the marble formation rising to a height of 85 feet. A new mill 80 feet square is included in the property. The New York Court House and the Court House at Pittsfield, Mass., are both built of material from this quarry.

Out Among the Builders.

The Congregation of Zichron Ephraim will build on the north side of 67th street, 100 feet west of 3d avenue, a handsome brick and stone front synagogue in the Oriental style of architecture. The building will be 60x93 feet in size and have a seating capacity of about 900; the basement will be fitted up as a free Hebrew school with a seating capacity of 400. The synagogue, which will be erected from plans by Schneider & Herter, will have stained glass windows, and be one of the handsomest structures of its kind in the city, costing $60,000. The secretary of the Congregation, which was incorporated about a month ago, is Wm. Frager, of No. 610 Broadway. The rabbi will be the Rev. Dr. Bernard Drachman.

The Delancey A. Kane estate have received J. August Lienau's plans for improving and altering No. 11 Cedar street. New elevators and new stairs will be put in and one floor added. It is to cost about $15,000.

Oswald Wirz has drawn plans for a six-story tenement, 25x92, three families on a floor, with stores on No. 134 West 20th street. The fronts will be of fancy brick, stone and terra cotta. The cost is estimated at $20,000. Wm. C. Strange and Robt. N. Quinn are the owners.

Herter Bros. have plans for a five-story buff brick, iron and stone store, with lofts, size 27x90 feet, to be erected at No. 41 Great Jones street, for Harris and David Boehm at a cost of $24,000.

The old Madison Square Garden has definitely seen its last days. The work of razing the walls has been begun and will be pushed rapidly so that work on the new building may be started.

R. R. Davis has plans for two five-story flats, 25x84.4 each, to be built by G. J. W. Van Slingerlandt on the south side of 96th street, 250 west of 9th avenue.

Thos. J. McGuire will build five five-story flats, 25x59.10 each, to be built on the south side of 88th street, 200 east of 10th avenue, from plans by J. W. Cole.

Ellen M. Harlow will build two five-story tenements, 25x88.6 each, at Nos. 240 and 242 West 35th street, from plans by M. V. B. Ferdon.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—Forecasts of a hopeful nature have not been verified on the market for Common Hards, but, to the contrary, there has been a slight loss of tone. During the early portion of the week the condition of the weather was such as to further impede consumption, and while the clearing up and cooler atmosphere brought out a little more inquiry, it was hardly in proportion to the offering, and sellers found themselves again at a disadvantage. The facts seemed to be that even with the apparent previous slow and cautious demand dealers in one way or another accumulated a great deal of stock and were therefore in a position to stand off and act a little independent if needs be. We do not find evidence that there has been any severe or unwarranted crowding, yet it was only a proper business method that any natural advantage should be made use of, and a shading on cost has therefore simply come in regular order, with a possibility that it could have been forced to a still further extent had a direct trial in that direction taken place. The decline, too, is most noticeable on the medium and ordinary grades. Some of the really choice goods, favorite makes, etc., still occasionally commanding just about as much money as last week, though top quotations are exceptional, and about $6.00 per M may be considered as the average extreme. It may be hardly necessary to add that manufacturers continue more or less dissatisfied with ruling conditions, and many are said to be working as close in the matter of productions as may appear safe as against the necessities of competition and the preservation of regular trade, but it is understood that as yet no argument has been entered into looking to a universal shutting down at any stated period. Pales have retained a good general demand, and pretty much all reports agree in calling prices steady at former figures.

LATH.—The market runs along in a pretty even condition without excitement or features of an unusual character. Arrivals have been somewhat fuller than last week and demand sufficiently offish to make it necessary that receivers should engage in a little looking around for buyers, yet custom was eventually found, and on desirable stock about former figures obtained, or say $2.10@2.15 per M, and this is still the general quotation as we close. There has, however, been business done by the cargo lot as low as $2 per M, but the stock was a little different in some respects from the standard, and dealers who consented to handle it secured the allowance accordingly.

LIME.—Of Eastern the arrivals have been only fair and somewhat irregular with a demand always ready for the offering, and for that matter receivers seem to think they could have placed a still larger amount of stock if here. Prices are maintained on the steady basis natural with the condition of trade and the manner in which matters are controlled by manufacturers. Some St. John stock has come to hand and it sold readily at former rates, and receivers of State product report business in good general form.

LUMBER.—There is still a great deal of irregularity in the run of reports from dealers, with the average rather leading to the impression that business is at least without any actual increase. Across the river there is considerable doing, and certain favored up-town localities and in the annexed district get a good slice of trade, while, as previously noted, dealers who are willing to assume a pretty full risk can secure custom for building grades without much difficulty, but there is a lightening up of the movement in all those outlets as compared with a few weeks ago, and some of the more cautious dealers, or those whose situation is away from the present line of custom, are really experiencing a dull period. Of course that must find its reflection upon the wholesale market to some extent, and while the thoroughly staple grades are all right to the extent they are offered from regular sources, salesmen who have to hunt for custom meet with very poor luck.

Eastern Spruce does not appear to have developed any really new feature since our last. Some business has taken place within a week or two at comparatively low figures, but investigation shows that the stuff handled was low and unsatisfactory also, and the weight of evidence bears out the claim of receivers that any first-class standard cut can be placed without much of an effort, while for full sizes there is a sort of standing-offer trade that insures speedy sale and satisfactory figures when anything can be tendered. Almost as a matter of course advises from the Eastward are framed firmly and confidently, but allowing for the natural bullish inclination of manufacturers their chances on other outlets make them in a measure independent of this.

Piling has accumulated quite a little stock, yet, as previously noted, it is in strong hands, with owners neither anxious or willing to push the sale of it and refusing to cut down rates. Demand, however, is not full or vigorous, and confidence in the future is the main sustaining influence.

Hemlock apparently has a somewhat irregular trade as against claims of continued pretty full calls. We hear complaints of indifferent demand and grumbling buyers on account of the full prices asked. It is just possible, too, that occasional fractional shadings may be allowed on the quiet where a full-sized desirable order can be brought to book, but pretty nearly all hands in running quotations use about former figures. Pennsylvania manufacturers offer carefully, and the press of stock from this State has been much less than predicted.

White Pine remains dull so far as the general run of stock is concerned on calls from consumers, and in reflection thereof it requires an expert salesman to impress upon dealers the propriety of entering into negotiation for any special addition to yard stocks. Some claim to have "a great deal" coming to them on previous contract, others expect enough from their regular mills, and others say they will go to primary points themselves when ready to invest; but all claim indifference, and act as if they meant it. Desirable box, of course, has pretty sure sale, and there is a very good opportunity for export grades, the foreign movement keeping full, and some dealers think likely to increase. Especially is there faith in the West India trade, where the profits on sugar during the past season are expected to lead to considerable building, repairs, etc.

Yellow Pine, for certain classes of heavy work, flooring, etc., has simply a sure outlet, as there is nothing to take its place, and the general call is about up to the average. As a rule, however, buyers are not particularly anxious just now, recent arrivals having filled out yard assortments fairly, and the necessity for hurrying on contracts for specials not being apparent. The market, however, is claimed to be well in hand, and prices supported on all standard cuts without difficulty.

Carolina Pine is in good enough shape but some of its friends are rather overdoing matters in praising the stocks and draw out counter reports. For it is certainly not a grade that every dealer or contractor will as yet consent to use and they are inclined to give it a dig when they can. Reports still say the production is closely sold and rates well sustained upon anything that has been properly handled in the production.

Hardwoods in a general way may be called steady, as it is quite unlikely that anything of a desirable character could be bought for less money than a week ago. Sellers of first hand parcels, however, have no great advantage, as the demand from both dealers and manufacturers is of a guarded character and they are rarely led in the display of any great amount of interest unless something extra attractive is offered. Consumption is increasing as building operations commence to arrive, more generally at a point for finish and there is fair attention from exporters.

Shingles have come to hand from coastwise sources with considerable freedom for some time and made a little accumulation of stock. Receivers, however, are in no way disturbed but on the contrary speak very cheerfully over the situation, claiming that between the home and export demand everything will find sale and command full rates without difficulty.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Timberman as follows:

Our advices about cargo market prices have been bearish all along this season, from necessity largely, but more particularly because the buyers on the cargo market have been disposed to proclaim boldly and persistently that it actually costs $2 a thousand to handle lumber and they could not buy dimension, for instance, at $9.60 and sell it at $11, the prices which have prevailed for some time. Making use of these arguments, short piece stuff has sold at $9.50, and as low, we understand, as $9.37½ in one or more instances and that is not the worst of it, from the manufacturers point of view, for in those cargoes which have been sold at $9.50, there was, as a rule, good sprinkling of long lengths.

It is a piece of good fortune for the manufacturers that they have sent forward their lumber in moderate amounts, for the persistent bearish effort on the part of the buying side of the market would have resulted even more disastrously than it has in case of larger receipts.

And also gives the following in its report upon the Chicago yard trade:

The demand from Eastern sources is comparatively light, but dealers at the East stock up rather heavier in the spring than those located in the West, and they are now cleaning up for the fall trade. Several wholesalers report considerable inquiry from this direction, and expect it will develop into large sales before many weeks. One firm took an order for 180,000 feet 3 8th dressed and matched beaded ceiling and flooring, the same to go to New Jersey. There wasn't

E. C. Low, who has just purchased the block bounded by Sumner, Lewis, Putnam and Jefferson avenues, will improve the same by three-story dwellings.

The Bethany Presbyterian Congregation are about to build a frame church, 30x60, on Halsey street, between Ralph and Howard avenues.

Thomas McGuire will erect a three-story brick flat, 20x42, on Atlantic avenue, between Nostrand and New York avenues.

Out of Town.

BALDWINS, L. I.—Ex-Senator John Fox will build a two-and-a-half story frame dwelling, which is to cost $10,000. Thayer & Robinson are the architects.

EAST ORANGE, N. J.—Bulkeley & Bannister, of New York, have drawn plans for a frame dwelling with brick foundation, 40x34, which is to be two and a-half stories high and which will contain ten rooms. The house will have a frame barn in the rear. Robert Warren is the owner. The same architects have also drawn plans of five three-story double frame flats with stores, 36x42, for Mr. Warren. The cost has not been estimated.

YONKERS, N. Y.—Plans for a military school proposed to be erected here are being prepared by D. & J. Jardine. The same architects have sketches on the boards for a handsome two-story and attic residence, 50x60 in size, to be built by W. W. Johnson, publisher of Johnson's Encyclopaedia. It will contain all the modern improvements and will be built on North Broadway, near Lake avenue. The cost is estimated at $25,000.

very much money in the sale, but it was a good round order, and dealers are not content to remain idle when they can make something out of the trade.

There is now a feeling that Eastern railways are inclined to purchase. Considerable stock has been going from this market to Eastern railway companies recently that has scarcely been noted in the trade journals. Car building has taken a new start. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company decided to build 5,000 freight cars within the past few days, and is now receiving bids for this large addition to its rolling stock. These improvements will involve the expenditure of $3,000,000, and the cars will belong entirely to the freight equipment. It is hardly to be expected that Chicago will get the "order," but any large movement of lumber must accelerate the general drift of trade, and this car construction will take an enormous quantity of timber and lumber. If a few of the other companies in the East or in the West will follow suit we shall soon be able to tell where some of the lumber now held in stock is to go.

In regard to piece stuff prices, $11 continues to be the leading figure, and our best advices say that even this low figure has not secured a great many orders.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

The white pine wholesale markets continue quiet. Complaint in Saginaw Valley is especially emphatic. The buyers of cargoes have to a larger extent than in former years placed their orders on Green Bay and at other northern points, thus giving the great valley producing field the go-by. This in a measure can be attributed to the firmness with which prices have been held on the Saginaw, manufacturers there being so well fixed financially that they prefer to sit down on their lumber and sell it slowly, than to let it go at a concession of price. Besides, the car load trade has become an important factor, and is enabling the mill operators to work off much of their stock independently of the cargo market. An immense amount of lumber is also yearly consumed in local manufacture at Bay City and the Saginaws.

Corroborative of the statement that Eastern buyers have, this season, gone further up the lakes than formerly in quest of lumber, are the reports from Menominee that more lumber has been sold at that point this season to go East than in any former year. This selling of Green Bay lumber for the Eastern market has had a marked effect on stocks that have heretofore characterized the Western supply from that district. The larger, finer logs are selected for the production of lumber destined for the Eastern market, leaving a poorer average than in former years for the Western trade. This it is that, in a measure, has degraded the quality of the stock offered on the cargo market in this city; a change that has caused loss to the wholesale trade here. It has forced buyers from this point to compete with Eastern men for the better cuts of the mills, and deprived them of the percentage of pickings that was once obtainable in Green Bay purchases. It has also forced the Western dealer to all the lakeside manufacturing points in search of the better class of lumber, and brought about the more recent practice of going to the mills to buy stock. The jobbers are obliged to do this in order to secure lumber on which they can realize a profit. This has induced the manufacturers to classify and grade their lumber more closely than they once did, and place prices on the different qualities that will raise the value of mill run to the highest possible figure. Thus the opportunity of the dealer has been narrowed down till there is not much margin left for him to turn in.

All timber licenses for Canadian crown timber lands specify that no spruce or pine trees shall be cut, under any license, which will not make a log at least 18 feet in length and 10 inches in diameter at the small end, and that, if any such shall be cut, the logs shall be liable to double stumpage, and the license shall be forfeited. This regulation has not been strictly lived up to, but the crown land office has given public notice that it will hereafter be rigidly enforced, whether the trees are cut for pulp, staves, kiln wood, or whatever purpose. The government has an eye to a future supply.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

There are indications of the awakening of the fall demand. It is not yet so pronounced as a good many men in the lumber trade wish it were, but there is a slight increase in the shipments, considerable increase in the inquiry, and a very hopeful feeling throughout all the Western markets. The fact cannot be disguised, however, that trade during June and July was lighter than it usually is during those dull midsummer months. This circumstance can probably be attributed to the fact of the almost total cessation of the railroad demand, which in seasons during which railroad building is being done is felt with most vigor during the midsummer months, after the first grading has been completed, and the work of bridge building, etc., commences.

The shipments from Minneapolis this week were 3,735,000 feet against 3,975,000 feet last week and 6,480,000 feet the corresponding week last year. It is evident that Minneapolis is not slipping quite as much lumber in July 1889 as it did in July 1888.

This little difference of 2,745,000 feet in one week is a fair indication of the comparative volumes of trade for this month in the two years.

CANADA.

A Toronto journal says:

The timber business has been active at Quebec this season. A few days ago R. Booth's raft of square pine, of 65 feet average, good quality, was sold at 40¢. Skead sold a small lot of square and waney, principally waney, large average, at 43¢. Hale & Booth have sold two rafts of white pine at good prices. Nearly all the timber to arrive has been placed, and it is estimated the total quantity of white pine in the Quebec market this year will reach 10,000,000 cubic feet, being considerably in excess of the quantities in any of the four years. Oak 70 feet average. Michigan is quoted at 50¢.

Ottawa rafts changed hands at Quebec during last week at unprecedented figures. Robert Booth's Nipissing raft, containing 70,000 feet of square white pine, 62 feet average, and 21,000 feet wavy pine, 22 inches average, sold at 40¢ cents to Smith, Wade & Co. Edward Skead's raft, containing 33,000 feet of wavy pine, 21 inches average and 10,000 feet of square white pine, 46 feet average, sold at equal to 41¢ cents all round to the same firm. With every allowance for the fine quality of these parcels, such figures have never previously been paid for Ottawa rafts. Messrs. J. & G. Bryson also sold a parcel of large, average square white pine at 43 cents. Oak in the dram has been sold at 50 cents.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trades Journal as follows:

LONDON.

American Black Walnut.—The condition of this market has not changed much, but it is said the business doing for some time past has shown no increase in consumption. There is a good amount of stock on hand.

American Whitewood.—Better class lumber is in good demand, but inferior goods, of which there is a rather large stock here, move slowly, and can only be sold at low prices.

American Oak.—The tone of this market is more cheerful, but there is not a very great amount of business doing just now.

American Satin Walnut.—In this we can hear of but very little doing. The demand has become feeble and transactions less important. A fairly good parcel of logs has just arrived in the West India Docks,

LIVERPOOL.

American Black Walnut.—The importations have been in excess of the wants of the market, and sales have consequently been most difficult to make from the ship's side. Much of this has, however, arisen from the general poor quality of the wood, or from its small dimensions. Shipments of logs 18 inches or und r in average size should cease, or when the quality is poor, i. e. harsh in texture, twisted in grain, or imperfectly squared. The prices obtainable for such timber as this described can leave but very little for the shipper.

Perhaps the most important feature in the latest importations has been the large quantities of oak logs brought forward by steamer from New Orleans. This has been far beyond all possible requirements of the market. When the statistics at the end of the present month are issued it will be apparent to what an extent shippers have thrown all discretion to the winds. When we consider that the railway companies are by far the principal consumers of this wood, and that they are now largely and regularly supplied with scantling cut to special sizes, we are amazed at the fatuity which marks these operations. The market is simply glutted with oak, and in consequence most of it is unsalable, excepting at such prices as can leave little above freight and charges. Several parcels are being stored, and will go to swell the already heavy stocks on hand.

GLASGOW.

The oak market is not likely to improve for second quality stuff. There seems to be no difficulty in selling select parcels, but any improvement in price need not be expected so long as the American timber continues to be imported in the suitable form to which we are now accustomed, and which every year develops more and more. The second quality home produce is very sluggish in the market.

NAILS.—Demand is said to be good enough to maintain a seasonably average movement, and there is every evidence of a desire to make cheerful reports. An occasional hint, however, rather indicates that a fuller outlet might be accommodated without inconvenience, and that sellers would generally accept former rates. We quote at $1.85@1.90 per keg for car lots, and $1.95@2.00 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Fair animation is shown on calls from most regular outlets and a general assortment of stock wanted, with buyers making no objection to former cost. Leads, of course, are under perfect control, and most other leading articles seem to be managed well enough to prevent any surplus offering. Linseed Oil is within reach to the extent of all calls, but does not overrun and rules steady in price at 58@59¢ for Western, and 60@61¢ for City. Spirits Turpentine has not been very active, but sellers made no special effort to hasten trade and hold stock with much firmness. We quote at 40¢@42¢ per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Business has no special volume beyond such calls as may arise on regular trade wants and it is a dull market. Prices are called nominally unchanged, and holders of stock make no special effort to realize. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.45 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

No. 1,118

The daily papers of this city have, metaphorically speaking, thrown up their hats in approval of the Exposition committees which the Mayor has appointed. Undoubtedly the names selected are good ones; they are the names of men well known by everybody, and if we needed reception committees for any purpose, or names to preface an appeal for a citizen's meeting or anything of that kind, they would do admirably. But in this affair of the Exhibition, in which New York has at least two energetic rivals to cope with, something more than names is needed, and that something is hard workers. Under certain conditions Mr. Gould's name might possibly be a tower of strength to a financial enterprise, so might that of Mr. Huntington and many others to be found on the Mayor's list, but these gentlemen themselves would be the first to admit that better ones could have been chosen to do the hard planning and hard working that must be done if the quadricentennial Exposition is to be held in New York. Of course these remarks do not apply to the names of all the committeemen, but it does to a great many; and it is because the committees are committees of good names and not because they are committees of hard workers that the daily press applauds. The problem before us is entirely misunderstood if it is thought that all New York has to do to obtain the Exposition is to write down a number of well-known names of men who have little time to spare from their own affairs and display them before the country. It has already been stated in these columns that Washington has been at work for many weeks while New York scarcely thought of the Exposition, and has obtained the written support of the Governors of many States and the Mayors of several cities; and as to Chicago—well, a gentleman returning to New York from a visit in the Northwest passed through Chicago the other day and asked a friend "How about the Exposition?" "It's all settled," was the reply. "We have got it."

The week in Wall street has been a waiting one, with no decided manipulation from either bull or bear. A noticeable feature is the almost entire absence of foreign orders to buy our securities, with the exception of what little the German element may be doing in the Northern Pacific stocks. There is no reason to change anything which has been said in these columns for two weeks back, and, barring frosts and tight money, there is no danger in accumulating good stocks, particularly Northwest, Rock Island and Burlington. The West seems to have sufficient money, and is not likely to make any very urgent demand on the East for the moving of the crops or for any other cause. The reverse of the condition of the wheat crop of a year ago now exists. In August last wheat began rising in price, and the heavy frosts of the 12th of August, which did so much damage, was the signal for the speculators to begin the work which finally raised the price of a bushel of wheat to a point that prohibited export demand. This year we will ship largely—probably 70,000,000 bushels more than last year—and it is not rash to predict that very soon foreign exchanges will be largely in our favor. There is altogether too much money in the Treasury, and something must soon be done to restore a large part of this to its accustomed channels. So far Mr. Windom shows no more sense than any of his predecessors, but seems disposed to wait for actual stringency in the money market before he takes any steps to help it.

The sectional feeling that is being manifested as to what city shall be the site for the proposed World's Fair is producing an unpleasant exhibition of bad manners on the part of the daily press. Even the New York papers, which have lately been free from the full-flavored vituperation of provincial journalism, have embellished the controversy as to sites with epithets which must have made the rhetoricians in the Chicago and St. Louis editorial rooms feel that even in the effete East there were still some masters of a "live style." Seriously, however, nothing is to be gained by crying "windy city," "mushroom town," because some Chicago black-guard thinks he scores a point on New York by calling it "the rotten democratic town on Manhattan Island," or "the daughter of the horse-leech crying, 'Give, give!'" as the Chicago Tribune does. Let us frankly admit that Chicago is a marvellous and magnificent city, and that its claims deserve full consideration, as do those of Washington, New York and all other places where it is possible for the Exposition to be made a success. It is for New York to show that she can really do better than any other city in the Union. If she can't demonstrate that then she should have patriotism enough even to demand the selection of the better site. After all, the Exposition is to be a national affair, and the selfishness of no one city, State or section should be allowed for a moment to stand in the way of the vastly greater interests of the entire country.

It is a lamentable fact that from sweeping the gutters to the conduct of national affairs nothing of a governmental nature in this country can be kept free from the debasing influence of politics. In reading the consular reports, published since the beginning of the Harrison regime, it is curious to notice the complete change in the tone of the reports compared with what it was when Cleveland was in office. Then the statistics and facts sent to Washington were frequently given a twist in the direction of the economic principles of the ruling administration. With statistics as with French cooking the principal thing is the sauce, and a year ago our representatives abroad cooked their reports on Sheffield manufactures a la free trade, and their statements about the French currency came with a strong flavor of monometallism. Now it is all changed; and our consuls seldom lose an opportunity to show the efficacy of subsidies in building up a merchant marine and how essential protection and bimetalism are to the prosperity of a nation. It is plain that all this is principally "politics;" excursions into "political" economy which it would be much better were they not taken, as few of our consuls are men whose opinions on these matters are of very great value to anyone. There is quite enough of it in the partisan press to satisfy everyone. The Republican who finds that statistics cooked to suit his taste add a zest to existence can obtain them in the Tribune and the Press, and the Democrat has even a wider choice. Our consular service should be for the benefit of the entire nation; and the reports should not be used as the propaganda of the economic principles of any party.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker has incurred a good deal of criticism for his action in putting the government rate of compensation for its telegraphic services at one mill per word, but he is still more open to censure from his attitude since he issued the official order. A public servant that descends to controversy and explanation with a private individual through the newspapers about an act perpetrated in his official capacity cannot be regarded as a dignified governmental officer. An executive has a number of ways of justifying himself, in case any action of his is severely criticized, and still preserving his dignity. In Great Britain a personal explanation to the House is the best method; in this country a written communication to Congress, incorporated in his regular annual report, or, if it is of enough importance, in a special message to Congress, is sufficient and proper. But in no case should a Cabinet officer begin a controversy with a private citizen affected by his acts; his argument should be preserved for the President and Congress.

The dissension that is now disturbing the camp of the "Single-taxers" is such as sooner or later occurs in all "one man movements." The followers, or certain of them, run ahead of their leader; dissatisfaction ensues, and the chief who perhaps has learnt from the criticism of his opponents to be conservative, is charged with being a traitor bent upon taking his forces over to the enemy. As a matter of fact, it is the followers who have changed their position and not the leader. This is the situation in which Mr. George finds himself to-day. There is no reason for believing that he is forsaking his principles, or contemplates burning his books, lowering his Standard and coming out in defense of the sacred right of the individual to the unearned increment. We are sorry to see Mr. George "among the prophets," and the multitude of vendors of economic panaceas for the regeneration of Humanity, which are crying their wares in the market these days, but unfortunately there is little doubt that he is there, in the vulgar phrase, "to stay." The Pentecost wing of the single-taxers comprises the extremists of the party who object to have their enthusiasm fettered by prudence, and who disdain the common sense that dictates the advisability of going around a stone wall when it is impossible to climb it. If it were not disrespectful we should say they were the out-and-out cranks of the movements—men, who like the King of old, desire their prophet to curse them their enemies from all and every point of view. Mr. George has stated his position very clearly in the last two numbers of his paper, and not even those who oppose most bitterly his economic teachings have ever had any cause to charge him with not being entirely frank. It appears that some "single-taxers" are in favor of robbing the owner of real estate (in the name of taxation) of all the economic rent, whereas other single-taxers advocate taking a part only. Mr. George declares himself to be a thorough-paced robber, for he says: "I, too, would like to take the entire economic rent;" but, at the same time, he is quite willing to extend the hand of fellowship to those who won't go as far as he does, but like generous highwaymen, think enough should be left to their victims to take them safely home, perhaps for the same reason: that they may not starve on the way, and thus cease to be "opportunities." Both of the divisions are robbers, or, as Mr. George puts it, "single-taxers," and consequently he does not see the harm the Rev. Pentecost does in recognizing them as "honored co-workers." Single-tax men must see that Mr. George's position is the one that common sense dictates. He utilizes his entire forces; he increases his army without rendering it less effective to achieve the end in view. The controversy on his side has been most dignified; but for the "sake of the cause" it would have been better had it not occurred.

The success of the present Paris Exposition may prove of the greatest benefit to us, or it may prove the greatest drawback. One of the best of the many suggestions sent into the Mayor is that of Mr. Wiman, advising the instant seizure of the opportunity which the Paris Exposition affords to bring our own Fair to the knowledge of European business men. There are assembled in Paris at present one of the greatest crowds the world has ever seen gathered to inspect the industrial work of a most enthusiastic nation. Everybody there, both exhibitors and sight-seers, are possessed more or less with the Exposition fever; a better opportunity could not be found to reach the right people and interest them in our own Exposition. Arrangements should be made to receive in this country, immediately the Paris Exposition is over, any foreign exhibit which might be sent to us. In this way many very interesting exhibits could be obtained which otherwise would be lost to us, for they are so expensive to get up that many Europeans would not consider it worth while to make special preparations to send their specimens to a country whose whole fiscal system is founded on the idea that nothing should be bought abroad that could be bought at home. If two or three rich men want really to prove their disinterestedness, they could not do so more effectually than by volunteering to go abroad at their own expense, and there, with the aid of the Exhibition authorities, see that every exhibitor is well informed as to a certain Fair which New York, Congress being willing, is to hold in 1892.

In this way we can use the Paris Exposition; but we must not let it become our master. The committee or committees in charge of our own Fair will have the experience of a century behind them to help them in the work of organization and in the perfecting of details. But since many of the members of the different committees, as at present constituted, have been to Paris this summer, since the present Paris Exposition is the greatest ever held, and since our own Exhibition will aspire to the same distinction, there may be a tendency to make everything in our own Fair bigger than any similar thing in the French Exhibition. Now similarity, a virtue in peas, is a fault in Exhibitions, neither is a big pea so very much more worthy than a little pea. Because the Paris Exhibition covered four hundred acres, that constitutes no particular reason why our Exhibition must cover four hundred and one acres; or because Paris erected a tower a thousand feet high, that is no reason why New York should erect a tower a thousand and one feet high. An endeavor to get ahead of the French in mere size would be an inexcusable mistake, but an endeavor to get ahead of them on the line of artistic workmanship would be very advisable. Getting ahead in this latter case means difference, originality; getting ahead in the former case, would simply be servile imitation.

Consul Mason, of Marseilles, has sent a report to the government, which states that there is a growing sentiment in France, Germany and England in favor of restoring the bimetallic standard of currency. Sixteen years' experience of monometallism has resulted in an industrial situation which demands a remedy. This depression may not be due wholly to the demonetization of silver; but, according to Mr. Mason, it cannot be completely explained without recourse to the effects which must follow from so radical an alteration of the standard of value. This view is held by a numerous class of influential people, who will bring all the influence possible to bear on the monetary conference which is to assemble in Paris in September. Mr. Mason gives as evidence of this tendency in favor of the remonetization of silver the fact that in Germany 840 agricultural societies have petitioned for its accomplishment, and that during the early part of this year this appeal was seconded by a powerful contingent of landed proprietors. Mr. Mason finds further support for this view in the recent resolutions of Mr. Chaplin in the British House of Commons, as well as the frank declaration of Lord Salisbury in favor of an earnest participation by Great Britain in the forthcoming conference at Paris, and the outspoken attitude of such influential French journals as Le Moniteur des Interets Materiels and the Moniteur des Syndicats Agricoles.

Western Realty Mortgages.

A good deal has been written of late on the subject of Western loans, but much of it is so partisan either on one side or the other as to suggest "inspiration." On the part of small investors there has long been a growing distrust of stocks, railroad and other, as a source of safe and constant income. The agents of mortgage loan companies have taken advantage of this to push their wares in the Eastern markets, and with results not at all pleasing to those trying to dispose of stocks and bonds. We believe that it is quite generally admitted that in many of the Eastern cities the rate of interest has been very perceptibly stiffened if not raised by this process of raking together the small capitals and sending them to the West. The interests involved are so considerable that much of the "investigation" on the part of newspapers and others is undertaken, not to get the facts, but to prove a point. Bad crops for a series of three years in Western Kansas and excessive competition on the part of those anxious to place loans have also resulted in vexatious delays and serious losses, which leads even disinterested observers to regard Western securities with disfavor.

The number of companies and persons anxious to make loans in the West and to dispose of their securities in the East is past all estimate, but they can be grouped in three general classes. First, there is a man who acts merely as the agent of the Eastern money-lender, placing the loans for a commission but assuming no responsibility. A large majority of all the local attorneys and real estate agents throughout the West do more or less of this sort of business. It is obvious that lenders ought to have full assurance of the honesty and good judgment of such men before reposing any great confidence in them. Secondly, there are companies that loan money at their own risk, deposit the mortgages as collateral, and issue debenture bonds at a somewhat lower rate than their own loans are bringing. Thirdly, there are the regular loan and investment companies, big and little, that place loans from their own capital and then dispose of the original securities in the East, either with or without their added guarantee. Many of these companies keep regular traveling men on the road disposing of securities "by sample" the same as so much hardware.

There are wildcat loan companies as there used to be wildcat banks. They organize with little or no capital, push far out on to the frontier where the rate of interest is high and the value of the land uncertain, and thrive mightily so long as fortune—including the crops—is favorable, but in the end collapse, leaving investors with nothing but a tangled mass of claims that are profitable chiefly to the lawyers. Some entirely responsible companies, however, have steadily pursued the policy of moving West, not only to secure the high rate of interest, but because the rising value of land in new districts improves the security each year that the mortgage runs. Yet it must always be borne in mind that land values are much more liable to fluctuate in a new country than in an old one. Even a short series of bad crops may almost depopulate a new district and render the land unsalable for the time being. It must also be remembered that foreclosing is usually an expensive business at the West, and that the money-lender will do well to keep well up with the session laws of each State in which he operates. One of the largest and most conservative companies claims to have been obliged to foreclose only one mortgage in three hundred. To secure such results loans cannot be made for much more than 40 or 50 per cent. of a fair valuation of the land mortgaged.

The question as to whether the older West is lifting its load of debt or sinking under it cannot be certainly answered. The Commissioner of Labor Statistics of Michigan places the mortgage indebtedness on farms alone in that State at $64,392,580, and the annual interest charge at $4,636,265. He makes these statistics the basis of a demand for the taxation of non-resident mortgagees; a demand suggestive though foolish. By all odds the most thorough statistical study of this subject, the results of which have yet been published, is that conducted by John S. Lord, of the Illinois Bureau of Labor Statistics. He finds that in 1887 there were mortgages upon lands securing debts to the amount of $142,400,300; upon city lots $238,922,039; upon chattels to the amount of $20,730,779; or a total mortgage indebtedness of $402,053,118. The average rate of interest on the classes of loans was, respectively, 6.90+, 6.51+ and 7.82+ per cent. Of the mortgages on lands alone over $123,000,000 were on lands outside of Cook County. Of these $20,621,329 were for deferred payments, and $103,111,769 for loans. Farm mortgages cover about 20 per cent. of the total acreage of the State, but their total value equals only 10.5 per cent. of the total value of that acreage. The annual interest charge upon farm mortgages is over $8,000,000, which is nearly 12 per cent. of the annual product of the land encumbered. The ratio of increase in the mortgage encumbrance on farms between 1870 and 1880 was 21+ per cent., and that between 1850 and 1887 was 23+ per cent., which according to the best information obtainable is more than twice as much as the ratio of increase in the value of the land.

The facts stated by Mr. Lord are sufficiently startling, but like a good statistician he leaves them to tell their own story, and does not give an opinion as to whether the amount of indebtedness is greater than comports with the permanent prosperity of the State.

In so far as the matter concerns Eastern creditors rather than Western debtors our conclusion would be that well-placed Western loans are a secure and profitable investment, but that competition is sharp here as elsewhere, and that here as elsewhere no one can invest at random without danger of loss. Some States now have special legislation for mortgage-vending companies, similar to that for insurance companies, and that seems to be a wise step.

The incompleteness of the sewerage system of New York City becomes strikingly apparent to anyone going through those old portions of the city where the work of rebuilding is going on. A case in point is furnished at the corner of Avenue D and 10th street, on the east side, where some new buildings are in course of erection, and where the builder has been compelled to lay a private sewer of over 100 feet in length from the avenue to his new building in the street. This sewer is of extra heavy cast iron, and the laying of it was delayed considerably pending the securing of the necessary consent of property-owners in the street. It is needless to point out that it is a disgrace that there are any streets unsewered in this city south of 59th street. House-owners surely have the right to expect that they be not put to delay and expense because the municipality fails to perform one of its most important duties.

According to a dispatch to the Tribune, from Philadelphia, the Knights of Labor are on their last legs. The organization that started so prosperously, which was under the charge of an intelligent man who was far more than a demagogue, and which in the year 1886 possessed over 723,000 paid up members, has at present an estimated membership of less than 200,000, and is at the end of its financial resources. Its decline is ascribed to mismanagement, extravagant, ill-advised strikes and internal jealousies and dissension. One authority says: "My criticism is that at the headquarters of the Knights of Labor they should have just the same knowledge of conditions as the presidents of railroad corporations have. * * * They ought to have been able to know where it would be safe to take an aggressive attitude and where it would be necessary to assume the defensive, and not be knocked to pieces unawares by the combined onslaughts of capital." Such may have been and probably were the proximate reasons for the decline of the Knights of Labor, for certainly every time they put a foot forward it became entangled in a hole; but the ultimate cause lies deeper. The Knights of Labor are too heterogeneous an organization ever to be able to withstand adversity. Trades unions to be successful should be local affairs, organized in a particular trade, its members affected by the same conditions and actuated by the same interests. Mr. Powderly's organization was from its first conception an association of unskilled laborers derived from many different trades. Consequently it lacked cohesion. Its success could not be expected when even the most powerful trades of skilled craftsmen found it difficult to hold together.

Boston's increase in the assessed valuation of real estate from $764,452,600 in 1888 to $795,416,700 in 1889, or $30,965,600, is over $2,000,000 more absolutely than that of New York; and while by no means the largest increase which that city has seen, nevertheless compares very favorably with the average increase—that of 1888 over 1887 being only $16,000,000. The increase in many wards is due either to new buildings or to the changing of residence into business property. According to experts in that city the value of land itself has not increased materially. This rather large increment in assessed valuation, coming as it does on top of stories of heavy Boston losses in Western railways and copper mines, sounds somewhat peculiar; yet the former may very well be the direct result of the latter. No matter how much money was actually lost by individuals, still more was converted into cash in consequence of the declines in stock values. This capital sought reinvestment, and naturally turned to real estate. Boston has to thank her financial misfortunes for a number of handsome commercial properties which have been erected in the central wards in place of cheap and poor residence property.

An Agent's Duty.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

A broker is told to offer a house for sale at $100,000, and soon receives an offer of $75,000 for it. He submits it by letter to the owner, who is out of town, and in due course receives a reply accepting the offer, but before notifying the proposed purchaser of its acceptance another party appears and tells him he will buy the house at the price named, $100,000. What should the broker do?

I make the inquiry because a case precisely identical to this recently came within my experience.

REAL ESTATE.

It is the duty of the agent to present the offer of $100,000 and not to deliver the acceptance of the $75,000 offer. It is his duty to obtain the best price for his principal, and the acceptance of the $75,000 not having been communicated to the bidder so as to be binding on the principal, it is in the same position so far as the agent is concerned as if not acted upon by the principal, and the better offer being presented, the agent would not fulfill his obligation to his principal if he acted in such a manner as to prevent the principal from obtaining the benefit of it.

Our Impartial Observer.—Divorces and Divorce Legislation.

Recent occurrences have brought into current discussion the perennial subject of divorce. A certain well-known manager at the outset of his career used to recommend his dramas to the public by advertising that they were of "contemporaneous human interest." It seems as if divorce as a topic would never lose its freshness, but that generation after generation might come upon the scene and find the discussion still in progress. Between the no-divorce for any cause of South Carolina and divorce for every and no cause of Wyoming Territory and the various intermediate conditions of divorce legislation in the different States there is a wide field for choice, and probably every intelligent person has an opinion of his own on the whole subject. So that all the conditions are present which could serve to create a delightful contrariety of judgment. The recent heated debate over "Marriage as a Failure" in England, of which only faint reverberations reached this country, showed what vast possibilities these social subjects still contain when considered from new points of views.

It was because the feminine side of the question was first presented with intelligence that the English discussion possessed an altogether surprising degree of novelty. The two subjects are necessarily allied, and it is perhaps necessary to first discover whether marriage is a failure, and why, before we can ascertain whether divorce is likely to be a successful remedy. I suppose the observation of almost every person of middle age would be that the marriage relation among his acquaintances was continually becoming a burden more grievously endured. Within my own acquaintances I have been repeatedly made a confidant of by married persons who have assured me that death itself would be a happy relief from the uncongenial yoke which they had imposed upon themselves. I have not found that these persons desired to make new alliances, but merely to free themselves from the shackles of a slavery which was making this world a dungeon to them. Even in cases where the yoke of marriage was not so heavily worn, the condition of most married persons seems to me not to be much better than a mere passive toleration of each other. Too many persons have assured me of an experience with their acquaintances similar to my own to permit me to consider it exceptional. These are the kind of facts which those must face who advocate the application of the stringent marriage laws of New York to the entire United States by means of a constitutional amendment and a national divorce law. Like many other worthy people who would legislate men into a condition corresponding to a condition which seems to them ideal, they leave out of calculation the very kernel of the problem; humanity as it is. These are the kind of persons through whose instrumentality sentimental legislation is continually enacting in the State Capitols, which never is nor can be enforced, and only serves to bring statute law into contempt. Any competent lawyer who is conversant with the facts could give reasons with regard to the practical operation of the stringent divorce law of the State of New York which would satisfactorily demonstrate that it is the cause of more real immorality than takes place in the so-called loosest divorce State in the Union. The practical result is, that in but a very small proportion of the cases in which divorce decrees are obtained in New York is the statutory offense really committed, but the courts having laid down certain rules from which the judges are allowed to infer the fact of the offense, the parties by collusion and consent always produce sufficient evidence in degree and quantity to justify a referee in finding and a court in confirming a decree of divorce.

That this is the history of most of the divorces in New York is the opinion of the most competent legal observers. The result is that though absolute divorces (on the statute book) are granted but for one cause in fact the law is that they are obtained "for evidence sufficient to justify a referee in finding the statutory fact."

Men and women are thus forced by the laws of their State to brand themselves with the name of an offense which they have not committed in order to escape from a condition worse than the ignominy and shame which is the alternative thus forced upon them "in the interests of morality." Is it not time that this humbug was exposed and that divorce legislation in New York should be made to correspond with the admitted facts of modern society, and of the relationship of men and women as they exist to-day?

Nothing is to be gained in the interest of genuine morality by attempting to impose a purely ecclesiastical conception of indissoluble marriage upon the statute books of a modern State, nor will anything be lost by endeavoring to make legislation correspond to the nature of human beings, as it has been modified by the development of a complex form of society, and above all by the immense impetus which modern life has given to the intellectual advancement of woman.

Pantanthropologous.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The New York Sun refers to the proposed Exposition in 1892 as a Pan-American Exposition. I for my part fail to see the justice of so limited a scope of the exhibit. It was America which was discovered in 1492, but it was Europe that did the discovering. Surely it is the whole family that should rejoice on the birthday of such a promising pair of twins as the two Americas. I do not know how far the European countries would be willing to join us in this matter; but, at all events, if there is to be any Exposition, some effort should be made to bring them in. It does not bear upon the matter at all that the twins asserted their independence when they reached maturity. They have their mother's blood in them, and no distinction in nationality can blot it out. The Exposition should not be Pan-American, it should be (to coin a word) pantanthropologous—a festival of mankind.

P. T. L.

Erastus Wiman on the World's Fair.

THE BEST SITE, IN HIS OPINION, FOR THE EXPOSITION.

Erastus Wiman, who has just returned from Europe, seems to have given the question of the World's Fair some consideration, resulting from his visit to the Paris Exposition. In his recent letter to the Mayor he makes an admirable suggestion, that the Asiatic and African and Oriental exhibits at Paris should be secured for the American Exhibition prior to their being scattered. The idea is a good one, and, no doubt, Mr. Wiman's suggestion will be followed. In view of his prominence as a man of affairs and the likelihood of his having some practical opinions to give regarding the enterprise, we have interviewed him with the following result:

"It is difficult to conceive," said Mr. Wiman, "what event in the future career of this country is likely to have a greater influence than a successful World's Fair in America. Public attention abroad has of late been very much diverted to the progressive and prosperous condition of this great Union of Commonwealths. The Centenary of Washington had a marked effect in this direction. Thinking men all over the world realize from its celebration, more than ever before, how successful had been the republican experiment on the vast scale demonstrated here. The rapid development of natural resources, the constant flow of immigration, the great growth in the wealth of the people, the steady reduction of the public debt, the great surplus which is one of the embarrassments of the government, the political contentment of the people, the successful assimilation of all sorts and conditions of men which has been going on now for a hundred years, are all elements of interest and wonder to Europeans. To England especially this unity is assuming a nearness and an interest never before entertained. This is especially shown in the large investments which are being made in our industrial enterprises, in default of profit in railroad securities. The accumulations of capital in Great Britain at this time are excessive, and promise to continue to be so. England is levying tribute from all the world in the shape of interest, while the United States are levying tribute in the shape of people. An illustration is found even on this side of the sea of this, in the case of my native country—Canada. There are $650,000,000 invested in Canada by English capitalists. At from 4 to 5 per cent., this means a contribution in the shape of interest to Great Britain of $30,000,000 a year, an amount almost equal the entire wheat surplus of the Dominion. So that the Canadian farmers are, in a sense, working principally for England. At the same time, 20 per cent. of the population of Canada have come to the United States, and over a million out of six millions are employed to advantage here. So far as interest is concerned, half the world seems to be working for Great Britain, while the population even of Great Britain itself, and its dependencies and half the world beside, send contributions of bone and sinew in this direction. It is natural therefore to find that where population is increasing, money can be employed profitably; while, where population is stationary or diminishing, it cannot be expected to earn large interest. A great Exhibition here will be an object lesson to the capitalists of Great Britain and to the rest of the world of great value. It will be at once an illustration of the stability and progress of our industries, and the safety of our simple governmental institutions. It will open up to them prospects for the employment of moneys in a way not before dreamed of. When such concerns as the Eastman abattoir for the supply of meat, the Otis Steel Company of Cleveland, the Elgin Watch Company of Illinois, the patent leather industries of Newark, the entire salt interests of this continent and other similar enterprises can be absorbed readily in England, it is but the evident commencement of a trend of British capital to this continent based upon industrial securities sent from here, that will have a very large impetus as the result of the Exhibition.

"In answer to your question as to my opinion as to the best site for the Exposition, it would hardly be expected of me to urge any other place than Staten Island. I know a smile will brighten the face of your reader when that is urged, because, up to a recent period, Staten Island has been regarded as the most isolated and insignificant of the suburbs of this great city. But with all due respect to ancient opinion, I think even I may be permitted to say that things have greatly changed. It can now be safely affirmed that of all localities about New York, likely to be considered as sites for the World's Fair, Staten Island possesses the greatest advantages. If I do not prove this to your entire satisfaction I shall be quite content to take a back seat. In the first place, it is nearest to the centre of New York; it has a larger space of available land for the Exhibition, and that land more accessible by sea and rail than any other point within the same distance. Draw a circle of ten miles from the City Hall with a compass, and it will include a greater area of available space on Staten Island, suitable for this purpose than can be found anywhere else. By the construction of the Arthur Kill Bridge, now completed, it is the only available Exhibition point within the State of New York that is rendered accessible by all the railways from the South and West, as they converge in New Jersey on their way to New York. The centres of densest population in the Union are nearer Staten Island, and can get an easier access to-day to that point than at any other of the proposed sites for the Exhibition. Philadelphia, Washington, Richmond and all the Southern cities; Cincinnati, St. Louis, Louisville and all the Southwest; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and all the Northwest, can get to Staten Island more easily and with less inconvenience and less wear and tear than to any other Eastern point. Exhibits of all kinds could be landed without breaking bulk by every railroad in the West and South. Then the place is more easily accessible for European contributions than any other. The deep water of the upper bay is available for the largest craft. Inasmuch as the sites of the Exhibition could be right on the shores of this bay, with the amplest dock accommodation, it would seem as if it were impossible to conceive of a place more accessible by land and by water. There is most fortunately a site, all ready for the purpose, and most beautifully adapted to it within thirty minutes of the Battery. This property is known as Fox Hill, and comprises about 500 acres of the uplands of Clifton, approachable from the sea by two fine squares within Pennsylvania and Virginia avenues, broadening up thence to a space two or three times as large as that occupied by the Paris exhibition. Though it is not a level expanse, yet its formation is so picturesque that it would add greatly to the attractiveness of the Exhibition grounds. This land is visible from the Battery. The hill which surmounts it, called Strawberry Hill, was the point on which the Semaphore system was used to signal the arrival of ships directly to the Barge office on the Battery, you will realize from this how near the location is to the city.

"It is needless to point out the advantages of the Battery as a central point of departure. As the terminus of the Elevated Railway system, of the Belt lines, of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroads, and of the chief Brooklyn ferries, it may be called the pivotal point of North America. The present means of communication between the Battery and Staten Island are greater than those enjoyed by any other point in the country, and, though it may excite a doubt in the minds of your readers, I make this statement that the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway Company can handle comfortably within a given space of time more people than any other organization in the world. We are now carrying from 40,000 to 50,000 people a day, and with facilities increased as they can be there is no reason why we should not transport 150,000 to 200,000 per day with ease, which is as great a crowd as the Paris Exhibition attracts. But the transportation of crowds to the Fair should not be left in the hands of any one organization, even though present facilities were quadrupled, and they dispatched five minute boats. Should it be decided to locate the Exhibition on Staten Island, the city might forego for a year their percentage of receipts under the ferry franchise, which is now being paid to the extent of $50,000 a year, on condition that we of the Staten Island ferries yielded to all others the same rights that we now enjoy. The result would be that from the end of every pier in the city a line of boats might be run, and as ample dock accommodation could be afforded on the island, the means of transportation would be enormous, far exceeding those of any combination of railroads possible at any other point. Think for an instant, a train of ten cars will carry about a thousand people, while the Robert Garrett and the Erastus Wiman, running within five minutes of each other, could carry with comfort 5,000 people. With these boats duplicated, and the fullest facilities afforded from the East and North Rivers and from Brooklyn, with steamboat traffic from Boston and the coast generally, supplemented by arrivals by rail from every trunk and local line through Jersey, there is no comparison possible in favor of any other point as against Staten Island for transportation. Nature has provided means of communication, which, supplemented by the energy of man, make it the point of all others to which large aggregations of people can be moved with ease, rapidity and comfort. A universal ten cent fare would render the place cheaply accessible from the cities to all without change or delay.

"Of course I know it will be said that this would be a removal from the centre of hotel accommodation which this city affords. This argument cannot be used with any greater force against Staten Island than against any other point. Union square is the focus of hotel accommodation, yet Staten Island is more accessible from it than any other point proposed and at all available. Another very important consideration is that the buildings here could be made permanent, because of their accessibility. Such a thing as the Crystal Palace, advocated in to-day's papers, would have a chance of success at Staten Island, while if it were in some remote place in Westchester County it would be just money thrown away, so far as the chance of profit is concerned.

"There are 700 feet of water front under my control immediately adjoining the proposed site, the free use of which will be most gladly granted to the committee, while the use of the lands can be had for a mere bagatelle, indeed probably without any charge or cost whatever. Before other places are decided upon the claims of Staten Island should be considered without prejudice, and in view of its great attractiveness and accessibility."

The Way to Advance Property.

Wm. Buhler, Jr., purchased a plot of six lots on the northwest corner of 2d avenue and 99th street, with tenements thereon, last June, from Builder Henry Chenoweth at $174,000. During the past week Mr. Buhler transferred the same property to Alex. Hess at $200,000. Mr. Hess in turn reconveyed the property in two parcels to Amanda M. De Graaf at $208,000. At the same time Henry P. De Graaf transfers to Mr. Hess several parcels on Lexington avenue, West 16th, 60th and 61st streets, for a total of $251,000, and Mr. Hess simultaneously turns over to Mr. Buhler at $261,000 the property acquired from Mr. De Graaf at $251,000. Mr. Hess's name frequently appears in transactions where Mr. Buhler is really the principal, which fact explains the transfers under review.

Property in Demand.

There is a good demand for lots in the neighborhood of Bleecker and Greene streets, where there is quite a building movement under way. Prices realized for lots are high and continually advancing. Only a few weeks ago we chronicled the sale of a plot of two lots on the northwest corner of Bleecker and Greene streets, by the Witthaus estate, at $50,000 each. They were subsequently resold, with a building loan, at $62,500 each. The lots are now being improved by the erection of a substantial stone building. More recently, a lot on Greene street, No. 200½, changed hands at $29,000, and last week was resold, with an adjoining lot, at $31,250 each. When lots bring such handsome figures it indicates that the district is a desirable one for business, and from present appearances it seems that the next few months will witness an increase in sales followed by quite a building movement.

Among the down-town streets where property is firmly held is Park row, and a search of the files of THE RECORD AND GUIDE shows that transfers of property on that street are few and far between. It will therefore interest our readers to know that the latest sale was No. 122, near Duane street, a four-story store and tenement with extra deep lot. The figure at which it changed hands was $45,000.

Our Letter Bag—The Site for the Exposition.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

I have read with great interest the article in your issue of August 10th, entitled "What Site Shall be Selected?" and would be pleased if you would allow me, as one familiar with the land in lower Westchester County and in the upper part of the 24th Ward, to offer a few suggestions.

Central Park as a site for the proposed World's Fair is obviously out of the question, as it does not afford sufficient ground, and as popular sentiment is opposed to its use for this purpose. Of the other sites under consideration, there are but three, that are by reason of their location, accessibility, etc., well adapted for the Exposition, namely, the unimproved property, near Inwood, extending nearly up to Spuyten Duyvil Creek, Pelham Bay Park, and Van Cortlandt Park. Let us consider the desirability of each. The first has the advantage of being on New York island, and is nearer to the heart of the city than either of the others. That part of it known as Dyckman's Meadows is comparatively level, and has a frontage on the Harlem River—which will be transformed into a canal by the year 1892—thus being accessible by water. It can be reached by the 30th street branch of the Hudson River Railroad to Inwood, or by the Hudson River Railroad from Grand Central station, or New York & Northern Railroad to Fordham Heights, thence by a bridge to be built for the purpose over the Harlem direct to the grounds. However, the ground is swampy in places, and would have to be filled in. But the greatest disadvantages to this location as a site are that there is not sufficient ground, and that the land is owned by a large number of individuals. Property in this location is also very valuable. Pelham Bay Park, while possessing beautiful scenery, a fine water front, and being topographically well adapted for a site, is out of the city limits and accessible by but one railroad and boat via the East River. The latter would be a delightful way of going to and from the Exposition during the summer months, but has two serious drawbacks—first the fleet of boats would have to be so large that navigation of the tortuous and narrow East River would become difficult if not dangerous; second, the cross-town car lines would be totally incapable of transporting passengers to the steamboat docks. In this site, also, it would be almost impossible to procure an adequate supply of fresh water for boilers, cleansing purposes, fountains, etc., and this is a very important consideration in the selection of a site. I think that it will be admitted that the proper site for the Exposition should be one of the city's parks, leased for the purpose for a nominal consideration, or given free by act of Legislature, and if a site can thus be secured, why spend a million dollars or so when all the money that can be raised will be needed for buildings and improvements? As a site to be secured at or near Inwood would probably have to be purchased, or at all events leased at a considerable rental, this locality is not desirable, if a site in a public park can be secured free, or for a small rental, and as I have already stated why Pelham Bay Park is disadvantageous, there remains but one location to advocate, viz.: Van Cortlandt Park, and for the following reasons:

It is within the city limits and there is sufficient ground for the purpose, there being four to five hundred acres in the lower part alone of well-diversified and picturesque land, yet well adapted for buildings of all descriptions. A pretty lake of considerable extent lends attractiveness to the site, and would be a source of supply of water for steam and cleansing purposes. The old and new aqueducts run through the park on elevated ground and an abundance of pure water could thus be procured at natural pressure. The question of water supply is a very important one, and has been overlooked by other advocates of particular sites. As a vast amount will be consumed it is necessary to have a good supply conveniently at hand.

RAILROAD FACILITIES.—It is accessible by various means, as follows: By the New York & Northern Railroad, connecting with the Sixth and Ninth Avenue Elevated systems at 155th street, direct to the grounds. By the Hudson River Railroad, from Grand Central station, the nearest station now being Kingsbridge, three quarters of a mile below the grounds. From there a spur could be built direct to them. By the New York, New Haven & Hudson River and the Harlem railroads to Williamsbridge, which is but a short half-mile east of the park.

In the selection of a site it should be borne in mind that one should be chosen that is easily accessible, not only from this city, but from all directions, as it must be remembered that a great number—perhaps the majority—of visitors to the Exposition will be the residents and their guests of Brooklyn and Jersey City, and the villages and towns in nearby New Jersey, Connecticut, Long Island and Staten Island, and Westchester and Putnam Counties, and the railroads mentioned afford a convenient means of transit. Van Cortlandt Park is also within driving distance of the city proper by way of good roads leading to it on either side of the Harlem River.

WATER FACILITIES.—While Van Cortlandt Park has no direct water front, it is sufficiently near deep water to permit of heavy machinery and merchandise being transhipped from steamers by way of a short railroad line. The Harlem Ship Canal, now in process of construction, will, in all probability, be completed by 1892, and goods may reach the park by transfer to the New York & Northern or Hudson River Railroad at Highbridge or Kingsbridge. In the Hudson River, at Spuyten Duyvil, wharves could be constructed at which steamers of heavy draught could land, and the goods transported via Hudson River Railroad to the park. Doubtless the railroad would be willing to share a part of the expense of building such wharves, as it would be immensely benefited by the same. This point is about one mile and a-half distance from the park, and is the junction of the Spuyten Duyvil and Port Morris branch with the main line. At Yonkers there is deep water and ample dockage; thence goods could be drayed direct to the grounds over good macadamized roads, or visitors could be landed in the grounds via the Yonkers Rapid Transit, from Getty Square station, which is but a short distance from the wharves and the Hudson River Railroad station.

Steamboats from this city, Jersey City, Brooklyn, Staten Island, cities and towns along the Sound, Jersey coast and Hudson River could land their passengers within a short distance of the Exposition—in no case over two miles—at the points above mentioned, whence the grounds could be reached by rail or stage, or by a pleasant walk over good roads and through a beautiful country direct to the gates.

Van Cortlandt Park has this advantage over other proposed sites—it having been shown to possess both rail and water facilities—the various lines of railroads and steamboats would each have an equal chance of profiting by the Exposition without favor being shown to any. This is a fact that is not applicable to the other proposed sites.

PROXIMITY TO YONKERS.—As Mr. Jardine has stated, the proximity of Van Cortlandt Park to Yonkers should be another argument in its favor as a site, as hotel accommodations of New York would be totally inadequate, and Yonkers could supply comfortable quarters to a portion of the vast multitude of visitors to the Exposition. J. B. JAMES, JR.

There will be more controversy over the selection of a site for the coming Exhibition than over any other matter in connection with the undertaking. We can all put our finger on the "most suitable spot" for the buildings, just as Mr. James does; but the difficult and essential matter is to get other people to agree with us. At the present stage of the proceedings it is almost impossible for anyone to propose a site without incurring the suspicion that he has an axe that needs sharpening. However, the Committee on Sites appointed by Mayor Grant merits the confidence not only of New York, but of the entire country, and there is no doubt the spot they select will be the best that is available in the city. Mr. James sets forth the advantages of Van Cortlandt Park very clearly; but he is likely to arouse the ire of the advocates of Pelham Bay Park, by saying that it is "out of the city limits," and not even the sop he throws to Cerebus by complimenting its "beautiful scenery" and "fine water front" is likely to atone for the mistake.

Jersey City News.

The Board of Finance have been petitioned by about one hundred citizens to purchase land on the Hackensack River at Broadway, and to build thereon a public dock for commercial purposes and to accommodate and encourage manufacturers. The improvement is much needed. The Board of Finance are empowered by an Act of the Legislature to issue bonds to an amount not exceeding $100,000 to pay for the lands and to make the docks accessible. The signers to the petition represent all the important interests in the city. They wish to profit by the experience of the past and secure a portion of this fine water front on the Hackensack River while it can be obtained, before it passes into the possession of railroad corporations. The water front on the Hudson River has been entirely absorbed by corporations—Jersey City has but one public dock at present. The waters of the Hackensack River are of sufficient depth to accommodate large vessels at bulkheads extending 20 feet from the present shore line, and the cost of construction of bulkheads and docks would be less than at any other river frontage in the vicinity of New York.

Messrs. Dodge & Co., lumber dealers, have a bulkhead extending 550 feet along the river and have removed their business from the Hudson River to the Hackensack River.

Messrs. Hall & Co., dealers in masons' materials, have a bulkhead 200 feet long just completed. Many dealers and manufacturers would avail themselves of the privileges and conveniences of a public dock and locate on the west side of the city, where land is selling at low prices.

Many public improvements are projected on the west side of Jersey City which are certainly calculated to add materially to the prosperity of its western slope. The West Side Connecting Railroad is now engaged in obtaining rights of way, and the work of construction will be commenced in a few months. This railroad will connect with every railroad that has a terminus in Hudson County. The charter was secured for the purpose of developing the lands, which are admirably adapted for manufactories and will afford facilities, by means of switches turned into the lands, wherever required, to have coal and other materials delivered in the yards of the manufacturers, and the products of the factories can be loaded on the cars and shipped to any point on the American continent without breaking bulk.

Three main sewers are to be constructed between the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Newark Plank road, extending from West Side avenue to the Hackensack River.

The rights of way have nearly all been secured for an elevated railway from the New Jersey Central Railroad to the West Side avenue, near the Hackensack River.

The Jersey City & Bergen Railroad Company are now extending their tracks to West Side avenue. These new lines of railroad will open up a beautiful section of the city for residence purposes.

Jersey City has been slow to avail itself of its many natural advantages; the population has increased, however, in a larger ratio during the past ten years than any other place in the vicinity of the great metropolis.

An Advance of 80 Per Cent. in Ten Days.

Last week the official filings showed that nine lots comprising the easterly front on 10th avenue, between 130th and 131st streets, with an extra lot on the latter street, had changed hands at $50,000. The seller was Henry Neustadter and the buyer Jacob Vorhaus. According to last week's reported sales Mr. Vorhaus has resold these lots to Builder T. F. Malony for $90,000, an advance of $40,000 or 80 per cent. in less than ten days. This is all the more remarkable when it is known that only $5,000 was paid on the lots by Mr. Vorhaus.

The Health Board is to have an inspection made of the water tanks in apartment houses to see if they are kept properly clean.

A Unique Suburb.

WHERE A LARGE PART OF NEW YORK'S POPULATION GRAVITATES TO—THOUGHTS FOR REAL ESTATE INVESTORS.

I have often wondered why so many New York real estate dealers and investors have confined their purchases strictly to property within the confines of the metropolis. The motive which prompts every man to invest his capital is the tolerable certainty that he will not suffer a loss and the probability that he will make a fair profit on his transaction. It can, therefore, be of little importance to him whether he invests in one place or another, provided that his money is safely placed and the realization of a profit only a matter of time. Now, I am bound to make a qualification to this by saying that it may, in many cases, be eminently desirable that the investor shall place his money in real estate which he knows he can obtain a ready market for, should inclination or necessity impel him to dispose of it, and that, too, without loss, if not at a profit. But there are so many buyers in the market on the qui vive for something good in New York realty that numbers are crowded out of the race for choice parcels, while in nearly every case the palatable morsels are secured at a figure which makes profit doubtful, and which gives but a small return on the expenditure made. Such, indeed, is the case with property nearly all over Manhattan Island.

Now let us get outside of ourselves for a moment, and let us ask, is the population of New York not increasing in wonderful numbers, and is not Manhattan Island being filled up with houses so quickly that within a decade or two there will scarcely be a vacant lot south of 125th street on either the east or west side for residence purposes? Where is the surplus population to go? Many will be forced to live in the 23d and 24th Wards, and many even beyond that—in Yonkers, Mount Vernon and other places in Westchester County. But there is an immense stretch of territory which is geographically situated so close to the very heart and the business centre of New York that it is bound to be a powerful competitor to the sections north of 100th street. That territory is New Utrecht, Long Island. Brooklyn has already taken away from the metropolis tens of thousands of citizens whose daily business occupations are in New York City, and other parts of Long Island have taken their thousands away from the great metropolis of the Western Hemisphere. There must be a strong reason for this. What is it?

Well, first of all this community is composed for the main part of people who cannot afford to pay the rents prevailing in New York City. These people have been driven away to Long Island, New Jersey and elsewhere because those parts were thinly inhabited, and because rents there were cheap and the price of land low. Out of the three millions of people who live in New York and its surrounding cities and towns, and who have business affiliations directly or indirectly with the metropolis, probably more than one-half belong to that class who pay a rental not exceeding $500 per annum. It is difficult to find a house in New York City which will rent for that sum, and people are therefore obliged to live in flats or tenements, with their often objectionable features, or betake themselves to the towns and villages outside of New York near to the business centre of the city. This exodus of New Yorkers has been taking place for years past, and the more people have come to find out that sea air and green fields, with their attendant health and strength, can be had within easy distance of New York City, combined with better accommodations at much lower rents, the more they have hailed with thankfulness the opportunity thus afforded them of getting away from the crowded city to the balmy breezes of the country air, whether by sea or land.

Now all this points an important moral to the investor, whether he be a large real estate operator or a small buyer. It is clear—and the statistics show it—that our suburban towns and villages are increasing in population in a remarkable degree, and unquestionably from the very causes which I have enumerated. They are so going to increase in population, for ground can be purchased there for almost a bagatelle, while frame cottages, which cannot be built within the fire limits of New York, can there be erected, and homes consequently built, for a few thousands of dollars, rents being proportionately low. Let the city real estate investor cast his eye at some of the places where immense wealth has been acquired within a comparatively few years outside of the city. Let him look at Long Branch, Asbury Park, Far Rockaway, Bath Beach and other places, and note what fortunes have been made in suburban properties.

And this leads me to speak directly of a suburban retreat, less than seven miles from Wall street, which has attracted considerable attention of late. It is situated on the Long Island water front, and the vast expanse of the Atlantic Ocean, with its passing craft of every description, affords a pleasant vista from its shores. I want to speak of it, from a real estate point of view, as an example of prescience, of wonderful ability, and of great courage on the part of one man. This gentleman, who purchased nearly a square mile of ground from those whom it was more difficult to buy than from any other class of men around New York City—the historic Long Island families—has created a veritable oasis out of the trees and fields that stood there but a short few years ago, until they are now transformed into a select and model settlement, where some of the most refined, intelligent and cultured of New York and Brooklyn's citizens have built their homes, recognizing that in the beauty of its streets, the restrictions of its ground and the securing of the water front as a park, they are assured of a centre which is unsurpassed for residence purposes, within the same radius of Wall street, anywhere outside of New York City. The place I speak of is Bensonhurst, generally known as Bensonhurst-by-the-Sea.

Now, I had heard for many months about Bensonhurst before I went to look at it in propria persona. I had seen it advertised in all the papers, on the elevated roads, and in all sorts of conceivable places. I had a sort of hazy impression that Bensonhurst was being boomed like a great many other places around New York City. But when I inquired about it, and found who was behind the improvement, I felt that there must be something to the attractive stories told about it, for I knew something of the remarkable success which the owner had previously made in creating localities in Brooklyn, Chicago and elsewhere, and I instinctively felt that the place was worth investigating. So I took a journey to Bensonhurst-by-the-Sea. I went with a sort of misgiving about the advertised descriptions. I can only say that I was surprised beyond measure at what I saw, and that I had no conception that one man could create such a metamorphosis in so short a time.

I started with the one o'clock boat from the Thirty-ninth Street Ferry, at the foot of Whitehall street. I found the boat comfortable and took a seat on the hurricane deck on a delightfully cosy camp chair with a back to it. It was a scorching day, and there was about 90 per cent. of humidity in the air. I enjoyed the sail immensely, and though I left New York in a warm perspiration I arrived at the Thirty-ninth Street Ferry, on the Long Island side, almost as cool as the proverbial cucumber, after a twenty minutes' sail by the watch. Here I found a handsome new depot, with open steam cars. I jumped into one of the seats and enjoyed a deliciously cool and breezy ride to Bensonhurst, arriving there quite refreshed after the heat of the city, the journey taking twenty-one minutes.

On arriving at Bensonhurst I found a pretty depot, surrounded by flowers. The boundary line between Bensonhurst and Bath Beach, which it adjoins, need not be pointed out to the visitor. It is as clear as though Nature had marked it out. One seems to have emerged from chaos and entered into order. Design showed itself everywhere, the design of a brain which had evolved the picturesque street and avenue from out of the picturesque lane and field. I found eight miles of streets made, sixteen miles of fences built, ten miles of sewers being laid, the streets lighted, water mains supplied, thousands of shade trees and shrubs of different colors planted, and, to crown all, some thirty handsome villas, ranging in value from $3,000 to $15,000 each, including the ground. I inquired as to who were the owners of these homes and who resided in them, and I learned that not a few of them were known to many New Yorkers and Brooklynites, among them being Benj. P. Kissam, a brother of Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt; the Hon. D. W. Tallmadge; Chas. F. Wingate, the well-known sanitary engineer; Assemblyman Jas. P. Graham; Joseph Elliot, Jr., one of the officials in the New York General Post-office; Walter E. Parfitt, the architect; O. E. Treadwell, of The Lawyers' Title Insurance Company; ex-Judge Cornelius Furgueson; S. H. McElroy, who surveyed the whole of Kings County, and Chas. Sylvester, who sold his residence on Madison avenue, New York, to come to Bensonhurst to reside. Among the neighbors is Dr. S. Fleet Speir, a physician of high repute, who has lived there for some twenty years, and who has built a sanitarium adjoining his house, where he brings his wealthy patients from all parts, recommending to them the air of Bensonhurst as a restorer of health and nerve force. The owner's idea is to eventually settle the place with a thousand such families, cultivated and well-to-do, without displaying wealth or extravagance, and his purchase of the Benson property and the adjoining six farms, which now comprise Bensonhurst, is said to be the result of a long-matured plan to create just such a settlement as this.

At the depot I found a number of well-dressed and evidently well-to-do people, who had come to see the property in response to advertisements in the newspapers. I got into a carriage with one of the parties and was driven around the estate. I found that the roadways were finely built, and I noticed that the footwalks were of a character different to anything I had ever seen. They were made of limestone in three layers, the first layer being three inches deep of one-inch stones, the second three inches deep of half-inch stones and the top layer three inches of finely-crushed limestone, which formed a species of macadamized gravel sidewalk. I found every villa in the place of a modern character, each being of different design. Even the very village store had a picturesque exterior, so that any one with any architectural taste finds it pleasant to the eye to dwell on the buildings. There is, indeed, everything to please the senses at Bensonhurst, and I have been thinking whether there was any objection which I could raise to the place, but there is none, unless it be that it is not situated in New York City itself. But then I reflected that it took me less time to get to Bensonhurst from lower Broadway than it takes for tens of thousands of people to get from there to 100th street and beyond. I inwardly asked myself whether I would like to live in this Arcadia, forty-five minutes away from business, or whether I would prefer Harlem, which was anywhere from thirty-five to fifty-five minutes from my office, and I unhesitatingly made a mental decision in favor of Bensonhurst-by-the-Sea.

Upon inquiry I found that the Thirty-ninth Street Ferry was not the only way to reach this newly-created oasis. The 5th avenue elevated railway of Brooklyn will in a few days be connected with it, making the journey from the Brooklyn Bridge in thirty-five minutes. Other roads are projected.

The secret of the rapid success of Bensonhurst is not only found in the handsome character in which the streets and avenues have been laid out by the owner—who has all the wealth necessary to carry out his plans—but in the restrictions which have been placed on the property. On the greater part no house must stand on less than three lots, and in some places five lots, while in several cases an entire block is occupied by a single residence. On parts of the property private stables may be built, but on others none are allowed. The owner contemplates erecting, however, a handsome livery stable for the use of residents, which is to be run at a minimum expense, so that the charges will be very low. This principle the owner intends to carry out in the stores on the property, the lessees of which, for valuable concessions, are to contract to supply groceries and other necessities of the best and choicest character at a figure slightly over cost price. These arrangements are but part of the general plan to make the place successful in every way that an enlightened intelligence and thoughtfulness can suggest.

The owner of Bensonhurst has wisely laid out in his mind a plan to keep each class of property in its own neighborhood, so that any purchaser who builds on a plot might not fear that his neighbor would build an inferior home. Besides, each building must be placed at least 10 feet back from the street line, and no liquor is to be sold nor is any nuisance to be allowed on any part of the estate, so that each purchaser knows beforehand what his surroundings are going to be. The streets and avenues have been beautifully planned after designs by B. S. and G. S. Olmstead, the landscape architects, while Col. Geo. E. Waring, Jr., the sanitary engineer; Samuel H. McElroy, the well-known surveyor; Messrs. Parfitt Bros., the architects, and others, have been called in to perfect the place. The entire water front on the beach is laid out as a park for the common use of the neighborhood, and the contract has been given out for the construction of the 21st avenue Boulevard, which is to connect with the Ocean Parkway at Parkville. This Boulevard is 100 feet wide, and will make a short cut from the Parkway to Bensonhurst for those who wish to obtain a whiff of the sea breezes without taking the drive to Coney Island. By taking the 21st avenue Boulevard route to Bensonhurst Park they will save about a mile and a-half each way in the drive to the Ocean. It will also be interesting news to many people to learn that the Board of Supervisors of Kings County at their last meeting passed a resolution to construct Harway avenue, from 25th avenue to Coney Island, to be in use next summer. This will complete the splendid drive along the shore, so that it will be a continuous roadway from Fort Hamilton to Coney Island, within a few hundred feet of the water, the ocean being in view almost the entire distance.

The broad and handsome Ocean Parkway, so dear to Brooklynites, with its six miles of beautiful roadways and bridle paths, is about a mile and a-half from Bensonhurst, while the surrounding country has some delightful drives, running for the most part through historic ground. Bensonhurst itself is, indeed, one of the most historic of these. It was settled under the Dutch as far back as 1639, and the records of the Long Island Historical Society show that among its earliest residents were Sir Henry and Lady Deborah Moody, Sir James and Lady Hubbard, and other English settlers. A good part of Bensonhurst-by-the-Sea has been in the Benson family for nearly two centuries, and the present owner has preserved the name—as he has done in other cases where he has developed estates belonging to old families—by calling the new village after the Bensons who held it so long.

But to sum up where I began—by asking whether it will not pay real estate investors, both large and small, to investigate places like Bensonhurst-by-the-Sea, and ask themselves whether their money would not be well placed there. Here is a delightful suburb on the water where the thermometer registers ten degrees lower in summer and ten degrees higher in winter, as is the case on all lands exposed to the southerly ocean breeze, with a gravel earth giving a fine natural drainage and a healthy atmosphere; with every art known to the sanitary engineer, the landscape architect and the civil engineer brought to bear upon it, not to speak of the valuable experience of an owner who takes a personal pride in beautifying and improving the property in every way, and whose wide experience in previous successful enterprises in some of our largest cities gives assurance of success here also—an owner who has expended hundreds of thousands of dollars in making the vast improvements at Bensonhurst which I have enumerated, and who appears bent upon spending money without stint, to make whatever further improvements he may think necessary for the bettering of the estate and the benefit of the residents, both present and future. One has only to converse with James D. Lynch to feel convinced that Bensonhurst is his pet hobby; that he is more interested in making it a success in every way for the people who are to live there and enjoy its ocean breezes than he is interested in adding to his wealth. This is an additional security to these residents, outside of the restrictions I have mentioned, for it throws around the property the protecting arm of a man who will retain a personal interest in Bensonhurst long after his pecuniary interest in it has ceased to exist—a characteristic displayed by him in the case of the Hancock street and Nostrand avenue properties in Brooklyn, where he successfully fought in the Legislature a bill that proposed to run an elevated road through the neighborhood which he proclaimed himself proud to have created, although his pecuniary interest in the property had then practically ceased.

When it is considered that the price of lots in New York City, within forty-five minutes' journey from Wall street, varies from about $3,500 to $40,000, and that at Bensonhurst, which takes only about the same time in reaching, lots can be bought for a few hundreds of dollars, one may well ask whether it is not worth while for the larger operators in real estate to look outside of New York City for their fortunes, and for the smaller operators to consider whether they will not insure a rapid and substantial advance on the investments which they may make in such places as Bensonhurst-by-the-Sea.

Bayonne.

The City of Bayonne has advanced during the past two or three years in a degree which has not fallen to the lot of many of the older towns in the State of New Jersey. Bayonne proper is twenty-seven minutes' journey, by the watch, from Liberty street, New York, though it has been done in less than twenty-five minutes. A suburb within such easy distance of the office centre of the metropolis was bound to attract many New Yorkers if cheaper rents and a not too objectionable journey could sway them, and it may be said that both prerequisites were there. Hence the strides made by the City of Bayonne. It is finely situated. It is on New York Bay and overlooks the Staten Island hills, the Long Island shore and the Narrows in the distance. It combines many of the advantages of the city with those of the country and seashore. Social life is pleasant, while not exclusive. Rowing and bathing are within easy distance of every resident, while the surrounding country affords some pleasant driving.

Bayonne proper bears evidence of the improvements made during the past few years. Row upon row of houses, many of them brick, line the streets and avenues, and the older styles of architecture, with their unpretentious lines, stand side by side with the more attractive designs of the newer order. What strikes the visitor forcibly is the sound of the hammer and the noise of building on nearly every street. It is computed that no less than fifty houses are now under process of construction. "Nearly all of these," said a local property-owner, "are being built by outsiders"—that is, new comers. How is it that Bayonne prospers so? Let us see.

RENTS.

Jas. Murphy, real estate agent, said: "Our houses rent as low as $15 per month and as high as $50 and $60, but the general run is from $20 to $30. They nearly all contain improvements. I wish to add that those at $15 are exceptional, still they contain a dining-room, parlor and kitchen on the first floor and two bedrooms and a servant's room above. They have hot and cold water, bathroom, etc., and are on 34th street, near Avenue D. Quite a nice house, with improvements, can be obtained for $25 rent, and equal accommodations can be had for that money as can be gotten in a house renting for $800 in Harlem. Why people should throw away $500 a year for the sake of living in a crowded New York neighborhood when they can save that $500 by coming out here and getting the fresh breezes of the bay, I don't know. It takes forty to forty-five minutes to get to Harlem and sometimes longer, while you can almost go to Bayonne and return in that time. Our commutation fare to New York is $45 per annum. This is a little over fourteen cents each working day, or about seven cents per trip, which is very nearly as low as the elevated road fare. We have about forty trains to and forty from New York daily. There is considerable demand for renting, but we have scarcely a house to offer."

WHAT PROPERTY IS WORTH.

An old resident said that ground has advanced in price very much, but is still reasonable. "Lots sell from $400 to $1,500," he said, "for residence purposes, corners bringing $800 to $2,500. Inside avenue lots on Avenue D, our principal thoroughfare, are worth, I should say, from $1,000 to $1,200, and from $1,200 to $2,500 for corners. All these lots are 25x100 in size. Houses can be bought for from $3,500 to $10,000 and over, with improvements. E. H. Bennett last year paid $10,500 for a two-story and attic villa on 33d street, near Avenue D."

There has been a steady advance in values during the last four or five years, but there has been no speculation. The houses built are in nearly every case for the owners themselves, and there is a field for some enterprising investor to build in Bayonne, for his houses would be well rented before they were completed.

BUILDING NEWS.

Two new churches are to be erected in Bayonne. One is for the Methodist community, who now worship at 32d street and Avenue D. They intend to build a fine brick and stone church on the corner of Avenue C and 31st street. They are now inspecting a number of churches, with a view of determining upon the plan which they shall adopt.

The Episcopalians, who now worship on Avenue D and 29th street, propose to build a handsome church on the corner of Avenue C and 34th street.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, it is said, contemplate paralleling the lines of the Jersey Central road, tapping all the towns and villages from Bergen Point to Jersey City. It is said that plans are already prepared for a brick depot which the former road will build at Bayonne, which will be the principal station along the reported extension. There is good reason to believe that the Pennsylvania road will run along that way, as it some time ago purchased the ferry plying between Bergen Point and Port Richmond, S. I., which has been run at a loss for years, and which would be absolutely useless to the Pennsylvania people except for purposes of connection. The belief at the time was that they intended connecting New York by running a branch to Bergen Point, building a bridge from there to Port Richmond, S. I., and then paralleling the Staten Island Rapid Transit road, now controlled by the Baltimore and Ohio road, to St. George, and then running quick boats to New York, thus competing with the B. & O. on their contemplated new route to the metropolis. The paralleling, also, of the Jersey Central would make the Bergen Point Ferry a very useful auxiliary, as it would tap Staten Island, with its 70,000 inhabitants, who would then save time and money by going directly across to Bergen Point, instead of journeying to the Pennsylvania depot at Cortlandt street by the roundabout way of New York.

The Bayonne Rowing and Athletic Association, who have their boat-house on the bay, intend enlarging it by putting in bowling alleys, baths, etc., and by making other alterations. The club has a membership of over 150, and also a ball ground, gymnasium, etc., a few hundred yards away from the shore.

Some twenty houses or more will be built on the lots recently sold on Division street. They will be put up by the various parties who purchased lots on both sides of that street recently, many of whom have announced their intention of building homes for themselves.

A double house is to be built on 33d street, between Avenues D and E, and a similar house is to be put up on 31st street, between Avenues C and D. A dwelling will also be built on Avenue C, between 30th and 31st streets.

Sixteen brick dwellings are to be built on the north side of 42d street, near Avenue C. This will be a valuable improvement to the neighborhood. Opposite these ground has also been broken for two frame dwellings which are to be built.

IMPROVEMENTS UNDER WAY.

Some fifty houses are now under way and in various stages of progress. Among the principal ones are those for Thos. Farless and Mr. Barcalow, the former on Avenue E, near 35th street, and the latter on 35th street, near Avenue E.

James H. Van Buskirk, the builder, has under way two new two-story and attic frame dwellings on the south side of 43d street, east of Avenue C. They are about 20x40, and are being built for Stephen L. Cummings and Mrs. Maria Gribbon, at a cost of about $3,000 each.

John F. Lonsdale is building a frame house on East 35th street, near Avenue D, to cost $2,500, and Mr. Gibson is building another on the same street, to cost $3,000. Mrs. M. E. Tuers has a house under way on 35th street, 150 feet west of Avenue E, 20x38 with extension, to cost $3,000. On the same street, east of Avenue C, Thos. Swift, with Altman & Co., New York, is building a double house, 32x26 and extension, to cost $3,700, and Mrs. Elizabeth Gilbert is building a small house, to cost $2,200.

On the northwest corner of Avenue E and 42d street, Mr. Pettit is building a frame house, 22x30 and extension, to cost $3,300. On the south side of 34th street, west of Avenue D, Mrs. Louise D. Phillips is having a house built for herself, to cost $3,000, and on the north side of 32d street, 210 feet west of Avenue C, Mrs. Sarah D. Roake will in the fall have completed a house costing over $3,000. Several of these buildings are being put up by Berry & Windas.

Two other improvements are worth noting: one is the three-story frame store and flat on the northwest corner of Avenue A and 25th street, 32x60 in size, which is being built for Mr. Timmis, and the two-story double tenement, 32x28 and extension, which is being built on the east side of Railroad avenue, about 200 feet south of 25th street, for Mr. Coffey.

OTHER NOTES.

The main thoroughfare, Avenue D, is macadamized the entire distance, about 14,000 feet. The other avenues and streets are not in as good condition as they might be. Some of them, after rain, are objectionable to cross, though in dry weather they are tolerably good. They require paving.

The city is undergoing the process of being sewered. Electricity has not yet made its way here, gas being the light used for houses and streets. There is a good livery stable, and there are several deliveries daily of groceries and other household necessities from Jersey City.

There are six good schools, and some twenty-two churches in and around Bayonne, five of which are at Pamrapo, six at Bergen Point, six at Centreville and four at Bayonne.

Among recent sales, Jas. Murphy has disposed of eleven lots for the New Jersey Central Railroad Land Improvement Company for $4,950, an average of $450 each. They are situated on the south side of 35th street, between Avenues D and E, and were sold to various purchasers who will improve the property. These prices show advances of over 25 per cent. on last year's valuations.

Some of the principal houses, the owners of which are known to New Yorkers, are the homes of Joseph Elsworth, Jr., the famous yachtsman; Philip Elsworth, the designer; J. Watson Elsworth; E. H. Bennett, manager of Singer's Sewing Machine Co.; J. H. Cadugan, with Thurber, Whyland & Co.; J. H. Wright, fruit merchant; Geo. Corrigan; John E. Smith, butter merchant; J. T. B. Collins, lawyer; A. A. McFarland, the Brooklyn real estate agent; J. Coward, shoe dealer; Geo. Gould, real estate dealer, known in banking circles in Jersey City; R. Cadugan, the owner of the famous stallion, "Bayonne Prince;" M. D. Wyly, assistant treasurer of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, and many others.

Men and Things.

An application for permission to build a four-story brick extension, size 110x91 feet, to the New York Cancer Hospital on the southwest corner of 106th street and 8th avenue, has been filed at the Building Department. The extension, which will extend through to 105th street, is to cost $175,000, and to be built from plans by C. C. Haight.

Nothing further will be done towards erecting the Young Men's Christian Union building on East 138th street till after December next, when a fair in aid of the building fund will be held.

"Bootle's Baby," like too many of the plays seen of late years on the metropolitan boards, ends before it is three-quarters through. It is curious how often one of the most essential principles of dramatic construction is violated—the principle, namely, that the play ends where the interest ends and the interest ends where the listener ceases to expect anything new and surprising. The only reason that the last act of "Bootle's Baby" has for existence is perhaps the desire of the author to make the play long enough to be produced alone, and perhaps also his desire to satisfy certain people in every average audience who like the sweetness chewed out of their chewing gum before it reaches their mouths. "Bootle's Baby" has other faults. It is full of pathos that is not pathetic, and there is a surplus of unnecessary talk. Nevertheless the play can be seen and enjoyed. The idea of a lot of masculine men adopting and bringing up a charming little child is not a new one, but it is not so old that if well done it cannot be enjoyed. As a matter of fact this part of the play was well worked up and well acted, thus recompensing the audience for the distressed and uneasy feeling which Miss Kate Claxton's ceaseless flood of tears and lugubrious wailing must have produced in many of them.

Some of the lots sold in June at the Cossitt estate sale have been resold at an advance of 35 per cent. One plot on Palisade avenue, near Shonnard place, Yonkers, 100x200 in size, which brought $1,700, has been resold for $2,350, an advance of $650.

The Progress Club is up to the roof and makes a fine appearance.

The "Wilbraham," the new building being erected for William Moir, the jeweler, on the northwest corner of 5th avenue and 30th street, is up to the seventh story. It will be 40x125 in size and will be eight stories high. The first floor is to have a large store, but the character of the floors above has not been definitely determined upon, though it would make a desirable hotel or an apartment house with some bachelors' quarters. It will be ready for occupancy on May 1st next.

An inspection of the hotels on which fire-escapes were ordered to be placed shows that 196 have, and eighty-five have not, complied with the law in the case (chap. 720, laws 1887). Of the latter seven are between Nos. 4 and 130 Greenwich street, three between Nos. 11 and 39 Bowery, seven between Nos. 25 and 2359 3d avenue, and one on 5th avenue—the Lenox. Those on Broadway are the Vendome, Sturtevant, Stevens, New York, Sinclair, Continental, Aberdeen, Bancroft, Arnold (St. George), and Morton.

John G. Prague will erect on the northwest corner of 85th street and 9th avenue, a six-story brick and stone flat, size 155x78 and 97.8. The application, filed at the Building Department, states the cost at from $225,000 to $250,000.

Louis Bresler, father-in-law of Manager Allen H. Wood of the West End Theatre, recently transferred the dwellings Nos. 109 West 63d street and 129 West 76th street to Charles H. Pinkham, Jr., for a nominal consideration. Mr. Pinkham is president of the Bank of Harlem.

The story of Eben S. Allen's downfall caused by the fraudulent issue of stock of the 42d street road, recalls the purchase by him in November, 1885, of the dwelling No. 434 West 72d street for $50,000. A reference to our files shows that Mr. Allen paid only a small part of the purchase money down, leaving the balance on mortgage, all of which was noted in this column at the time.

The Eighth Regiment have vacated their temporary armory on the northwest corner of Lexington avenue and 107th street, and their new armory on Park avenue, between and on 94th and 95th streets, is to be completed by contract on September 1, though it will not be ready for the use of the regiment until several weeks later.

Henry H. Dreyer, of the firm of Martin & Dreyer, writes us that he agrees with the opinions expressed in THE RECORD AND GUIDE by a surveyor as to the site for the Fair grounds. Inwood he regards as the most accessible and suitable place next to Central Park, which, he thinks, it would be a pity to spoil.

Henry F. Dimock, Daniel S. Lamont and Sherman Evarts are the incorporators and trustees of the New York and Northern Land and Improvement Company, with a capital of $50,000. The objects of the company are the buying, selling, leasing and improving of real property in the City of New York.

William Astor has received from the city authorities permission to construct crib-bulkheads on the east side of the Harlem River, near 150th street, and to fill in the lands adjacent thereto. John Jacob Astor has received a similar permit anent his property on the Harlem River, near Cromwell's Creek.

The Dock Department have under consideration the purchase of the water front on the Hudson River, between 26th and 27th streets, from the estate of Alexander M. Ross. They will make a final decision in the matter early in October.

The Ciancimino's Towing and Transportation Company, having been denied the use of the East River at 60th street for a dumping ground, are now trying to get permission to place a stationary dumping board at the foot of East 50th street. Property-owners should watch this request.

The Engineer-in-Chief of the Dock Department has been ordered to proceed with the construction of sufficient concrete base-blocks for the bulkhead, or river wall, between the north side of West 55th street and the south side of West 58th street, and to construct about 762½ feet of that bulkhead wall upon the same general plan as at the Beach street section. It is to be done by day's work.

A certificate of incorporation was filed last week at Albany by the East River Mill and Lumber Company, of New York City. Capital, $75,000. George H. Toop, Homer J. Beaudet and George T. Crombie are the incorporators.

S. Charles Welsh, executor, through his counsel Simon Stevens, refused to sell 75 feet of bulkhead rights on the North River, north of Harrison street. The members of the Dock Department, however, have resolved that the property is wanted for the improvement of the city's water front, and they have requested the Corporation Counsel to take steps to acquire title to it in the city's name.

Personal.

The directors of the Real Estate Exchange have sent in the following resolution to the Committee for the Centennial Exposition of 1892:

That the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited) heartily approves of the proposal to hold a World's Fair in the City of New York in 1892, and pledges its cordial support to the movement.

Mayor Grant has acknowledged the resolution and thanks the Exchange for its kind interest in the matter.

The Real Estate Owners' and Builders' Association have resolved to guarantee a sum of $10,000 or more as their subscription to the Exposition fund. Several sums of $1,000 have been promised them, as well as a sum of $500 and lesser amounts. A meeting of the association will be held with this object at the office of Cornelius O'Reilly, at No. 123 East 44th street, on Tuesday at 3.30 P. M.

Real Estate Department.

Comparatively little has been done this week in the real estate market, either privately or at auction. There does not seem to be any likelihood of brokers and agents settling down to work for the fall for two or three weeks yet. A few inquiries are reported for renting flats and private houses by parties in the country desirous of returning to the city in the fall, but this branch of the real estate business does not usually become active till the first two weeks in September. The announcements of properties to be sold on 'Change this week were almost exclusively of parcels under foreclosure.

On Monday the Bijou Theatre sale was again postponed, and people are asking whether it is to be a cry of "wolf" indefinitely in the matter of this property.

On Tuesday a number of foreclosure sales were announced, but they were all postponed or adjourned.

On Wednesday the only sales announced were several under foreclosure and others under orders of executors. The former were all postponed or adjourned sine die, and of the latter one parcel, No. 54 East 104th street, a four-story flat on a 25-foot lot, went to C. Lautz at $17,100, and a frame dwelling and lot at No. 151 Harrison avenue, Brooklyn, to J. A. Berger, for $4,575.

On Thursday foreclosure sales were all the order of the day. Those that were not adjourned were Nos. 154 and 156 West 76th street, four-story dwellings on lots 20.10 and 30.6x102.2, the properties being knocked down to the plaintiff at $24,000 and $23,750 respectively. Four five-story brick tenements on a plot 100x102.2, on the north side of 85th street, 173 feet east of Avenue A, sold for $17,000, $17,100, $16,100, and $15,500 each, the first and two last going to Morris Mannheimer, and the second to F. Brandt.

On Friday no sales of realty took place.

On Thursday, August 22d, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell a handsome three-story dwelling, 50 feet square, with all improvements, at Rossville, Staten Island. The house has nine lots attached and faces the water front.

The Broadway Surface Railroad, with all the right, title and interest therein, will be sold at the Real Estate Exchange on Wednesday, the 30th inst., subject to all mortgages and lawful liens, encumbrances, servitudes, charges and conditions.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y.—We hear that an addition is about to be built to the Hotel Ampersand. It will contain fifty rooms.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—The market for Common Hards has undergone very little change during the week, nothing certainly through which the seller gained any immediate advantage. Arrivals, to be sure, were slower and generally smaller in the aggregate, but with unpropitious weather the demand was also curtailed, and this made a good offset to the diminished amount of stock seeking an outlet. The indifference of buyers was probably not so much due to any actual shrinkage in regular consumption as to the accumulations on hand before referred to, a large number of dealers and contractors, in view of the occupation of ordinary storage room, having no place for additions of importance at the moment, besides which the weather has at times seriously interfered with the handling of supplies and created a further feeling of indifference on the selling side. So far as the general range of prices is concerned we find no new figures mentioned, about $6.00 remaining as the average top, and when it is exceeded it is only on extra choice quality, the rate depending upon how greatly customers may need the stock to comply with terms of some special contract. Thus far quality may be considered fairish on the general run, but poor stock is more frequently heard of, and it is anticipated that within a week or two washed brick will commence to show up pretty freely. Indeed, with the larger percentage of poor quality expected as a natural result of the stormy season and the diminution of the general production estimated at from ten to twelve millions for every full day's work lost, it would seem as though fine and choice brick ought to become more valuable and command something of a premium. Operations are still being pushed at the yards with as much freedom as circumstances will admit, but the storms have greatly interfered. Pales are still maintaining a sale that prevents an accumulation of stock and keeps prices in a very steady position.

The following item from a local contemporary may prove of interest:

Paving bricks are made at Kakos, near Buda-Pesth, from carefully selected clay mixed with a little lime, submitted to a pressure of about 3,500 pounds per square inch, and then burned nearly to vitrification. In laying this paving the soil is first consolidated and a bed of ordinary brick masonry is laid; upon this the paving bricks are set in mortar, leaving a joint of 1-10 of an inch between the blocks to be filled with cement. The bricks are about 8 inches square by 4 inches thick and weigh twenty-four pounds each.

LABOR.—Thus far this season there has been no important or protracted difficulty with the various classes of artisans engaged in the building line. Work has been a trifle disappointing but still full enough to keep about all skilled labor employed, and matters as a rule worked smoothly. There has recently been a demand for some change in hours and a slight addition to pay on the part of plasterers, and while here and there some objection was made matters as a rule were arranged without leading to any general strike.

LATH.—The market has been rather slow and somewhat tame, with last week's extreme quotations hardly to be obtained. The receipts coastwise have not run very full and with some customers they rather had the preference, but the great cause of complaint seems to be Northern lath received by boat via Hudson River. A great deal is said in the effort to depreciate this portion of the stock, but at the difference in cost they seem to satisfy a great many buyers, and that of course is where the shoe pinches. About $2 is generally named for Northern, though sales have been made at $1.90@1.95 per M, while on Eastern the lowest we hear of is $2.05 for Calais, and thence up to $2.10 for average and 5c. more in some cases asked.

Very little addition has been made to the quantity afloat from provinces since last week.

LIME.—Quite an increase in the arrival of stock coastwise is noted during the week, but the demand expanded to the situation and no difficulty was experienced in securing the desired custom, and prices remained solid throughout. Work at the Eastward is now pretty full, and as demand at other localities as well as here is good, manufacturers, through their representatives, report a generally satisfactory condition of affairs. State production in good demand at steady rates.

LUMBER.—In general, reports run much the same as for two or three weeks past, and business apparently does not gain greatly in volume, so far as the distribution of supplies into actual channels of consumption may be concerned. Some increase of interest can be noted, however, over goods for which buyers prefer to enter into contract against later deliveries, and thus far the negotiations have been upon a basis detracting in no way from previous average advantage of dealers, though some irregularity is shown in fixing cost, according to terms of settlement, faith in the financial status of the customer, etc. In the matter of offerings from first hands, coastwise supplies seem to hold their own with the greatest steadiness, the tenders of stock from interior sources being subject to greater competition, owing to the wider base from which offerings are made, and an apparent determination among sellers to place goods upon this market whenever they can do so without actual loss, in order to get a foothold.

Eastern Spruce retains an open and undisguised demand from dealers who want large sizes either for stock, or to meet standing orders from customers who always can find use for that class of stock, and for such in common with specials the line of value is well sustained, and sellers seem to have confidence in the idea that they will not be compelled to make a quotable shading up to the end of the season. Nor is any one greatly worried over the chances for the general run of stock. Much, of course, will depend upon the supply and the manner in which it reaches this market, but conservative operators who through personal visits to primary points during the summer and their knowledge of the probable wants here should be qualified to enter a fair judgment, are of the opinion, that between totals of production and demand the balance will be close and probably no violent disturbance of price shown.

Piling does not appear to vary much in general features, and "nothing new" is a common form of report. Leading receivers insist that they have not budged a fraction so far as offering more attractive terms is concerned, but that refers more particularly to supplies in chains, as now and then an odd cargo has been available at a slight shading from top figures where buyers were prepared to handle it promptly.

Hemlock remains generally steady for all really first-class stock. Now and then irregularities and contradictions present themselves in the reports made by various operators, but when particulars can be traced out, in nine cases out of ten it is found that no actual change in the general plane of value takes place. Some agents report themselves still behind in the execution of early season orders and claim to be indifferent about booking any further business until they can see their way clear.

White Pine seems to have about as many different suggestions made upon it as there are grades, and even over many single lines of stock operators do not all agree. As a whole, however, the market fails to give the full measure of satisfaction found in handling some of the other staple woods, and there is no present indications of improvement, at least, and possibly little chance that buyers can obtain much, if any, better terms. Offerings are comparatively full, and competition to place supplies is quite as keen as ever, yet there appears to be a sort of truce among salesmen that prevents positive and useless slaughtering, even on the least desirable grades. Many of them feel, too, that the present indifference of dealers will have to be abandoned before a great while.

Yellow Pine holds a pretty good market. For some work it must be used and for other work it can be run in provided cost is all right, and a reasonably full and satisfactory outlet is therefore practically always ready. As previously suggested, however, there is supply enough on hand or under contract at the moment to curtail the general line of custom, and the placing of fresh parcels is not rapid so far as the local exhaust is concerned, but receivers are reaching out for and obtaining somewhat greater encouragement from out-of-town dependent points.

Carolina Pine remains in much the former general condition. It lacks a broad outlet, either local or out of town, yet between the two localities finds many dealers creating demand sufficient to keep pretty much all the mills working to about the extent of their capacity and that affords a text over which a little enthusiasm by those immediately interested may be pardoned. The range of prices is well supported.

Hardwoods do not receive many quick, full and snappish calls when offered from first hands, and that may, in a measure, be traced to the same factor prevailing on many other kinds of stock, to wit, considerable purchases by dealers and consumers directly at the sources of supply. Dealers, however, rarely refuse to negotiate upon anything really attractive, and if the cost remain within about former lines additions to stock in yards are not objected to, and some fair local export orders can also be secured.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Timberman says:

In watching the course of the market in Eastern centres there seems to be an idea just a little below the surface of the trade that the present consumption of lumber will develop a scarcity before very long. Dealers and wholesalers give the weight of their opinion to this view, hoping to still further stimulate the demand, and thereby bring out that advance in prices which they have been at times predicting for some months past. But it is probable that the season will slip by without any such result being accomplished. There are too many wholesalers in the great Eastern markets offering yellow pine and hemlock, although as regards yellow pine, it must be said that we have heard of no concessions or shadings in prices for some little time.

As far as the West is concerned trade is improving gradually. This is not noticeable at Chicago, at Michigan points, on the Mississippi River south to St. Louis, and has particular reference to the large distributing points. In fact the manufacturers do not complain as much about the volume of the business in Michigan or Wisconsin just now as they do of prices. There has been a gradual letting down in values, and the fact that the advance is not as yet in sight worries them considerably.

Taken altogether the cargo market has been very dull and stupid this week, and this condition existed under light receipts, but while the transactions were few, there was considerable talk among the commission men about the maneuvers of the dealers. The impression prevails among them that Chicago wholesale dealers are working the cargo market very fine this year, and to the writer there was instanced the fact that the dealers have prepared an elaborate chart, containing individual reports of cargo purchases, contents of the same, purchase price, amount of profit derived from the purchase or the loss sustained thereby, and the statement was made in this connection that some damage might accrue to manufacturers by reason of concerted action which eventuates in circulating reports damaging to stocks of manufacturers in Michigan or elsewhere tributary to this market.

To define the exact status of the hardwood trade is a difficult matter, but there seems to be a better feeling generally among dealers than was the case a week ago. One firm claims to have had about all the business it could attend to since the beginning of the month, and a number of others report an increased movement in nearly all stocks.

Walnut is probably the most uncertain stock, and the one about which the greatest variety of opinions are expressed. In some yards there seems to be an increased demand, though at prices which leave little room for profit. At others it is looked upon as a drug on the market at present.

But oak seems in good demand all around, furniture manufacturers, especially, are using large quantities of this stock in both quarter-sawn and firsts and seconds. Prices are firm and are likely to continue so.

There is very little demand for ash in the city, as it is used only by the large manufacturers, and not to any great extent by them.

The demand for cherry remains quite good, in spite of the attempted substitution of redwood and gum.

It appears that basswood prices are going down hill at a good rate of speed. One dealer seems to be out of humor at the way basswood is selling. He quotes the sale of 100,000 feet of firsts and seconds basswood at $16.

It is used principally for carpenter's mouldings, though there is some flooring of this stock on the market.

Taken all in all, there is a general belief in a heavily increased trade this fall, and from all indications we cannot see why this should not be so.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Something is wrong with the Western trade, but nobody seems to be capable of fully explaining it. Consumption in the large cities is heavy, and there is a large movement of stocks from the mills and wholesale markets. But there is complaint of a sluggish demand, demoralized prices and little or no profit. The cargo movement from mill points to this city goes on in a perfunctory manner, prices at the market here being weak, and tending downward within a few days past. The wholesale yards are unusually well stocked, and dealers are anxious to sell. At the same time there is a general expectation of a heavy fall trade, and dealers are living on hope. It appears as if production had been overdone, not only by the mills that cut white pine, but by the yellow pine manufacturers, whose product meets white pine in all the marts of the West and Southwest. But it is felt that the stimulus of an active fall trade will improve matters much, and strengthen drooping prices.

At the Chicago yards:

The price of piece stuff has settled down to $11.25 to $11.50 for 2x6, 2x8 and 2x10, with some of the big concerns selling at $11. The medium sized yards are trying to get $11.75 for 2x4. Wide joists are relatively higher than narrow, the majority of dealers sticking for $12.50 for short 2x12. When large promiscuous bills are made, both 2x12 and 2x4 go in at prices lower than those named. When it comes to long lengths, dimension prices are all at sea, and it is simply impossible to make a list that would approach accuracy. The association list has gone to the dogs, and the dealers do not hesitate to say so.

No. 1 16-foot fencing sells for $14 to $14.50, and No. 2 at $11.50 to $12, the last named kind of stock being demoralized as badly as piece stuff. Common boards are worth about $13, and cull anywhere from $11 to $12. Norway strips are in fair demand at $13 to $13.50 for No. 1.

One dealer with a large experience in the Eastern trade states that there is less call this season for clear and A siding than there was in previous years. There has been, this season, a relatively larger demand for C and fencing siding than before. Probably the Eastern trade, which calls for first quality siding, has been largely supplied from Tonawanda and Buffalo.

There is a good demand for strips of the B select grade, and prices for such stock are fairly firm.

Thick clears and selects are moving, but dealers are inclined to shade prices to suit their customers.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says:

The Minneapolis mills are running again, and most of the down river mills are in motion, though the end of the supply of logs from the Chippewa does not seem to be far away, and only a limited number of logs are being got out of the West Newton boom at the present time. Some prospects are presented of getting a few more logs out of the St. Croix, but even the La Crosse mills, which have been more favored all the season than any of the mills along the Mississippi, are getting very near the end of their supply of logs. Unless there are heavy rains the middle of September will find nearly all the mills below Minneapolis without logs. Little or no night running is being done.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

American Black Walnut.—In lumber this market is again being far too liberally supplied, especially with poor quality stuff, and prices in consequence are going in favor of buyers.

Most yardkeepers and many manufacturers, however, are heavily stocked, and cannot be induced to speculate further. Better class logs sell freely, but for inferior descriptions there is no inquiry, so that to continue sending such over must sooner or later prove to be very bad business for those on the other side.

American Whitewood.—In this there is a fair amount of business doing, with, it would seem, a little improvement in prices. There is reason to believe that an increasing trade will be experienced, for it is quite evident this wood for cabinet work is thought well of, and is not likely to be easily displaced.

American Satin Walnut.—Of this there is not much stock at the docks, but perhaps sufficient for the present requirements of the trade; for some time past there has been but little done in the way of sales, barely sufficient to fairly test the condition of the market.

American Oak.—This is still being very extensively used in the manufacture of household furniture of all descriptions, but it will be well in the future for shippers to send over parcels containing a much larger proportion of boards of 9 in. and up in width instead of so much flooring. Plank stuff and squares, if sound and of the required sizes will sell freely here.

There is now being unloaded in the south West India Docks, a fresh cargo of sequoia or Californian redwood, ex Don Quixote, from San Francisco. The wood is of very large dimensions, in planks 2 to 6 in. by 12 to 48 in., length 12 to 20 ft., straight grown, clean stuff, fit for any purpose for which the wood is suitable. We observe some with very fine figure, suitable for panel board, as, when fairly dry and seasoned, it does not again shrink or swell, as some of the imported woods do. The wood has many traits that recommend it, and the shippers having—under somewhat discouraging circumstances—perseveringly placed it again upon the London market in the best possible manner, we wish them all the success they deserve.

Supplies of deals at Glasgow per steam liners from Quebec and Montreal have, however, been coming forward in smaller quantities than usual this season, and the stock of Quebec and Michigan deals is certainly less at present than at this time last year. This year's stock of these deals, as shown in your pages, when last made up at 30th June was 25,000 pieces less (lumping all qualities together) than that of last year, and the imports since the end of June till now are under the corresponding period of last year by about 65,000 pieces.

METALS.—COPPER.—Ingot does not appear to have met with very decided attention from consumers, and, indeed, the demand in the main was restricted to small lots as wanted for early and positive requirements.

There is said to be a pretty general understanding among buyers that they will resist as far as possible the entering upon pool contracts, and do away with the system. We quote Lake at 12c., and casting brands at 10 1/4 to 10 3/4. Manufactured Copper meeting with a very fair demand on a slightly improving tendency, if anything, and values held quite steadily at former figures.

We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 21c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 22c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 23c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 25c.; do, under 8 oz, 26c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12 to 14 oz, 2c. for 10 to 12 oz, and 3c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over, 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 22c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 24c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 25c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 26c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz, and 1c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz, 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 22c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 25c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 26c. Sheets 60x96 and over, 20c.; for 32 to 64 oz, and over, and 25c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz, 23c.; 14 oz, 25c.; 12 oz, 27c.; and 10 oz, 30c. Bolt copper, 3/4 inch diameter and over, 20c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1/2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 23c. 26c. per lb. Iron—Scotch Pig has arrived to a moderate extent only, but the demand was neither full or general, and the offering proved equal to the outlet. The accounts from abroad are firm, and that acts as a sustaining factor here.

We quote at $19.50 to $22.25 per ton, according to brand, delivery, etc. American Pig has found a fair business in moderate sized lots, as wanted from time to time on prompt delivery, with occasionally a little done for near-by future, but consumers are placing no liberal orders at the moment. Accumulations, however, are comparatively moderate and under good control, especially in the way of good foundry iron, with the general line of values well sustained throughout and positively no direct effort made to realize. We quote at $16.75 to $17.50 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $15.75 to $16.25 for No. 2 X do.; an $14.75 to $15.25 for Gray Forge. Old material has shown rather more animation this month, the demand running on rails and car wheels in the main, though a little scrap came under treaty. Offerings fair but only at a full line of valuation. We quote at about $22.50 to $23.00 for old rails; $20.00 to $20.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $14.00 to $15.00 for cast scrap, and $17.50 to $18.00 for car wheels. Steel rails sell moderately in small lots and in that way quite a full total of business is made up. There is, however, no apparent demand for round parcels except, it is said, from companies that are not prepared to meet the terms generally required. We quote at $28.00 to $28.50 per ton at the mills and $29.00 to $30.00 do. at tide water. Manufactured Iron is moving out fairly on store orders and now and then quite a nice bunch of business is booked on contract. There appears to be no difficulty experienced in meeting the demand and about former rates are ruling all around. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 1.90 to 2.10c. from store, and refined at 2.00 to 2.30c.; Rods, round and square, 2.10 to 2.20c.; Bands, 2.20 to 2.30c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4c. 5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.75 to 2.80c. for common Nos. 10 to 16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD.—Domestic Pig, although meeting with a somewhat irregular demand at times, has on the whole found a very fair general sale for consumption, and the tone of the market has been improved and strengthened in consequence. The close, however, appears rather slower. We quote at 3.85 to 4c., as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 4 1/2c.; pipe, 6c.; sheet, 6 1/2c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe 45c., on same terms. TIN.—Pig does not appear to be greatly in favor with speculators, but the consumptive trade is good, stocks are strongly situated and holders have very good general control of the situation. We quote at about 20 3/4 to 20 1/2c. for round lots and 20 1/4 to 20 1/2c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plates do not secure many extensive orders, but there is quite a fair amount of stock going out in a jobbing way, and prices are steadily maintained without difficulty.

We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, 1/2 cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.50 to $5.75, each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, 1/2 cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.70 to 4.75, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.60 to 6.65; M. F. grade, 20x28, $13.20 to 13.25; Worcester, 14x20, $4.87 1/2 to 4.90; Worcester, 20x28, $9.87 1/2 to 9.90; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.20 to 4.30; Deane grade, 20x28, $8.37 1/2 to 8.55; Allaway grade, 14x20, $4.05 to 4.07 1/2; Allaway grade, 20x28, $8.20 to 8.30; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $4.25 to 4.27 1/2; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.30 to 4.32 1/2; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $4.00 basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.65. Spelter without much animation at the moment, but stock is small and in anticipation of a better demand from brass manufacturers' and galvaniz rs' prices are steadily held. We quote at 5.05@5.10c. for ordinary brands of Western.

P. S.—At the close we are informed that a combination of all the prominent Lake Superior and far Western producers of copper, for the purpose of regulating prices for the metal, has finally been completed. The prices agreed upon are said to be 12 cents per pound for Lake Superior, 11¼ cents for Montana and Arizona and 10½ cents for common "casting" brands. The combination, so far as can be learned, does not involve a consolidation of interests on the "trust" plan, and the endurance of the compact remains to be tested.

NAILS.—Reports clash somewhat in making claims as to the volume of trade, and we do not think there is any real increase in the movement. The market, however, seems to be pretty well in hand and off rings made without pressure, while on value former figures are asked. We quote at $1.85@1.90 per keg for car lots, and $1.95@2.00 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Buyers move promptly enough when they have orders to fill and see early use for supplies, but evince no anxiety and still refuse to anticipate the future. General consumption promises well, however, the leading staple articles are under control, and for pretty much all goods a well-sustained line of value is confidently counted upon. Stocks are accumulating somewhat against expected fall trade. Linseed Oil selling fairly well and quoted at 58¢@60c. for Western, and 60¢@61c. for City. Spirits Turpentine meets with about an ordinary demand, but comparatively moderate offering and strong primary markets have kept rates on the upward turn. We quote at 48¢@49c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—The inquiry is moderate and uncertain and no great improvements immediately expected. Supplies, however, are kept in hand, and valuations sustained. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.45 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows
The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Add 25c. to above figures for yard rates.

LUMBER.

Appended quotations are based almost wholly upon prices obtained for goods from first hands. Yard rates necessarily range much higher owing to the expenses attending sorting out and grading cargo and even car lots, besides which must be added the cost of aniling and carrying until consumers are ready to invest. Terms of sale also prove important factors, and, altogether, it is impossible to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable in character.

No. 1,119

Ever since good crops have been assured, the Wall street prophets have one and all been decidedly bullish. There is hardly either a financial paper or a financial writer on the other side of the market, yet prices have not advanced in the way which one might have expected from the unanimity of opinion. There is an old Greek story of a man meeting an acquaintance and exclaiming, "Why, I thought you were dead, I had the news from Zeno." "Well," returned the other, "do I look dead?" "I do not know," replied the first, "for I am sure that you are a great liar, whereas Zeno is a man of veracity and wisdom." We must regard the stock market very much as the hero of the above story regarded his dead-alive acquaintance. We have been told that it must be bullish by men of veracity and wisdom. If there is any truth in human argumentation in reference to the market, that "must" should be italicized. Yet this view has not received any great support this week from the course of events.

We print this week, in another column, a screed from "Our Impartial Observer," sounding a note of warning on the financial situation, which, in the opinion of Christopher Walton, business men would do well to heed. While, as he points out, the reserves of our city banks are low and the loans correspondingly high, this by itself, many will reason, is not a dangerous symptom. Unlike former years, when a sharp crisis has occurred, the loans of the banks now are on a very safe basis, and the excess over a conservative and average amount is largely represented by government bonds as security. It must also be remembered that our national banks do not now show in their statements the actual condition of our finances. Within the last few years the growth of trust companies has been very great, and it is they who largely control the funds which Wall street is always ready to borrow, and recently has had at such low rates. On July 1st of this year the twenty-one loan, trust and safe deposit companies doing business in New York City held over $173,000,000, on which interest was allowed. No small part of this represented the deposits of capitalists who put their money in the trust companies, content with low rates of interest, while looking around for a suitable investment. Naturally the influence of these companies over the market for call loans is great and increasing, as well as over the general loan market, though in a lesser degree. The national banks and other similar institutions are affected, perhaps, more than has yet been estimated by these new conditions created within the last few years, the more so as the trust companies are further favored by lower taxation than that which is exacted from them.

It is also difficult for an ordinary merchant to see how a serious panic can occur to a nation which, however low the money reserve of its banks temporarily may be, has a country full to overflowing with everything which represents, and will bring, money—such as wheat, oats, cotton, corn, hogs, and cattle, all in a greater abundance than even this country, rich and big as it is, has ever had in any previous year. This will all be for sale, and, as far as human foresight can tell, is likely to have a good market. Of course a frost may yet occur which would reduce the corn crop somewhat, but the average of the weather is more likely to be of a kind that will increase rather than lessen it.

The portion of our mercantile community whence disaster may probably come is New England, which has been more seriously hurt by the collapse of the Western land boom and the stoppage of railroad building than any other part of the country. Go where you will through the West, and it is always New England money that you find invested or sunk, as the case may be. Kansas City is full of it, and many of the finest and largest buildings there are owned by Eastern men and corporations. New England has not only for years been parting with her young men, who have gone West, but has sent capital very largely after them. A gentleman, who recently had occasion to look over the assets of a defunct Boston corporation, was amazed to find such a miscellaneous lot of assets as were shown him, nearly all of which were entirely outside of its legitimate business. The example set by the Spragues, years ago, who had nearly all their capital in everything but their mills, has this day many imitators throughout New England, all of whom are paying the penalty which even the faro bank gambler pays when he attempts to play outside of his own game. However, the West has always said, and has always been correct in saying: "Give us a good crop and we will come out all right." This is the key to the situation, and whatever brings the West out will do the same for New England, and with these two parts of the country doing well there is no danger of any financial trouble in any other portion. General business continues extremely good, and no bad sign appears from any quarter, with the single exception of the money market, over which the Secretary of the Treasury has a vast power, too vast to be wisely used by any one man.

The facts in the case of Watson against the Manhattan Company should be interesting reading. In May last Judge O'Gorman awarded the plaintiff $17,000 as compensation for damages done to his property, No. 121 West 53d street, by the elevated roads. Of this sum $5,000 was for loss of past rents and $12,000 was for permanent injury done to the property. It would naturally be thought that even a corporation would find it difficult to inflict damages on a 25x100 lot with a stable on it to a greater extent than the property cost. Yet such it seems the Manhattan Company did. The construction of their road not only wiped out the $7,000 expressed in the deed of the property filed on August 16, 1880, the value of the stable subsequently built at a cost of between $7,000 and $8,000, but did damage to the value of $2,000 on something not represented by either land or building. The award of $17,000 on property that cost $15,000 may, of course, have been warranted by facts that do not appear on the surface; but until these are made clear there is excuse for thinking that if a judgment like this had been given in favor of a corporation we should have heard a good deal of the iniquity of corporations and the suffering of the public in the press that is so ready to join in the cry of "stop thief," if only it is raised by a "crowd."

It is said that the construction of some more big steamships is talked of. This rivalry to "lower the record" is all very well in its way. It is interesting enough to read of these huge vessels ploughing across the ocean almost stem to stern at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, and the excitement of racing, no doubt, adds a zest to the Transatlantic voyage. But it is an enormously costly pastime, and the important question, which so far does not seem to have been very seriously considered, has yet to be faced: Does it pay? No one but an expert should attempt to answer the question; and it is doubtful whether even he would be able to do so satisfactorily, for the matter is in somewhat of an experimental stage. It is, of course, fair to suppose that when, for instance, the Cunard Company built the Etruria and the Umbria they were able to calculate profit in the transaction, but these calculations, and the calculations of other companies, run the risk of being falsified by the rapid construction of large "express steamers" by all the principal Transatlantic lines. Indeed, it is safe to assume that many of the new boats have been constructed not so much to obtain any visible profit as to meet competition, and to protect large existing interests by the investment of a million dollars or so in a not too certain enterprise. Of course, these fast steamers depend principally upon the passenger trade for their profits, and during several months of the year this is too small to pay. All may go well this year, because of the exceptionally large numbers of people who have gone to Europe on account of the Paris Exposition; but it is extremely doubtful whether the situation will be as satisfactory next year, and especially in 1892, when our own Exposition will keep at home thousands who otherwise would visit Europe. To-day few of the Transatlantic lines earn the average interest on the capital invested, and the present acute competition and the building of steamers expensive in the first cost and expensive to run are not likely to improve matters. It would not be at all surprising if the companies were forced by competition into some sort of consolidation of a closer kind than the association which now exists for the regulation of fares and freight rates.

More than once the folly of supposing that Trusts are to be overthrown by Free Trade has been exposed in these columns. We still, occasionally, hear from the Evening Post that the Trusts in this country are due to the Tariff, but the argument is a "spoiled one," and repetition shows only more clearly how ridiculous it is. Now the Tribune comes forward to annoy common sense and runs its Republican pen through the word "Free Trade" wherever it appears in the argument and gives us the old story under a new name: "Protection, the enemy of Trusts." This, of course, is only the same folly shown the reverse side uppermost. It is, perhaps, more ridiculous, because in this case it is supported by arguments even weaker than those used by the Free Traders. The Tribune quotes with approval the statement published in the organ of the American Iron and Steel Association, that: "the protective policy is absolutely at war with Trusts, since the very aim and essence of protection is the encouragement of competition, that prices may be reduced." No Protectionist holds, nor did the Tribune itself dare to whisper it during the last campaign, that the object of protection is low prices, and "the encouragement of competition." If these are really the aims of Protection, there is no doubt in the mind of anyone that they are to be accomplished much more completely by the adoption of Free Trade. The object of Protection, first, last and all the time, is to keep the foreigner from selling in our markets, and as he could not do this unless he sold cheaper than the native producers the effect incidentally is to increase prices. It is plain that to some extent Protection must favor those Trusts that deal in an article that could be purchased cheaply and abundantly abroad but for the barrier set up by the Tariff. It does not follow from this, however, that Trusts are due to the Tariff, or that if we admitted Free Trade at the front door the Trusts would hurry out at the back. There are many Trusts in Free Trade England, and there are Trusts in this country which derive no support from the Tariff, yet flourish. The fact is that Trusts are not specially the products of any fiscal policy; but have been created by commercial conditions, just as joint stock companies were some years ago.

Some time ago, it seems, a movement was started to colonize English agriculturists upon the farming lands of the State of Vermont. Nothing ever came of it, but lately it has been revived, this time with a modification of the idea—that of colonizing with Swedes instead of with Englishmen. According to a Brooklyn paper, which derives its inspiration from the Boston Transcript, it is not "poverty of soil, but wealth of brains" that troubles Vermont. "This State, in furnishing men to manage the great business, literary, and political interests of the nation has impoverished herself." According to this idea, the soil of Vermont is fertile enough, but her men are too clever to remain farmers. It is hard to characterize such statements as these without being impolite. It is time that people learnt that after a soil has once been cultivated, or an industry established, both of them will continue in existence just so long as they pay. If farmers are growing scarce in Vermont it is because farming is unprofitable. If it were profitable two sons might rush off to the cities to win fame and money in a counting-room or sanctum, but the third would be sensible enough to stay at home and cultivate the land as his father did before him. If farming paid in Vermont one may be sure that no special importation of Swedes would be necessary to get people to take hold of the work. It is not enough to point out that the soil is fertile. It may be just as rich as the Western land, but nevertheless the Eastern farmer cannot compete with the Western farmer for the same reason that a small dealer cannot compete with a large one. The comparatively extensive farms in the West and the level character of the lands permit the employment of machinery to an extent that very materially reduces the cost of labor to the capitalists, and consequently the cost of production to the community. Farming in New England is suffering from the same causes as farming in the middle States. No importation of Swedes will remedy a trouble that has its root in a change in the conditions of grain production.

A Colorado correspondent of the Woman's Journal, is summarizing the legislation in that State on the rights of wives in the real property of their husbands. The former, it seems, have perfect liberty to mortgage their property, without any reference to the latter; whereas he, poor man, has no rights at all. In case he dies intestate and without issue, the wife takes everything; if there are children, she gets half absolutely—a share that her husband cannot will away without her consent. Truly men treat themselves with strange justice. The only ground for giving a wife an absolute dower right on her husband's property is that he contracts, when married, to afford her support. When living he can be forced to fulfill the contract; when dead the contract still remains, and rightfully should constitute a claim against his estate. But this, surely, constitutes only a claim for a certain share in its income—a share sufficient to afford her support. It cannot justify robbing the husband of the right to dispose as he pleases of the property which he has earned or acquired; it cannot justify giving absolutely to a wife, who possibly may have quarreled with her husband during lifetime, the right to spend in whatever way she pleases one-half of his real property after death. If there ever was an example of a class legislating against itself it is supplied by the facts of law as to dower right.

It is never well to be too hasty in criticising the Civil Service policy of an administration. The circumstances under which appointments are made necessarily vary too widely to make any one appointment or any limited number of appointments a proper representation of the principle under which the administration selects its officials. Over five months, however, have come and gone, and the record of appointments is sufficiently complete to constitute an ample basis for criticism. In a spirit of all fairness that criticism cannot be favorable. Every batch of appointments but serve to emphasize the truth that the President means and would like to live up to his promises, but that the pressure of political friends and associates has forced him to select men whom, if left to his own devices, he would have had none of. President Harrison suffers from the fact that it was not he who brought the party into power, but it was the party that brought him into power. It is but just to point out that his more important appointments have been his best. If throughout all of them he had maintained the standard established in his cabinet and ministerial appointments, the sensitive taste of the Mugwumps would not have found so much that was sour in what he has done. His selections, moreover, for Civil Service Commissioners, as to which probably no party pressure was brought upon him, were admirable. But the smaller appointments, for which Assistant-Postmaster-General Clarkson is proximately and the President ultimately responsible, have averaged very bad, not merely for political reasons, but for others more closely associated with the character of the appointee—a fact that plainly shows that they were due to party pressure, unhampered, as in the more important cases, by a personal knowledge of the office seeker. The standing of the Republican party towards Civil Service Reform is, we fear, very well exposed by the way it was slurred over in the Pennsylvania State Convention.

Pernicious Charity.

Attention was called some weeks ago in these columns to the pernicious expenditure in behalf of the charities of city and State, and to the parsimony and too great economy practised in the treatment of the insane now kept by some of the counties in their poor-houses or poorhouse asylums. Under the present law of New York nineteen counties, besides those of New York, Kings and Monroe, are permitted to keep and care for their pauper chronic insane, while several other counties keep this same class in violation or by tacit consent of the law. In these county asylums, excepting those of the three counties specified, there are at present nearly 25,000 insane. These several counties spend each year for the support of these institutions an amount varying from ninety-four cents to two dollars and thirty cents per capita. In most all of these counties the insane inmates are subject to the same general attention and treatment as the sane poor, yet obviously the care and medical attention needed is special and totally different. In these county asylums there are no physicians skilled in the treatment of the insane to give these patients special treatment; and in none of them are there attendants enough to look after their individual wants. They are huddled together in their day-room without amusement.

In the State asylums for the chronic insane two dollars and twenty-five cents per capita per week is charged to the county for the maintenance of their insane, and four dollars per capita by the asylum for the acute insane treated there. Here specialists are employed to treat the insane. They have all manner of needful medical appliances and numerous attendants, and all things that can contribute to the mental and physical health of the patients. The inmates of the county poorhouse asylums are deprived of this better care. The exempted counties, indeed, may gain financially in keeping as they do at present the able bodied and the milder cases of insanity who can contribute to their own support, or whose support is less expensive, but this is only done at the expense of the counties, who are required to send all their insane to the State asylums. The State under the existing unjust system is thus deprived of the workers which it would have if the insane of all classes from all the counties were sent to the State asylum. With their aid the per capita tax levied on the counties for the support of all the insane might be reduced to about two dollars and fifty cents. The patients would there be employed—such as can work—and their employment will be suited to their ability to work. Poor officials in the counties endeavor to make the expenditure for the care of county inmates as low as possible, in order that a lengthened term of office may be assured. In other words, a continuance in office is given uppermost consideration in all their dealings, rather than the comfort and needs of the inmates. What is demanded is that all the pauper insane, both acute and chronic, be sent to the State asylums to be maintained and supported entirely by the State, and that the expenditure for the same be met by taxes levied by the State. It is in the interest of every taxpayer as well of the insane that this should be done. It will certainly be more economical to care properly for 15,000 insane in eight or ten asylums than to care for them in sixty or seventy, where a wrong sort of motive governs the economy and finances of the institutions, where the term of office of superintendent expires every three years, and where the insane inmates receive all manner of treatment from fair to extremely bad. Here is a reform which if instituted would not only benefit a dependent class, but which would also equalize more nearly the taxes throughout the State, and relieve to some considerable extent the taxpayer.

A fact worth considering is that the census returns for 1890 will very certainly show a production of wheat in a relatively diminished quantity. The area devoted to that cereal during the present year will form the basis of the census return of production. This amounts to only 88,684,000 acres, against 35,430,333 in 1879-80. This shows a gain of less than 10 per cent., against a gain in population of about 33 per cent. It is true the comparison is not entirely fair, for the acreage in 1879-80 was phenomenally large; nevertheless, after making due allowance for this fact, it must be admitted that the increase in wheat production has not been at all commensurate with the increase in population and business. This is, of course, due to the fierce competition of Russia and India for possession of the European markets.

The Topic of the Hour—The Exposition.

I take much pleasure in complying with your request as to the expression of my views in regard to the selection of a site for the International Fair, which is so fittingly designed to celebrate the four-hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the New World.

That there should be sharp local rivalries and contention to secure the possession of a prize of such rare value is as natural as the contest which has already taken place between the leading cities. This was to have been expected, although the spirit in which the controversy has thus far been conducted between the contending parties has seriously interfered with the harmonious feeling with which all parts of the country should be inspired.

The question of a site has been pretty warmly discussed, and in too many instances with more vigor and venom than with an intelligent appreciation or practical knowledge of the subject. Whatever personal or local interests may demand, whatever of benefit or advantage may result to the particular place that may be chosen, the Committee on Site and Buildings will, it is believed, be governed wholly by the question of suitability, which one word includes all the requisite conditions of area, grade, and accessibility.

The first important point which the committee will have to decide is as to the choice between private and public grounds, between the purchasing or leasing of land, or the occupation of the required space within one of the largest of our parks. If the decision is in favor of the purchase or leasing of private property, then the question of expense is a matter for grave and serious consideration. As this is to be the grandest of the world's fairs, it is estimated that from three to four hundred acres will be needed for the numerous buildings and a liberal area of intervening spaces for lawns, gardens and walks. Nor does this seem to be an overestimate when we bear in mind that we have to provide for forty-two States, not to speak of the Territories, the British provinces, Mexico, Central America, Brazil and the South American Republics. And all this independent of the generous provision in the matter of space which must be made for the powers of Europe, for the Asiatic and African nations, for the vast island-continent of the Southern Hemisphere and the isles of the Atlantic and Pacific.

Where are these four hundred acres to be selected? Where can they be found?

It has been suggested that there is a tract of land of the required extent bounded by a line running along the southern limit of St. Mary's Park due east to the water front, west by St. Ann's avenue, and south by the Harlem River. It is eight miles from the City Hall. As St. Mary's Park cost the city over fifteen thousand dollars an acre—the valuation being of June 16, 1884, the date of the passage of the New Parks Act—the present value of this tract, with its extensive water front would be about ten millions of dollars, if not more. If leased, the period could not well be less than three years, considering the time required in the work of construction and the final labor of removing the buildings. Estimating the rental at 5 per cent. per annum of the value the lease would amount to one and a-half million of dollars. This is a very moderate estimate indeed. Can the committee afford to devote so large a portion of the Fair fund from its legitimate uses to the purchase or rental of private property, particularly as the city stands ready to give the use of one of its large parks?

It may be well to state right here that the greatest Exhibitions of the world's industries have all been held on public grounds. As between a site, the leasing or purchase of which will involve a heavy outlay from the fund and a site which literally costs nothing there can be but one opinion, especially as the fund will in all probability be found to be none too large for the preparation of the ground, the erection of buildings and other necessary expenses.

That this important consideration has prevailed heretofore in the selection of public grounds for the English, French, Austrian and American Exhibitions is evident from the following list:

1851.—The British Exposition of the Industry of All Nations, in Hyde Park, London.

1853.—The World's Fair in Reservoir square (now Bryant Park), New York.

1855.—The Paris International Exposition, in the Champs Elysees, Paris.

1867.—The second Paris Exposition, in the Champ de Mars.

1873.—The International Universelle, at Vienna, in the Prater.

1876.—The Philadelphia International Exhibition, in Fairmount Park.

1889.—The present Paris Exposition, in the Champ de Mars.

The list might be still further extended, but these are sufficient for the purpose. In view of such evidence there should be no hesitation as to the use of one of our public parks for the greatest of all Industrial Exhibitions.

Assuming, therefore, that one of the largest of our pleasure grounds will be chosen, the committee will, as I have intimated, be governed in their choice by the conditions most favorable to the object in view. It is evident that in the interest of economy a large portion of the space should be of a uniform grade, and that the same important consideration would demand a water front with sufficient depth for the landing on the ground of exhibits direct from the various ports of the world.

If it should be deemed advisable to add, as a feature of the Exhibition—and it would, I believe, prove a most interesting, instructive and valuable one—a marine department, a water front would, of course, be indispensable. There could be displayed the multitudinous products of our fisheries—an endless variety, constituting one of the most profitable industries. The contributions from not only the United States Fish Commission and Fish Commissions of the different States, but from European countries, would have a special value as showing the marvelous progress made within the last quarter of a century in the art of fish culture. The advantage of such a feature would be the establishment on a successful basis of a grand aquarium, a most desirable acquisition in connection with the permanent Industrial Exhibition, which must be the result of, and the legacy from, our World's Fair.

Some of the small parks have been mentioned by the advocates of particular localities, but they have evidently given no thought to the all essential matter of space. It may be well for the information of such to state that St. Mary's has but 25 acres; Claremont, 38, Crotona 135, and the aggregate area of Morningside and Riverside is but 120, of which a large part consists of precipitous, rocky ledges.

The four parks of sufficient extent are the Central, 864 acres, of which about one-sixth is under the reservoirs and lakes, so called; Bronx Park, 653 acres; Van Cortlandt Park, 1,070, and Pelham Bay Park, 1,748 acres. In all these, however, the conditions differ materially and the best judgment and experience of the committee will be required in the work of selection. If a water front be regarded as indispensable then the site is predetermined.

Taking Central Park as first in order, and assuming that at least 400 acres will be necessary, it will be found that this area can be obtained only by changing its whole character. The trees, which are the growth of a quarter of a century, must be cut down, the hills levelled, the picturesque vine-covered rocks blasted, some of the lakes filled up, the grades altered, and many of the walks obliterated. The committee are confronted at the outset by the vital question, "will it pay?" Let us see. The land in its unimproved condition cost about eight thousand dollars an acre, and as the park is wholly artificial, the expense of its construction was fifteen thousand per acre, for the original state of this now exquisite pleasure ground was that of the roughest and most unsightly waste. If it should, therefore, be selected, and 400 acres appropriated, it could only be done at a loss of six millions of dollars, and this, it must be remembered, would be exclusive of the amount and the time required to restore it to its present condition!

This is the difficulty which will meet the committee in the consideration of Central Park as a site. It remains for its members to say if it is insuperable. I believe it is.

After the Central comes the Bronx Park, in which it would be impossible to find 400 acres on a grade suited for construction purposes without the utter destruction of the magnificent woods, in which this tract is justly regarded as superior to all the other public grounds. As the Bronx has already been designated as the site of a botanic garden and arboretum, the removal of any considerable part of its grand old forest growth can not be thought of with toleration. Besides, its topography is wholly unfavorable to the proposed use, for while picturesque in the highest degree, its hills and dells and glades could only be levelled and graded at enormous expense.

There remain, then, but two more parks to be considered—Van Cortlandt and Pelham Bay. Van Cortlandt may be briefly described as two ranges of hills, varying in height from 50 to 180 feet, with an intervening valley and meadow land, affording an area of about 400 acres of sufficiently level space. Of this area 120 acres are now in course of preparation for a parade ground which is to be ready in a few weeks for the use of the First Division. The southern boundary of Van Cortlandt is thirteen miles from the City Hall, and it is reached by means of the New York & Northern Railroad, which has two stations within its limits. The Hudson River and Harlem Railroads run within half a mile of its southern and eastern boundaries.

The last and largest of all the parks is Pelham Bay, the southern limit of which is thirteen and a half miles from the City Hall. It has an area of 1,748 acres, of which at least one thousand are available on account of the almost uniform grade. It has a frontage of nine miles on the Sound in the varying and beautiful indentations of its coast line, although in reality its greatest length is not over two and a half miles, the width being two miles. At three points on its water front there is a depth of 16 feet at low tide. It is on this account accessible by fleets of steamers from the North and East Rivers, Brooklyn, Jersey City, and the cities on the Sound, of which the aggregate population is largely over a million. It is also reached by the Harlem branch of the New Haven Railroad, which has two stations on its grounds. This road has its terminus at the Harlem River, its depot being about five minutes' walk from the termini of the 2d and 3d avenue elevated railways. By 1892, when the Exhibition is opened, should this park be the choice, the need of additional facilities will give an impulse to the construction of the suburban rapid transit branches which, to secure a portion of the custom, will be completed up to or near the park limits. In this, as in nearly every case, necessity will create the means; the demand almost invariably increases the supply. Local roads will, of course, be constructed in the park for the transportation of visitors, as was done in Fairmount in 1876. It may be added, as an item of some interest, that visitors by boat, of whom hundreds of thousands will be strangers to New York, will have, while passing along the East River, a splendid panoramic view of the great metropolis and of the scenery along the shores of one of the most beautiful bodies of water on the Continent. As to temperature, a consideration of no small importance, the odds are in favor of this park by from 6 to 8 degrees.

In taking the City Hall as the point from which to measure distances it should not be forgotten that 59th street, which is really the centre of population, is four miles nearer to Van Cortlandt and Pelham Bay.

Before concluding, I would express a hope, which is doubtless in the minds of thousands, that the city will require as a condition of the use of the grounds, in whatever park the site may be secured, that two or more of the buildings shall be dedicated, under the care of the proper department, to the uses of a permanent Industrial Exhibition. This would be an appropriate testimonial to the marvelous progress of the world and particularly of the United States in the industrial arts. The value of such an institution in connection with the Metropolitan Museum of Arts and the Museum of Natural History can hardly be over-estimated in its influence on the inventive genius of the country and its stimulating effects in developing native talent. What better practical illustration could be presented of the marvelous progress of the United States and of the whole world in the multiplied and varied applications of mechanical power, whether employed in manufactures, or in commerce, in supplying human wants, or in facilitating travel and transportation.

It would be a fitting and desirable consummation of the greatest of World's Fair's, and a magnificent memento of one of the most important and prolific of historical events. JOHN MULLALLY.

There are numerous colonization schemes being proposed just now. Mr. William O'Brien wants to colonize Ireland with a lot of skilled American mechanics, and Commissioner Valentine, of Vermont, as we have pointed out elsewhere, wants to colonize the deserted farms of that State with Swedes. It remains, however, for a Senator of the United States to propose the most stupendous scheme of all. This is nothing more or less than the removal of all the inhabitants of Iceland to Alaska. They are a thrifty, intelligent people, who will find a far more remunerative outlet for their energies on the fertile shores of the Yukon than in the sterile mountains of their native island. There are some 75,000 of these Danes, and they are said to be not unwilling to take the journey. It is to be hoped that we shall hear more of this.

The statistical department of the Interstate Commerce Commission has issued two circulars, one being sent to the general managers of the different railroads, the other to the organizations of the employes. These circulars inquire of the railroad companies whether there is any insurance or guarantee fund provided for the employes, and, if so, what are the details of its organization; and whether they provide any lodging and eating houses, or any schools for the technical education of those in their service. They ask of the employes whether, connected with their unions, there is any guarantee fund, and whether there are any rules of apprenticeship and grades of service, established by the unions, recognized by the companies. This promises to be a very useful investigation. It has been customary with most trades unions to establish some such insurance fund; but in many cases it has proved a serious drain on their resources. So far as we know, their employers, whether railroad companies or not, have not as a general thing co-operated with them in establishing and maintaining such a fund; yet it is clear that if there were such a co-operation, it would do much to remove the feeling of antagonism that unfortunately too often exists between employer and employed. At all events, facts and figures on the degree of co-operation that exists between organized capital and organized labor cannot but prove useful; and all the more so because it will create discussion on the subject, and perhaps lead ultimately to a more universal recognition on the part of the railroads of their responsibilities in the way of assisting their employes when in trouble, and in aiding them to live more wholesomely. Nobody could learn of the recent establishment of the governmental insurance fund in Germany without wishing that we could have the advantages of a like system in this country, with none of its possible disadvantageous effects on national character. This can be obtained only by the voluntary assumption of the same responsibilities by both capitalist and laborer—voluntary as distinct from the coerced assumption of similar duties in Germany.

Our Impartial Observer.—The Financial Outlook.

When the reserve of the New York City National banks, which the law places at 25 per cent. of their deposits, falls just in advance of the annual autumnal demand for money to less than $4,000,000 over the legal requirements; when at the same time exchange on New York is at a discount in Chicago, and when concurrently at the season of the year when the supply is least, first-class indorsed mercantile paper is difficult if not impossible of sale, it is the part of the simplest prudence to take a reckoning of the contingencies of the situation. There is no recklessness so culpable as the amiable optimism which seeks to avoid dangers by ignoring them. The really courageous as well as successful business men are those who are doubly armed against disaster because they have contemplated every mischance and provided against it in advance. It is out of a seemingly long-continued fair "spell of weather" that nature stores up her whirlwinds and tornadoes, and the memory of middle-aged men can easily recall how analagous were the conditions which have preceded nearly all our financial cataclysms. No one ought ever to assume to predict when a financial "panic" will occur, since the very term implies the universal consciousness that it is to a certain extent the result of unreasonable alarm, born of nervous contagion whose occurrence is beyond foresight. But if anything is axiomatic in the commercial world it is that prudence is always in order and that "contingencies always favor the bears." This, in fact, is only another form of the French proverb, that "nothing is certain but the unlooked for (Rien n'est certain que l'imprevu)."

In order to estimate the financial future it is necessary to view separately all the great departments which serve to make up the world of commerce and to consider without prejudice, and above all without interested partiality, their speculative position. They are all interdependent, and weakness in one department may easily affect the entire structure.

For my purpose it will be enough if the division be into three classes—railroads, commerce, and real estate—for either directly or indirectly in these terms will be comprehended nearly all speculative enterprise.

It is notorious that the condition of the railroad systems of the country in their relation to each other and to the general government are in a condition of transition whose outcome can be easily conceived though it is not generally apprehended. The Interstate Commerce decisions of the Supreme Court effected a revolution in the railroad system of the United States the effects of which have scarcely begun. How closely the final result of the legislation which was initiated with the creation of the Interstate Commerce Commission will approach the entire and absolute control of the railroads by the national government cannot yet precisely be determined, but that it will at least approximate very nearly to it is believed by some of the shrewdest observers.

In the meantime, so far as the acquisition of the traffic and the regulation of rates is concerned by conventional agreements between themselves, the railroad situation may fairly be described as in a condition not far removed from chaos.

It is certainly not an assuring prospect for the investment of capital in any of their underlying securities, and the public in general cannot be induced to buy railroad stocks for a rise, charm the bull cliques, through their newspaper organs never so wisely.

Whatever money business men may have with which to speculate in stocks (and it is mainly from this source that operations in Wall street by the general public are conducted), it seems more likely to be diverted into the new industrial securities than into the securities of railroads whose manipulators have so often betrayed public confidence. But it does not seem probable that much money can come into Wall street from the surplus bank deposits of business men.

The condition of general business has been known to be very unsatisfactory for a considerable period. Not only has trade fallen off in volume during the last year or so, but the margin of profit is universally conceded never to have been so small. The attempts at the formations of pools, trusts and other schemes of consolidation are only one method for testifying to the universal conviction of business men of the hopelessness of commercial enterprises conducted on a basis of unrestricted competition. Reference has been made above to the difficulty with which commercial paper is negotiated, and when it is considered how many business houses depend for most of their capital on the ability to sell their own notes, it is evident that this is a condition highly unfavorable, particularly at the beginning of the busy season.

With the general situation of the real estate market the reader of THE RECORD AND GUIDE may be assumed to be familiar. Whether as a rule prices are too high or too low, whether building operations have been unduly carried on by the necessity of speculative contractors stimulated by the temptation offered by the building loan system to build in advance of demand, are questions which everyone must determine for himself.

But there are certain features of the real estate market which ought not to be overlooked in any general survey of the financial situation. That mortgage loans are being made perilously near the present market values of property is a fact which, though known to many experts, ought not to be longer concealed from the public. It constitutes, in my judgment, the greatest peril which confronts the real estate market of to-day. If for any unforeseen reason a "cold snap" should come upon the market this fall it is beyond doubt that more foreclosures would result in the next year than have been seen since the dark days of 1874 and 1875. Within my own observation I have recently seen loans made of estate moneys up to within what the mortgagor admitted to me was 95 per cent. of the actual value of the property, and my observation is that this was not at all an isolated case. It is notorious how many transfers are being made to "dummies" in lawyers' offices, mortgages being given by them so as to avoid personal liability on the bonds by the real parties in interest. I know of a certain broken-down old subpoena server in the office of a well-known lawyer, who enjoys a sort of pension of $10 a week for past services, who within the last eighteen months appears on record in the New York Register's office as having given mortgages for over a million dollars. The old gentleman's total earthly possessions do not certainly exceed a thousand dollars, and it is easily seen how valuable the personal bond which accompanied these mortgages must have been. If values were in an unquestionably safe position such transactions would not be so frequent, and the desire thus manifested to escape the contingency of personal obligation is in itself an admission by these shrewd observers that the speculative position of real estate is not at all assured.

It must be apparent how unsafe these loans really are, particularly when this class of borrowers invariably precede these transactions by a fictitious series of transfers at constantly increasing valuations. THE RECORD has done a great service to genuine real estate interests by its exposure of these illegitimate operations, which constitute a source of danger to the entire commercial community which never was so entirely interdependent as now.

While the financial situation cannot be said to be positively unsafe, yet it can hardly be denied that there are grave indications of weakness. That we are approaching a season of severe tightness in the money market is very evident. The main source of reliance for relief in this direction must under the present Sub-Treasury system be from the national government. But it should not be overlooked that while the surplus in the Treasury is over seventy millions, yet this is merely a surplus as to the Treasury itself; for in estimating the relief which can be afforded the money market of the country from this source the deposits which the Treasury has made in the national banks must be deducted. So far as the sums represented by these deposits are in question, of course no relief could be afforded by transfers from them to the Treasury.

The amount of the surplus or "available balance" in the Treasury is about $70,000,000, but making the deduction of the $43,000,000 already actually in circulation through deposits in the national banks leaves about $30,000,000. This is practically the net accumulation in the Treasury from which the Secretary can afford the relief to the money market for which Wall street now clamors.

Besides this, for at least ninety days, no other relief is available, except as a stringent money market in the United States should draw funds from Europe. But both the State banks of France and of Germany are engaged in strengthening their coin reserves for political reasons, and will use their utmost powers of control over their money markets to prevent the flow of bullion to the United States.

While the prospective abundance of our crops is a very hopeful feature of the situation, yet the immediate future is, I think, not without abundant elements of peril, and it would be well for us to put the ship under "reefed sail" for awhile till we see if a storm is approaching.

CHRISTOPHER WALTON.

A Frenchman and Our World's Fair.

M. Le Redacteur:

Pardon. I am Francais. I have some words to say about your Exposition which burn in my head. I will be frank to you. Last week I did not think much of your World's Fair idea, because it has been; it is a thing finished, in the magnificent city of my beautiful country—in Paris. I said to me "what these Americans do will only be a gross, vile, big imitation. They will take the figures of the height and the length and the breadth of our noble buildings and will add 1 to them every way and they will cry 'we have the biggest show on earth,' and will be content, like a huge hippopotamus who has measured himself with a beautiful antelope or gazelle and sinks back in his mud satisfied. It will be merely a 'grand opportunity' for your big lard men and brewers to advertise themselves in big barns where people who know no better will flock in multitudes and cry 'immense!' and your vile newspapers who tickle you wherever you will laugh, will echo 'Immense. We have astonished the universe.'"

This was last week. Now, all is changed in me; for I have bought a little lot, 25x100, in the 24th Ward, and I see, mon Dieu, how clearly! what a grand opportunity the Exposition would be for me. I want that Exposition so much, and much more I want it in the 24th Ward, near to Van Cortlandt Park. Oh! what a fine site that shall be for it. I am convinced, like so many who are now writing to the newspapers that the Fair will fail ignominiously unless it is opposite my lot. I do not care whether it may be opposite the back or the front or even the sides of it. Please use your great influence, M. Le Redacteur, to accomplish this grand consummation and perhaps I may make 100 per cent. and go next year to my beloved Paris. With the assurance of my high consideration.

The Purchase of Coney Island Point.

With $1,500,000 and a fine capacity for seeing perspective value, a syndicate, represented by George W. Palmer, United States Commissioner of Claims, will, in all probability, receive title to Norton's Point from the trustees of the town of Gravesend on August 29th.

Norton's Point contains about 150 acres and has a frontage of 3,500 feet on the ocean and a depth of 2,200 feet. In addition to this, it is claimed that this end of the island is gaining land every year, while the other end is losing. It is proposed to make a first-class summer resort of the property. An elegant hotel will be built, a railroad run to the point by next year, and also a competing line of boats which have already been purchased. Piers will be erected in Gravesend Bay, which, being nearer the city than the present piers, will enable boats to make the trip in twenty minutes from New York, and enable them to establish a 25 cent round trip tariff. Work will be commenced at once.

The Experience of Paris in Securing an Exposition Site.

"It is very desirable," said Mr. George S. Lespinasse, in conversation with a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, "to apprehend clearly what are the essential or the most essential conditions to be complied with in selecting a site. Men's minds should be cleared on this point first; and I think much may be learnt from studying the experience of the managers of the Paris Exposition, particularly as the problem which confronted them was similar in many important details to the problem which the Committee on Sites will have to consider. The difficulties were the same in both cases. It was in 1884 that the present Paris Fair was first decreed, and this site question was vigorously discussed for two years, not being decided until August, 1886. The number of spots at first suggested was absurdly large; but finally, in 1885, there were only four left to select from—Vincennes, Levallois, Courbevoie and the Bois de Boulogne. The merits of these sites were the subjects of as much controversy as have been and will be those of Pelham Bay Park, Van Cortlandt Park, Inwood or Washington Heights with us."

"What consideration was deemed to be of the most importance by the Board of Managers?" asked the reporter.

"The consideration of accessibility at a small cost," answered Mr. Lespinasse. "They argued in this way: To the rich who come to Paris to see the Exposition, no matter whether they are residents or strangers, it does not make so very much difference where the grounds are situated, provided means of transportation are convenient and commodious. But the rich would furnish comparatively few entrances. It is to the poor we must turn for the mass of the visitors. They calculated it would take about six visits to see the Fair. Of course the workingmen will want to bring their families and, consequently, the entrance expenses themselves will amount to a very large amount of money. There is probably an outside sum, more than which a man cannot afford to spend; the more of that sum which goes to transportation companies the less there will remain for the Exposition. Consequently, they decided the grounds must be situated in a place that could be reached with ease by every known means of transportation, including walking, for in addition to the necessities of making the site accessible they would not trust the transportation to any one, two, or three corporations. This principle, when applied, shut out Vincennes, Levallois and Courbevoie. Vincennes bears the same relation to the centre of Paris as Van Cortlandt Park does to the centre of New York—that is 42d street. It was found to be too far off, and, in spite of the beauties of the place, it had to be excluded. At Courbevoie, which is to Paris as Inwood is to New York, there were large tracts of land available on satisfactory conditions. This site was considered for quite a while, only, however, on condition that the Metropolitan Railway Company should build a connection with the grounds. But in the end it was rejected on account of its inaccessibility from the great hotels and the poorer parts of Paris. Levallois, the Washington Heights of Paris, was rejected on precisely the same grounds. It was finally deemed essential to the financial success of the Fair to select the Champ de Mars, so that people could go there cheaply and, hence, repeatedly. There was not so many square feet of land in the Champ de Mars as in the other places, but it was better to limit the area than isolate the grounds. The reasons officially given for the selection were these: Strangers arriving in Paris by any railroad could reach the grounds without a change of cars; the Paris circular railway ran into the place, tapping every part of the city; it would cost only two francs by cab to get there from the most distant sections; six lines of omnibus could be used as means of conveyance for from three to six cents; five lines of city railway ran there at the same prices; three other lines of tramways, one running from Versailles, one from St. Cloud, and one from Sèvres also reached the grounds; and a flotilla of 107 boats drawing the whole length of the Seine, could, making fifteen trips a day, deposit at the Champ de Mars 400,000 people and take them away again, for three cents apiece. With such facilities as these it is not a wonder that the Paris Fair has attracted the largest crowd ever gathered together in history for a similar purpose."

"You would think it wise, then, to pursue a similar plan in regard to our own Exposition?" asked the reporter.

"Most certainly," returned Mr. Lespinasse. "The success of whatever plan the Committee on Finance selects will depend upon the way in which the Committee on Sites do their work. It was realized by those who got up the Paris Exposition that a good deal of the money put in was money lost. They received 25,000,000 francs from the State, 8,000,000 from the city, and 18,000,000 came from the Guarantee Company. In 1878, 17,000,000 francs had come from a similar company, and those who contributed it just got their money back. It is proposed to raise $15,000,000 for the New York World's Fair. Some such sum must evidently be necessary, for the material and labor is one-third cheaper in Paris than it is here. Obviously no such amount will ever be collected as entrance money, and a bad site might easily reduce the total number of visitors far below the estimates of 15,000,000 or 20,000,000 which are so readily made. What a humiliation for the metropolis if she should get the Fair, and then make a failure of it."

Mr. Edgerton's Troubles.

Last Saturday, Emmet Edgerton, a real estate agent at No. 107 West 27th street, was arrested on the affidavits of James B. Mix and Henry Sanchez, executors of the estate of the late Mrs. Sarah A. Mix, on a warrant signed by Judge Nehrbras. They alleged that he retained $853.83 of the rents collected in July from the tenants of seven houses belonging to the estate. Mr. Edgerton promptly furnished $1,000 for his appearance. On Thursday morning last, Justice Ford dismissed the case after hearing the evidence.

Mr. Edgerton recently had some trouble with one Myrtle Remington, on a similar charge. It is claimed that these charges are trumped up in revenge for Edgerton's activity as a member of the Property Owners' Association in trying to purify the neighborhood.

Obituary—Leonard J. Carpenter.

On Saturday, August 17th, died Leonard J. Carpenter, one of the most prominent real estate brokers in New York, and Second Vice-President of the Real Estate Exchange. Mr. Carpenter was born on April 18, 1845, in New York City. He entered the real estate business before he was twenty years old, beginning for himself in a very small way. His father had charge of renting some property, to the care of which Mr. Carpenter succeeded, his office being situated for a long time in the Bible House. Such was his energy and enterprise, however, that his business soon justified his assuming the responsibility of a larger office. In 1879 he moved into the Young Men's Christian Association building and remained there until three years ago, when a still further extension of his business justified his removal down town.

Everyone who knew Leonard J. Carpenter as a man, as well as in business, will bear testimony to his unvarying integrity and strictly honorable conduct. In manner he was unassuming and courteous. By his close application to the interests of his clients—who included some of the most prominent men in society and finance—and by his perfectly frank and straightforward business methods, he won the confidence of all with whom he had dealings. Mr. Carpenter was always backward in putting himself forward. By some accident he was not enrolled among the prominent men who organized the Real Estate Exchange. Subsequently he became a director, and fulfilled his duties as director for four years with a zeal which was unsurpassed by any of his colleagues. As treasurer of the institution he did all in his power to support a wise and economical administration of its affairs, and though on a sick bed with pneumonia last winter he did not forget to see that the reports and accounts were properly and promptly taken care of. He was a conscientious man, and this was the secret of his hold upon his business friends. He could always be relied upon. His death will be a loss to the Exchange, to his many real estate friends, and to the large circle who knew him in his private capacity.

His funeral was held on Wednesday last at his residence. Among those present were Richard V. Harnett, Horace S. Ely, John D. Crimmins, James E. Levine, N. W. S. Catlin, S. S. Packard, William C. Schermerhorn, F. A. Schermerhorn, Charles E. Schermerhorn, H. H. Cammann, E. A. Cruikshank, William Cruikshank and Frederick C. Wagner.

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Real Estate Exchange, called by the president to take action upon the death of Mr. Carpenter, Messrs. H. H. Cammann, Geo. H. Scott and Myer S. Isaacs were appointed a committee, which prepared the following resolution:

Resolved, That this board desires to express its sense of the great loss that the Real Estate Exchange has sustained by the death of Leonard J. Carpenter.

Mr. Carpenter was elected a director on the 13th day of December, 1886. During the years 1887 and 1888 he served as treasurer, and in December, 1888, he was elected second vice-president, which post he filled at the time of his death. He also served as chairman of the Auction Room Committee. In all these capacities he was ready to give, at any time, the utmost attention to the business and interests of the Exchange. As chairman of the Brokers' Committee he devoted considerable attention to the Bureau of Information.

But his loss is not merely confined to the Exchange; it will be regretted by the whole real estate interest. He was a man of rare gentleness and courtesy and of the most unswerving integrity, and carried the principles of truth and honor into every detail of his life. His example has done much to elevate the tone of the real estate market, to increase public confidence therein, and to promote a better fellowship among those engaged in its various departments.

The Exposition Committee on Sites.

On Thursday last was the first meeting of the Committee on Sites, when provisions were made for the appointment of an executive committee and the permanent organization of the board. In spite of a little sharp talking everything passed off harmoniously. Charles A. Dana was elected chairman of the committee. There was some discussion over the election of an executive committee. Roswell P. Flower thought that since the selection of a site was such an important matter, every member of the committee ought personally to go over the ground and examine all the available sites. It should not be left in the hands of a small committee. W. W. Astor agreed with Mr. Flower in this view of the matter. He then went on to say:

Now, it seems to me that in the question of finding a site for this Exposition there are certain essential conditions of which we must be assured on the outset. In the first place, we must have 200 to 300 acres of thoroughly level ground that must be clear of buildings and that we must be able to occupy free of cost. It seems to me that the next condition to be looked at is that the site which we choose must be on the water. It must be available for ships as well as by rail. It must be a place where we can bring our building materials, exhibits, and hundreds of thousands of people by rail and water both. Then, in the third place, it seems to me that it should be a spot that is naturally attractive to the eye and to the fancy, and with a fine sheet of water before it for marine exhibits and displays. It should be a place where there are no unsightly buildings or anything offensive in its vicinity. I do not believe that there is any such spot on this island. I have seen Governor's Island suggested, but that seems to me to be entirely too small to be of any use whatever. We are thus led to the great public parks in Westchester county. On both the east and west sides there are several excellent locations. For these reasons I agree most heartily with what Mr. Flower has said that we must examine these spots ourselves.

Finally the resolution to appoint an executive committee was adopted as amended. The meeting was further characterized by an attempt on the part of Cornelius N. Bliss to exclude Central Park as a site, at once and forever. The resolution was strongly opposed as unnecessary and premature, and was finally tabled. The chair announced the following executive committee: Mr. Bliss, Mr. Flower, Mr. Grace, Mr. Green, Mr. Gompers, Mr. Straus, and Mr. Towne; Mr. Bliss and Mr. Green declined, and Mr. Chandler and Mr. Starin were appointed in their places.

Mount Vernon.

The advance in value of suburban real estate has affected Mount Vernon probably as much as any place along the line of the New Haven and Harlem roads. Its population has not increased as rapidly as might have been desired by many of its owners of realty, but it has none the less been substantial, having risen from about 8,000 in 1880 to about 11,000 to-day.

Mount Vernon has advanced with great strides during the past five years, but especially so in the last two years. This is mainly due to the breaking up of estates hitherto held in a few hands and to their being distributed among scores of people anxious to buy, many of them for building purposes. There is also a good railroad service, about one hundred trains stopping at Mount Vernon daily by the New Haven and Harlem roads. However, this train service might be very much improved, on the Harlem Road at least. The schedule time is from twenty-one to thirty-six minutes, and as far as the experience of the writer went, the other day, his train from Mount Vernon to New York was not only late in getting to the former place, but late in arriving at the Grand Central Depot. Besides, the smoke and dust which gets into the cars are not very pleasant additions to a stiflingly warm car on a hot day, and while the morning and evening trips may be cool enough for business men, going and returning, the afternoon journey is not always the pleasantest. No doubt, however, when the sunken tracks are completed and soft coal is dispensed with, there will be very little objection on these scores. If the Harlem Road wants to bring people along its line it will certainly have to cease using soft coal as fuel for the engines. When the sunken tracks are completed the time to the New York Central Depot will be reduced to about twenty minutes, and this is certain to bring a good many more people to Mount Vernon and increase the value of property there.

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET.

Messrs. Bogardus & Archer, real estate brokers, were seen. They said: "The market for realty here is healthy, with a strong undertone. There are quite a number of buyers, local and outside, but principally the latter. They come from New York City, Brooklyn and New Jersey."

"What reasons do they generally give for wanting to move?" asked the writer.

"Well, people in New Jersey seem to object to crossing the ferries and to the mosquitoes. Brooklyn people also object to the ferries, and to the nuisance of changing from one conveyance to another. New York City people come out to get cheap rents. They obtain an entire house here for nearly half the cost of a flat, and get better accommodations and more air and light, with healthier surroundings. The saving in rent pays several times over the extra cost of railroad fares over the "L" road fares, the Harlem Road charging $55 annual commutation and the New Haven Road $60. Elevated road fares for 300 working days cost $30 per annum, while one can save from $60 to $300 per annum in rent by living here."

"What would be the effect on Mount Vernon property if the lines centering at the Grand Central Depot were to be continued down to the Battery?" asked the writer.

"Well, I am afraid to predict what would happen. I should say that the property-owners around this way would lose their heads, for every man who owned an acre would think he had made his fortune. It would be a boom for all property on the line of any of the roads running from the Battery as far as White Plains."

RENTS.

Rents at Mount Vernon seem to be moderate. In good localities two-story and attic dwellings can be rented at from $15 to $30 per month without improvements. With improvements, the rents range from $30 to $100 per month. These houses are mostly within five to ten minutes' walk of either of the two railroad depots. By improvements, bath, water closet, range, gas, running water, refrigerator, etc., are usually meant.

WHAT BUILDING LOTS COST.

Messrs. Cameron & Co., real estate brokers, said: "Our highest priced lots are on 4th avenue, which is the main business thoroughfare. They range from about $3,000 to $8,000 each, 25x100. House lots are about cheapest on 7th avenue, south of 5th street, where plots 100x100 can be bought for from about $1,500 to $2,500, while our best residence property is on Chester Hill, where similar plots can be purchased at from about $1,500 to $4,000 each."

COMING IMPROVEMENTS.

The New Haven Road is preparing plans for a new depot to be built here adjoining the present depot. It will cost about $100,000.

The First Presbyterian Church are having plans prepared, by competing architects, for a handsome stone front church, which they will build on eight lots purchased by them on 6th avenue, between 1st and 2d streets. They expect to spend $40,000 on the edifice.

Wm. A. Anderson, the painter, will shortly commence the foundations for a four-story building, 35x75, to be built on the west side of 4th avenue, between 1st and 2d streets. It will have two stores on the first floor and six suites of apartments above. The plans are being drawn by Henry S. Rapelye.

Edwin R. Neely, the New York stockbroker, is about to build a handsome villa on Sidney avenue, near Rich avenue, Chester Hill, to cost from $8,000 to $10,000.

Friel & Hand, the New York furniture men, are about to build a four-story brick building, 75x90, on 4th avenue, near 2d street, on the three lots purchased by them recently at the low figure of $7,500. It will contain three stores on the first floor and twelve suites of apartments above. Walter F. Sickles is the architect.

A lot on the south side of 4th avenue, 31 feet south of 1st street, 25x100 in size, recently purchased at $8,200, will be improved when the lease on the old building on the site expires.

The local Masonic Lodge and kindred bodies speak of building a brick and stone building in which they can all meet, using the first floor for stores and the floors above for offices and lodge rooms. The building would certainly be successful, both from a financial and social point of view. The cost, it is estimated, would be $25,000.

Wm H. Conkling, of the defunct dry-goods firm of Conkling & Chivvis, is about to build a handsome villa in the modern Colonial style, to cost $10,000. It will be 40x50 in size, and will be built on the northeast corner of Rich avenue and White Plains road. Walter F. Sickles is the architect.

Henry Underhill will build a two-story and attic frame and shingle dwelling, size 28x38 and extension, on the corner of Franklin avenue and 5th street, to cost $5,500, from plans by Hy. S. Rapelye.

The foundations have been commenced for a two-story frame and shingle house, 28x45, to be built by Robert Van Namee on Sidney avenue, near Fulton avenue, Chester Hill. It will contain all the improvements and will cost $6,500. Lawrence & Peek are the architects.

W. S. Shaw will build two frame and shingle dwellings, 30x42 each, on Rich avenue, near Prospect avenue, at a total cost of $7,600. They will be commenced about September.

Gerd Martens, a well-known local real estate owner, is about to build two frame and shingle dwellings on Martens place, near Fulton avenue. They will be two-and-a-half-stories high, one being 27x40, and the other 35x35 in size, and they will cost about $9,000 together.

There is a prospect of the erection of a new village hall. The idea is to put up a building that will have a good sized hall, with stores on the first floor and accommodation for the village officers, with a few offices above which could be rented out. The matter is now being agitated.

The Créscent Tennis Club, numbering about seventy members of both sexes, intend building a club-house on a plot purchased by them on 1st avenue and 1st street.

It is reported that the Bank of Mount Vernon will erect a new building on 3d avenue and 1st street.

SOME IMPROVEMENTS UNDER WAY.

The new armory building for the Eleventh Separate Company, the corner stone of which was laid recently, is being pushed forward with all speed. It will be of brick and stone, and will cost $25,000. The company consists of about seventy-five men, under the command of Capt. I. N. Pressy.

The Y. M. C. A. will have their new building finished this month. It will have cost about $30,000 complete, exclusive of land.

Dr. Nathan Nutting's house, which was started last week, will cost $7,500. It is on 2d avenue, between 2d and 3d streets, and will be occupied by the worthy doctor before New Year's Day.

The Olivet drug store, just completed, on Stevens avenue and White Plains road, is a pretty building of its class.

The villa just being finished for A. E. Chivvis, on White Plains road, is very attractive, and will have cost the owner close on $15,000.

A two-story and attic frame dwelling, 35x47.6, is being built by M. Hatch, on Summit avenue, and will cost $12,000.

G. Howard's two-story and attic frame cottage, on Prospect avenue, is well under way, and will cost $6,000.

The two-story brick stable being built by Wm. Emmeluth on 2d street, near 5th avenue, will contain accommodations for seven horses and will have a coachman's quarters above. It is 35x45, and will cost $5,000.

The house being built for P. Magee on 6th avenue, between 6th and 7th streets, will have steam heat, etc., and will cost $5,000 or more. The foundations are nearly up.

The frame house just being finished by S. J. Johnson, on Fulton avenue and Rentz place, will cost $5,300 complete.

OTHER NOTES.

The "swell" location of Mount Vernon is Chester Hill, a tract of ground bounded by the New Haven Railroad tracks on the south, Park avenue on the west and White Plains road on the north and east. The property is restricted against stores and nuisances, and contains some 300 plots, about 150 or 175 of which are improved or being built upon. It is the project of Chas. Crary and Alfred H. Darling, of the Fifth Avenue Hotel. The houses are mainly occupied and owned by local and New York business and professional men. Some twenty are now under way, costing from $5,000 to $10,000 each.

The prominent houses in Mount Vernon include those of Hugh Carlisle, principal in a New York school; the Rev. Dr. Hiscox, minister of the Baptist Church; Arthur J. McCarten, Geo. Howard, A. E. Chivvis, and M. L. Sykes, vice-president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad; Gerd. Martens, the retired sugar refiner; Marx Wintjen, A. H. Duncombe, M. Rathbun, and Wm. Hart, the well-known cattle painter, who remodeled the old Duffy place and changed it into a little paradise, and Allen W. Adams, of Adams, Willson & Co., the lumbermen, who has probably the finest brick country house in the neighborhood.

There is an agitation under way for the annexation of Washingtonville and calling it "South Mount Vernon." It is said the plan will be carried out.

The churches here are a Baptist, Episcopal, Reformed Dutch, Catholic and two Methodist, with a Presbyterian Church shortly to be built. The seating accommodations vary from 150 to 1,000, and the edifices are of frame, brick and stone.

Mount Vernon boasts of four local papers, the Record, Argus and Standard being published weekly, and the Chronicle semi-weekly. There are two banks, the East Chester Savings and the Bank of Mount Vernon. There is one horse-car line, running to Eastchester in twenty minutes, and three stage lines, running to Yonkers in forty minutes through pleasant country. The principal store and office structures are the Dearborn, Chronicle, Berry, Reynolds, Ferguson, Gardner and Odell buildings.

Mount Vernon is about a mile and a-half from Eastchester Creek, and is four miles drive from the Sound, the nearest point being Pelham Bridge. The streets are lighted by both gas and electricity and the market supplies are excellent. The country roads are good, but the street roads in the village are abominable. As an old resident and taxpayer remarked to the writer: "They are a disgrace to a civilized community. It is due to bad management, for the town is taxed amply." The taxes are about as high as in New York, being 3 per cent. on a one-third valuation of the property, equal to 1 per cent. on a full valuation and 2 per cent. on a two-thirds valuation.

AN ELECTRIC STREET RAILROAD.

One of the most important enterprises quietly being pushed forward is that of the new street railroad on which the electric motor is to be used. It promises to be of great value to the residents of a large section, as well as to the property through which it will run. It will start from the Hudson River Railroad Depot at Yonkers and will thence run to Getty square, thence to and through Yonkers avenue, passing Dunwoodie Heights and tapping the northern road on the way; thence to Mount Vernon and Eastchester, tapping the New Haven and Harlem roads, and thence to Pelham Bay Park, terminating at City Island. One of the promoters was seen by the writer, but he did not care to divulge many particulars yet. The project is largely in the hands of a well-known local firm of real estate brokers, who are acting for local and city capitalists. About 50 per cent. of the property-owners along the route have already given their signatures in favor of the road, and an application to the local authorities will shortly be made for a charter. Should this be granted, which there is no reason to doubt, the contracts will at once be given out and work commenced. The fares have not yet been decided upon, but they will probably be from five to twenty-five cents, according to the distance passengers will require to ride.

Building in Fifth Avenue.

Fifth avenue in summer presents a succession of curtained dwellings, barred doors, and, in contrast to the activity of the winter months, this great artery of the metropolis seems to pulsate slowly. Yet there is another sort of activity—not that of beautiful horses and fine equipages, but the activity of the builder, the mason, the carpenter. The heavy dray and brick-laden carts replace the high-steppers. From 23d street to 59th street there are no less than nine large buildings being razed, altered or built for business purposes. A noticeable fact is the preference for corner lots, for no less than six are on corners.

A very striking-looking building is that going up on the southwest corner of 28th street and 5th avenue. It is six stories high, the front being of brick and stone. The architect is J. E. Terhune and the owner Joseph Thompson. The walls are all up, the beams are laid, plastering has been commenced, and the work of putting in the elevator is under way. It was expected that all work would be finished by October 1st, but in all probability the building will not be completed until November 1st.

The work of tearing down the two dwellings Nos. 274 and 276 5th avenue, between 29th and 30th streets, is progressing rapidly, the old foundation walls are being razed, and digging has been commenced. In addition to these two lots is one on 30th street. On this site, which has 50 feet on the avenue, about 150 feet depth, and 25 feet on 30th street, the owner, General Ripley, proposes to erect a large seven-story hotel.

On the northwest corner of 30th street the handsome office and apartment building, named "The Wilbraham," is being pushed with all speed in order to be ready for occupancy some time in November. It has eight stories, is built in French Renaissance style, and the front is of brick and brown stone.

The three brown stone dwellings on the northwest corner of 33d street, belonging to the Astor estate, have been torn down and blasting and digging been commenced to make room for a five-story warehouse for A. T. Demarest & Co., the carriage manufacturers. The foundations will be commenced the beginning of next week.

Anyone walking up the avenue cannot help noticing the beautiful new house of John A. Griswold, at No. 1 East 34th street. Bruce Price is the architect and he has designed one of the most striking houses in the city. The style is of a composite order, leaning to the Romanesque, with an immense bay window on the first floor. The house is 25x100 and contains about twenty-five rooms. Another feature is the large open air and light shaft in the side wall. The front is of uncut brown stone.

The four-story and basement dwelling on the southwest corner of 37th street, owned by the Goellet estate, is being altered into a restaurant and café for Louis Sherry, the 6th avenue caterer. The story added to the old building is nearly completed and the interior walls have been torn down, and the two lots at No. 402 5th avenue and the one on 37th street are being built upon to form a very handsome ballroom, the walls of which are up to the first story. When complete the united buildings will be very large. The cost of the work will reach $100,000. McKim, Mead & White are the architects.

But three narrow houses are left of the old row of Gothic yellow brick houses, formerly the Rutgers Female College. The house on the corner of 41st street was bought by James McCreery and torn down to make room for his new flat. Mr. McCreery tried to purchase the old house next door, but too big a price was demanded, and he refused. The new building, 23 feet on 5th avenue and 96 feet on 41st street, will have six stories, a store on the ground floor, and the front will be of buff brick, terra cotta and cut stone. It will have all improvements, elevator, steam heat, etc. The cost is to be $100,000. Albert Wagner is the architect.

R. W. Gibson has prepared the plans for the alteration of J. B. Cornell's house, No. 530 5th avenue. The two lower floors will be used by the Fifth Avenue Bank, and the basement and cellar will contain the safe deposit vaults. The new work is to be of Nova Scotia stone and red brick, and the extension is to cover one-half the stable lot in the rear. The best fire-proof material is to be used. The bank offices will be very handsome. Light trimmings and mosaic floors will be features of the work. The bank officials expect to have everything ready by November 1st.

Plastering, painting, etc., goes on rapidly in the seven-story addition to the Buckingham at 50th street, and the proprietors expect to move in about October 1st.

About as busy a place as can be found is the Plaza Hotel at 59th street. The place swarms with workmen. The iron balconies are being put up, the handsome pillars of the entrance are in position, and plasterers, painters and carpenters are working night and day. In a few months the work may be finished.

Men and Things.

The Safety Electric Light and Power Company have received permission to lay an iron pipe, not to exceed 12 inches in diameter, under the surface of the east side of 13th avenue, between 23d and 34th streets, to and through the bulkhead to the waters of the North River, for conducting salt water only, the company to hold the city free from loss or damage before and after the work.

The contract for the first elevated road ever constructed in England has just been given out. It is to be erected in Liverpool, and is to stretch for a length of six miles parallel with the docks. The structure apparently is to be something similar to our New York road, for it is to be composed of iron girders, with a water-tight flooring, and is sustained on wrought-iron pillars. The trains are to be run by electricity. The engineers are Sir Douglas Fox and J. H. Greathead. It would be interesting to learn what motives animated the projectors of the road in thus reversing the usual English custom of subways, and adopting a system, which if in itself it has not been peculiarly American, has not in the foregoing application been adopted to any extent outside of this country. In Paris, London, and Berlin there are elevated structures, but they are not run along the streets, nor are they sustained on iron pillars.

The new Music Hall on the site of the old Madison Square Garden is going to be more than merely a music hall. There will be not only a main amphitheatre with a permanent seating capacity of 6,000 and a possible seating capacity of 12,000, but there will be a theatre capable of holding 1,200, a café and restaurant; a concert hall on the second floor, private dining-rooms, and a roof-garden.

Secretary Duncan, of Trinity Church Corporation requested, last Friday, that the consideration of the proposed park at Hudson, Leroy and Clarkson streets be postponed two weeks by the Board of Street Openings, to give time for the filing of protests.

During the quarter ending March 31st, of this year, there were 801 fires in the houses of this city, of which 744 were confined to the point of starting, 147 to the building, while 10 spread to other buildings.

The following companies have filed certificates of incorporation at the Secretary of State's office, Albany: The Homestead Material Company, of New York City, for the manufacture of building materials, with a capital of $10,000; the Orleans Land and Improvement Co., of Buffalo, with a capital of $48,000; the Lisk Manufacturing Co. (Limited), for the manufacture of sheet metal goods in Clifton Springs, Ontario County, with a capital of $10,000, and at the office of the County Clerk, in this city, the Sicilian Asphalt Paving Co., with a capital stock of $250,000—Howard Carroll, A. J. Dittenhoefer, William C. Edgerton, C. S. Chamberlain, S. C. Clausen, Louis P. Mead, Horace B. Freeman, Henry Bolze, Julius Simon and H. W. Schmidt are among the incorporators.

An interesting decision has been rendered by Judges Truax and Freedman in the case of Wm. Y. Mortimer and others, as executors, against the New York Elevated Railway Company, for damages to property situated on the Bowery. The Railway Company, in appealing from a decision of a lower court, carried their case back to the time of the Dutch government of New York, when abutting property-owners had no right or interest in the streets. The Judges hold that New York was really never properly under the dominion of the Dutch. That the Dutch law, in fact, was no more binding than the laws made by the secessionists in the South during the war, and that consequently the property-owners have an interest in the streets under the English law, which, the Judges say, must be deemed as the original source of all our laws.

Our Letter Bag.—V. K. Stevenson's Petition.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Relative to the very able committee recently appointed by the Hon. Hugh J. Grant, consisting of Messrs. Bennett, Crimmins, Dana, Puditzer and others, so great is the interest felt among real estate men in the work of this Committee on Sites, that a petition has been drawn up requesting them to locate the Exhibition as closely as possible to the built up portion of the city, regardless of any individual interests, for the best benefit of real estate owners, brokers, tenants and the public of New York City.

There are several good locations on this island proper within easy driving or walking distance of our stores and shops, hotels and places of amusement. If the Exhibition of 1892 is located close to the built up portion of the city our citizens will make money. Whereas, if it should be located in or north of our newly-acquired wards the distance would be so great and to get there would be so expensive and tedious that it would result in an immense loss to our city. We have a petition at our office and request the signatures of all taxpayers, and all "interested parties" to sign it. We will duly forward it to the Mayor.

Real Estate Department.

The market during the past week has not shown any signs of faltering activity, though the current belief is that an early and active season is in store for us. Very little was done on the Exchange, the offerings being strictly of the midsummer kind. In the brokers' and architects' offices things are decidedly quiet, the spell of warm weather having hurried to the country many who were lingering in town. Another fortnight must elapse before there is a reawakening of business. A list of the property sold this week on 'Change is given in the usual column. None of the transactions call for special comment.

On Monday, August 26th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the three-story brick building with a two-story brick extension, and a two-story brick building on the rear of the lot, at No. 227 (old No. 223) Lewis street, between 7th and 8th streets.

Out Among the Builders.

J. C. Burne has plans on the boards to erect for John Tolles two five-story brick and brown stone apartment houses, 37.6x90, on the west side of 8th avenue, 50 feet south of 107th street, at a cost of $50,000 each, and for Frederick Aldhous, a four-story and basement brick and brown stone dwelling, 25x50, with an extension 13.6x21, on the east side of Lenox avenue, 75 feet north of 117th street, at a cost of $28,000.

G. F. Pelham has plans under way for the following houses: For Jos. Bittenweiser, at No. 45 Oliver street, a five-story double tenement and stores, with brick and stone front, 25x89, to cost about $18,000, and similar building for same owner, at No. 87 West 3d street, 25x97, to cost about $19,000, with sixteen rooms on a floor; for Messrs. Weil & Mayer, three five-story tenements and stores on Monroe street, 93 feet west of Montgomery street, two 26x80 and one 18x80, with two families on a floor on the 18-foot building, and four on larger buildings. The fronts are to be of brick and stone. Total cost about $45,000.

Wm. Knaup will build, in the early spring, six five-story double and single flats on the north side of 101st street, 125 feet east of Park avenue. The buildings, which will be erected from plans by F. Wennemer, will be about 20x70 feet in size.

Wm. H. De Forest, Jr., is completing the twelve three and four-story dwellings on Convent avenue, at 144th street.

J. A. Connick is thinking of building several handsome dwellings on the lots recently purchased by him on the north side of 148th street, east of 10th avenue.

Brooklyn.

D. W. King, of New York, has prepared plans for a row of thirteen frame cottages in East New York. They will be about 24x35 each, two-and-a-half stories high. Nine will be in Old Colonial and four in Gothic style. They will have hardwood finish inside. Two will cost $3,500 each, two $2,800 each, and nine $2,500 each. H. S. Webster is the owner.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—While the change in conditions of the market for Common Hards is not radical in character, it has taken a turn for the better, and we naturally find operators in more cheerful mood than for several weeks past. Indeed, expressions are of a hopeful character not noticeable since the week of the "Fourth," when the dull spell first struck the market, and that no one seems to be going off at a tangent and predicting great and immediate recovery may be considered one of the healthy features of the situation. The gain, too, is mainly in what may be called the intermediate grade, and while really choice stock is now probably a little more solid at the figures previously quoted, or say about $6.12½@6.25, the offering upon which sellers have heretofore been compelled to allow a comparatively wide difference are run up at a much closer relative valuation, the recovery during the week amounting to 12½@25c. per M. Receipts have been larger, indeed were very liberal on both Monday and Thursday, but buyers appeared to have exhausted old supplies pretty thoroughly, and were quite ready to take the new lots as soon as offered, and therein sellers found their advantage. Of washed stock considerable shows itself, especially from up the river, and, of course, upon such a graded allowance has to be made according to amount of damage. From points of production the advices at hand indicate considerable better progress with work recently, owing to more favorable weather, and some manufacturers are said to be urging matters quite vigorously, though with the statement that they propose shutting down at a comparatively early date. Pales have apparently lost no demand, and there is a very general report of an exhaustive sale of arrivals at full former figures.

LATH.—This seems to be a good all around market again, and it would be a pretty difficult buyer to please who could not find accommodation in the matter of price at the moment. We have one report of a full cargo sale at $2.15 for St. John stock, though it is fair to say that the majority do not claim better than $2.10, and business is mentioned at $2.00@2.05 for Calais goods and then Northern stock at $1.90@1.95 per M. Of the latter it is estimated that about ten million in all have come to hand of late, with few, if any more, to follow, and the calculation is that as soon as they stop the market will harden again. Demand has shown no special eagerness, yet buyers were found with only an ordinary amount of stock, and receivers announce the usual "expectation" of better tones at an early date.

The German Co-operative Brewing Company will build a large beer brewing establishment on the land at Kingsland avenue on the southeast corner of Lombardy street, 191.1x200.8x232.9x20.6x189.2, recently purchased by them from Jeremiah V. Meserole for $10,250.

Out of Town.

BERGEN POINT, N. J.—C. W. Smith has designed a two-and-a-half-story frame dwelling, 58x40, containing ten rooms, to cost $6,500, for J. W. Trasks' Sons.

CLIFTON, S. I.—D. W. King has prepared plans for W. A. Cleveland of a two-and-a-half-story frame cottage, 24x35, built in Old Colonial style. Cost, $3,000.

FORDHAM, N. Y.—D. W. King has drawn the plans for Elmer A. Allen of a two-and-a-half-story frame dwelling, 30.6x55, to be in Old Colonial style. The cost will be about $5,000. Sketches of a new public hall, called Escanabar Hall, have been prepared by the same architect. It will be three stories in height and the front will be of brick and terra cotta. The hall on the second floor will have a seating capacity of 450, including a gallery. The building will have lodge rooms, stores on the ground floor and will be used for church fairs and entertainments. As soon as a desirable site is obtained, ground will be broken and work commenced.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.—Craig A. Marsh will build a two-and-a-half-story brick and green stone house, 36x72.6, containing fourteen rooms, at a cost of $12,000; C. W. Smith is the architect. Mr. Smith has also drawn plans of another two-and-a-half-story frame dwelling, 39x53, with ten rooms, to cost $5,500, for Susan A. Rafferty.

Special Notice.

George H. Toop, Homer J. Beaudet and John Hanson have completed the formation of "The East River Mill and Lumber Company," and are the trustees of the same. The capital of this company is $75,000, and among its stockholders are George Ehret, Jacob Ruppert and John D. Crimmins. This concern succeeds George F. Crombie, and will occupy and run the yards and mill at the foot of East 92d street. Thomas J. Crombie will assume charge of the business. He is to be congratulated on his prospects.

Manufacturers of Plumbing Materials.

A meeting of manufacturers and dealers in plumbing materials was held recently at the Astor House for the purpose of forming a protective association against dishonest plumbers and others who seek to evade the payment of their just debts. The committee which had the matter in charge had been working assiduously among the trade, and matters had advanced sufficiently to warrant the calling of the meeting so as to afford the opportunity to make the movement an accomplished fact. At the meeting the following firms responded:

- The Bradley White Lead Company.
- The Le Roy Shot and Lead Manufacturing Company.
- Thomas R. McMann & Brothers.
- The E. G. Blakeslee Manufacturing Company.
- Miller & Coates.
- Henry Steeger.
- Staats & Dillmeier.
- Mayor, Lane & Co.
- Myers Sanitary Depot.
- Fred Ade & Co.
- Tatham & Brothers.
- Hepe, Koven & Co.
- Nason Manufacturing Co.
- James Hanse & Co.
- L. Waefelaer, New York.
- McNab & Harlen Manufacturing Company, New York.
- Colwell Lead Co., New York.
- M. Reynolds & Co., New York.
- Haydenville Manufacturing Co., New York.
- Monitor Iron Works, New York.
- R. G. Bradley, New York.
- W. H. Hussey, New York.
- Ronalds & Co., New York.

Responses were read from firms in other cities, and after a free discussion of the various features of the proposed association, a constitution and by-laws were adopted, officers and executive committee elected, and the "Plumbers' Material Protective Association" was launched on the sea of new enterprises. The officers elected were: President, E. A. Le Roy; Vice-President, A. T. Foster; Treasurer, B. C. Smith; and Executive Committee, Messrs. Joseph T. Moore, John Harlen, T. R. McMann and Fred. Ade.

LIME.—About the only change since our last has been found in the somewhat smaller arrivals from the Eastward. All cargoes were promptly placed, and while dealers are now in many cases very well supplied, that feature is offset by the probability that a large proportion of the fleet is now at this end of the route, and shipments will be smaller for some time to come. All other grades of stock hold their own in the usual proportion.

LUMBER.—Locally the lumber market is not gaining much in the volume of business, but salesmen, who know how to reach out beyond the confines of the city trade, say they find a little more encouragement. A great many localities that are likely to feel the influence of difficult and costly transportation on the first seasonable change of that character are the points on which buyers are most willing to negotiate, and demand it is calculated will improve. Custom, however, is not wanting in this immediate vicinity, and on both sides of the "bridge" dealers can be found ready to negotiate on thoroughly standard stock without objection to about former cost. It is simply a fairly active and seasonable market with no basis upon which to expect a boom, though some of the special cuts required for local use may do better. The selling side meets the situation conservatively, more especially the representatives of the Western interests.

Eastern spruce has its moderate fluctuations as usual, and there is also at times quite a noticeable difference in the manner of operators reporting the market. On the general range of values, however, pretty much former extreme figures are always to be noted, with the top line of cost best supported, as it is the large stuff for which the demand becomes more and more pointed as the season progresses toward a close, and the chances for reaching stock become just so much reduced. Advices from the mills certainly convey the impression that there will be no chance to produce a surplus of first class lumber adapted to this market and it is doubtful if there be any overrun of ordinary stock of a serious character. It is reported that most recent arrivals were under engagement.

Piling and kindred stock remains under sufficient control to prevent any open or general offering and there is a corresponding degree of steadiness maintained on values. The demand as usual seems to be somewhat irregular in development, but leading receivers say they are very well satisfied with the amount of business accomplished within a month or two. We understand that recent easterly winds have brought forward about all the lumber laden vessels afloat for this port, and as there is likely to be some delay in obtaining return cargoes, the chances are against any important arrivals again for some time.

Hemlock is at least steady and possibly a more forcible demand might lead to quite pronounced strength again, especially on the desirable cuts. Buyers, however fail to exhibit any degree of nervousness or anxiety and to some extent have rather disappointed calculations of a few sellers who had hoped to make the advantage gained on the Williamsport disaster continuous, but discovered that after contracts had been made as an insurance against certain actual necessities customers were disposed to act with greater caution.

White pine does not change in any important feature and the market affords disappointment to a great many sellers. Stock is being purchased all the while, and possibly on a slight increasing scale, but the majority of dealers resort to "regular" sources of supply and very few at the moment are ready to negotiate on open random offerings so that stock of that sort rather goes begging. There is, however, little or none of it in such shape as to come upon sale in an urgent manner, and while occasionally some little allowance may be suggested as a sort of bait, positive cutting on rates has not been resorted to upon anything of standard quality. The export trade is still considered as in promising condition.

Yellow pine is steady in price and fairly active on all natural outlets, with now and then a pretty big special closed and others pending. Indeed, where buyers have fixed upon certain schedules as likely as sure to be wanted they are prompt enough in submitting them for bids and make no objection to about former cost with the frank admission that they discover no prospects of a decline. The manufacturers' combination, in fact, seems to be working harmoniously and the outside mills with work enough in hand or in view to prevent them from cutting the regular run of valuation. Local accumulations are increasing somewhat.

The latest report upon the Rio Janeiro market is from the Artes as follows: "Pitch Pine—The Magdala from Pensacola brought $11.348 feet, which have been sold on p. t. The Arica, from Brunswick, brings 484,570, which are on order. The market is reported firm, and we may quote to-day at $85000@375000 per dozen."

Carolina Pine is doing very well, and would appear in much better light did not some of its alleged friends indulge in rather overdrawn statements regarding the volume of present movement and chances for the future. It should be a sufficiently satisfactory trade that exhausts the production about as rapidly as it can be turned out, and maintains unbroken a profitable range of prices, and such seems to be the position of this class of stock.

Hardwoods, as a rule, continue in only moderate demand, and were salesmen to unite for a demonstration of interest on the part of dealers they would not be securing much custom, even through the dunning process; however, business is hardly satisfactory, as there is evidently no special desire to add to miscellaneous assortments, and most wants of a special character. Consignments stand a poor chance on such a market, as even with most earnest effort they frequently have to be parried with a very low plane of valuation, though in a general way rates are really fairly steady, and some of the pronounced cuts predicted do not appear to have taken shape.

Shingles retain a very cheerful line of reports. Anticipations of further call from exporters have been realized, the home outlets are as liberal as could be expected, and while supplies run fair they are under control and not offered except at full rates.

According to a correspondent's letter from Washington to a local commercial journal, Secretary Windom will not decide the question of changing the rate on sawed mahogany boards until his return from his fortnight's vacation. His subordinates have prepared the data, as they did in the case of Canadian cars, for a reversal of the established practice, but he desires to examine the matter with some care before deciding it. Up to the latter part of 1886, nearly all the mahogany imported entered the country in the form of logs under the provision of the tariff of 1883, placing woods, "unmanufactured," specifically designated, on the free list. Mahogany was designated, and there was no question of its free admission. The logs were sawed in New York, and the business was in the hands of a limited number of firms, whose heavy charges led the importers to establish mills in Cuba and other producing centres, so that in the latter part of 1888 the importations began to be in the form of sawed boards instead of logs. The boards were classified by the Appraiser at New York at the rate of 35 per cent, ad valorem under the provisions for manufactures of mahogany and other enumerated hardwoods; but an appeal was promptly taken on this classification, and Secretary Fairchild ruled that the boards were dutiable at only $2 per 1,000 feet under the following paragraph:

"Sawed boards, plank, deals and other lumber of hemlock, whitewood, sycamore and basswood, $1 per 1,000 feet, board measure. All other articles of sawed lumber, $2 per 1,000 feet, board measure; but when lumber of any sort is planed or finished, in addition to the rates herein provided there shall be levied and paid for each side so planed or finished 50 cents per 1,000 feet, board measure."

The question is made to turn upon whether mahogany sawed into boards is manufactured within the meaning of the statute. The Solicitor of the Treasury holds that it is manufactured, and that being distinctly provided for, it should pay the rate of 35 per cent. To the suggestion that it comes under the rate of $2 in the provision above quoted, he replies that that rate is applicable only to varieties of lumber not specifically enumerated.

The Solicitor argues that the provision quoted is not to be considered in connection with mahogany, as that article is provided for in its unmanufactured state in the free list, and in its manufactured state at the rate of 35 per cent. There are certain provisions, however, in the section which, in the opinion of the importers, justify the view that sawed mahogany is not manufactured within the meaning of the tariff. The very fact, they say, that the rate of $2 is imposed on lumber sawed to board measure is proof that lumber so sawed is not considered manufactured, for there occurs further along in the lumber schedule this provision:

"Manufactures of wood, or of which wood is the chief component part, not specially enumerated or provided for in this act, 35 per cent. ad valorem."

If sawed lumber is to be interpreted as "manufactures of wood," dutiable at 35 per cent. when not otherwise provided for, the provisions in the paragraph quoted for "all other articles of sawed lumber" at $2 per 1,000 feet, would seem to be altogether a meaningless and redundant provision. This seems to be the view of ex-Attorney-General Garland and Attorney-General Miller. Ex-Attorney-General Garland said, in an opinion given January 21, 1887, that "the make up of the lumber schedule, showing different degrees of advancement from the raw material to the perfected product, would indicate that at least some degree of advancement in the process of manufacture was intended in the clause referring to manufactures beyond the mere crude material intended for nothing special, except for sale or to be manufactured."

He continues: "The word 'manufactures' in this clause is intended to describe an article that has been made or formed by hand or machinery for some known and specific use or purpose, either as a whole or a finished part or element in such an article. When a mahogany tree is cut down and cut in appropriate lengths for transportation, and its bark or useless excrescences removed by axe or saw, it might in some possible sense be called a manufacture, but the statute did not intend to impose the highest rate of duty on such an article."

The Attorney-General therefore held that sawed mahogany properly came within the section quoted, at the rate of $2 per 1,000 feet. Attorney-General Miller has given a similar opinion.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Timberman has the following:

In Chicago everybody is hopeful of a big fall trade—they are well-nigh sure of it in fact. Some of the largest operators here have been heavy buyers recently in the neighborhood of Traverse, Manistee and Muskegon, and have secured the stock at rock bottom prices, hence they are feeling happy through the prospects of getting a good profit over their buying price, taking into consideration the handling expense and the probability of an advance in prices, which their purchases didn't fully anticipate. Such being the case they are feeling extraordinarily good. One firm in Chicago, which has been buying on a mild basis up to July, slipped over to Michigan during the last month and bought 30,000,000 feet of lumber, and it is now coming to Chicago as rapidly as it can be conveyed here, and turned into other channels as the demands of the trade may suggest. One Chicago firm has sent considerable lumber from Michigan to Buffalo recently for distribution among its customers in the East.

A funny feature of the relations of the manufacturer and the Chicago market is found in the fact that while they are complaining all the time about the declining value of white pine piece stuff on this market, the same manufacturers are crowding in large quantities of hemlock piece stuff in competition with their own white pine, and which sells at from $1 to $1.50 per thousand less, and of course knocks out white pine to the extent with which it is handled. Many of these manufacturers of white pine have also cut from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 of hemlock piece stuff, and it is usually found that they are the hardest kickers about the prices paid for the white pine product. There is no mercy in their attitude toward the commission man, and no apparent regard for what becomes of their white pine.

At the yards there were no large bills floating around to create a furor among the dealers, and the numerous small orders commanded a great deal of attention. Judging by the character of the demand from the retail trade their stocks are light. East, West, North and South. Everything goes to prove that the stocks in the hands of the retail dealers are comparatively light, and it is only a question of a little time when they will need larger supplies, although the competition is so close from outside sources that Chicago wholesalers are not at all positive that they will get the heft of the orders from such concerns when they are ready to be given out.

The war on piece stuff still goes bravely on, and prices remain at the low water notch. Some bills have been disposed of at $10.75, although $11 is nearer the average price. Whether it will go any lower or not there seems to be a difference of opinion, but there is little probability of higher prices this season.

The theory has been advanced that this extensive cutting in piece stuff was to break the cargo market, and for every million feet sold at a sacrifice, buy back ten million at a nominal price. When questioned on this point, one of our most prominent dealers expressed it as his opinion that a cheaper cargo market would make no difference. The low prices in Chicago are the direct result of outside competition, and a drop in the cargo market would be followed by a corresponding drop in yard prices.

The prospects for a good fall trade are becoming better every week, and inquiries for large bills are beginning to come in from the country yards.

Taking this week's advices from various points in the country at large as a basis of judgment, it is evident that there has lately been an increase of lumber movement, more energy on the part of operators, and stir enough in the markets to indicate the beginning of the fall trade. There has not yet been enough improvement to have an effect on the prices of white pine. There has been a rapid accumulation at all the larger mill points around the lakes and in Wisconsin since the first of July, and manufacturers have been forced to crowd sales more than they would prefer to do did they not need space to pile new product. It is a noticeable feature of the situation that there are plenty of logs in the mill booms, and manufacturers are forced to crowd production to get rid of them, in spite of the claim made last winter and spring that there was a short crop. Now the manufacturers say that there has been overproduction of lumber, because the saws were started too early. This is a curious outcome of the season's operations, when considered in the light of last winter's logging reports. Hereafter, whenever the saw mill men shall venture to shout "short log crop," the dealers will laugh to scorn with more intense derision than ever before. That worn-out cry, which never had much effect, will hereafter bring only contempt on the man who is silly enough to utter it. Even in Saginaw valley, where the yearly product of logs is supposed to be in a race-horse decline, there are more logs than the sawyers know what to do with. Lumber is accumulating all along the river, and prices have sagged under the pressure to sell so as to make room for further piling.

At Chicago in cargo lots the demand for piece stuff was fair, and not much difficulty was experienced in disposing of loads with a good tally. The majority of commission men now unhesitatingly name the price for short green dimension at $9 a thousand. When the tally is extra good, or the lumber has been shaped up to suit the purchaser, $9.25 to $9.50 is sometimes obtained, the higher price named being for cargoes that contain a considerable percentage of long lengths of slim jims. Small timbers are also desirable in a cargo. Lots of exclusively long lumber sell at $10 to $11.50, according to the character of the stuff as to width and thickness. There is rather more inquiry for 20, 22, 24 and 26-foot joists than a short time ago. Joists 18 feet long are also wanted, one of the local car companies having recently purchased 1,000,000 feet of that length. If the car factory demand should develop some strength the coming fall, there would be an active demand for 18-foot stuff, since it is not likely that there is a large number of 18-foot logs available for this year's sawing. Hemlock piece stuff is worth $7.25, and street plank $6.50 to $6.75.

The report of the secretary of the Exchange for August makes out that shipments and local sales aggregated in July 204,655,000 feet of lumber and 84,457,000 shingles. Of these amounts 133,676,000 feet of lumber was distributed locally, while 70,979,000 was shipped. These figures show that the city trade is still maintaining its supremacy over the wholesale shipping movement.

The comparison of stocks on hand July 1 and August 1 shows that there was a considerable decrease during July, the comparison standing 78,582,000 feet on August 1, as against about 110,000,000 feet of surplus on July 1, the figures representing the excess on hand at the dates named as compared to stocks on hand at corresponding dates in 1888. Part of this decrease can be accounted for by a measure of decline in receipts during July. Sales and shipments in July this year were greater in amount than in July of 1888.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

The competition of the Southern yellow pine has probably been more seriously felt by the manufacturers, whose stumpage runs largely to Norway, than by any other class. The Northern manufacturers uniformly run the larger part of their Norway logs into dimension, and into car sills. But comparatively little car building is being done now, and car builders have developed a preference for yellow pine as compared with Norway. Dimension is a drug in the market. It is being sold for probably $2 a thousand less than it was a year ago at this time, and it is likely to sell low so long as more yellow pine dimension is made than there is a ready market for. All this means that timber lands, which run largely to Norway pine, as is the case in Minnesota and parts of Wisconsin, will be slow sale, and the question will be even more frequently asked than ever: "How large a percentage will it run to Norway?" White pine is not likely to suffer in comparison with the yellow pine of the South, but Norway is another thing.

All the Minneapolis mills are running and the present supply of logs is fairly good. Some have ahead all the logs they will need this season, and others are going partly on luck and partly on faith.

Reports from up river are somewhat conflicting as to the exact condition of affairs with the Swan River drive. Some say it is out, and others that it is not. It is certain, however, that the greater portion of the Swan River drive has been got out, and that it will in any event be a matter of a day or two before the rear reaches the Mississippi, if it has not already done so. The Willow River drive has been abandoned. They were unable to do anything with it and gave it up entirely one day last week. It is reported at the Boom Company's office that the Crow Wing logs are out, and will in all probability be obtainable this season. The indications now are that the Boom Company will be able to make a drive out of the Crow Wing and Swan River logs, as they will probably be within limits by September 1. The Pine River drive is at St. Cloud, and is coming along nicely.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trades Journal has the following significant remarks in a general review of the situation:

Glancing over the figures we see first in the importation from Canada that pine timber has come forward only to about the same extent as the consumption has demanded, but of this waneable board pine has been most in demand, leaving us with a very moderate stock on hand. Of pine deals the figures show the supply has been greatly in excess of the wants of the market, the huge steamers which have poured their cargoes on the quays recently having largely increased the stock. The freight market for these goods shows already an upward tendency. We hear that 70s per standard has been paid per steamer Quebec to Liverpool, and with the increasing cost of importation it appears as if it would be a difficult matter to realise the future cost of these goods.

Oak timber, also, has been sent forward much too freely, and upon this subject we commented a fortnight ago. The total consumption of Canadian and American last year was 415,000 cubic feet, very much larger than the preceding year's; the stock on hand at the commencement of the present statistical year was 184,000 cubic feet, but the stock at the end of last month had accumulated to 285,000 cubic feet. In the face of these figures, will anyone say our remarks upon the fatuity of sending forward here such excessive supplies were not warranted?

Let us see what the various brokers who issue circulars have to say on the subject. First, Messrs. Farnworth & Jardine say: "Oak has been imported too freely. For first-class wagon wood there is a moderate inquiry, but inferior quality from the United States ports, of which the arrivals have largely consisted, is dull of sale, and the stock, especially of the latter, is too heavy." Messrs. Alfred Dobell & Co. say: "Oak timber has arrived from New Orleans much too freely during the past month, and values are consequently still lower. A parcel of medium quality is reported sold at 21d. per foot ex quay. Other parcels have been sold on private terms, but the bulk of the import remains unsold." Messrs. Edward Chaloner & Co. say: "The arrivals of oak in the log have been very heavy, of which 1,014 logs have been from Quebec, and 1,292 logs from the United States. The consumption has been fair, but the stock on hand is exceedingly heavy, and is largely composed of poor quality wood." Similarly Messrs. James Smith & Co. report as follows: "Oak—There is a fair demand, but the Quebec parcels landing are suffering from the fine wood landing from New Orleans, which has been imported to the extent of 2,445 logs during June and July."

NAILS.—There seems to be a great deal of determination on the part of manufacturers in the effort to maintain values and they not only keep stock under control, but many talk about a further advance before entering upon new contracts. Buyers, however, are also a little independent and do not submit to an advance in cost readily. We quote at $1.85@1.90 per keg for car lots, and $1.95@2.00 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—With leads generally under perfect control the balance of the market does not undergo many variations and presents few stirring features. Demand is gradually expanding, the local wants becoming more urgent and the country commencing to stock up for fall and winter trade, though a great many customers refuse to greatly anticipate their wants. Supplies of most standard articles appear ample and orders are filled with a reasonable degree of promptness. Linseed Oil secures average sale at steady rates, closing at 57@58c. for Western, and 60@61c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has sold higher, but the supporting demand is looked upon as somewhat uncertain and most buyers confine themselves to parcels adapted to immediate wants. We quote at 43@44c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Demand has fluctuated somewhat, but offered a pretty good outlet for stock, and formed a basis for support of full, former rates. We quote Pitch at $1.40@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.40@2.60, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

* Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:
On Monday last a lien was filed against me for plumbing work done on the property situated at No. 255 Bowery, by Henry B. Schlosser, of 136 East 3d street. The work has not been done according to contract, and for this reason I refused to pay Mr. Schlosser the amount of his alleged claim, and I will therefore contest the validity of the lien. Had the work been done according to contract I would have paid the amount to Mr. Schlosser without any hesitation.

LUMBER.

Appended quotations are based almost wholly upon prices obtained for goods from first hands. Yard rates necessarily range much higher owing to the expenses attending sorting out and grading cargo and even car lots, besides which must be added the cost of unloading and carrying until consumers are ready to invest. Terms of sale also prove important factors, and, altogether, it is impossible to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable in character.

VOL. XLIV.

AUGUST 31, 1889.

No. 1,120

No frost and the dissipation of the fears of tight money have put up the stock market this week from one to four points. Should the next ten days pass without a cool wave there will be ready for harvest the most bountiful crop of all kinds of cereals that this country has ever gathered. Wall street has had such a prolonged period of dullness that should a combination of good things come along, such as are likely to occur, we shall witness a wild and reckless speculation which will not end until the fires are put out by the inevitable disaster which always accompanies such periods. In this connection it will be well for our readers to recall the forecast of Samuel Benner, published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE of January 12: "I predict that there will be a wonderful advance in prices for iron, stocks, and all products and commodities in the year 1890; all business will be prosperous; it will be a year of good crops, and the boom year in this period of activity. In the beginning of the year 1891 speculation will be at its height—a great business inflation—pig-iron fifty dollars per ton in the markets of our country." * * * * It will be remembered that Mr. Benner predicted, thirteen years ago, the business depression of the year 1888, and at the same time the prediction was also made that the tide would turn giving us an era of business activity during the years 1889, 1890 and 1891. England for three years past has enjoyed great business prosperity, and the turn of the wheel should now bring some of it to our shores.

Facts are not wanting to show that already the business prosperity which Mr. Benner has predicted is being felt. An increase in our foreign imports of 17 per cent. in July and 25 per cent. in the first three weeks in August over the corresponding periods last year are significant. This, together with a phenomenally large amount of money in circulation, an increment of 9 per cent. in railway earnings thus far in August, and unusually large bank clearings in the interior cities are sufficient indications of the present and coming expansion in our industries. Neither are special exemptions of this fact lacking. When wages are rising it means that production has justified the increase. Consequently, when we see the Missouri Pacific Railroad increasing spontaneously the wages of its employes 10 per cent., we may be sure that the situation warrants the increase. Mr. Gould is one of the shrewdest financiers in the country, and knows very well how to sail with the wind. Similar increases elsewhere are likely to follow.

Almost a year ago an appeal was made to the people concerning the policy which Mr. Cleveland was pursuing. The people declared themselves not satisfied with Mr. Cleveland's policy. They declared, or about one-half of them declared, that in their opinion some other policy was needed to maintain the prosperity of the country and increase it. Yet a year, or nearly a year has elapsed and not only has nothing been done to make a change in the national policy but no attempt has been made to do so. An extra session should have been called last spring, and whatever changes the Republicans intended to make in the tariff and the inland revenue system as well as efforts to rehabilitate our merchant navy and dispose of the surplus in the Treasury, in conformity with their declarations in Chicago, could have been well under way by this time. Instead, nothing has been done. We are exactly where we were last fall. There has been nothing but a repetition of the old disgraceful scramble for offices. We have a new administration, but it has administered nothing but the offices. At least another year will go by before Congress has done bickering and talking about what it is going to do and arrived at any decision, and another year will elapse before any decision arrived at is carried into effect.

As we have determined to have an Exposition it is, perhaps, inevitable that we should hear a good deal about it, but the immense amount of random discussion that there has been as to the site and probable cost reminds one in some of its features of the hot words that once passed between a worthy couple as to what should be the name of an expected child, the sex of which had not yet been determined. It would naturally be thought that before the questions of site and cost could be intelligently discussed, a very definite conception of the size and character of the proposed Exposition would be arrived at. But no effort has been made to do anything of the kind. The Site Committee and the Finance Committee have been set to work with nothing before them but images of past Expositions and the Fair at present open in the Champ de Mars. That ideas on the subject vary slightly may be inferred from the fact that one writer on the subject speaks of 1,500 acres, "at least," as necessary for the buildings and suitable surroundings, while another meekly suggests as a proper site St. Mary's Park, in which there are just 25 acres. Morningside and Riverside Parks, 120 acres in extent, have many advocates; while others are positive that any site less extensive than Van Courtlandt Park, which has an area of 1,070 acres, or Pelham Bay Park of 1,748 acres, would be entirely inadequate.

Now, the sooner we get rid of the idea that the Exposition cannot be a success unless it covers a greater number of square acres than any other show on earth the better. That is the P. T. Barnum ideal of an Exposition. Nothing is to be gained by erecting huge edifices, and causing the visitors to wander in weariness among soda-water fountains, ice-cream makers and a chaotic display of merchandise, exhibited solely with a view to the advertisement gained thereby. What is needed is quality of exhibits and not quantity; and, to obtain this, a very strict selection should be exercised. With an Exposition of limited area this selection is more likely to be carefully made.

The Exposition of 1892 is to commemorate a historic event, and no better plan could be adopted than to make the exhibits historic—that is, to have them show the development that has occurred in the arts and manufactures during the past 400 years, especially with reference to this country. As Mr. Atkinson has pointed out in his letters to the Chamber of Commerce, there is abundance of material for such an Exposition here and abroad. It would be a good thing to limit the exhibitors in many lines of manufacture to say five, and to let it be known that space would be allotted to the five that sent in the best exhibit showing the development of their trade from the earliest times. A plan of this kind carried out even moderately well would give us an Exposition that few would like to see scattered. It would educate thousands of people and mark out a new course for future world's fairs. The old Exposition plan of a vast display of merchandise and a scramble for medals, which, in most cases, are of no more value than the metal they contain, is, in the vulgar phrase, "played out." Something new is needed. Those in charge of the matter have a great opportunity. Will they be strong enough to seize it?

"Our Impartial Observer," this week, has a few uncomplimentary words to say about the law. It is lamentable that most of what he says and a great deal of what he implies is beyond contradiction. It is all within the common knowledge of every man who knows anything of what is going on around him. It has often been shown that our courts have been corrupt, and that our judges administer a great deal of "politics" with their justice, the uncertainty and delays of the law have got beyond the reach of exaggeration, and every lawyer, not too innocent for the profession, knows that the door to success with him has to be opened with an inside "pull." In one of the best known and most highly respected law firms in this city, a firm with a very long and high-sounding name, the junior member is innocent of all legal knowledge, having graduated in life as the starter on a race track. But then he knows several judges and a great deal about "politics."

No wonder that, as Christopher Walton points out, the business in lawyers' offices is falling off, and litigants endeavor by subterfuge to get their cases into Federal courts where the judges are not so much under the debasing influence of politics, and thus have not to prostitute justice to gain their living. But "Our Impartial Observer" fails to point out the very important part that lawyers play in discrediting the law. They are quite as responsible as "politics" in the court and on the bench for the present state of things wherein people prefer to suffer injustice, or to "compromise," or "arbitrate," rather than go to law; and why large commercial institutions like the Chamber of Commerce perform for themselves the most vital function the State has to discharge. We have only to remember how completely large estates have been wrecked in disputed will cases to realize what an impediment to justice the delays and expenses of law must be with people of moderate means. The reform of the law is the great reform which the hour demands, and the danger is that while we are all crying loudly for the preservation of our forests, the rehabilitation of our navy, the purification of our civil service, as matters essential to the happiness and greatness of the country, no one thinks of raising a voice for the preservation of justice, the purification of our courts and the rehabilitation of our law to meet the demands and necessities of the day. In comparison to this reform all other reforms are unimportant. How much of the discontent of the present is due to the fact that men cannot get justice? If there is anything the State should furnish free of cost for the well-being of its citizens it is justice. Yet it gives education free; it inspects tenements free; it distributes seeds free; it lodges, clothes, feeds and bathes a man who has no money, but it doles out justice so slowly, at so enormous a cost, with so much delay and so much uncertainty that rather than invoke its aid thousands prefer to suffer their wrongs. Is it not an anomaly that the world possessed free picture galleries and museums, where people could inspect mummies and the scraps of dead civilizations, before it possessed free justice?

Laws are very like inventions; in practice, the greater number of them do not work as they were expected to. An example of this is furnished by the Cantor Act in Brooklyn. On the face of it this measure is an excellent one. It provides that the franchises for street railroads shall be put up at auction and sold to the highest bidder. How much better this is than giving the railroads the free use of the public thoroughfares or leaving them to make terms by a private "dicker" with the municipal officers or city authorities! We see at a glance that this method gives us at once the security of publicity and the benefits of competition. What could be better! That is how it looks; let us see how it works, or rather how it did work this week over in Brooklyn. For some years the Heights has been a bone of contention among several railroad companies which have been organized from time to time to supply really much needed accommodation, especially through Montague street, from the Wall Street Ferry. On Monday the franchise was put up for sale by the City Comptroller to be sold to the company bidding the largest amount of its gross receipts. Only three companies competed—the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company, the Wall Street Ferry Company and the Montague Street Railroad Company. At first the bidding was between the first two companies, and ended so far as they were concerned when the Wall Street Company, which seems to be in earnest in its desire to construct the line, bid above the 5 per cent. bid of the Brooklyn Heights Company. Then the Montague Street Company, which had been supposed to be at least moribund, stepped in from its hiding place and carried the bidding up by big jumps to 100½ per cent. of its receipts. The proceedings in this stage were of course a farce, but it served to defeat the only company of the three that appears to be ready and willing to begin operations and give the inhabitants of the Heights and the surrounding locality accommodations very much needed. It is said that the Brooklyn and the Montague Street Companies were hand in hand in the transaction, if indeed they are not Siamese twins. The pleasant things once said about the Cantor Act are not being repeated just now in Brooklyn. Some of the local papers are demanding its repeal. Yet the act is a good one to look at.

James S. Coleman, Commissioner of Street Cleaning, has, it seems, made a careful examination of the streets of some of the principal cities of Europe during his recent trip abroad. What struck him most forcibly was the unmeasurable superiority of London and Paris over New York in this matter. This springs from no inferiority in knowledge on our part, for Mr. Coleman attributes the smoothness of their pavements to the concrete foundation that underlies them, a fact with which we are perfectly familiar ourselves. But while admitting the superiority of the London streets he does not think the same methods would be satisfactory in this country. "You must consider," said Mr. Coleman, "that in Paris there is no such traffic and no such heavy vehicles as on Broadway, for instance." The context does not make this quite clear, but the commissioner evidently means to make a point against asphalt as the best pavement for heavy traffic. But the reason he gives is very inconclusive. In the first place, it is not true that the traffic on Broadway is so very much, if at all, heavier than it is in many of the main streets of Paris. The omnibus and cab traffic on some of the boulevards and streets is simply enormous. Moreover, the crowded condition of Broadway is due very largely to the cars, as may be seen by its comparatively empty condition on the days when, because of the strike, they were not running. But whether traffic on Broadway is or is not heavier than on some of the streets in Paris, the point still fails to tell against asphalt, for the heaviest traffic in London has for years been carried on an asphalt pavement. At the Mansion House there are six main streets converging, all of them pouring omnibuses, cabs and carts into this one square, and the result, as every visitor knows, is so far entirely satisfactory. As to the heavy vehicles in this city, they would largely disappear if the universal use of granite block pavements disappeared. Heavy vehicles are too much the result of rough pavements ever to make the former an excuse for the latter.

It was natural that the passengers on board the City of Paris, after dealing the record such a staggering blow, should feel somewhat exuberant, and even, considering they were about to land upon their native shore, that their exuberance should take a patriotic turn. But the trouble with American patriotism is that too much is never enough. Joseph Medill, of the Chicago Tribune, tried to make out that it was due to Americans that the record was broken. American capital had built the ships, and American inventions had increased her speed fully a knot an hour, he said; which, after all, left the other seventeen to the effete foreigner, and perhaps some doubt in the minds of his hearers as to whether the "one" American knot was the first or the last of the eighteen—a matter of sufficient importance to have been made clear.

Curiously enough the next speaker, State Senator Warwick, of New Jersey, found something to criticize, but his strictures were limited to a "musty old law" passed one hundred years ago, which does not permit the "American flag to fly over the product of American pluck and American enterprise." The Senator failed to make a point in not coupling "American skill" with her enterprise and pluck. But he closed with great effect, saying: "We live in America and go to Europe to see ruins," which, of course, cannot be regarded as a compliment to the Paris Exposition. The Evening Post's report at this juncture reads very amusingly: "R. Vajifdar, a Parsee merchant, who is taking a trip around the world, spoke next, saying that he was delighted at this display of American eloquence. Then an Englishman made a few modest remarks, in which he heartily agreed with the sentiments of all the various speakers." That Post reporter must have been something of a wag. The spectacle of the Indian's amazement and delight at this true American eloquence, and the spectacle of the modest Englishman agreeing with "all the various" speakers, may, as Mr. Casaubon said amuse "a certain order of minds."

Common Sense About Subsidies.

A witness once said to an English judge: "My lord, you may believe me or not; but I have told the truth, and I have been wedded to truth from my infancy." "Yes, sir," answered his lordship, "but the question is, how long have you been a widower?" A pertinent question surely. His lordship's remark was more a play upon words than anything else, but it had another significance. He doubtless desired to bring the witness to a point. Vague personal statements are out of place in the witness-box; in fact, vague statements, whether personal or not, are out of place anywhere; and, little as editors seem to know it, as much misplaced in an editorial column as elsewhere.

We are hearing a great deal about subsidies just at present. The prospect that Congress will legislate on the subject has led the Republican papers on the one hand to claim for them benefits which they can never give, and the Democratic papers on the other to attribute to them evils which they need not effect. The good that they can do is strictly limited. They cannot restore our merchant marine. They cannot create a foreign commerce. On the other hand, within certain conditions, they can help materially our trade with some ports. It is worth while inquiring what those conditions are. History has given us plenty of examples, both of the success and of the failure of public aid to private enterprises. A careful analysis of the causes of success in one case and failure in the other would do much to remove the ambiguity which the present ill-tempered and ill-considered discussions of the subject must create.

There is a section in Mill's "Political Economy," which has created as much controversy as anything the man ever wrote. It begins as follows: "The only case in which, on mere principles of political economy, protecting duties can be defensible, is when they are imposed temporarily, especially in a young and rising nation, in hopes of naturalizing a foreign industry, in itself perfectly suitable to the circumstances of the country." The dispute arose particularly over the word "temporarily." It was claimed that no temporary intercession was possible. In the words of David A. Wells: "There has never been an instance in the history of the country where the representatives of such industries, who have enjoyed protection for a long series of years, have been willing to submit to a reduction of tariff, or have proposed it. But, on the contrary, their demands for still higher and higher duties are insatiable and never intermitted." Mr. Mill's idea was that the industry must be ultimately self-sustaining. If this result cannot be brought about the industry is not worth establishing. It is on the same grounds that subsidies may be attacked and defended. If the trades which they support for a while can become ultimately self-sustaining, there is a positive justification for their existence; if not, there can certainly be no excuse for them on economical grounds.

If this be true, it is not subsidies, as such, that are wrong, evil as their effects may possibly be; but subsidies bestowed in the wrong place and in the wrong way. A good illustration of what harm may be done by this unwise subsidizing is supplied by the Collins line, which owed both its life and death to the aid it received from the United States government. Started at a time when Transatlantic steam navigation was still something of an experiment, it claimed that it could not compete with the Cunard line without assistance. It obtained the desired aid, spent extravagantly in consequence, and kept a lobby in Washington to secure the same appropriation in succeeding years—a lobby that did much to eat into whatever money they obtained. The results very naturally were disastrous; and the Collins line finally went into bankruptcy. There are other ways, however, of rendering assistance than by making appropriations every year. Money could be given in a lump sum under specified conditions that would require the company to run good vessels within stated intervals. The essential point is that the steamship line should receive just so much, with no expectation of getting any more. In some cases the assistance could take the form of a guarantee of the interest on an issue of bonds. It was in this way that the French railway system was built. Numerous devices of this kind could be suggested by which the companies would receive help for a long enough time to put them on their legs, and by which also the government would get a certain return for their money in services rendered.

The most colossal scheme of subsidizing, using that word in its broadest sense, ever planned and executed was that of the Third Napoleon. He came into power at a time when the industries of France were in a very depressed condition. Realizing that the success of his government would depend on the material prosperity of the nation, he took immediate steps to stimulate the country's trade artificially. Private capital would not build railroads, so the central government started companies and guaranteed the interest on their bonded indebtedness. Loan associations, like the Credit Mobilier and the Credit Foncier, were organized, the former to lend money to corporations that wished to start in business, and the latter to advance money on real estate. The Bank of France was enlarged, its capital increased, and its functions extended. These measures within three or four years created such an extension of business that foreigners, observers, at once amazed and dismayed, predicted a collapse such as the world had never seen before. But the man that did all this understood what he was doing; he could check as well as create prosperity. So close was the government's affiliations with the commercial leaders that at his command the pace was gradually slackened, until within a year's time, without any sudden transition, industry settled down into a more healthy routine, and France escaped the panic of 1857, so disastrous in other countries. Inflation there had undoubtedly been, but it was inflation regulated by a firm hand, and warranted by the actual increase in prosperity and business.

Any similar scheme would be unnecessary, as it would be unwise, in this country. But the same measures are successfully tried on a small scale. Many of our Western towns pursue a similar course, and boom themselves into prosperity. In order to attract manufacturers they give them land, or build them factories, provided they will locate within their boundaries. These measures do not rob the industry of its independence, but they supplement and aid private enterprise, which otherwise either might not exist at all or might flow into other channels. It is significant, for instance, that Milwaukee has organized a loan association, built on the same plan as the Credit Mobilier. If the proposals that are made to Congress in its next session conform to the conditions, by which alone such legislation can be justified, they ought to be passed; if not, they will probably do more harm than good. But until those proposals are made it is useless either to approve or disapprove them on a priori grounds.

The coming session of Congress promises to be replete with interest. The fact that for the first time in many years both the legislative and the executive departments of the government are in the hands of one party is in itself sufficient to lend unusual significance to the session—a significance that will lose nothing from the fact that the majority of the dominant party in the Lower House is so narrow that not only its policy will be tested, but its cohesiveness. The session will be of interest politically, because there will be a number of contested elections to deal with and because the attitude of the Republican party towards Civil Service Reform will of necessity be well aired, and if possible justified. It will be of interest from an industrial and financial point of view, because there is evidence that the silver men will make something of an effort to obtain a still larger, if not a quite unlimited, coinage of that metal, because attempts will be made to amend radically the Interstate Commerce act, and because the Republican party will very likely make large appropriations for subsidies and river and harbor legislation. The hope expressed soon after the election by some of the tariff reform journals, that their defeat would be a substantial victory in that the Republican party would feel obliged at least to eliminate some of the incongruities from the tariff, does not seem to have been fulfilled, for no Republican journal even refers to such a possibility. Congress will probably have enough to do without meddling with important matters, which it would be easier, politically, to let alone. The first session of the last Congress was one of the longest the country has ever known; the coming session promises to be, if not longer, at all events of an equal if not greater importance in its effect on the policy of the country.

The Republican party, as we have said, is very sure to make liberal appropriations. Its press is unanimously in favor of subsidies; and President Harrison is not afraid of them. On the same principle a good-sized River and Harbor bill will very probably be passed, and further appropriations voted for coast defences and a respectable navy. There will, moreover, be very likely an increase made in the salaries of Congressmen and Cabinet officers, if indeed it is not extended along the whole line of prominent government officials. After taking these expenditures into account it is not likely that the surplus left in the Treasury will be large enough to cause any serious discomfort to Wall street financiers. But the danger is this: Along with such justifiable increases of appropriations as those enumerated above there will very likely be also an equal, if not a greater, increase in the pension estimates. Corporal Tanner has resolved to ask, it seems, for some $110,000,000 to $115,000,000 for the coming year, an increase of nearly $20,000,000 over the last appropriation. Whether any such monstrous waste of money will be permitted by the administration we do not know. Certainly no serious efforts have been made as yet to stop his tongue from wagging and the government balances from depleting. Very likely a large proportion of this proposed increase will be permitted. If so, the administration will be subject to deservedly severe criticism; it will be denounced as extravagant; democratic papers will begin to shout "economy," and the justifiably large appropriations made for other purposes will be massed and classed with this pension robbery, indiscriminately involving all in the condemnation warranted only by the doings of Corporal Tanner & Co. The cry, unfortunately, will be a good one, and have enough superficial justification in it to discredit for some time all large government appropriations outside of the ordinary routine.

The debate between Dr. Washington Gladden and Mr. George Gunton on the subject of Trusts marvelously well illustrates how a mere controversy on a disputed question helps to bring to light its true bearings and thus to clear it up to the minds of the hearers. There is a very marked distinction between the objective analysis of social or economic phenomena, and so much of that analysis as will contravert an erroneous or misleading statement. The latter simply gives an undue emphasis to what is often only incidental to the true bearings of the question. A controversialist is very much like a photographer who focuses his instrument so badly that the component parts of the object are out of proportion to each other and to the object as a whole. Thus Mr. Gladden's arguments, although perhaps economically sound, were arithmetically rather defective. Mr. Gunton seizes on his opponent's faulty arithmetic and spends the greater part of his time in exposing it. Mr. Gunton gets the better of Mr. Gladden; but the minds of the audience are not very much clarified on the subject of Trusts. As to the merits of the controversy, apart from Mr. Gunton's lesson in proportion, we are constrained to think that the latter came very near the truth in arguing that condemnation of Trusts was nothing more or less than the condemnation of the industrial system of the civilized world; that one was the outgrowth of the other, to be criticized, if at all, on the same grounds, to be corrected, if at all, by the same means. No prohibition can prevent them; no regulation can alter their essential character.

Immigration into the United States increases and decreases with business prosperity or depression in this country. Thus, after the panic of 1837, it dropped in the following year to less than two-thirds of the average of the five preceding years. After the panic of 1857 the decrease was still more remarkable, falling as it did from a yearly average throughout the decade of over 250,000 to 119,501. An equally remarkable falling off succeeded the collapse of 1873, and continued throughout the whole of the period of depression until the revival of business in 1880. Since then there have been various fluctuations, the maximum figure thus far for the decade, 788,992, taking place in 1882, and the minimum, 334,203, in 1886. There has been, it seems, a substantial decrease for the first six months of this year; the total number reaching only 173,678. This is a very good indication of the only middling prosperity of that part of the country—the West—whereto most of the immigrants have been going lately. But part of this decrease has been due probably also to the better state of business abroad. The revival of prosperity in Great Britain, wherefrom the decline has been greatest, has been phenomenal. Since 1886 and including the first six months of this year there has been an aggregate increase of $500,000,000 in the foreign trade, an amount not so very much smaller than the total amount of our export trade. There is no justification, however, for the belief freely expressed in some quarters that this decrease means an equalization of the industrial conditions of the two countries, which will before long take away the incentive for emigration. Within two years the former average will be fully restored.

Our Impartial Observer.—The Law, the Lawyers and the Judges.

An old friend of mine, who is a well-known lawyer, recently advertised for a "managing clerk" in his office at a salary of twenty dollars a week.

He tells me that of the thirty-eight applications for the position nearly all were from men who were in practice for themselves, who were perfectly educated lawyers, and who thus admitted that they could not, by practicing law on their own account, earn an amount not greater than the weekly stipend of a retail dry-good's clerk.

My occupation brings me into frequent contact with professional men, and particularly lawyers. There is a certain breadth of experience which comes to a lawyer which makes him a delightful companion if he is a man of the world. I have, therefore, had excellent opportunity to find out whether my friend's experience with his would-be clerks was indicative of any general falling off in the business of lawyers.

I was singularly impressed with the unanimity of the responses to the inquiry amongst my legal acquaintances. They, one and all, admitted that from their experience there was a constant decline from year to year in the amount of new business which came into lawyers' offices. I was told of old-established firms whose clientage was so reduced that it scarcely paid office rent, and of individual lawyers of good capacity and habits who were in a condition not very far removed from penury.

Their opinion of the causes of this could usually be divided into two classes: One thought that the fault lay in the obsolete character of legal remedies and procedure; the other, that the great difficulty proceeded from a loss of confidence by the general business community in the character of the State judiciary.

I suppose that the truth probably is a compound of both of these opinions, and that not only has the law itself in the State of New York fallen behind the present commercial methods but that the character of the men elected to fill judicial positions has deteriorated. A good deal of this loss of confidence must reasonably be attributed to the silly jury system. Since every one of even ordinary business intelligence in these days knows enough to shirk or bribe his way off jury service, it follows that the jury panels must be (as indeed they are) composed of men of less than the average intelligence, belonging to what corresponds to the English "lower middle class." Whatever be the reason, the fact that legal business has been for some time declining is unquestionable, and any reader of THE RECORD can verify it by asking the first legal acquaintance he meets. The only exceptions are those lawyers who owe their business to political influence or to sinister relations with judges, or who have made a specialty of legislative jobbery in franchises. The problem always comes back to the same point. Our system of party politics which has polluted everything it has touched has cast its malignant shadow over the law itself, both as to its administration and in its execution. It is not surprising that such should be the case to anyone who knows anything of the subterranean influences which bring about judicial nominations. Not only will the stream never rise higher than its fountain, but it can never be purer than its source.

What have the people themselves, in whom is supposed to reside all sovereignty, according to our system, had to do in the selection of the State Judiciary? Their only function has been to register the selections of the respective party bosses. Beyond this they have no voice. It is no exaggeration to say that judicial nominations in the City of New York have been for the most part put up at auction by the party magnates to the candidate who would agree to pay the largest assessments, or who could get his friends to club together and put it up for him. Owing their elections to such influences and such methods, is it surprising that we should witness such scandals as have lately occupied public attention. Judges elected in this manner are but the pliant tools of the political organizations through whom they have secured their nomination and election, and it is pitiable to see the eagerness with which they seek to do whatever may be pleasing to men prominent in the party councils. It is not therefore surprising that law officers were found to do the surreptitious divorce business which has been referred to. It is indeed only too probable that any others of that or any other State Court would have not only been willing to do the same service for a party leader, but would have, at that time and before public attention had been aroused, considered it a lucky hit to have been selected to put the leader under obligation to him so as to entitle them to ask for future favors for himself and his friends, and thus increase his political influence.

The result of such a deterioration in the State Judiciary has in fact affected the entire legal profession, and if a lawyer has not a political "pull," in the slang of the day, he can scarcely hope to secure decently courteous attention from these judicial minions of the party "bosses." His papers are scrutinized with the most minute attention, and in many ways easy to disreputable judges his professional life is made a burden to him, so that his clients soon learn to take their business to some lawyer whose political influence is more potent. There is no tyranny in the world more dominant because there is none so subtle as that which may be exercised over the legal profession by the Judiciary, and this is why these things, though whispered among lawyers by themselves, are rarely allowed to escape even into the newspaper offices. Even when they do they are generally suppressed, for the public are as little inclined to wish to believe evil of the Judiciary as they are of their pet clergymen; a kind of tradition which in either case is more creditable to the public conscience than it is to its good sense.

The contrast between the lack of confidence in the State Courts and the increase of consideration among the legal profession for the Federal or United States Courts is very marked. Lawyers tell me that the amount of business in the latter is increasing out of all proportion, and as their jurisdiction depends mainly upon the residence of the parties, and as this is easily changed by removal across the border, it is very easy to effect a transfer from a State Court with a Federal Court of an action begun in the former. This is the course which is now being largely adopted by the shrewdest litigants. The Federal judges are for the most part not the creatures of political parties, and their positions being practically for life they are uninfluenced by the sordid and mercenary considerations that have made our State Judiciary a sham and reproach to the Empire State.

It is time that public opinion, which Mr. Bryce in his work on the "American Commonwealth" optimistically declared to be so creditably omnipotent in the United States, should be aroused to the peril which surrounds the administration of the law. That the business of lawyers should decline may not in itself perhaps be regarded as an evil, but that the cause should be what it is must be, by all right thinking persons considered as threatening the very framework of civil society.

CHRISTOPHER WALTON.

Saratoga Jottings.

REAL ESTATE IN THE GREAT SUMMER RESORT—THE GRAND UNION LIKELY TO BE SOLD—WHAT JUDGE HILTON'S AGENTS SAY—TALKS WITH SPENCER TRASK AND ALBERT SPENCER—THE GAMBLING QUESTION—PEOPLE SEEN IN THE HOTEL CORRIDORS.

SARATOGA, August 27, 1889.

This great sanitarium is the centre of assembly for people of the most diverse positions in social and political circles, and they come from all parts of the country. I have seen ex-Governor English and his handsome wife stroll along the veranda of the United States Hotel, while G. P. Morosini and his unmarried daughter, Governor Bulkeley of Connecticut, Mrs. Dahlgren (née Drexel), J. J. Coogan, the Princess Engalitcheff, W. E. D. Stokes, Mrs. Hicks-Lord, Elliott F. Shepard, and many others known in and out of New York, are to be seen promenading within a stone's throw of each other. Handsome equipages, pretty toilettes and beautiful women abound. Young men, however, are scarce. But the readers of THE RECORD AND GUIDE will probably be more interested in the real estate than in the social side of this place.

RENTS AND VALUES.

I called on Messrs. Lester Bros., the agents of ex-Judge Hilton, to get at the values and rentals of real estate here. One of the members of the firm said: "The highest price obtained for Saratoga property in the last seven or eight years was on East Broadway, where $20,000 was obtained for a lot 100x300 in size. Lots have sold for from $5,000 to $20,000 each. The lowest-priced property is in the southeast and southwest portions of the village, where lots 50x150—the regulation size here—can be bought for from $200 to $800. The most valuable property is on East Broadway, taking in the west side of that thoroughfare, between Congress and Division streets. This would include the United States, Grand Union, American and Adelphi hotels. The most gilt-edged property for building cottages is Woodlawn Park. There are more expensive houses in that section than in any other, and real estate is worth more there than in other residence locations. Unfurnished houses rent for from $300 to $600 per annum, and they include hot and cold water, bath, register heat, etc. For $400 a very desirable house can be rented within easy walking distance of the hotel centre. Furnished houses for the summer season can be rented for from $400 to $4,000 each, the higher prices being for houses on North Broadway and at Woodlawn Park. In the village proper houses on Union avenue and on Circular street, opposite Congress Park, rent highest, while on the side streets less pretentious cottages can be had for from $400 to $800. Indeed $500 will rent one of the latter for the three summer months of the season, all furnished, exclusive of linen and silver."

Real estate has been somewhat depressed during the last three or four years. Saratoga is not what it was of old. Twenty years ago it was the queen of summer resorts. Since then Newport, Long Branch, Narragansett, Richfield Springs, Bar Harbor, the Adirondacks, the White Mountains, the Catskills and a host of other places have arisen in competition. Yet, despite all this, Saratoga has had a good season and still retains its prominent position. How long this will last remains to be seen. People who come to Saratoga year after year are sometimes asked what attractions they find there. "Well, the drives are beautiful," they answer. "Then there is the social life, and there is no place in the country where you are likely to meet so many of your friends from all cities as at Saratoga. Besides, you must not forget the springs." Local dissensions among the spring-owners have retarded many improvements. The prevalence of gambling has kept many heads of families away; to what extent, however, cannot be gauged.

THE GRAND UNION HOTEL.

There has been a rumor to the effect that this famous hotel is to be sold. I made several efforts to get at Judge Hilton to see him in reference to so important an item of news. I was finally referred to Lester Bros., who said: "It is a common error to suppose that Judge Hilton owns the Grand Union. It belongs to the estate of the late Cornelia M. Stewart. If the litigation in connection with the Stewart will is soon terminated—as now appears likely—the entire property belonging to that estate will be sold under the hammer. I don't see how the executors can settle the estate otherwise. How soon the sale may occur I don't know. The hotel has certainly not been offered for sale, nor is it on the market; that can be stated definitely." The Grand Union, it may be added, is assessed at $299,000, which the Stewart estate considers about one-fifth its value. Whether it would bring anywhere near $1,500,000 is doubtful. Should it be put up at auction there is hardly likely to be a solitary buyer for it, and it would seem as though a stock company would be the proper parties to take it in hand. A hotel which has accommodated 2,200 guests ought to pay a handsome return on an investment of a million and a-half if properly managed.

WOODLAWN PARK.

Judge Hilton has made almost a hobby of this fine park. It contains about twenty-seven miles of roads, and comprises about eleven hundred acres of ground. All these are kept in repair by Mr. Hilton, who throws them open free to the public. As it is only about a mile to a mile and a-half from the hotels there is a good deal of driving through it. Woodlawn Park originally consisted of some sixty acres, and the name was given to it over sixty years ago by the first owner, Judge Henry

Walton. It was then used as a hunting box. Judge Hilton's purchases from forty holders has enabled him to swell the estate to its present dimensions. There are only ten villas in the park so far, seven of which are occupied by Mr. Hilton and the various members of his family, while one is rented this season to A. Augustus Low, of Brooklyn, brother of ex-Mayor Low. The other two have been offered to rent, but there have been no takers at the price demanded, which is $2,500. Judge Hilton intends to have a considerable addition built to his present house, though he is not likely to erect any more cottages on the property for the present, I am told.

OTHER REAL ESTATE ITEMS.

Good farm property within three miles of the hotel centre can be bought for from $100 to $150 an acre, and in some sections for even less.

The three-story frame cottage at No. 9 Circular street, near Congress Park, was sold a few days ago by the owner, Mrs. Moore, for $14,000. It has nine sleeping rooms above the first floor.

One of the arguments used in inducing New Yorkers and others to buy here is that Saratoga is about 350 feet higher above sea level than Lake Champlain, and about 100 feet higher than Lake George.

Investments, pure and simple, in improved Saratoga real estate do not seem to pay as well as in New York and other cities. For instance, a two-story brick cottage on Union avenue was offered for sale at $8,500. It would rent, so an agent informs me, for $400 unfurnished. Allowing $120 for taxes, insurance, repairs, etc., only $280 would remain, less than 3½ per cent. on the investment.

A two-and-a-half-story frame cottage on North Broadway, near Rock street, with ten bedrooms and modern improvements, on a lot covering over 8,000 square feet, was offered for sale at $13,000. I am reliably informed that it would rent for $600 per annum. Allowing $175 for taxes, etc., only $425 would remain, equal to a little over 3 per cent. on the investment.

You can count on an average of about 4 per cent. net on your investment. In New York one can do much better. That is why all the outside owners have bought their places for themselves, while so very few have purchased for income producing purposes.

A three-story frame house on South Broadway is offered at $12,000. It has twenty bedrooms, with a barn to accommodate four horses, and stands on a lot 100x300. A two-and-a-half-story frame on North Broadway, with nine bedrooms and barn, on a lot 77½x225, is offered at $40,000. A three-story Queen Anne nearby, with fourteen bedrooms, on a lot 175 feet square, is offered at a similar sum. Frame houses on Union avenue are offered at from $11,000 to $18,000 each; on Philadelphia street from $8,000 to $20,000, according to size of house and lot; on Lake avenue at from $8,000 to $15,000, and on Woodlawn avenue for $10,000 to $14,000.

A country seat of twenty-four acres on Broadway, within the corporate limits, with a house containing six bedrooms, outbuildings, barns, stables, ice-house, wind-mill, pumps, etc., is offered at $12,500.

GAMBLING.

Spencer Trask, head of the well-known firm of bankers and brokers bearing his name, has made himself very unpopular with a certain class of Saratogians, owing to his crusade against the gambling dens which infest this place. He has, however, received the support of many prominent residents, while the press has been outspoken in its denunciation of the vice which has been such a curse to visitors and villagers alike. I drove out to Yaddo, Mr. Trask's country home, and had a talk with him on the question. "Yaddo" is a superb and ornate villa about two miles distance from the hotel centre. It is surrounded by 500 acres of ground, well watered and wooded, and the house is approached through a driveway some 1,500 feet long. Gorgeous rugs of Oriental texture ornamented the piazzas in profusion, and a fountain spouted water through a horn held between the lips of a saucy little cherub. In the distance a range of picturesque hills greeted the view, while the air was balmy and health-giving. Mr. Trask greeted me cordially and said a few pleasant words about THE RECORD AND GUIDE. I mentioned to him the rumor that Mr. Albert Spencer was said to be negotiating with the Lorillard estate for the sale of his race track and club-house properties. He said: "I do not believe that the estate would be likely to purchase the property. It has been stated that I am anxious to purchase the race course grounds and that this is the secret of my opposition to Mr. Spencer. Now, I have no such motive. I have nothing to say of an unkindly character against Mr. Spencer. I am opposed to gambling itself, not to the men who carry it on. The law is clear, and it is violated, whereas it should be enforced."

"Do you mean to carry on your agitation to a logical issue?" I asked.

"I most certainly do," said Mr. Trask, "to the bitter end. I suppose I shall have the support of every moral man and woman who has respect for law and decency. The people of Saratoga may have an idea that if the race course and the gambling houses go they will be great losers. The first season it may be so; but in the following year and afterwards they will find that they will be the gainers. At Homburg and Baden-Baden, where gaming was once carried on in the open day, real estate values have greatly increased since gambling was exterminated, while both places are more fashionable and more largely visited. I am confident that if the same thing is done here, real estate, in ten years' time, will be worth double its present figures."

SARATOGA CHANGING.

Talking about Saratoga generally Mr. Trask said: "The place is not the same as it was five or ten years ago. Cottage life is developing and becoming very pleasant. In a few years the cottagers will have grown much more numerous and there will be quite a colony. Families who were in the habit of coming to the hotels in years past are dying out or gravitating towards Newport and other places. On the one hand, people like the late W. H. Vanderbilt and ex-Governor Morgan are no more to be seen here, and as they die out their children go elsewhere during the summer. On the other hand, many people who have lived at the hotels year after year have built their own cottages here, people like Geo. Bliss, a gentleman who has been in the habit of staying at the United States Hotel for a quarter of a century past. Again, the place is not as ultra-fashionable as it used to be. People are beginning to realize that they can breathe the same air, drink the same water and enjoy the same advantages by paying $8 per week for board as they can by paying $21 or more at the hotels. The summer population continues to be very large. There are at least 13,000 visitors here on an average. Real estate is appreciating in value and will continue to do so. I think lots of families are kept away owing to the pernicious influence of the gambling houses."

A CHAT WITH ALBERT SPENCER.

A few hours after I saw Mr. Trask I dropped in to see Mr. Albert Spencer, the well-known owner of the race track and club-house. No one who enters the club-house would notice that any particular activity was under way inside. From the exterior stillness reigns supreme. The "club-house" comprises a group of buildings, containing an office, restaurant, bar, billiard room, etc., while a number of rooms are set apart for playing games of chance. I found Mr. Spencer, in a gray suit, talking with a couple of acquaintances, who were seated next to him on a bench in the grounds surrounding the club-house. I called him aside and told him the object of my visit. I repeated the rumor that he was negotiating for the sale of both the club-house and the race track. He at once replied: "The property is not for sale at any price. It has never been offered, and I have no thought of selling it. Nobody could buy it for any money. I have not spoken to Mr. Pierre Lorillard for nine years, nor have I seen any agent of his. When I first became interested in the property there were five owners. I have bought out the interest of each, one by one, and I now own the entire property. It will never be offered for sale during my life-time, as far as I at present know."

THE FAMOUS SPENCER COLLECTION.

After talking for some time with Mr. Spencer about the gambling crusade which had been instituted, I turned off the conversation to the famous Spencer collection of paintings, the exhibition and sale of which created such a furor in the artistic world the winter before last. The collection was pronounced by the best judges to be one of the finest ever placed under the hammer in New York, and thousands thronged the Fifth Avenue Art Galleries to view it. Mr. Spencer said he spent all his leisure time for twenty years in buying and collecting. I asked him how he came to part with such a fine collection. "Well," he said, "I no more wished to sell those pictures than a father would wish to sell his own child. I parted with them because I wanted to buy out my partner's interest here, and I could not do it without selling them. That is how they came on the market. The newspapers at the time said that I had bought in many of the pictures at high prices, but that was absolutely false. They were all bona fide sales, and I can prove, by check, that I received the total amount of $284,000, less commissions, etc., in payment. They cost me originally, $216,000, so that they brought $68,000 over what I paid. But, taking interest and other expenses into consideration, I quit about even on the sale."

Mr. Spencer's air was that of a man who spoke with frankness and truth. He talks with hesitation, as though weighing every word he said for publication. He has expressive blue eyes, a rubicund face, and looks very much fagged out, as though he had not slept for a week.

In conversation with me he said that he had been carrying on "the business" for twenty years, and that during all that time he had never done anything as a man that his neighbors could complain of. He sometimes had as many as twenty reporters from different papers in his club on an evening and knew that they all felt pleasantly disposed toward him. Yet he had never spent a cent to gain their favor. When asked whether he thought the agitation against the gambling houses was likely to succeed, he said he did not care to express an opinion on the point. It is evident, however, from his manner that he does not think it will. If it does he has real estate enough in the club and race track to enable him to live in affluence, as he owns the entire property himself. He impresses one as being a man who has many good traits and who is superior to the profession which he follows. He said that the club and race-course only netted him interest on the money he had put into them, and that his life was far from enviable, as he scarcely had any sleep during the season, while he had no pleasures, being confined to his business all the time. He employs about 200 men altogether, and the vehicle, stage and general business interests are strongly in his favor. It is clear to me that Mr. Trask and his friends have a more difficult task before them than they realize. The smaller gambling dens will also have to be fought, with their political and social affiliations. Certainly, the law should be enforced, as it should be at Long Branch and elsewhere. It is a fine commentary upon our criminal administration that such open violation of the statutes should be winked at by those whose duty it is to administer them. Are the officers of the law not criminally indictable for permitting gambling to continue knowingly without taking steps to exterminate it? B.

Personal.

John D. Crimmins speaks very pleasantly of his stay at Richfield Springs. He was there with his family at the Earlington.

W. E. D. Stokes spent about a week at the United States Hotel, Saratoga, where he went to recuperate after his successful efforts to have the Boulevard paved. He returned to town a few days ago.

R. M. Walters, the well-known piano manufacturer, has been spending several weeks at Richfield Springs, where, by his geniality and constant good nature, he has made hosts of friends among both sexes.

J. J. Coogan is at the Grand Union, Saratoga, with his family. He is a good dancer and has taken part in all the hops at that mammoth hotel.

F. G. Swartwout has returned from Nyack, N. Y.

John D. Crimmins favors the Inwood site for the Exposition. R. A. Chesebrough wants Port Morris, where he says nearly 600 acres can be acquired for $2,000,000 and resold for $6,000,000 when the Fair is over. On this basis, he thinks, the public would willingly subscribe for stock, as it would guarantee a profit on the money invested. Mr. Chesebrough has urged this view upon the Committee on Sites.

In the City Departments.

The plan has been approved upon for an exterior street to be built from the north side of 49th street to the south side of 53d street, along the East River.

The City is negotiating with Bradish Johnson for the purchase of the wharf property between 47th and 49th streets, North River, with the object of improving the water front at that point.

The Dock Board have offered $50,000, subject to the approval of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, for the wharf property on West street, between the centre line of pier (old No.) 23, at the foot of Vesey street, and the same line of old pier No. 24, between Vesey and Barclay streets.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment have authorized the Public Works Department to spend $129,500 for repaving the following streets: 25th street, between Broadway and 6th avenue; 32d street, between Madison and 5th avenues; 33d street, between Broadway and 4th avenue; 36th and 37th streets, between 4th and 6th avenues; 38th street, between Madison and 4th and between 5th and 6th avenues; 40th and 46th streets, between Madison and 5th avenues; 47th and 48th streets, between Madison and 6th avenues; 60th and 67th streets, between 4th and 5th avenues, and Lexington avenue, between 21st and 32d and 66th and 69th streets. They are all to be laid with asphalt.

The appropriations for repaving streets now amount to $991,000, so that the $1,000,000 allowed by law for this year is nearly exhausted.

W. E. D. Stokes made an effort on Thursday to get the Board of Apportionment to order asphalt paving for the Boulevard. Commissioner Gilroy is in communication with the horse car railroads that run through and across that thoroughfare, in reference to their paving the roadway between the tracks. Until it is definitely settled what the character of this paving will be no contract can be given out by the city. Mr. Stokes strongly advocates the asphalt pavement, and says it will greatly benefit property along the Boulevard, and that it can be made very durable.

What has become of the transverse road which is to be laid through the Central Park? In a few months the cold weather will be upon us and it is essential that the road should be built before the snow gets on the ground. It is as difficult to get from the east to the west side across the Central Park now as it was ten years ago, and although the measure providing for transverse roads was passed last year, the delays and miscalculations by those in authority have resulted in not a rail being laid so far. Gentlemen of the Comptroller's office and of the Park Department should bestir themselves in this matter.

Building Association Notes.

The question of national building associations still absorbs the attention of the local co-operative building world almost to the exclusion of anything else. At the regular monthly meeting of the local league there was a very sharp debate, covering pretty much the whole subject. Mr. C. O'C. Hennessey, of the Daily News Building Association, and editor of the Home-seeker, read the paper of the evening, which proved to be an exhaustive examination of the aims, methods and scope of the national as compared with the local associations. Representatives were present of all the New York national associations, as well as one man from Philadelphia and one from Minneapolis. A lively debate followed the reading of the paper, the sentiment of the meeting being, of course, decidedly against the national associations. This meeting was but the beginning of what promises to be a spirited contest, which will ultimately be carried to the Legislature. Some such fight as this has taken place in every State where the two kinds of associations have interfered one with the other. In this State the fight will be uncompromising, for the feeling is strong among building association people that the aims of the national associations are too directly antagonistic to those of the local associations to permit the continued existence of the two under the same name.

Let it be particularly noticed that it is not that there is anything technically dishonest about the doings of the national associations. They are organized by business men of integrity and enterprise; but for the very reason that they are organized by business men, in their capacity as such, they differ essentially from the local associations, with which not merely the mechanism is co-operative, but the spirit. The organizers of the national associations fig-leaf their natural and reputable desire to make money with a co-operative name. They are parasites, sucking the blood of another kind of being. They have just as much right to life as any business enterprise has, but let them live in their own proper capacity. Such is the main contention of the local association men. The facts that justify it are patent, but it is peculiar that many most respectable men do not see the substantial dishonesty of the practice. The president of the Board of Education of this city is vice-president in the National Mutual Association, and when interviewed on the subject could see nothing wrong in this trading on something else's name and reputation.

The leading national association is the American of Minneapolis. At the recent annual meeting of this association Mr. T. P. Rundell, the president, made an address. In the course of his remarks he said:

The membership of this association is now much larger than that of any other building and loan association in the world. There are in the United States about fifty organizations which are doing a building and loan business on the so-called national plan. Most of these are new. Several of them, however, were organized before we commenced to do business. At the present time, however, our membership exceeds that of all the other national building and loan associations in the United States combined.

Mr. Rundell then gave some figures which are interesting. During the past year 220,000 shares of stock have been issued, which means that in initiation fees alone $220,000 passed into the expense fund. If to this is added the $264,000 received from the ten cents a month deducted from the payments on each share, we find that nearly half a million dollars was paid during the past year into a fund in which the payers had neither voice nor knowledge in its management and distribution. It is such facts as these that are alarming the local association men. This enormous waste amounts to nearly enough to eat up the advantages obtained by the monthly compounding of interest wherefrom the association derives its profits. It was calculated by Mr. Hennessey that a shareholder would lose money if he got out of the association three or four years before his shares matured, which indeed is inevitable when you consider that dollar initiation fee and those harassing charges on every cent which passes through the hands of the management. It is estimated that whereas in a local association $27 per month would be the payment necessary to secure a $2,300 house, the same house would cost in a national association $36 per month.

Men and Things.

Sol. Smith Russell is an actor who began rather low down on the dramatic ladder, and ascended slowly until he finally obtained some reputation as a comedian outside of New York. This week he has made a bid for metropolitan indorsement in a one-man play, called the "Poor Relation," written evidently, and very badly written, to exhibit Mr. Russell's peculiar tricks of expression, attitude and appearance. As a piece of dramatic construction it is not only poorer than the poor relation himself, but poorer even than the late Julius Caesar, who at one time estimated his wealth at some millions less than nothing. Mr. Russell, however, we judge, made a personal success. He takes the part of an inventive genius with a tender heart and a slender purse, who assumes the care of children temporarily motherless, sings songs, perpetrates jokes, commits acts of self-sacrifice, is occasionally coarse, but never dull. The value of his invention obtains an instant recognition that can be justified only by the dramatic necessities of the play. As it happens, however, the plans are stolen, with the unfortunate consequence of forcing the author to write and the audience to hear two acts more. A couple of children are a pleasing feature in the performance, although it might be expected that a play-goer nowadays would become tired of infant precocity and baby talk. What makes the performance enjoyable is an occasional quaint and tender touch in human nature, and an abundance of witty dialogue—wit, alas! like that of Sheridan's opponent, too often derived from the author's memory rather than his imagination. Considerable pleasure is also derived from the fact that the villain and villainess are not on the stage all the time.

There are probably few people who know that there is at present under Broadway a tunnel dug for the space of some hundred feet, constructed originally by the Broadway Pneumatic Underground Railway Company, from which the Arcade Company sprang. An old yellow-covered pamphlet published by the company back in 1870, has lately fallen into our hands. It gives sections of Broadway as they would appear if the cars were in operation, the kind of stations, and contains extracts from newspapers which were unanimously in favor of the project in a way peculiar to the eyes of those accustomed to hear their strictures on the arcade project. The pamphlet makes interesting reading. The scheme was then in its youth, and would probably have been carried out had not grander ideas come into the heads of its promoters, and the vision of a second street under Broadway, lined with stores, cool in summer and warm in winter, entered their heads and made the pneumatic railway a thing of small importance in comparison. The plan deserved a better ending.

The sidewalks on Madison avenue, between 133d street and the Harlem River, are in a disgraceful condition. The whole length of the walk the paving stone is broken and full of holes. North of 135th street the sidewalk is from one-and-a-half to two feet below the grade of the roadway, forming a sort of gutter into which rain runs and dust settles. Many persons are deterred from a walk across Madison Avenue Bridge or to the river by the prospect of its unpleasantness. At the East 138th street end of the bridge no pretense is made of having any kind of a walk for pedestrians, and the roadway is formed of loose blackish dust which rises in a thick cloud at the passage of any wagon, covering the foot passenger with dirt.

The crowds attending the concerts at Mount Morris Park every Wednesday evening do not improve in the matter of respectability as the season draws near the close, and many Harlemites are in favor of changing the time for the concert from Wednesday evening to Saturday afternoon. The protection afforded by the present force of police and the electric lights is not sufficient to save respectable persons from insult. It is further urged that the people for whom these concerts are specially intended—those who cannot afford to go out of town over Sunday—would find it more convenient as well as more agreeable to attend on Saturday afternoons.

In answer to a question as to what site they would prefer for the Exposition of 1892, thirty-five of the architects and real estate men having offices north of 59th street declared as follows: Old Bloomingdale Asylum ground, 3; old Polo grounds and vicinity, 2; Highbridge Park and vicinity, 1; Fort George, 1; Inwood, 3; Van Cortlandt Park, 2; Claremont Park and vicinity, 1; St. Ann's Park and vicinity, 1; Fort Morris, 5; Pelham Bay Park, 8; no choice, 6.

A real estate man suggests that the Legislature be asked by the city authorities to pass a bill authorizing the use of all the unclaimed moneys, now deposited in the different savings banks of the city, for the erection of the Exposition buildings, and the other expenses connected with the big show of 1892.

The "International Graphophone Company" filed a certificate of incorporation in the County Clerk's office during the week. Its objects are to "manufacture, acquire, procure, develop, exploit, sell and use all inventions relating or appertaining to recording or reproducing speech and musical or other sounds * * * and other new and useful inventions." The capital of the company is $5,000,000, represented by 50,000 shares. The trustees are Charles C. Howard, George Hyatt, Patrick F. Vaughan, Edward D. Phillips, William H. Richter, Frederick Strauss, Edward Kavanagh, John A. Snyder, Frederick W. Schramm, Albert Stern and Henry E. Kavanagh.

Work on the sewer system of White Plains will be commenced either this week or next. The cost of the work is estimated at about $80,000.

Large signs, advertising "Pear's Soap," were placed, a few months ago, on the external walls of the Elevated Railroad stations facing the side streets. Many of the residents of the west side objected to the placing of the signs on the station at 72d street and 9th avenue and, at the request of Mayor Grant, the railroad company commenced to remove the signs from all the stations. This work of removal has been stopped by an injunction granted by Judge Allen on the ground that the firm of A. & F. Pears have a ten years' contract with the Manhattan Advertising Company to place their signs on the walls of the different stations.

J. Thomas Stearns, the auctioneer, sold for the Park Department, during the week, the buildings, fences and other structures, on the lands recently acquired by the department for park purposes. The old Polo Ground structures were included in the sale. Most of the purchasers were second-hand building material men.

A Harlem builder is the author of a somewhat ingenious scheme, intended to satisfy the vanity of his tenants. He has built a row of flat houses on a side street, with a continuous line of stores on the ground floor, leaving no room for entrances to the flats above the stores. This difficulty is obviated by having an entrance to all the houses through the basement of a private dwelling on 5th avenue, by means of an alleyway, which opens into a sort of a court-yard in the rear of the flat houses. By means of this arrangement the owner has a more extended store front, and the tenant the advantage that comes from an address No. So-and-So 5th avenue.

Piles are being driven in the ground on which the new Criminal Court building is to stand. They are to be driven 12 feet through made ground and 12 feet below that. Preparations are being made to drive test piles. It will be several weeks before the concrete foundations are laid.

A paper weight seen in an architect's office consists of a piece of polished slate with a dark background, containing a subject in a flesh tint of glaze, which is put on the slate in the liquid form and then baked and polished. The subject represents a boy chasing a butterfly in a garden. The process is applied for panel work and in facings for mantels, etc.

The unfortunate scandal which has arisen in connection with Robert Ray Hamilton will be regretted by all who know him. Mr. Hamilton was for some time a member of the Legislative Committee of the Real Estate Exchange, and in that capacity served faithfully and intelligently. When he went into the Assembly he represented the committee on a number of occasions and was always foremost in opposing measures inimical to the real estate interests and in supporting those favorable to those interests. Mr. Hamilton has bought and sold real estate to some extent, especially in Brooklyn, and it appears that some little difficulty will arise in the titles passed since he married, owing to the signature of his wife being absent from the documents of transfer, thus leaving the right of dower still vested in her. In these documents he is said to have styled himself as "unmarried."

Talk of American enterprise! Claus Spreckels, the sugar king, is going to solidify sugar. In fact he has discovered a process, and hereafter we shall have loaf-sugar houses. Mr. Spreckels claims that his sugar is as hard as granite and can be used as if it were marble.

And now a project is mooted for building an immense structure up town, in which to hold athletic exhibitions in the winter as well as in summer, to include baseball, tennis, as well as other sports. The idea is to inclose the structure with glass in the winter and heat the building to a comfortable temperature, and in the summer to take off the glass framework and leave the structure open to the air. It is said that the capital required would be $500,000. The project would no doubt be successful if carried out, as there is a demand for sports in the winter which the climate makes it impossible to supply out-of-doors.

For nearly a year past the members of the Real Estate Exchange who have had occasion to use the offices and bureau of information have had their olfactories offended by an odor as of sewer gas which permeated the rooms. The employes of the Exchange, and especially the young ladies, were taken sick one after another, and one of them was taken dangerously ill at a time when she should have been enjoying her vacation. The Board of Health was recently called in, and from the tests made by inspectors it was found that the public sewer extends from the Maiden lane sewer to within about 70 feet south of Liberty street, where it terminates with a manhole having a perforated cover. As this is the dead end of the sewer, and is at the top of a considerable grade, the sewer gas escapes from the manhole in large quantities and enters the windows of the adjoining buildings, especially the Exchange, thus giving rise to a serious nuisance. The Board of Health has sent a report to the Exchange, stating that the sewer, which is under the charge of the Department of Public Works, is "in a condition dangerous to life and detrimental to health." A peppermint test showed that sewer gas escaped "in large volumes and flooded the lower stories" of the Exchange. The Health Department have asked the Public Works Department to cover the manhole with a tight cover or continue the sewer to the Liberty street sewer, thereby securing a circulation which would probably reduce the escape of offensive air.

The Princess Engalitcheff is one of the most interesting persons who has appeared on the literary-social swim for some winters. Her lecture on the Russian Imperial Family, which has been delivered at many of the principal summer resorts this season, is a description of the domestic life of the personages dealt with such as could only be acquired by personal knowledge and observation. The Princess probably somewhat overrates the virtues of one or two of the male members of the Imperial Family, but that is only natural for a woman who seems to belong to the patriotic party in Russia. In a half-hour's conversation with the Princess at Richfield Springs the writer found her to be an unusually intelligent woman, with grace, tact and a keen perception. In appearance she is tall, stately and somewhat largely proportioned. Her sister married Sir William White, the British Ambassador at Constantinople, who is the foremost Oriental diplomat in H. B. M.'s service, and who, with Lord Dufferin and a few others, enjoys the distinction of being in the front rank of British diplomacy. The Princess was his guest for awhile, but their views did not coincide, and naturally so, as Sir Wm. White is reported to be in his private talks a Russophile of the Beaconsfield order. The Princess speaks remarkably good English, despite her accent. It would be interesting to hear her lecture upon the manners and customs of the Russians, treating of their business, social and religious life.

Real Estate Department.

There has been so little done on 'Change and in the brokers' offices since our last that a review of the week's doings would reveal nothing of importance. The only transaction on the Exchange which attracted attention at all was the sale of the Broadway Surface Railroad, subject to "mortgages, liens, encumbrances, servitudes, charges and conditions" too numerous to specify here. The well-known ex-Secretary to ex-President Cleveland, Daniel S. Lamont, made the first and only bid of $25,000, at which figure it was knocked down to him. Messrs. Brown & Leviness, the auctioneers, could give no explanation of the figure at which Mr. Lamont secured the franchises, nor could they describe what those franchises actually consist of. The sale is said to be only a matter of form and part of a necessary legal process. Col. Lamont deposited the 10 per cent. called for with the auctioneers yesterday.

Inquiry at the offices of up-town agents shows that people are returning from vacation, attracted by the cool weather prevailing in New York. There is quite a demand for private houses and flats of the better class, a demand which it will be rather difficult to fill in most cases.

From the letter which appears in another column, under the heading of "Saratoga Jottings," it will be noticed that the real estate agents of ex-Judge Hilton are somewhat sanguine of an early termination of the Stewart case. It appears probable also that the Grand Union Hotel, Saratoga, with all the other real estate belonging to the Stewarts in New York and elsewhere will come under the hammer. This is interesting news.

An interesting sale of suburban real estate will take place on Labor Day, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, on the premises, at Pine Island, near Bayville, L. I. Some 307 building plots will be disposed of, each containing two city lots. Part of the property is restricted, and it has Sound and Bay fronts, with the healthy pines on the one side and the invigorating water breezes on the other. The avenues and streets are 60 feet wide and there is a fine beach. Ten of the plots, 50x100 each, have been sold at $500 each, and they will be improved with several cottages. Brokers Thomas and Eckerson own several acres adjoining. The property is convenient to the steamboat landing and the railroad depot. The sale is to be positive. Full particulars can be obtained from Benjn. W. Downing, attorney for the owner, at 26 Court street, Brooklyn. J. Fred. Hegeman, of Hempstead, L. I., will be the auctioneer.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 50TH STREET.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society has sold the six-story office building at No. 55 Broadway, on the southwest corner of Exchange place, for a consideration named at upwards of $350,000. The brokers in the case are understood to have been Messrs. Maclay, Davies & Co., who decline to give further particulars. The property was last transferred by Wm. Maddock to Eugene T. Lynch, on December 18, 1888, for a nominal consideration, subject to mortgages of $290,313. The plot is 26.4x201.2, and it is covered by the building, which runs through to Trinity place, thus giving it three frontages. The gross rent of the building, when full, is said to be about $28,000.

The firm of Leonard J. Carpenter has sold for Theodore K. Hazard, trustee, No. 48 Bond street, a four-story brick building, 26.9x 1/2 block, at $28,000.

Ames & Co. have sold for J. B. McCaffrey the four-story, high stoop, brown stone house No. 231 West 38th street, 20.7x55x98.9, for $18,500.

Mrs. E. Friedlander has sold the three-story and basement brown stone house No. 234 East 33d street, lot 18.9x100, to J. F. McMahon for $11,750. Brokers, Fox & Kronengold.

John M. Gibson has sold for Mrs. Barbara Zenner the four-story English basement brick and stone front house at No. 406 West 22d street, 14.3x54x72, to Mrs. E. McCoy for $11,500.

Morris B. Baer & Co. have sold for David M. Kellogg the three-story, high stoop, brown stone house No. 134 West 53d street, 18x50x100, for $13,750.

The business of Leonard J. Carpenter will be continued with the same force which has conducted it during Mr. Carpenter's illness. Several of these have been in the office for many years and are well known in real estate circles. The name of the firm will continue the same.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

Walter Lawrence has sold for James W. Ramsey the four five-story brown stone single flat houses, Nos. 129 to 135 West 103d street, for $120,000. The buildings are each 18.9x90x100.11 feet in size. The same broker has sold for Albert Flack the four-story and basement high stoop flat, No. 217 West 104th street, for $30,000; size, 25x70x100 feet. BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—On the market for Common Reds there has been no change of a quotable character in the line of valuation, but the movement was somewhat reduced. Last week's receipts altogether are said to have been the largest for any corresponding period this season, but they were spread along quite evenly from day to day and meeting a waiting demand disappeared readily. The influence of the large amounts then taken by dealers and contractors, however, has not been felt in the more indifferent form of inquiry, but fortunately the barges did not return to yards and reload with sufficient rapidity to repeat arrivals in same amount, and the reduced call finds its balance in about same shrinkage of offerings and prices are held steadily. The proportion of washed brick has fallen away to a considerable extent and quality now averages nearer the standard, and hence more desirable for handling in the ordinary course of negotiation. From what can be learned every bit of working capacity is now being utilized with the utmost vigor, and some manufacturers entertain fair hope of ability to make good the loss of production occasioned by the summer storms, but others "talk" of shutting down at a comparatively early date. A portion of the trade here have been a trifle skeptical about the chances for fall and winter consumption, but in looking ahead all agree that the locating of the World's Fair here in 1893 can hardly fail to prove of supreme benefit to the brick trade. Not only will the Exhibition building itself consume large quantities of stock, but is likely to be located where many adjacent improvements will become necessary, to say nothing of the probabilities of an underground railroad as a means of communication. The general demand for Pales is reported as keeping up well to about former level and preserving former values, though $3.50 per M. is rarely exceeded.

LATH.—We hear some complaint to the effect that the market has not been well managed, but it is a pretty difficult matter to "manage" a position on which the supplies exceed calculations to a very considerable degree, are scattered about in the hands of pretty much all receivers, and previous free investments have made dealers easy in the way of immediate accumulations, and consequently indifferent about taking further additions. Such has been the case this week to a very large extent, and the effect was depressing upon value, with some of the Maine stock sold at $2.00, and a large proportion of the business in all kinds at $2.05, though at the close we have reports of sales at $2.10 per M. The Northern stock seems to have stopped coming as anticipated, and there is the usual claim about small amounts expected coastwise, but it will require time to test the latter assertion. Many of the recent arrivals were from Nova Scotia, and it is thought likely supply in that direction is exhausted.

LIME.—The market is even in price, develops a demand for about all the stock available as it reaches harbor, and altogether shows the usual monotonous features. Arrivals have been fair of late, but it is claimed that very little stock now remains afloat coastwise.

LUMBER.—Distribution is fair on contract, and some of the favorably situated yards are getting more or less in the way of fresh trade; but with the exception of special cuts, etc., most dealers are enabled to tender an assortment satisfactory to the wants of their custom, and are meeting orders without attempt to add to line of values. On the wholesale market there is much the usual irregularity noticeable. Some classes of stock, and especially that received coastwise, secure attention for anything except the most ordinary run; but salesmen representing interior productions, notably white pine and hardwoods, continue on the complaining list, and assert that dealers are either negotiating direct with their favorite manufacturers, or quietly sitting taking matters easy awaiting development which they do not seem to apprehend will be of an adverse character. There is, however, a continuation of success reported in placing contracts with dealers beyond the immediate line of trade of the two cities.

Eastern Spruce of ordinary quality cannot be said to have any special favor, and some dealers, especially in this, rarely consent to make an open direct demand for it, so that prices remain uncertain and are very apt to weaken suddenly under any adverse influence, such as an excess of offering or the necessity for a hasty discharge of cargo, etc. Good average schedules, however, together with choice and special bills, remain quite steady, and repeated expressions of confidence are to be heard regarding the outlook, as both prompt consumption and the necessity for accumulating yard stocks are apparent. There is no real scarcity of logs at the Eastward, but they cost high, and manufacturers are quite determined in the effort to obtain a full return on the product. Arrivals have continued full again this week, owing to steady accumulations of easterly winds, but the supply seems to have been placed without much difficulty, prices standing up well, and the tone of the market is, if anything, healthier at the close. The major portion of the fleet is now here or afloat, yet recent advices report that notwithstanding the scarcity at primary points lumber freights have declined, owing to the fact that the mills have so little stock left to tender for shipment.

Piling shows some irregularity, but the largest operators make no admission of weakness and assert that if any giving way has taken place on odd lots it was under influences independent of those prevailing on the general market. It is also reported that arrivals will be light enough to manage with ease during balance of the season.

Hemlock retains a measure of uncertainty. Many sellers assert quite positively that there has been no weakness or actual decline on really choice and attractive stock, while buyers have been just as emphatic in the claim of ability to obtain better terms than during midsummer, and with so much smoke there must be a little fire somewhere. The product of some Pennsylvania manufacturers is doubtless well held, but others are somewhat lenient in their views, especially when they come in competition with State stock.

White Pine gets an order occasionally from the local trade, but most salesmen assert that it is pretty difficult stock to place on this market except in the way of box boards, and even on these some of the recent sales were only perfected by making a moderate allowance on cost. Supplies are coming forward, however, to some extent, and there is here and there evidence of accumulating stock, the result of contracts that many dealers have made with manufacturers and interior operators who, through previous experience, know just what is wanted and send it along in such manner as to rarely cause disappointment. Export trade is a little irregular, as usual at this season when the Provinces fill many of the orders.

Yellow Pine retains a good position; is, indeed, about the most uniform in price and surest of sale of any leading stock in the market. All standard grades find prompt attention on open offering, and there seems to be a satisfactory number of specials all the while awaiting attention, and toward the latter manufacturers have become independent enough to occasionally refuse to bid if the schedule is different or in any way exacting. Quite a good trade has been done this season in kiln-dried flooring boards in car lots, brought through from Georgia and Alabama.

Carolina Pine is not displacing every other description of stock, as might be inferred from some of the reports made upon the condition of the market. It, however, retains the favor of a portion of the trade, who find it useful in various ways, now that manufacturers show a disposition to maintain a high standard of quality, and an outlet is kept open sufficient to exhaust the bulk of the product.

Hardwoods generally are slow. Whatever dealers may be doing in the way of distribution, very few, if any of them, are actually in need of stocks and do not care to be importuned to invest. There is also the usual complaint about consignments, partly because a want of judgment is displayed in making up the parcels forwarded, and partly because in the present condition of the market it is almost impossible to do justice to even the most attractive offerings. No one is hammering the position exactly, but when buyers really have no immediate use for supplies they naturally expect that some inducement will be offered them if they consent to invest. Exporters are attentive to choice offerings, but interior agents are sending them a greater amount of stock on through shipment.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Although many logs came down this season in different parts of the Northwest that the prophets proposed to have hung up for a year or two, there are still many mill points where the manufacturers are in close proximity to the ragged edge. To saw, or not to saw, that is the question. It must be more water, or idle mills. At other producing centres there are logs, and to spare, and while it would suit those who are short if there was a more equal distribution of moisture, it is probable that there are already more logs available than will benefit the markets at large. Those Michigan men who claim to be cross-piling their product and finding no sale for it, ought to be satisfied with what logs they can get. But to remain idle is not to their liking. They prefer to keep their plants in operation and their men at work. The white pine manufacturer is suited with no half-way business. And that is one reason why white pine will go the sooner. The mill man will keep up a mad rush to produce as long as a tree can be had; and finally he will go where there is other timber, and begin his work again, probably at a madder pace.

If there has been any change in the tendency of general trade during the week, it is in a slight increase of distribution in the West, and more confidence among dealers in the magnitude of the coming fall demand. Just now there is a sort of pivotal vibration in prices, the holders of bulk stocks feeling that if they hang on a little longer for prices, the fall movement will afford them a chance to take a firmer grip. On the other hand, buyers in the wholesale markets have not fully made up their minds to take hold and stock up. They have believed that there was to be a very weak spot in the market this season, and they have deferred buying in order to take advantage of it. Having waited so long, they naturally hesitate as to the proper time to dip in. The recent drop in the price of dimension in the Lake Michigan markets was taken as an indication of a coming crisis, and led the majority to think that further concessions would follow. But the manufacturers seem to have loosened their grip for the purpose of giving the market a start, yet have screwed down the brakes so that prices will not slide down any lower. One heavy concern in this city seems to have thought the time had come to buy, for it has bought 13,000,000 feet at Muskegon. The cargo market in this city is exhibiting slight signs of renewed life, though receipts have fallen off. This, however, only stimulates the appetite of buyers.

Reports of a dull cargo market continue to come from the Saginaw Valley. Eastern buyers have gone further up the lakes for supplies, their avowed motive for this movement being that they can buy cheaper on the Huron shore, Green Bay and Lake Superior than they can in the valley. The result is that the Saginaw and Bay City holders are growing anxious to sell their lumber.

At Chicago this week's exchange report for the first time shows a total of receipts less than up to a like date last year, the comparison being 1,113,000,000 this year to 1,114,000,000 in 1888. It begins to look as if the surplus of nearly 100,000,000 that loomed menacingly before the dealers last spring was to be speedily reduced to a small and wholly harmless amount.

The commission men report no change in prices, but a rather better inquiry for lumber. This has resulted partly from a meagerness of supply, and partly from the fact that trade in the yards is reviving a little.

Writing upon the Chicago Yard trade the Timberman says:

It is becoming an old story to predict a good trade this fall, but the indications in that direction are becoming stronger every day. With a good crop of corn turned in last year, and a good crop of every kind of grain this year there is no reason why money should not be plenty through the country. This being the case the lumber trade is bound to get its share.

Piece stuff has settled down to an almost uniform price, and the average is about $11.50. At points where it comes into direct competition with yellow pine, a little lower figure prevails, say about $11.

Inch boards are not as reliable and the price is consequently exhibiting a tendency to fluctuate.

It may be put down as an established fact that good strips will be a scarce article before the season is over. One dealer told us that if he had a million feet of this stock he could dispose of it at a good figure before twenty-four hours and he was having hard work to find enough to supply his regular trade. Fencing is said to be about as weak as anything, although dealers who have kept the grade up have no trouble in securing $14.50 for rough stock. It is said by some that before the season is over No. 2 fencing will be as scarce as good strips, but this fact has not as yet had any good effect on the price. We hear of No. 2 being sold as low as $12.

Hemlock piece-stuff is still active, and the demand for planking is good.

Speaking in a general way, there seems to be a better tone to the hardwood market this week than for some time past, and yet there is no special line in which this improvement is especially discernible. True, prices are not all that could be wished for, but spite of this, there is still money to be made in the hardwood trade.

Red oak still keeps at the head of the procession, with quarter-sawn white oak not very far behind.

Ash is coming to the front considerably of late, especially thick pieces, and the fact is being developed that this stock is comparatively scarce. Thirty-five dollars is probably an average for two-and-a-half-inch and upward, thick.

Basswood is in fair demand, though it is likely to be better as the summer months roll by. Inch boards sell for $18 to $19, and at the latter price oftener than the former. Thick brings about $22.

A great deal of elm is also used for furniture of the cheaper grades, and it brings from $17 to $18. By some this stock is reported to be gaining ground, while others say it is just about holding its own.

Cherry seems to be getting quite scarce in Chicago, and is in good demand for fine finishing, in spite of the fact that attempts are daily being made to substitute some cheaper wood. Firsts and seconds are worth about $85, and thick stock is held at $90 to $100.

The same old story applies to walnut that has been told of this stock from week to week. When any is sold it is on a very close margin, and probably the net profit would not materially aid in swelling the seller's bank account.

Mahogany is a good stock to have on hand, for it is becoming comparatively scarce, and the demand is good. It brings all the way from 18 to 25 cents.

One of the woods that in the past has been almost totally in the darkness is coming into use, and it will make a stir in the house finishing stock at early date. This wood is sycamore. One manufacturer who has been visiting East has found quite a number of offices finished in this material, and the cheapness of the wood as well as the prettiness of the finish will, no doubt, recommend it to those who are finishing offices and houses.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says:

It is interesting to note that, despite all that was said last winter about the open winter restricting the input of logs, and what has since been said about the dry season and hung up drives, the saw mills at Muskegon and Saginaw—and pretty much throughout Michigan for that matter—have more logs than they can readily saw. At Muskegon the mill owners have called a halt on the boom company to enable them to clean up their ponds. Production has to some extent been accelerated by this condition of affairs, but overcrowded docks, and a slow demand has on the other hand served as a check upon production. Muskegon in particular has felt the influence of the over-supply in the Chicago market.

Further west, in the Mississippi Valley, production has certainly been very materially reduced because of the short log crop, and the inability of getting logs which were cut to the mill. The present indications are that a heavy storm which occurred on Monday night will result in getting out the logs on the St. Croix, which have thus far been unavailable. This will add from 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 to the supply for down river mills, which have all along been running from hand to mouth, anticipating that the next week or two would shut off production altogether. It is probable, too, that the late rains have helped the stage of water on the Chippewa, and more logs will be run out of that stream. The Minneapolis mills have a stock in sight calculated to keep them busy until the end of the season.

CANADA.

According to a statement prepared by T. W. Hotchkiss, American Consul at Ottawa, the total value of exports from the Ottawa district to the United States during the year ending June 30, 1889, was $3,267,598, being an increase of $330,284 over last year. Last year the exports in lumber were $2,465,688 as against $2,679,701 this year. In box shooks there was an immense increase, as in 1887-88 only $63,339 worth were sent across the line, while in 1888-89 they were valued at $244,162.

The Quebec Chronicle says that men are now being engaged to be sent into the shanties for lumbering operations. It is the prevailing impression that lumberers' wages will be very high next winter. At present $30 are offered to laborers per month, $36 to $38 for markers, $40 to $42 for road makers, and $50 to $60 for broad-axe men.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LIVERPOOL.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

Fulfilling our promise of last week, to look into the statistical position of other wood goods apart from pine timber and oak, with which we have already dealt, we will just consider in what state the market at present stands with regard to Canadian pine and spruce deals. Taking as a basis the published statistics of last month, which, unfortunately, were omitted from our last report through want of space we see that though the consumption for the present has been somewhat slightly larger than that of last year but to an extent hardly worth consideration, the importation has been about 3,000 standards more.

Making every allowance for the quantity of spruce which has come forward, there can be but little doubt that pine deals have been brought forward too freely, the stock at the end of the last month being about 2,300 standards above that of last year at the same time. With the close of the import season now within sight, the increased cost of importation, consequent upon the firmer tone of the freight market and the higher rates of insurance, we shall not be surprised to see a decline in prices if supplies continue to come forward as freely as they are doing at present. Still we cannot disguise the fact that pine, in the form of deals, boards, sidings and other partly manufactured forms, is rapidly forcing its way in public estimation to the corresponding detriment of pine in the log, which a few years ago was the favorite and general way of sending this description of wood to this market.

GLASGOW.

The result of the public sales that have taken place here and at Greenock within the past week has not been of large amount, transactions being restricted owing to the divergence in the ideas of buyers and sellers as to values. At Messrs. Allison, Cousland & Co.'s sale this was very apparent, when, although a fairly numerous company was present, the various lots put up (comprising a large and attractive assortment of Michigan and Quebec pine deals, various qualities) failed to bring prices such as were looked for by the expositors, and these goods were consequently withdrawn.

A few lots of U. S. walnut boards were cleared out at 2s. to 2s. 5d. per cubic foot; white oak planks, 8s. 6d. per cubic foot; Baltimore oak scantlings, 1s. 8d. to 1s. 9d. per cubic foot.

METALS.—COPPER.—Ingot has remained comparatively quiet and without any features of an unusual or remarkable character. There does not appear to be the last particle of life in the speculative element, while consumers and dealers manage to get along with small parcels as wanted from time to time for ordinary wants. The market, however, is kept very well in hand at about former rates. We quote Lake at 12c., and casting brands at 10½ to 11c. Manufactured Copper has secured fair average attention, the movement increasing a trifle if anything on some outlets, and the position so under control as to preserve list rates without much difficulty. Production is not quite up to the ordinary volume.

We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 21c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 22c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 23c.; do, 8 to 10 oz., 24c.; do, under 8 oz., 25c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12 to 14 oz., 2c. for 10 to 12 oz., and 3c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over, 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz., 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 22c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 24c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 26c.; do, 8 to 10 oz., 30c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz.; and 1c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz., 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz., 22c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 25c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 26c. Sheets 60x96 and over, 20c.; for 32 to 64 oz. and over, and 25c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz., 23c.; 12 oz., 25c.; 10 oz., 27c.; and 10 oz., 30c. Bolt copper, ¾ inch diameter and over, 20c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1½ to 2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 23 to 25c. per lb. Iron—Scotch Pig has gained still further in value on the stimulus of very favorable accounts from abroad and the absence of any accumulation here. Indeed, pretty much all recent arrivals here passed directly into consumers' hands on previous contract. We quote at $19.50 @ $23.00 per ton, according to brand, delivery, etc. American Pig does not show any very decidedly new features. There is not much business going to book at the moment on what can be called a positively fresh run of orders, the current sales embracing in the main simply small lots for immediate use, but there is free deliveries on back contract and especially of the choice and desirable brands, many of which are sold a long way ahead. We quote at $17.00 @ $17.50 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $16.00 @ $16.50 for No. 2 X do.; and $15.00 @ $15.25 for Gray Forge. Old material has a few elements of irregularity, but on the whole the tendency was in buyers' favor, and there seemed to be more or less of a speculative feeling inclined to the bull side. The supply available was scarce, both on spot and to arrive, especially of rails. We quote at about $23.50 @ $25.00 for old rails; $20.50 @ $21.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $14.00 @ $15.00 for cast scrap, and $17.50 @ $18.00 for car wheels. Steel rails have been somewhat more active during the past fortnight, the demand in part from the South, and rumors prevail of further parcels under treaty. Exact terms not given, but the market is reported as standing right up to former figures in all cases. We quote at $28.00 @ $28.50 per ton at the mills and $29.00 @ $30.00 do. at tide water. Manufactured Iron has secured about the average run of demand, and the condition of the market as a whole is looked upon as promising, with operators quite generally cheerful in expression of views. Supplies not abundant, but fully equal to calls made at the moment, and prices ruling about steady. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 1.90 @ 2.10c. from store, and refined at 2.00 @ 2.30c.; Rods, round and square, 2.10 @ 2.20c.; Bands, 2.20 @ 2.30c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4 @ 5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.75 @ 2.80c. for common Nos. 10 @ 16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD.—Domestic Pig now and then finds a little attention; but as a rule business is dull, and the market without features of a very decided character, except that values are kept pretty steady. We quote at 3.82½ @ 3.90c., as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 4½c.; pipe, 6c.; sheet 6½c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe 45c., on same terms. Tin—Pig has on the whole been rather inclined to a firm position, and at times a fair business done. Holders, however, generally seem willing to keep stock moving wherever they can obtain full market rates. We quote at about 27½ @ 28½c. for round lots and 20½ @ 20¾c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plates find only moderate attention for future delivery, but a pretty good demand for spot goods is current, and buyers make no objection as a rule to the prevailing line of valuation. Supplies are fair. We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.50 @ $5.52½; each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.70 @ 4.72½; each additional X add $1; Charcoal, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.60 @ 6.65; M. F. grade, 20x28, $13.30 @ 13.25; Worcester, 14x20, $4.75 @ 4.80; Worcester, 20x28, $9.60 @ 9.65; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.20 @ 4.30; Deane grade, 20x28, $8.37½ @ 8.55; Allaway grade, 14x20, $4.05 @ 4.07½; Allaway grade, 20x28, $8.30 @ 8.30; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $4.27½ @ 4.30; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.30 @ 4.32½; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $1.60 basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.65; Spelter is in very fair demand, the market well under control, and prices gradually hardening. We quote at 5.10 @ 5.15c. for ordinary brands of Western.

NAILS.—Stock is running out into most regular channels of distribution with a little more freedom, and a further increase is thought quite probable. Buyers, however, will not speculate, and most of the stuff handled is against early and positive necessity. We quote at $1.85 @ 1.90 per keg for car lots, and $1.95 @ 2.00 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—General demand has been very fair, a little fuller if anything on some outlets, and there does not appear to be any cause for complaint. Prices vary somewhat at times over paints and colors, but leads are kept in very steady position, and to the extent of known wants at least buyers take them with confidence. Linseed Oil has demand quite in proportion to other goods, and is steady at 57 @ 58c. for Western and 60 @ 61c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has been handled carefully, and after a further advance shows an inclination to react again under heavier arrivals expected. We quote at 44 @ 44½c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

ROOFING SLATE.—Our local market shows the usual limited proportions and presents few features of interest beyond the fact that the supply is under excellent control and on such lots as may be wanted buyers may expect to pay quite as full rates as for some time past. At primary points, however, and more particularly in the black slate region of Pennsylvania, business is having a decided boom and all the leading quarries are being worked to their full capacity without evading the necessity for accumulating unfilled orders. The demand comes in part from the South, but very largely from the West, and is noticeable in the feature that few of the large cities are represented, but the custom emanates from the smaller towns and villages and covers a wide area of distribution. On such sizes as 18x30 and below the manufacturers' rates have within a month been advanced 50c. per square, and on 16, 18 and 20x10 the advance is 15c. per square with the gain firmly maintained. The export trade, in the meanwhile, has been falling off. Some shipments were made during the spring and early summer, and a few more recently, but pretty much all in fulfillment of contracts, and really new demand is considered as practically suspended. This is due, it is said, to a large concentration of stock upon the Australian market, and a sharp falling off in demand and price, through which shipments are no longer profitable. Green slate has not done particularly well this season, and, indeed, the market is said to have been at times quite unsatisfactory, but as everything was under control cutting rates was prevented. It is said that the year opened with some 25,000 squares on hand, and the accumulation has gradually increased to 40,000 squares, and against further growth a remedy is about to be introduced. In fact the Vermont slate trust has decided to control the production of sea-green roofing slate, and the following firms will operate their quarries for only four days of each week, beginning September 1st: Hughes & Son, Kising & Nelson, Norton Brothers, Auld & Conger, Williams & Edwards, H. J. Williams, Anniffau Slate Trust, Warren Slate Company, Denison & Johnson, Schmid & Snyder, Thomas R. Griffith and Buckeye Slate Company. These firms own and control thirty quarries in Rutland County, produce 95 per cent. of all the sea-green roofing slate manufactured, and as the trust is satisfied with its experience thus far the chances are it will carry out its proposition without a break.

TAR AND PITCH.—Business shows less animation on some outlets, but the general movement of supplies appears to be considered about as full as could be expected for the season. Prices vary somewhat at times without affecting the general range. We quote Pitch at $1.40 @ 1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.40 @ 2.60, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

* Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

August 30, 1889.

A lien has been filed to-day against me by Henry Westphal, with whom I had a contract for the erection of the building known as No. 255 Bowery. The said contract provided for the completion of the building within a given day and for the payment to me of the sum of ten dollars for each day's delay. The controversy between us arises out of the deduction made by me by reason of such delay. CASPAR IBA.

Wall street sees, or thinks it sees, which is the same thing to it, the prospect of a genuine bull market, the first which has appeared within the memory of any of the brokers who cannot show gray hairs as evidence of their presence at the breaking up of the last one. All the conditions are favorable—that is, for Wall street—as never yet have the skies there been perfectly clear. There is always a dark cloud on the horizon. A heavy frost in the West would still send the cold chills down the back of every operator in the “street,” but barring that there is little else to bother him. Railroad wars, he believes, never are serious when there is plenty of business for all. It is only when the rations get low that a fight for what is left is likely to occur. Europe, it is true, is getting too much of our money, and we too little of theirs; but this is a condition which may any day change. Englishmen have a keen nose for prosperity, and, no matter what country, they appear to have the capital always ready to take advantage of the country having it. It is a pity that our imports are on so large a scale, as every dollar must be paid for; but as we are very likely to have plenty of wheat, corn, oats, pork and cattle to exchange, the handling of it all will bring good times to all.

The reports that have been received on this side indicate that the striking dock laborers in London have been successful. Several of the dock companies have conceded the demands of the men, and work has been resumed. After this it is not likely that other companies will be able to hold out much longer. To pass an intelligent judgment on the strike, a thorough knowledge of all the “conditions” related to it would be necessary. Most of the judgments that have been passed so far in this country have been little more than a reflection of the sympathy, one way or the other, of the persons expressing them. One of the first questions one would like to have answered is: Will the strike, granting that it is successful, benefit the dock laborers as a class? So far as individuals are concerned, the rise in wages is of course a “good thing.” The dock laborer who henceforth gets twelve cents an hour in London instead of ten cents will find life somewhat easier than hitherto. But suppose this increase in wages lessens the number of men employed in the docks and makes the companies economize in other directions, the benefits obtained through the strike will simply be giving to Paul what has been taken from Peter. If we fix our eyes on Paul only, we shall be sure to see in the strike nothing but benefit. The difficulty is to keep watch on the condition of Peter.

In every case an increase in wages that is not due to greater production means taking from one person's pocket all that is put into another's. When a company increases its pay roll without any corresponding return, it declares smaller dividends or makes fewer improvements to property than it otherwise would. This means that stockholders have less money to spend, and this their tradesmen and others feel; or, if the company makes fewer improvements, less labor of a certain kind is employed, and men find it harder to get work, and consequently their wages fall. The strike in England, however, is no doubt due to the improved condition of trade on the other side. Labor is endeavoring to get its share of the increase. It should not be overlooked that there is a lesson in the strike for employers in this country. Events here usually follow the course of those on the other side. This has been the case for years. We seem now to be at the beginning of good times, and perhaps no better indication of this can be given than the tendency of wages to rise, which is now visible. The Missouri Pacific have voluntarily increased the wages of certain employes 10 per cent., and the other day the Pottstown, Pa., Iron Company announced an increase in the wages of puddlers from $3.25 to $3.50 a ton, and probably this will affect the entire iron trade, as the company is an important one.

In the controversy between Mr. George Gunton and Dr. Washington Gladden as to whether Trusts are institutions which the public should view with favor, correctly or not, a great deal has been made to depend upon the effect which the existence of the Standard Oil Company has exerted upon the price of refined petroleum. Mr.

Gunton is a defender of Trusts. He alleges that the Standard Oil Company has lowered the price of refined in a greater proportion than the price of crude oil has been reduced by the producers, and from this he draws the inference that the public have been benefited, having in fact been made sharers in the great economies which the Trust with its enormous capital and resources has been able to effect. On the other hand, Dr. Gladden denies that the Standard has done anything of the kind. He asserts that the public have not only not obtained any benefits from any economies, but have not received even the full reduction in the price of refined that they are entitled to in consequence of the reduction in the price of crude.

It is very difficult to bring controversies as to matters of opinion or belief to any conclusive test. For a long time to come people will, no doubt, continue to argue as to whether Trusts, as a whole, are institutions beneficial to the public or not. There are already two camps in the field fighting on the subject, and the probability is that the truth is not wholly with either. But it is comparatively easy to settle disputes as to what are called “matters of fact,” especially such a matter of fact as whether the price of refined petroleum has fallen in the same proportion as the price of the crude oil since the establishment of the Standard Oil Company. Exactly when the Standard Oil combination came into being may well be a matter of dispute. The Standard Oil Trust has existed for only a few years. Previously there was the Standard Oil Company and its affiliations, which, so far as the public was concerned, was for years practically all that it is to-day as a Trust. It is not necessary, however, to go back further than 1872. At that time the Standard Oil Company was undoubtedly a powerful organization. Its influence on the oil trade was great, though, of course, the company was not then the overwhelming monopoly that it is to-day. Now, on the 8th day of November, 1872, the Standard instructed its Oil City, Pa., buyers to pay $4.75 per barrel for oil, and on the 9th it purchased at those prices 20,000 barrels in Oil City. At the same time 6,000 barrels were sold to Oil Creek refiners at the same figures.

That, however, was the highest price of the year, and perhaps it is not fair to treat it as the price of crude oil at the time, though a controversialist might feel warranted in going back to 1871 when oil fetched as high as $5.10 a barrel, and taking some figure between that amount and $4 as the starting price. In those early days the price of crude oil fluctuated rapidly and extensively. Oil had sold as high as $20 a barrel and as low as 20 cents before 1872. Certainly for 1872 $3.50 would be a low average, and we will accept that figure. Now, let us turn to the price of refined oil. The highest New York quotation in 1872 was 27½ cents a gallon and the lowest 21¾ cents; the average may be placed for convenience at 25 cents. During the past twelve months the average price of crude oil has been about 80 cents, so that there has been a decline of about 77 per cent. from the average of $3.50 a barrel in 1872. If Mr. Gunton is right and, as he says, the Standard Trust has lowered the price of refined, at least in proportion to the reduction that has been made in crude, then the market price of refined during the past year should have been 77 per cent. less than 25 cents (the price in 1872), or 5¾ cents per gallon. As a matter of fact the price has been about 7½ cents a gallon. Refined oil has seldom sold much below that figure. It is plain then, that facts do not bear out Mr. Gunton's assertion. This error does not affect the strength of his argument as a whole. It shows, though, that he has endeavored to prove a good case, with poor evidence.

Further announcement as to the details of the postal telegraph arrangements will be eagerly awaited. As yet there has been given to the public nothing sufficiently specific for intelligent consideration; although, apart from its details, it would seem to be a commendable step in that it will lead to a closer affiliation between the telegraph company and the postal department. Some time ago, Postmaster General Wannamaker made the announcement that the improvements he contemplated were not in the direction of a reduction in cost, but rather towards a betterment of service; but it is safe to say that nobody expected that he would reach an agreement with the Western Union Company (if indeed he has), whereby the company should take advantage of the government delivery system, paying for the same by a considerably smaller charge to the public. By this the public will certainly lose nothing, and perhaps gain a good deal. What this gain will consist in, however, cannot be learned until the details of the delivery system are known. If it will involve no increase of expenditure on the part of the government, but simply the utilization of carrying facilities already in existence, why the gain will be considerable; but, if on the contrary, it does involve an increase of expenditure, the question will arise how far that increase is justified by the saving effected by the decreased cost of telegraphic messages.

Bishop Duggan, of Loughrea, has written a letter in which he asks the friends of Ireland in this country to invest capital in establishing manufacturing in the Emerald Isle. Ireland has many friends in this country, but it is doubtful whether they are disinterested enough to accept the good Bishop's invitation, though undoubtedly, as he says, the establishment of factories would be one of the best things that could be done for the future of Ireland. The prosperity of that country depends to-day almost entirely upon agriculture, and in this it has to meet the competition of the farms and fields and virgin land of America, Australia and other great agricultural countries, which it is as little able to do successfully as England has been, where, within the past twenty-five years, the farmers are said to have lost more than one billion of dollars. The agricultural interest can suffer in England to this extent without at the same time the general national prosperity being seriously affected, because there the greater part of the people depend upon manufacturers. In 1881, the year of the last census, in England and Wales 5.3 per cent. of the total population were engaged in agriculture and 24.5 per cent. in manufactures, etc. In Ireland, however, the case was different. There 19 per cent. of the inhabitants were engaged in agriculture and only 13.3 in manufactures. It is easy to see that under these conditions bad times to the agricultural interest means bad times to the entire country. It is worth noticing, in connection with this matter, that whatever the Irishman makes is the best of its kind. To see this, one has only to glance cursorily over the list: Irish poplin, Irish linen, Balbriggan underwear, Limerick lace, Irish whiskey, Cork butter, Limerick hams; in the markets of the world it is recognized that there is none better. All the White Star Line steamships were built in Ireland, and the new boat, the Teutonic, was constructed and engined by Harland & Wolff, of Belfast. In this country there are no facilities for building a vessel of such size.

The Nationalization of Fire Insurance.

When fire insurance companies were first organized and successfully operated they undertook not merely to reimburse the insurer, but to extinguish the fire. This they continued to do in various places throughout the United Kingdom for at least one hundred and fifty years. It was not, for instance, until 1866 that the offices in London turned over their brigades to the Metropolitan Board of Public Works. It became, however, more and more the custom to leave the work and the cost of extinguishing fires in the hands of the municipal authorities, although the method still prevails in such cities as Liverpool, London and Manchester of taxing the companies for a part of the cost. But even this custom is dying out, for obviously it never saves the public a cent. All the expenses of the insurance companies must ultimately come out of the pockets of the community; and it is better, because it is simpler, that the money should be paid in the form of a municipal assessment rather than in the form of a premium.

There are a class of writers in this country and abroad who hold and aggressively propagate the opinion that the community is just as much concerned in reimbursing a loss by fire as it is in endeavoring to prevent such a loss, and that there is no more reason why the former should be in the hands of a private corporation than the latter. Mr. Adelbert Hamilton very well sums up their argument in the Forum. Let us see what it amounts to. There are 625 fire insurance companies that take care of most of the insurance business in the United States. In 1887, after deducting $10,000,000 for the interest on loans, there was a residue of $261,223,781 paid to these companies by the people as premiums. The total disbursements of these companies, including both expenses and policies paid, amounted to $224,183,025. "The meaning of this computation is," says Mr. Hamilton, "that during the year 1887, which was not an exceptional year, the people themselves paid every dollar of expenses incurred, every dollar of dividends distributed, every dollar of losses borne by these 623 companies; and over and above this contributed some $37,000,000 advance premiums on the next year's insurance." Unquestionably, in so far as losses, expenses and dividends are concerned, they must be borne by the public. The stock of a private company is simply a guarantee that if, in any particular case, the premiums do not cover the losses the latter will still be paid. Taking the insurance companies as a whole, however, it is inevitable that the premiums must cover all disbursements, else no capital would go into the business. The companies are simply the machinery for distributing over many a necessary loss which originally fell on a few people.

But that is not the sharp edge of the argument. It is that $37,000,000 which the public pays over and above all necessary disbursements that gives a prima facie justification for a change. This surplus is due to the fact that competition among the companies is restricted, and rightly so. If competition were unrestricted a fall in rates would be the first result. Superficially this would seem to be an unqualified benefit to the insured, for if the offices can afford the reduction it will only be a fair result of competition; if they cannot afford it they will lose, but the public will gain. The result would be ultimately a settlement of the rates at the paying point. True, if the paying point could be definitely ascertained beforehand. But there is more or less gambling about insurance. The rates come first and the losses afterwards. Too venturesome a manager would certainly reduce rates too low in order to get more business, in the hope that he would have a lucky year. The cost of fire insurance, unlike any other commodity, is not known until after it is sold. Consequently unrestricted competition might very well cause more loss to insurers in unpaid premiums than unrestricted competition would in exorbitant premiums. So we find combination wherever we find fire insurance companies.

Mr. Hamilton's argument, then, in his own words, amounts to this: "If now the people pay the expenses, if insurance is so conducted that their governments occupy the position of virtual guarantors of losses, if payment of those losses falls ultimately upon and is borne by the people in every instance, and if competition, the very thing the multiplication of insurance companies was designed to maintain is in fact stifled by the combination of those companies into central organizations, then why should not public be substituted for private control of the monopoly." And in this connection the law of Professor R. T. Ely occurs to us: "It may, perhaps, be laid down as a general rule that when for any class of business it becomes necessary to abandon the principle of freedom in the establishment of enterprises this business should be entirely turned over to the government, either local, State or Federal, according to the nature of the undertaking."

What should be done is one thing; what can be done is another. Undoubtedly it is far from desirable that the people should pay $37,000,000 more a year than the cost of insurance to the companies, just as it is very undesirable that railways should be paralyzed, their stocks watered, and their public functions interfered with for private purposes. If the nationalization of insurance would remove useless expense without bringing with it any corresponding evils or interfering with any vested rights, insurance should be nationalized. As a matter of fact, where State insurance has been tried, as in the Canton of Zurich, its results have not been attended with any great measure of success. The details of any scheme intending to effect the purpose would be extremely difficult to plan. The function could not be given to the municipality, because such a scheme would not provide for sufficient distribution. If such a catastrophe as the Chicago fire should again happen, as it is perfectly liable to happen, there would practically be no distribution at all, for the citizens would have to pay, by means of taxation, their own losses. State fire insurance, while open to a small extent to the same objection, would involve so complete a reorganization of the present system, so complicated a shifting of present responsibilities, particularly as it is not likely that the States would act in concert on the matter, that he would be a bold man who would advise State control. Mr. Hamilton advocates "a system of national indemnification," of which some 623 companies act as functional agents. This would undoubtedly be the simplest scheme, involving the least disturbance of existing relations, but it is doubtful whether the central government would have the constitutional power to organize such a system.

Eight Months of Real Estate.

A review of the statistics of transfers, mortgages and projected buildings shows that for the first eight months of the current year there has been a general advance along the whole line, as compared with the corresponding period in 1888. From New Year's Day until the last day in August inclusive, the number of conveyances this year was 10,658 and last year 8,610, while the aggregate amount at which they were transferred was $193,258,121, an increase of $44,066,050. This is a very clear evidence of the increased number of transactions which have taken place this year. The number of conveyances during the first eight months of 1887 was 10,030 and their aggregate consideration $192,394,074, which shows that 1889 has been a greater year in real estate circles than 1887, which led every previous year in the annals of New York real estate. The number of parcels in which the purchase price did not appear, and which were conveyed for what is termed a "nominal consideration," was 2,361, as against 1,955 last year. The 23d and 24th Wards show an increase in the number of transactions from 1,462 to 1,952, and in their amount from $5,359,323 to $8,626,753, a gain of $3,267,430 for 1889. The number of deeds in these wards at nominal considerations increased from 320 to 479. The total figures in each case show that the transactions in 1889 exceeded both in number and amount those of 1887, as well as 1888.

The mortgages recorded also show a considerable increase. They were 9,874 in number, as against 8,919 last year, while they showed a total amount of $124,975,620, as against $96,751,864 in 1888. The number of mortgages recorded at 5 per cent. increased from 4,204 to 4,617, while their amount was $57,617,474 this year, as compared with $45,352,288. A noticeable and continued feature of the real estate market is furnished in the figures of loans recorded at less than 5 per cent. These numbered 1,231, as against 764 last year, and they aggregated $26,107,714, an increase of $10,788,848 over 1888. During the first eight months of 1887 only $18,462,875 was recorded at less than 5 per cent., so that 1889 shows a considerable excess over 1887 as well as 1888. The banks, trust and insurance companies had a larger number of mortgages recorded in their name last year than this; but their amount is larger this year by $2,666,588.

The buildings projected show a considerable increase in number and amount. They were 2,777 this year, against 2,200 in 1888, while their estimated cost was $51,817,672, an increase of $18,321,644 over last year. This tells the story of the great building movement of 1889. The figures, though showing a decrease, as compared with 1887, in reality mean as much, if not greater, activity than two years ago, owing to the large number of projected buildings in 1887 which were never commenced. The figures in various sections of the city show that the greatest increase in building activity has been between 59th and 125th streets, west of 8th avenue, where the number of buildings projected were 663, as against 350, and where their amount was $15,553,550, as compared with only $6,750,800, an increase of 131 per cent. The smallest change has been between 14th and 59th streets, between the East and North Rivers. The great business region south of 14th street shows an increase in number from 260 to 367, and an increase in the estimated cost from $7,248,507 to $12,375,895. This has been almost entirely due to the immense office structures being built below the City Hall, as well as the large business buildings under way in the dry-goods district. The other section noticeable for greater activity is that north of 125th street. Indeed, dividing the city between two territories, drawing the line at 59th street, from river to river, the increase has been considerably larger north of that point than it has south of it. The number of buildings projected between the Battery and 59th street last year was 545, and their estimated cost $13,162,597, while this year the figures were 611 and $18,357,270 respectively. The number north of 59th street last year was 1,655, and the estimated cost $20,333,431, while this year the figures were 2,170 and $33,463,302, showing an increase in number of 66 below 59th street, and 515 beyond, and in estimated cost $5,194,673 below and $13,129,871 beyond.

During the month of August the tables show that, with a few exceptions, there was an all round increase in the conveyances, mortgages and projected buildings. The following are the tables:

The conveyances of real estate in Kings County during the first eight months of this year have been phenomenally large. They exceed those of 1888 by 2,706 in number, and $19,913,859 in amount. There were 12,221 transfers recorded this year, as against 9,515 in 1888, and they aggregate $59,446,868 in amount, as compared with $39,533,009 last year. There was a substantial increase every month over each corresponding month last year, the largest being in March, April, May and June, in which months alone there was an increase of 1,465 in number, and $13,202,115 in amount, over last year.

The mortgages recorded also show a remarkable increase in number and amount. The number was 9,674, as against 7,562 last year, and the amount $40,494,253, as compared with $27,390,571. The number at 5 per cent. or less increased from 4,179 to 5,785, and their aggregate amount from $16,850,301 to $25,573,383. Those who recall how, scarcely a decade ago, it was difficult to obtain money on real estate at 5 per cent. on Kings County real estate will note what a remarkable change has taken place in the mortgage money market in that county since then.

The projected buildings also show a considerable increase. They numbered 3,652, as against 2,893 last year, while in estimated cost they were $19,793,756, as compared with $16,071,395 in 1888. The number of brick buildings rose from 1,397 to 1,832, while the number of frame buildings rose from 1,496 to 1,820. The following are the figures:

It is too much to ask what the International Labor Convention asks that employers should be held civilly and criminally responsible for accidents; it is even too much to ask that they should establish insurance funds, as in Germany, for the support of the sufferers from these accidents; but it is not too much to ask that they should be forced to take every precaution to prevent the occurrence of such accidents. Take the following classification of the railway accidents from January to August, this year:

	Col- lisions.	Derail- ments.	Other.	Total.	P. c.
Defects of road.....	7	..	7	5
Defects of equipment.....	6	10	3	19	13

Unforeseen obstructions.....	3	12	..	15	11
Unexplained.....	37	28	..	65	45
Total.....	72	68	8	143	100

Of these 143 accidents, 18 per cent. resulting from defects in the road and defects in equipment, were clearly preventible; as to 26 per cent. there was a divided responsibility; and as to 45 per cent. there were no explanations given. If explanations were withheld there is probably some reason for it, so that it may be fairly assumed that fully half of them were preventible. Taking the figures as a whole it would seem that a good 50 per cent. of these accidents should never have happened at all. In addition to this, when we think of the large number of brakemen killed every year because the railroads will not go to the expense of getting automatic couplers, it seems but reasonable that legislative measures more severe than anything at present in force should be taken to force the managers of the roads to adopt every means to render secure the lives of passengers and employes.

Our Impartial Observer—Rapid Transit and the Future of the Annexed District.

Several weeks since a correspondent of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called public attention to the sinking of the Harlem Railroad tracks between Morrisania and Woodlawn as constituting the first attempt at genuine rapid transit within the corporate limits of the City of New York.

The writer then proceeded to show that when this improvement was completed communication between the lower portions of the city and the 23d and 24th Wards would be more speedy than with present modes of transit between the extremities of Manhattan Island. The attention of many of the shrewdest capitalists, little interested usually in real estate speculations, has, I have reason to believe, been recently attracted to the significance of this fact in its relation to the future course of speculative operations. It seems to me, therefore, as if public attention might very properly be drawn to some of the legitimate deductions which may be drawn from so significant a fact.

During the course of discussion on modes of quick transit in the City of New York which has now lasted over thirty years I have never seen any valid reason to change the opinion which I expressed publicly in 1869, that for any genuine improvement in means of speedy travel north and south the only outlook was by the sinking of the tracks of the Harlem Railroad along the entire line within the city from its northern boundary south to 42d street, and thence in an open cut or "depressed road" to the southern terminus. Although since that time the boundaries of the city have been extended several miles to the north of the Harlem River, the course of events, though slowly, has fully justified me. So far as rapid transit can be said to exist at all in New York it is provided by the Harlem Railroad along the Fourth Avenue Tunnel. The best informed public opinion is now concentrating on the conclusion that by the extension of the same system north of the Harlem River as is now being done, and south of 42d street as may confidently be expected in the immediate future, we shall for the first time have secured a means of travel by which not only a minimum rate of speed of at least twenty miles an hour including stops may be achieved, but an almost unlimited carrying capacity will be provided.

When the elevated railroads were first projected it was objected to the system, so far as it claimed to meet the demand for speedy transit, that not only was a continuous high rate of speed not practicable on such a structure, but that the trains would necessarily be limited in length by the station platforms which could only extend across the intersecting streets. Experience has demonstrated the validity of both objections—not only is the speed of the trains not in excess of twelve miles per hour, but it has been found that with the maximum of train length already reached the carriage capacity is altogether inadequate.

The change which has been produced upon values in the northern part of the city by a system of transit, which the best engineering talent of the country regards as little better than a makeshift, has been very great. It is not to be doubted, however, that a genuine system of rapid transit which will put the civic limits within thirty minutes of each other would immediately produce results incalculably greater. It is pertinent, then, to consider what will be the probable effect on the real estate comprised within the 23d and 24th Wards of the completion of a system of transit which beyond all question must produce the most immediate benefit to this section.

Although there has been much talk about the location of the World's Fair within the annexed district, I do not propose now to consider any effect which this might have in the determination of values. The project is in altogether too embryonic and uncertain a condition to warrant such a consideration, notwithstanding the usual beating of gongs and attempts at individual glorification now progressing in nearly all the newspapers.

What is very much more to the permanent welfare of the district is the inception therein of the system of "neighborhood" improvements, of which the most conspicuous examples may be observed at "Bedford Park," "Sedgwick Park" and "Mount Eden," though there are several others begun or projected.

This system forms a peculiarity of the district which has attracted little general observation, though I believe it is destined to have a very marked effect in determining its future.

In precisely this manner what were once the outskirts and suburbs of London have grown up and extended and have finally been made parts of the city itself, so that semi rural London consists in fact of a vast congeries of small neighborhoods.

First by the erection of a small colony of rural detached villas a "neighborhood" is created by an enterprising builder, aided by a tasteful landscape architect, and then by successive enlargements and a process of natural growth one neighborhood of this description has overlapped another until a village has imperceptibly grown up, and finally the city, like a giant octopus, absorbed the entire creation within its all embracing tentacles. But yet the charming rural character of the original neighborhood has not materially been changed, and the result is the pretty detached and semi-detached villa residences with well cultivated lawns and gardens in their rear, which the New Yorker visiting London so mightily admires and envies.

Something similar, it seems to me, is the process destined to result from the beginning of the "neighborhood" system in the annexed district and its vicinity.

There is practically no limit to the demand which exists in the district for small houses, and it only needs their erection upon well conceived plans with surroundings inviting to quiet people of good taste and refinement but of moderate means to insure their speedy disposition.

With the gradual diffusion of wealth in this country will also inevitably arise, in fact already has arisen, an increase in that culture, at least in its external form, which seeks the retirement of semi-rural life, the rus in urbe. It will be natural to expect a great development in the "neighborhood" or "park" system of budding the beginnings of which we now see judiciously managed. These are much safer than the speculative operations to which builders have been restricted on Manhattan Island in which they have been necessarily compelled to cater to the whims of the very few comparatively who can buy expensive houses.

The profitable nature of these neighborhood speculations may be imagined when it is considered that in one enterprise of that kind now being energetically pushed by advertising the land purchased by the acre and now being sold by the lot shows a profit of 600 per cent. Of course the cost of improvements is to be deducted, but there is certainly, even then, a very good margin of profit left.

It is undoubtedly in this manner that a very large section of the annexed district is destined to be improved. Probably it would be safe to divide the country north of Harlem into two kinds, as indeed topographically may roughly be done.

In that case I should say that the lands lying to the west of the Harlem Railroad are in general most adapted to development by the neighborhood system, while to the eastward a more densely populated character may be judiciously prophesied.

This, it will be observed, will follow very nearly the character of the development upon the island itself, where the west side is unquestionably destined to absorb almost the entire residential quarter, and that in a very few years. Of course in the 23d and 24th Wards there will be business streets adjacent to residence quarters as there are on the island. Although the prediction may seem now very far off I doubt not that our daughters will shop at the palatial dry-goods stores on Jerome avenue just as our wives now do on 6th avenue.

CHRISTOPHER WALTON.

Christopher Columbus on the World's Fair.

John Smith Himself (most of us know him) is a typical New Yorker, typical in intelligence, typical in education, manners and ideas, typical in his patriotism and in his firm opinion that there is no city on earth like New York. The strongest belief he has is the belief in Himself. He is a great reader and admirer of the New York daily papers, and regards Andrew Carnegie's "Triumphant Democracy" as one of the few books worth reading. Like all New Yorkers he is greatly interested in the proposed Exposition. Several members of his family are, it is said, on the committees already appointed. He lives on the west side, and therefore favors Sunset Park as the only eligible site. No man has assisted more in planning for the Exposition, and the principal idea he has on the subject is that it must be "the biggest yet."

The other day he went home thinking about the Exposition intently. Betaking himself to his easy chair he continued his reflections with the stimulating aid of a cigar, until finally lulled into a drowsy condition by the silence of his surroundings (his family having not yet returned from the country) he passed into that state of partial sleep which renders men apprehensive only of what is happening within. Suddenly, however, he became aware of the presence of another person near him. Starting up he saw sitting in the chair opposite him an intelligent, fearless looking man, dressed in mediæval costume.

Who are you? he asked hastily.

Christopher Columbus.

Oh, you don't say? Why, you are the Spaniard, ain't you, who discovered the United States?

No, I never heard of them.

What, never heard of the United States. Why, we're going to have the biggest Exposition the world has ever seen right here in New York in your honor. You should see it.

Why should you hold this thing you call an "Exposition" in my honor?

Because, as I told you, you discovered America.

I assure you I did not. But surely you know exactly where I landed in the New World.

Oh, yes, of course I do. Somewhere "down South," wasn't it?

Is that all you know of the voyages you are about to celebrate?

Well, what difference does it make, Columbus? You're going to have the Exposition right here in New York. Isn't that enough for you?

What is an Exposition?

Don't you know? (Mr. Smith smiled.) Of course you don't, he added, how should you? People in your time knew nothing. What an everlasting ignorant lot you were, Columbus. You would be surprised at all we know to-day. Why the Tribune says—or was it the Mail and Express?—you don't happen to know those papers, do you? Well, one of them says we learn more in a week nowadays than in your time people did in a century. I swear I believe it.

No doubt. But what is an Exposition?

Fancy a lot of big buildings, covering acres; more acres, mind, than in this Exposition going on in Paris.

Going on where?

Never mind. It is not in the United States. It's all very well in its way, but ours is going to be bigger. Now, in these buildings there will be exhibited for people to come to see—well, pretty nearly everything. All that Science and Invention (Mr. Smith mouthed these words approvingly) have produced, and a heap of things you never heard of.

That I never heard of! What are they?

That's a big job you are giving me, Columbus. I can't name everything for you, but there's locomotives, electric light, telegraphs, fast printing presses, photographic apparatuses, steamships, electrotyping, phonographs, telephones, etc. Mind, that "etc." means more than all I have told you.

What is a locomotive?

A locomotive? Oh, you know. It's a sort of engine on wheels, with a smoke stack and a boiler. You light a fire under it and the engineer opens the throttle and away it goes sixty miles an hour—a mile a minute. Think of it.

Not so fast, my friend. I want to know something of the principles embodied in this locomotive, of its parts and their relation to each other.

Humbug. I don't know anything about that. Columbus, you don't know how ancient you are.

And this electric light. How is it made?

Another engine, eh? What is the dynamo?

A round looking machine that revolves thousands of times in a minute. Thousands of times, think of it.

Yes. But how does that make electricity?

Don't ask me. I've never bothered about that.

Yet, this electricity lights your streets and homes, and you boast and talk about it. Strange. And these phonographs and telephones and telegraphs, what is the principle embodied in them?

Good gracious, Columbus, no one worries himself about those things now a days.

What makes some of your steamships faster than others?

Why, the engines, of course.

Again the engines. But when these engines are of the same power, placed in boats of the same size, is there any difference in speed?

Yes; one boat is pretty sure to be faster than the other.

Why?

Well—er—because of the shape, perhaps.

And what is the principle involved there?

Don't bother me, I say, with your principles.

When the wind blows straight against the flat sails of a boat, why does the boat move forward at right angles to the wind instead of being blown in the direction of it, as a piece of paper, for instance, would be?

How should I know?

Yet you see this thing done in boats on your bay every day. What is photographing?

But how is it done?

With a camera, of course, and plates.

How is it that this camera and plates make a picture of things outside and beyond themselves? Here again, what principle is involved?

You'll make me mad with your principles. Come with me to any photographer's and you shall see how the thing is done.

And what do you know of printing presses, electrotyping, and your big "etc.?"

Nothing. Leave me alone. I know all that's necessary.

Yet if you were to find yourself suddenly translated into the ignorant Middle Ages, as you call my era, you could not give any accurate, useful or intelligent idea of these inventions, and this Science which you brag of as though it were part of your own possessions. Will the people who crowd into this Exposition to see these machines you speak of be better informed than you are?

No, sir. Not by a great deal they won't.

And as to this Science you speak of. What does it consist of?

All that has been found out in Biology—and—Psychology—and—Evolution—and—Medicine—and—so on.

Good. What do you know of, say, the cardinal facts, the underlying principles of this Biology, Psychology, and the "so on?"

Look here, Columbus. No one troubles himself about these things now, at least only college professors and men with long hair and short sight.

Then, after all, men like you are about as ignorant as the people of my age, whom you affect to despise. You live in the Nineteenth Century, but are not really of it. You are surrounded by these inventions which you boast of, but you know nothing about them. You remain in darkness, though the light shines. It seems to me it would be a wise provision to make the Exposition not quite so large, and arrange it so that your people may be taught to know a little of the nature of the world they live in. What do you think?

Don't ask me. My head aches with your questions, and—

Mr. Smith awoke. "By George, it's all a dream," he exclaimed. The next morning he wrote a long letter to his favorite journal, demanding that America should show her enterprise and have the "biggest Exposition yet," with a taller tower, too, than the one in Paris. And his friends applauded, and said approvingly, "John Smith is a good one, I tell you."

Street Railroads vs. House Drainage.

The question of how much control over the future uses of streets and public thoroughfares is granted to horse-car companies who operate street railroads is one which very much needs judicial adjustment. As an illustration, a case which attracted considerable attention within the past four or five weeks, in which the Forty-second Street Railroad Company assumed a position which can hardly be considered tenable, will suffice. The circumstances, as gathered by a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, are as follows: A new tenement or flat building is in course of erection on the northeast corner of 42d street and 3d avenue, and two weeks ago the necessary drainage connection between the building and the main sewer in 42d street had to be made. To reach the sewer it was necessary to tunnel under the railroad tracks, and the contracting plumber, Mr. John Byrns, of Grand street, sent the usual notice to the railroad company operating the surface road in 42d street, that he was about to open the street under the tracks, and requesting the company at the same time to plank the cut over the opening about to be made for laying the sewer, so as to enable the cars to be run in the usual manner. This the company refused to do, and, instead, claimed the protection of the police to prevent the laying of the sewer, unless the plumber, at his own expense, planked the track. To this condition a prompt refusal was given, and the opening of the street was commenced under great difficulties, the railroad company attempting to close up the cutting under the track. The sewer was, however, eventually laid, and the connection between the new building and the main street sewer established.

As considerable obstruction to his work was offered by the company to the plumber it is not unlikely that a suit for damages will be the outcome, if only to test the question of how far the occupancy of the streets by railroad companies can be allowed to interfere with the rights and privileges of the public. In the wrangle attendant on this particular case the plumber presented as his side of the question an opinion furnished by ex-Corporation Counsel Henry R. Beekman in the early part of the present year to the then Commissioner of Public Works, D. Lowber Smith, in which the uses of the streets by railroad companies and the powers which such use and occupancy confer were clearly stated. The "opinion" was called forth by a somewhat similar circumstance. A plumber holding a license from the Department of Public Works was prevented by the police at the request of the railroad company from opening the street in Sullivan street in order to connect the drain pipe from a building with the main sewer. The company claimed that the plumber in doing the work had no right to stop the cars, but was bound to provide a wooden platform or bridge to carry the horses over the ditch, or at his expense to push the cars over the trench. The plumber maintained a contrary position—that holding a license from a department of the city government to open streets and lay sewers, and having a regularly issued permit in the particular instance under discussion for doing this work, the city was bound to protect him. The Corporation Counsel's opinion was therefore sought in order to determine whether the railroad company, the city, or the plumber, should bear the expense of protecting and operating rail tracks while sewer or water main connection is being made in the street.

In the opinion rendered Mr. Beekman went into the question of the primary object of highways and streets to furnish a passage to travelers, then to their numerous, public uses, among which the laying down of sewers was an important one as essential to public comfort by affording means for the connection of buildings abutting upon such sewered streets with the main sewer. The use of the streets for this purpose, it was shown, was a public one, while the operation of railroads involved the element of private right for individual profit. The General Term Court holds (he stated) that it is a cherished maxim that the law would rather tolerate a private loss than a public evil, and that as between the temporary stoppage of a railroad and the interference with the construction of sewers the greater importance is properly due to the latter. The right to connect the house sewer with that in the street is held to be equal to that of constructing the sewer, and in making such connection the interference with the roadbed is justifiable, and does not entail any obligation either on the city or the plumber to provide the railroads with the means of continuing its business. The statutes and city ordinances provide that sewer connections shall be made by persons licensed by the Commissioners of Public Works in writing, and the statutes relating to the jurisdiction of the Board of Health bring the making of sewer connections under public control and regulation. The duty and cost of protecting the street railroad during the laying of or connecting with a sewer counsel considers devolve altogether on the railroad company. As this, however, is merely an "opinion" it is possible that in the 42d street case an effort will be made to have the question settled in the courts.

He Prefers Junctions.

"In what neighborhoods do you prefer to buy real estate?" asked the writer of an old dealer.

"Well, in the streets on the line of Broadway or near a junction. I find that people like to be near the Broadway horse-cars, if they are not too far away from an elevated road station. I also find that the greatest crowds pass the junctions. Take, for instance, 33d street and Broadway, and 8th street and 6th avenue. A great many people have to do business on and near these junctions, and they want to live near them. This means that stores must be occupied, and flats and private houses filled in the immediate neighborhood."

A Short-Sighted Policy.

The delay of the cable cars in 125th street lately, caused by building materials being emptied on or very near the railroad tracks, has been of very frequent occurrence. Loads of brick, for instance, would be dumped right on the track in front of the various new buildings, and the cars would be delayed, three, five and sometimes ten minutes till the gripmen of the waiting line of cars and some of the laborers employed on the new buildings could throw them to one side. Not only in the streets through which car lines run, but in all streets where new buildings are being erected is annoyance caused to residents and passengers by the loose manner in which the supplies are delivered and received. A little superintendence over the careless laborers by the foreman could obviate a great deal of this trouble, and a little extra expense on the part of the owner would do away with most of the rest. Another point that could be attended to with a good result is the more general observance of the custom of laying a plank-walk in front of new buildings in lieu of the displaced sidewalk. People are afraid to buy or rent houses on streets in which much building is going on because of these petty annoyances, so that eventually the trouble comes back on the owner who allows his foreman to neglect the little but important matters that count so much in the convenience of residents and passengers.

The builder who is erecting a store on the south side of Chambers street, west of Broadway, deserves thanks from long-suffering members of the community, who have up to this time when passing in front of a building in the course of construction been obliged either to walk in the middle of the street around the pile of mortar and bricks, or else over the sidewalk on a plank walk that is sometimes rickety and always inconvenient. This builder has had consideration enough for his fellow-citizens to lay his sidewalks before more than a story of his building is completed, and thus afford them as little inconvenience as possible. He dumps his bricks on the ground floor of his building and thus escapes the necessity of lumbering the street and sidewalk with the unsightly piles.

Quick Work.

HOW THE NEW DOWN-TOWN BUILDINGS ARE PROGRESSING.

It is remarkable in how short a time immense structures are reared nowadays. Only a few months ago a number of important office buildings were commenced south of the City Hall, and most of these, although from six to nine stories in height, are now nearly up to the roof.

In May last the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company had only commenced to build their new structure. Now it is up to the top story, and will cost very nearly $500,000 when completed.

Wall street presents a notable example of this activity. It was not until about the beginning of June that the foundations of the Mechanics' National Bank were commenced. This is but three months ago, yet it has its ninth story roofed in. Such progress is phenomenal. The building will cost over $400,000. A few doors away is the United States Trust Company's building, which by this time is almost fully rented, but which in June was not yet completed. Further along, the Wilks building on the most costly ground in the United States, the southwest corner of Wall and Broad street, is now up to the sixth story. It is to be ten stories in all, and will cost about $400,000. Standing on the corner where the Treasury building is one cannot help noticing the diminutive Wall street front of the Stock Exchange, with its facade looking like a puny infant guarded on each side by giants, the one the Wilks and the other the Mortimer building. One cannot help missing the old, familiar clock which used to register "Ladd's Time." The march of improvement has swept it away, and the Wilks building now covers the spot. Wall street is becoming more and more like Lombard street, London. There is the same narrow street and the same high buildings, but with this difference, that the former are of greater height.

The Union Trust Company's building, round the corner, on New street, showing itself little by little. Thus far the main walls are putting in an appearance, as well as the front. The latter is of iron structure, and is now up to about the sixth story. It is to be a very fine building when completed, and will cover Nos. 78 to 82 Broadway, running through to New street. It will be a question which front will be the most valuable, for the New street side is directly opposite the Stock Exchange. Mr. Edward King, the genial president of the company, says that the building is to be ready for occupancy next May.

The immense structure now being erected for the New Jersey Central Railroad Company is progressing slowly, owing to the piles that had to be driven in the made ground on which it is to stand. It will be 186.10x103.11 in size, and takes in the entire front on the north side of Liberty street, between Washington and West streets. It will be ten stories high, and will have the company's offices on the first floor and other offices above, which will be rented out. It will cost upwards of $700,000. Peabody & Stearns are the architects.

On Nassau street the addition to the Temple Court building, on which the old Clapp building once stood, is nearly up to the top floor. It runs through to Theatre alley and will be ten stories high. Eugene Kelly, the well-known banker, is the owner, and it will cost him upwards of $200,000. This is also a remarkable example of quick work. In June the foundations had hardly been commenced. Another Nassau street building, on the southeast corner of Fulton street, is being put up for Frank Raub, who will have a café and restaurant on the first floor and rent out the offices above. It is up to the roof, and will be completed, so the architects, De Lemos & Cordes, say, about November.

The immense World building now being erected for Joseph Pulitzer is the most costly improvement under way below the City Hall. Thus far scarcely anything can be seen of the immense structure which is to be reared. The workmen are busy on the foundations, and it will be more than a year before the building is completed. It is to be 115.4x136.8 in size, and will be 300 feet high altogether, including a dome, which will soar above every building in the vicinity, not excepting the Tribune tower. Geo. B. Post, the architect, is said to have a wager with Mr. Pulitzer that the building will not cost over $1,000,000.

The five-story building now being erected at No. 54 Pine street, for the Sun Fire Office, of London, is not far advanced as yet. The first floor iron beams are laid, and the side and rear walls are up to about the third story. It is to cost $60,000.

Do Tenements Pay Best.

A LAWYER WHO THINKS THEY DON'T.

A well-known down-town lawyer was met on 'Change the other day who has dealt considerably in real estate for almost a generation past. During recent years he has been a buyer solely. As he said: "I now buy; I never sell. When I do purchase the property must be cheap. I don't touch tenements. I only handle flats and private houses." It was this latter statement that struck the reporter.

"Why is it that you eschew tenements?" asked the scribe.

"Because they don't pay more than flats or private houses when you get through with the Board of Health, repairs, losses from bad paying tenants and vacancies."

"Does this apply, in your experience, to down-town tenements?" asked the writer.

"It does, more or less, though not with so much force as it does to up-town tenements. I find that in buying flats and private houses I have to deal with a much better, cleaner and more responsible set of tenants. I am therefore surer of the rent, I have little or no repairs to do, and the property is kept in better condition; besides, I am not continually harassed with notices of violation of the law served on me by the Board of Health, due to unclean or ignorant tenants, and I come in contact with altogether a nicer class. At the end of the year I find myself in receipt of a smaller gross rental on my investment, but of a net rental nearly, if not equally, as large as though I held tenement property. It is after all the net rents and not the gross rents which make a real estate investment good or bad."

"But private houses are not generally credited with yielding as good a net rental as a tenement," said the writer.

"That is so in the majority of cases. But I make it a point never to buy unless I am getting a bargain, and I wait until I do get one. There are always people trying to sell out, and as one of these comes along from time to time my opportunity arrives. With the aid of long experience and judicious selection I am able to do about as well with a nice class of property as I could with a class of realty which it is more or less of a nuisance to carry."

Looking Up.

The fact that the summer season has passed is shown not only by the return to town of operators, builders and brokers, but also by the passing of title and the purchase by builders of quite a number of lots for immediate improvement. The extent of the movement is most clearly told by the following list: Items marked with a * indicate that title has passed, and those marked thus + mean that the sale is reported, although the title has not yet changed hands. In the Aldhous, McGuire, Moloney, Schwegler and Westermayr purchases improved properties were traded for the lots acquired. Here is the list:

Men and Things.

A searcher after literary curiosities has discovered in an article in the Quarterly Review, published back in the later twenties, apropos of a projected railroad, a statement declaring positively that it would not be possible for such a method of locomotion to attain a speed greater than eight miles an hour; and, if it were possible, it would not be safe. The Railway Gazette gives another interesting fact of the same kind. A protest has recently been discovered among the archives of the Nuremburg Railway Company, at Furth. In 1835 a protest was drawn up by the Royal College of Bavarian Doctors, dwelling on the dangers of the new system of travel. It says:

Travel in cars drawn by a locomotive ought to be forbidden, in the interest of public health. The rapid movement cannot fail to produce among the passengers the mental affection known as delirium furiosum. Even if travelers are willing to incur this risk, the government should at least protect the public. A single glance at a locomotive passing rapidly is sufficient to cause the same cerebral derangement; consequently it is absolutely necessary to build a fence 10 feet in height, on each side of the railway.

Such paragraphs sound very absurd to us; but not more so than many of our present predictions and fears will sound to our descendants only fifty years hence. It is almost inconceivable to many of us that long distance trains will ever attain a speed of over sixty or seventy miles an hour, especially considering the breathless feeling such fast traveling creates in a traveler at present; yet he would be a bold man who would limit the ordinarily attainable speed of the future to any such figure.

There is one glaring inconsistency in "Lord Chumley," which not a newspaper critic in New York has noticed, at least so a prominent member of Mr. Sothorn's company asserts. The third act is supposed to take place about two days after the second act, and at a distance of probably less than twenty miles away. Yet, in the second act, it is such a bitter cold day that the ice freezes in the pitcher of the self-sacrificing lord, while two days afterwards every member of the company takes part in a celebration on a veranda—the gentlemen in dress suits and the ladies in evening dress—without ever complaining of the weather. Indeed, everything points to its being a summer day.

Plans for eighteen four-story and basement brick and stone dwellings, to be built on the north and south sides of 96th street, between 8th and 9th avenues, have been filed at the Building Department by the architect, Nelson M. Whipple. The buildings will range in size from 18 to 21 feet front by a depth of 54 feet. The cost will be $360,000. The owner is Frederick Van Tine.

The Department of Public Works has ordered the removal of all the building materials which stand in 7th avenue in front of the proposed West End Theatre. The work is being done at the expense of Maggie Mitchell. George A. Griebel, the architect who drew the plans for the theatre, says that for the present nothing will be done with the site, but it is not unlikely that a large hotel will be built in a year or so in anticipation of the Exposition of 1892 and its attendant crowds of visitors. In this hope the lienors live on.

While the news of the record-breaking by the twin-screw steamers City of Paris, Teutonic and Columbia is still fresh in the minds of our readers, it may be interesting to note the fact that the twin-screw is really not a new thing at all, having been invented by Col. John Stevens in 1804. The twin screws and the engines of the steamer he used are still preserved in the museum of the Stevens Institute of Technology at Hoboken.

The work of repaving Hudson street is well under way. The contractor has admirable facilities there for laying his concrete foundations. He has on the spot a stone crusher, into which he puts the old granite stones and turns them out broken into pieces small enough for his purpose. In this way is saved the transportation not only of the old stones away from the street, but the small stones to it. It is to be hoped this method will be pursued elsewhere.

There is an item circulating among the newspapers that the State of Virginia holds a mortgage on the White House for some $120,000. It is claimed that this money was borrowed by Washington when the White House was built, to be refunded if the government was ever able to do so. This report says that Virginia will not press the claim provided the government will build a highway from Washington to Mount Vernon. To an outsider this rumor has every appearance of being untrue. What authority had Washington, as President—no mention is made of any authorization by Congress—to borrow money in the name of the government and in a way that can make the government responsible for the debt? But, if the money was borrowed, would it not have been paid before this, for no signs have ever been given that the State of Virginia is willing to pass the collection of her debts, and the central government has certainly been able to pay all legitimate obligations.

Prophets have pretty well decided that the air ship is the next invention of importance that the contriving faculty of mankind will make; but years are passing away and apparently we are getting no nearer the proper machine for the purpose. One Dr. A. de Bausset is the latest claimant, and lacks only money for the construction of his steel air ship. Having been able to secure no State aid, the doctor is at present devoting his energies to getting stockholders to a company, the object of which will be to float the machine, as it were. He proposes to issue 50,000 shares at $1 each, and promises to give the subscriber of $1,000 "one first-class passage for himself or representative on the first voyage made on this continent by the air ship Benjamin Franklin." This is certainly a great inducement—giving the man a chance to risk, not only his money, but his life. The de Bausset model differs from other air ships in that its power to rise is to be derived from a vacuum created in a huge steel cylinder. The inventor claims that by means of a new development in mechanics he can so thoroughly brace the cylinder from the inside that it will withstand the atmospheric pressure. Once in the air the ship will be propelled by electricity, and it is expected to make at least seventy miles an hour.

In a sermon delivered by the Rev. Waldo Messaros, on "Sodom," at the Free Baptist Church, on Sunday, the preacher made a very interesting statement. "Abraham," he said, "was a gentleman—the first on record. When they offered him a grave for Sarah he insisted on paying for it. That was the first real estate transaction."

There is much to be commended in the Commercial Advertiser in its new guise. It has a refreshingly neat appearance, and its news columns are strong in local matters. In this it shows good sense, for an evening paper has the advantage of the morning papers in that it can get ahead of them in working up this local news.

The Board of Health could not, at the present time, find a more fruitful field for investigating the neglect of the Street Cleaning Department than east of the Bowery. The streets are reeking with filth, and the sidewalks are in many places impassable at all hours of the day from the aggregation of overflowing ash barrels, pails, boxes, etc. Cannot something be done in that locality in the interest of out-door sanitation.

A New Idea.

TO TEAR DOWN THE CITY HALL.

On Wednesday, the Board of Commissioners appointed pursuant to the law, in the matter of the municipal buildings, gave a public hearing in the Mayor's office. The object of the meeting was to hear suggestions relative to the site for the new municipal building. The principal speaker who appeared on the scene was E. Ellery Anderson, the ex-President of the Rapid Transit Commission. Mr. Anderson came prepared with maps and pictures to illustrate the proposition which he presented. His suggestion was listened to with considerable interest, as it involved a new idea as to the site for the new building. He proposed that every building in the City Hall Park should be torn down except the Court House.

The Mayor—"Do you mean that the present City Hall shall be taken down?"

Mr. Anderson—"Yes. The City Hall is an old building and occupies too much room for its uses. My idea is to have only two buildings in the park—one the County Court House and the other the new municipal building. In this building I would have the Mayor's room and all the offices of the various city departments. This would be an immense advantage to the public as well as to the officers of the various bureaus, for instead of being in different buildings, as they are now, all the executive officers and their assistants would be on the same spot."

Mr. Anderson then proceeded to unfold his plan. He proposed to have the new building on Mail street, with frontages on Park row and Broadway. On Mail street it would have a frontage of 367.6 feet, on Park row 305 feet, and on Broadway 140 feet, while it would also cover 447.6 feet, including a grass plot, on the northerly side. On this side he proposed that there should be a handsome driveway 248 feet wide, to the south of which should be the new building, and to the north of which would appear the Court House. This would leave only two large buildings, where now half a dozen miscellaneous buildings exist.

The writer saw Mr. Anderson and asked him how many square feet the proposed building would take up. "About 74,000 square feet. The buildings I propose to have taken down cover 53,000." It thus appears that the new building would cover 21,000 square feet more of the park than the present buildings.

"The public," said a well-known taxpayer, "has pretty well declared against any further encroachment upon the park area, and if it is to take up as much space as this it will probably be sufficient to defeat the plan. Another objection seems to be that if the centre of the park, running through from Broadway to Park row, is to have a driveway 248 feet in width, there will be little left of the City Hall Park, which will then consist of a very small grass area and a very large roadway and public building area. I am in favor of tearing down all the present buildings in the park excepting the City Hall and Court House, and of purchasing a plot opposite or very near the park, sufficiently large, on which to build a handsome municipal building to hold all the city departments. New York is rich enough to afford the cost of a site, which would not exceed $1,000,000. And what is a million dollars to a city which has an income of $35,000,000 or over annually. If we build outside of the City Hall we will not require more than 25,000 square feet, because we can build eight stories high, whereas in the park we must necessarily require nearly twice that area, as the public would not submit to a high building in the park, overshadowing the other buildings and cutting off the park view from the different thoroughfares. We are too niggardly in this matter, and that is why the difficulty about the new site for a municipal building has arisen."

Chautauqua Taxation.

Chautauqua, the seat of a recent great educational movement among the masses, established seventeen years ago in western New York, furnishes an interesting study to the student of social science. It resembles in many of its characteristics, and approaches very near in its workings, the socialistic state so often heard described. Chautauqua, in the first place, owns the land it occupies—about 100 acres—which it leases to its citizens, but does not sell. It lays down arbitrarily the rules and regulations by which the inhabitants must abide if they desire to continue their abode in the place. It performs not only police duties, but supplies its own water, its own gas and electric light, and is about taking steps to construct an electric railway. The Chautauqua government supplies, if one wishes, food and shelter in public halls, and furnishes instruction and entertainment, boats, courts, gymnasiums, etc., for public pleasure and profit. The authorities decide what business shall be pursued on the grounds and exact from each one permitted to carry on a certain line a per cent. of all his earnings. Those who come to Chautauqua for instruction or entertainment and do not pursue a line of business while there, pay their tax for the support of the organization at the gate on entering or departing. The credit card, which Edward Bellamy substitutes for money exchange in his proposed new industrial order, has been employed in business transactions between the citizen and the government for a number of years. Mr. Bellamy may have received the idea of his credit system from this practice at Chautauqua. The rules and regulations hold only during the two months of the year when the Chautauqua Assembly is in session; the season, however, is being gradually extended. Between fifteen and twenty thousand people—all subject to the law of Chautauqua—were present during the season which has just closed and there was not the slightest friction discernible in the operation of the governmental machine during the entire time. Socialists may perhaps find in the successful workings of this semi-socialistic State some further support for their theoretical propositions.

What is Thought of Us.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

On and after the receipt of this, please change my address from Saratoga Springs to No. 11 West 20th street. I wish to compliment you on the last number of your paper. While it is always full of interesting matter, the last number beats the record. I am,

In the City Departments.

The Jerome Avenue Railroad Company will be heard by the Board of Aldermen, on October 3d, in relation to their application to lay a cable road on Jerome avenue. They will also hear objections on the part of property-owners and others at the same time.

The City Hall Park, and this does not, of course, include the Post-office, takes in five frontages. Its largest frontage is on Chambers street, and is 675 feet; the next is on Broadway, 592.6 feet, and the others on Park row, 470 feet; Centre street, 368 feet, and Mail street, 367.6 feet. The Court House occupies the largest area, being 225x250 feet, while the other buildings cover about 53,000 feet, in all nearly 110,000 square feet.

Matthew Baird has received the contract for paving Whitehall street, from Beaver street to the South Ferry. It is to be of granite blocks with a foundation of concrete, and will cost the city $44,143, nearly $7,000 less than the estimate. The work is to be completed by February next.

The City has had a little controversy with the Harlem Road as to the paving of Madison avenue, between 125th and 128th streets. Commissioner Gilroy wrote to the president of that company, Cornelius Vanderbilt, giving him five days' time to commence work on the 2,030 square yards of pavement and 410 square feet of bridge stone, for which he said that the company was responsible. The officers of the company refused to do the work, stating that it is not called for by law; but the Corporation Counsel thinks otherwise, and has advised Commissioner Gilroy to do the work and charge the cost of it to the company.

The private residence streets recently ordered to be paved with asphalt, a list of which has appeared in these columns, will require a surface pavement of 51,750 square yards.

The expenses of running thirteen of the city departments next year have been estimated. Although they are only provisional, it may be well to give the figures, which are as follows:

Fire Department.....	$2,136,043	$2,360,492
Bureau of Elections.....	243,229	233,557
City Court.....	104,200	109,700
Ninth District Court.....	18,100	18,545
Eleventh District Court.....	18,100	19,350
Board of Aldermen.....	78,800	76,800
Commissioners of Accounts.....	27,500	35,000
County Clerk.....	87,660	87,650
Coroners' Office.....	50,000	52,500
Supreme Court.....	176,150	170,050
Civil Service Bureau.....	25,000	25,000
District Attorney.....	125,700	141,150
Special Sessions Court.....	23,000	23,000
Total.....	$3,118,672	$3,258,794

It will thus be seen that the estimates are $239,922 over those of last year. It will be noticed that the fire department asks for about $224,000 more than last year, and this alone is responsible for almost the entire increase in the foregoing estimates.

A "Repavement" Question.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

SIR—The communications recently sent by Commissioner Gilroy to the gas, steam and subway construction companies, in relation to the repavement of certain streets and avenues in New York City, very clearly indicate the purpose of the Department of Public Works to preserve, as far as the public interests will permit, the disturbance of the new pavement when once laid. In his letter, in which a list of the streets about to be repaved was inclosed, he outlines his future course as follows:

These repavements will be put under contract as speedily as possible, and in order that they may remain undisturbed on account of underground construction as long as possible, your company is called upon to proceed at once with all the work required or contemplated in connection with its service, including new mains and connections. No permits to open these several streets and avenues for the purpose of laying new mains will be granted after the new pavements are laid, and permits for repairs will be issued only in cases of absolute and immediate necessity.

While the timely note of warning to these companies is good so far as it goes, there is another disturbing element incidental to the pavement subject which seems to have been overlooked, and that is the question of house sewerage and drainage in those streets and avenues about to share in some of the appropriation provided by the Legislature for pavement purposes. The question which suggests itself just now is, how is the pavement to be preserved, in view of the constant tearing up of the streets everywhere observable? One of the most prolific causes of this disturbance is the putting in of new sewer connections from new buildings to the main street sewer, and the difficulty is how to avoid this. It has been suggested that on streets and avenues only partly built up a sewer should be put in for every city lot as far as the curb before the pavement is laid, but that would hardly work, as sewers are, in most cases, laid in conformity with the plans for the buildings to be erected, and the sewer as laid down in advance might enter at the wrong side of the building when constructed. To meet this objection it is urged that the necessary divergence could be easily made by means of bends and branches, so as to make the proper connection with the house-drain pipe. But while the difficulty in this case might be overcome, another looms up in the case of old buildings, private or otherwise, which are continually changing hands and being rebuilt or altered in such a manner as to call for a new system of sewerage. A street or avenue may be laid down in asphalt this month, and before two or three months would elapse some of the old houses would change hands, be pulled down, a new sewer connection be made and the street generally disturbed. What provision is to be made in the new system of paving for having the work made uniform after such street disturbance? Is it to be left to the plumber to have the pavement relaid in the present slipshod manner, or how is the relaying to be performed? As the plumber now pays $10 for the repaving of an opened street when he gets his permit, it is a question which should be well understood, if the cost of opening the street is to be increased because of the more expensive character of the new pavement.

Real Estate Department.

There are signs of returning activity in the real estate market. Most of the prominent real estate dealers and building loan operators are beginning to make their appearance once more on 'Change. In the Exchange Salesroom, however, very few parcels were disposed of this week, many of those offered being adjourned till a later period. The principal sales made include a plot of four lots under foreclosure on the northwest corner of Central Park West and 104th street, which went to Henry M. Bendheim for $42,750; part of a five-story stone front store, and lot 25x100, at No. 24 Thomas street, which was sold under foreclosure to Henry M. Platt for $35,000, and the four-story dwellings at Nos. 166 and 168 West 76th street, also under foreclosure, which went to the plaintiff at $24,000 each. The other parcels sold were for unimportant sums.

On Wednesday, September 11, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the four-story and basement brick building and lot at Nos. 22 and 24 Greenwich street, between Battery place and Morris street. It is 36.7x85 in size, and is within a few feet of the "L" road station at the Battery.

On Thursday Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer, by order of the executors, the three three-story modern dwellings at Nos. 175 to 179 West 97th street. They have brick and brown stone fronts, and vary in frontage from 17 to 19 feet. On the same day Mr. Harnett will offer two very desirable country houses at Plainfield, N. J., one of which is situated on 6th street, near Clinton avenue, and the other on 7th street, near Spoor avenue. They have all the modern improvements, and one is on a plot 100x223 and the other on a plot 70 x about 170.

On Wednesday, September 11, Scott & Myers will sell, by order of the Supreme Court, in partition, the five-story brick tenement with stores, 25x69.6x75, at No. 17 Hester street, being the northwest corner of Suffolk street.

Special Notices.

We are pleased to note that the real estate business of the late Samuel Kilpatrick has fallen into such excellent hands as that of the new firm of Wornald & Leeper. These gentlemen are able, intelligent and energetic brokers and agents. The many transactions reported by them in the "Gossip" column this week, aggregating about $400,000, shows the success they have in carrying through sales of realty. They pay particular attention to the management of estates, renting, collecting, etc. Their card will be found in another column.

Albert S. Kaliske, whose sales have been reported from time to time, is one of the most active and energetic of the younger real estate agents and brokers up town. He has under his charge many parcels of property, and has had considerable experience in the real estate business. He manages property in all its branches, including the collection of rents and insurance. His office is in the Ariston, at No. 1732 Broadway.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—There has been practically an unchanged market for Common Reds during the interval since our last report. Some little advance is recorded for the better grades of the New Jersey production; but otherwise the general line of prices remains as before, with extremes only to be obtained on finest quality, and where buyers are pronounced in their desire to obtain the product of some favorite maker. Demand has varied a trifle, and possibly on the whole lost
